Dear Dr. Rashid:

The University of Wollongong is supportive of projects that are expected to improve access to a range of health care services for the residents of the Illawarra and Shoalhaven regions. The project you have proposed, Life City Wollongong, appears to have significant potential to increase access to health care services, many of which would have a different approach to delivering those services, ie, a holistic approach

The University is especially supportive of projects that offer services that complement those offered by the ISLHD. In addition, given the University's educational and research missions, we support projects that are committed to providing health student placements and facilitating health research. The documents you have provided, as well as our conversation, lead me to believe that the Life City Wollongong project is committed to supporting student clinical placements and facilitating health research.

Therefore, the University is committed to work with you and your colleagues to further the goals of both organisations.

Respectfully submitted,

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

Life City Wollongong (Australia) is an innovative and unique health facility proposal, which is very much needed in the Illawarra region. A high tech holistic inpatient facility providing care for patients with malignancies and other medical illnesses is very much needed. Holistic approach certainly improves the patient outcomes.

Cancer services in the area are quite wide spread and fragmented and a unified approach is very much required and needed. In association with the University of Wollongong, it is a wonderful opportunity for medical students to gain valuable experience. Research and development and application of cutting edge therapies would also add value to the Health Services. Doctors K Rashid and A Rashid are very much involved in setting up this facility. Life City Wollongong has my support and patients with various malignancies and in particular, lymphoma, leukaemia, and myeloma would benefit from this type of services. I would be delighted to use their facility for my patients.

I wish LifeCity Wollongong all the success in what is a very much-needed service in the area.

With kin regards
Yours sincerely

Dear Dr Rashid

RE: LIFE CITY WOLLONGONG (AUSTRALIA)

The ISLHD Board welcomes the expansion of privately funded and operated health services in the region that complement the publicly funded and managed services provided by the ISLHD. The Board endorses your commitment to the development of co-ordinated programmes of service delivery, and medical and other staff training across the public and private sectors.

Should your project be successful we will work with you, as defined within the parameters determined by the Board at the time, to achieve benefits for all concerned parties, and particularly the residents of our rural and regional areas.

Yours sincerely

Dear Mr Pearson

Life City Wollongong (Australia) - Hi Tech Holistic Cancer & Medical Hospital Campus

I am writing to you on behalf of Drs Mohammad Rashid and Anjum Rashid, the proponents of the above project, to express my support in favour of the development.

I have been a legal adviser for Drs Rashid for approximately 10 years, principally being involved in providing legal services related to the development and successful operation of a Medical Centre in the Shellharbour City region.

Dr Rashid's integrated primary health project, the Centre Health Complex (www.centrehealth.com.au) at Captain Cook Drive, Barrack Heights, has proven very successful and generated more than 50 jobs providing great service to the local community.

Life City Wollongong (Australia) Hi-Tech Holistic Cancer and Medical Hospital Facility would be a unique project ideally located between the Princes Highway and F6 Freeway, a few minutes from Wollongong Hospital and the University of Wollongong. It will have easy access and plenty of parking, and is situated across the road (Nolan Street) from the Nan Tien Temple. Being holistic in nature this project and Nan Tien Temple will complement each other.

Life City Wollongong will be a unique holistic Health Centre project of international importance and has already generated lots of interest from overseas countries including Canada, USA, Malaysia and India.

The campus will bring members of the local community of all ages together, providing child care through to aged care, high school and training, and research and development in the health field.

This project will work towards progressive development that has the potential to become one of the major employers in the region.

I offer my full support to this project and can be contacted on the number below if you wish to discuss further.

Yours faithfully

Dear Dr Rashid

I am encouraged to hear your plans for the development of Life City Wollongong (Australia), that aims to support medical treatment and training across the public and private sector in our region.

A facility that can meet the holistic needs of patients in our region, specifically those requiring treatment of cancer and chronic disease, provides additional health care opportunities to a local community that is growing rapidly. The total resident population of the region is 384,531 in 2011 projected to grow 9.7% in 2021 to 421,830. 25% of the population is rural and 17.6% are aged 65 years and over

I have watched the evolution of your integrated primary health care centre at Barrack Heights since its opening in 2006, that today employs over 30 clinicians to deliver much needed primary care services to your local community.

I wish you every success with this new project.

Sincerely

Dr Kellie Marshall
Chief Executive Officer
