Dear Joel

I refer to the submission from the Wahroonga Adventist Church in objection to the development by their own broader church and development partner.

I support every aspect of that submission as it is 100% correct.

If the actual church objects, plus the church owned school, as well as absolutely everyone else (except the border church - that doesn't live or operate in the local area, and the developer) then that says it all.

My son is a student at the Adventist School and we will remove him if this development proceeds - as will many other parents.

Please prevent this ridiculous over development.

Regards
