I object strongly to the proposal. The basis of the objection is; site contamination, traffic and safety, odour impacts, noise/dust impacts, land use conflicts and metropolitan waste. All of these issues will affect the quality of life of my grandchild who attends the day care centre located within 30ms of the proposed waste management facility.

I am most upset about the potential health risks associated with the breach of the cap covering the former James Hardie site which I understand is under a covenant to remain sealed. How can government in good conscience allow this to happen? The James Hardie site has been closed for just over 20 years, a relatively short period of time and at this time it was recognised that the contamination was of such high proportions that it was significant enough to be subject to Public Positive Covenant .

This will not only affect the day care but other businesses, such as Aldi, located in the area. The additional traffic to the area will also cause more congestion and delay on both James Ruse Dr and Grand Ave. The bridge to Grand Ave is not designed for such high traffic levels. Also access to the facility should not be via the entry road to the day care centre (1 Grand Ave) as this road is not designed for high traffic and is a very sharp turn into a business and railway commuter car park - high truck traffic will cause OH&S issues for other users of this road.

Odour, noise and dust will also have affects on the quality of life for the day care and surrounding businesses. Whilst Redmondis may comply to conditions in the start, inevitably these waste management facilities stink and impact the surrounding community.
