P1	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from Emma Molloy (support)	North Byron Parklands proposes to create a world class sustainable cultural events site within an ecologically enhanced site. Parklands will achieve this through thourough planning and by adhering to the guielines of the environmental, health and safety management manual they have developed. One of the strengths of the North Byron Parklands proposal is the flow on benefits it will provide to the tourism industry. Still picking itself up after the recent financial crisis the tourism industry stands to be the big winner from this proposal. With massive visitor generating capacity this proposal will singlehandedly attract hundreds of thousands of people to the region, all of whom need accommodation and other services once they arrive. Please bring it back to Byron! So much easier to access and find accomodation than Woodford. Please move it back. Thanks very much Emma Molloy Name: Emma Molloy Address: 10 Goolagong Crescent Moranbah Q 4744 IP Address: cpe-124-177-167-30.lns5.woo.bigpond.net.au - 124.177.167.30 Submission for Job: #3210 Cultural Events Site (Project Application) https://majorprojects.onhiive.com/index.pl?action=view_job&id=3210 Site: #1982 Cultural Events Site - Tweed Valley Way and Jones Road, Yelgun (09_0028)

P2	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from hannah dusta (support)	12 months after the first major event at the proposed event site, North Byron Parklands will commission an in depth ecological impact assessment and review. Any reasonable recommendations arising from the review with be processed through the environmental, health and safety manual created especially for the parklands site. This will ensure the site will be ecologically sound for future major events. P3	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from Darren Dick (support)	I welcome the establishment of a cultural event site for the region. The Parklands site will host the community to come together for a wide range of community events to celebrate, to learn, for ceremonies, to exchange ideas, to demonstrate and showcase new ways of doing things. This is good for people and the planet. Currently many things are conspiring against the tourism industry, particularly the very strong Australian dollar. Enticing domestic travellers to holiday in Australia rather than abroad is a huge challenge for the tourism sector. When a project such as North Byron Parklands comes along that proposes to attract 35,000 people per event to a region such as the North Coast of NSW, this must be given serious consideration by approving authorities. Add to the fact that a number of these large events will eventually occur each year, the economic and tourism benefits are substantial. Name: Darren Dick

P4	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from Nicola Susan Keefe (object)	I think that the site is unsuitable and that the wildlife should be left alone... I don't believe that North Byron Parklands are doing this for altruistic reasons, they just want to make big money.. i enjoy festivals... But the locals have enough festivals. and why do we need more festival sites? If we want Splendour back in Byronshire, that's OK. One festival, not 10 more... Then you can advise Splendour to negotiate to use the existing excellent new Blues Festival site ... P5	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from stephanie stone of individual (object)	It is a wonderful idea, however this site is not the place to make that dream a reality. I object to the proposed project application on the grounds that the site is a wildlife corridor and needs to be retained in it's own right for that purpose. Safe and protected habitat is very scarce now, and delegated parcels of land need to honoured for the role they have been identified for, in perpetuity. I also object to the project on the grounds of regular high impact noise to wildlife and local residents who chose quiet living for their needs and health. I object to the project on the grounds that events held there will create excess and regular traffic congestion, be inappropriate and unsafe on this site as it is subject to sudden short periods of flooding, and will have high destructive impact during the building stage and ongoing destructive impact from noise, people, activities, and infrastructure. What the project brings to the shire and the possibilities of tree planting are negligible - nature can plant trees much better, and the northern part of the shire does not need this type of development. The project creates unsustainable use, will be labour and noise intensive and will use an unbalanced number of precious resources in a sensitive and fragile

P6	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from Martin Robert Green (object)	Byronshire is one of the last quiet, rural, natural, wild, unspoilt areas of the eastern coastlines and i feel strongly that it should remain this way and not be sacrificed to business development in any way. If yet more large festivals are really needed, they should be sited in areas where they will not impact on the environment and small local communities. P7	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from John Helman (object)	I oppose the location of the festival site for the following reasons: The size, scale, number and type of proposed events will have significant impact on: 1) High Value wildlife corridor and adjoining Billinudgel Nature Reserve 2) Volume of traffic using local roads 3) Safety of event goers due to high risk of flooding and/or fire 4) Ancillary services ? hospitals, police and fire and rescue squads also sewerage and garbage 5) Local Amenity including: Affordable housing as proposal will increase pressure for holiday accommodation Noise from events and partying tourists in neighbouring holiday lets

				High levels of alcohol and drug use and associated problems ie: violence, vandalism, policing, traffic and other accidents. Byron Council?s event?s policy seeks to limit the number and size of large events due to the range of negative impacts on our community and the local environment. With the employment numbers as low as they are, the Byron Shire community needs the jobs that will come from approving the North byron Parklands proposal and bringing Splendour in the Grass home!

The success of towns reliant on tourism generally comes down to how many people visit the area. To maintain a sustainable business, tourism dependant regions need to not only maintain visitor numbers, they need to grow them. North Byron Parklands represents the types of businesses that are required to increase visitor numbers and if this proposal goes ahead it will be a very positive thing for the NSW north coast.

In my community I know of more than a dozen people who will gain from the approval of this application. From part time work to gaining new business this project represents an excellent opportunity to strengthen the local economy.

P9	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from Geoffrey Suthon of Private Resident (object)	Great festival, but this is totally the wrong site and wrong location for a festival of this magnitude and type. Also, the original submission was for one festival a year, this application is for multiple events, held year round, which is not appropriate for this location. The reason it is not appropriate is because this area is a wildlife corridor, and also because it is not culturally suitable for this part of Byron Shire. It will also place a huge strain on local infrastructure, a negatively impact on the local peoples lifestyle. P10	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from Fiona Kaminski ()	Other than the obvious environmental issues with the proposed site, my main concern is about the remoteness of the festival site. Drug/drunk drivers will be risking their own and others lives driving to and from the festival site as there will be many not camping, and staying in accommodation in various locations outside of walking distance. I have been to Splendour in Byron many times, and each time stayed in Byron and walked to and from the venue. This won't be possible for patrons not camping, and I believe (from my own experience) that there will be an increased incidence of drug and drunk driving because impatient, carefree festival goers will take risks because who wants to wait for buses?!?!Don't choose a site so isolated as this will tempt fate and lives will be lost. The police can't catch everyone. The combination of remoteness and drunken and drug behaviour is not a good mix. There will be people causing commotion at the end of each festival night, sleeping on the side of the road, stuck in the bush, near my house. I don't want this in my community. Would you want it in yours?

P11	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from A Nicholson of - (support)	North Byron Parklands commintment to the preserving and enhancing the local ecosytems is shown through the large amount of ecological planning that has already gone into the proposed site. Parklands has developed a environmental, health and safety management manual to ensure the end result is a sustainable cultural events site.
				The approval of this proposal will lead to new employment opportunities that may not have previously been offered on the north coast of NSW. New and exciting jobs will boost the youth employment and inspire young adults to remain in the local area after completing study.
				Businesses from across the northern rivers involved in tourism related activities stand to benefit significantly from the influx of visitors both from within and outside NSW. The likely spend from attendees at events held at North Byron Parklands would be strong given people will procure accommodation, buy food and drink and purchase a range of other goods and services. This will translate into an economic bonus for the region that must not be squandered.

The parklands proposal provides a purpose built facility which will provide for future needs and bring many economic benefits to a strained local economy. P15	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from Leon Scott (support)	Surely it is obvious to the government that NSW needs a permanent sustainable outdoor music event, particularly one located on the far north coast. The application covers all issues and provides a range of solutions. It is now time to approve it. Apart from extensive consultation with indigenous groups and various elders the North Byron Parklands group has already established a long history of working with and employing local indigenous bush regeneration teams to plant thousands of trees across their site. This tree planting program has been a great way to involve traditional land owners in helping to restore what is currently quite a degraded site. P16	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from Veronica Scott (support)	When the owners of North Byron Parklands bought the property they took on board a court order to rehabilitate Yelgun Creek which was badly degraded by the former owner. This creek system used to flow into the Billinudgel Nature Reserve, feeding it with flood waters and providing the varied hydrological flows that the existing flora community required. The North Byron Parklands people will now rehabilitate the creek by removing excess siltation and undertaking riparian plantings. This will be a huge plus for the nature reserve. Most of the jobs on the North Coast rely on industries such as tourism and retail trade. To help expand the employment base there is a strong need to nurture an array of other industries such as artistic and creative industries. North Byron Parklands is a project that will greatly assist in providing a diversity in job prospects and on this basis should be actively supported by government and the wider community. Belongil Fields is not the most ideal place for a festival, so I was most enthused to hear about the new proposed site, the North Byron Parklands. P20	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from Natasha Leviston (support)	In relation to environmental management one of the biggest impacts on fauna in this region is dogs. It is pleasing to note that the environmental, health and safety management manual strictly prohibits dogs from entering the site. Just this on initiative will help to reduce pressure on the environment, not to mention the host of other excellent environmental programs they have documented. When you consider that the North Byron Parklands team has planted over 7,000 trees across key parts of the site to improve habitat and fauna migration opportunities (and many of these plantings are now 4 metres plus), it is pleasing to note that they will be planting tens of thousands more trees as part of their managed parklands approach to revegetating the site. This is a huge windfall for an environment which is currently predominantly cleared pasture land. Because of the extensive level of community consultation undertaken by North Byron Parklands I have a very clear understanding of the benefits and issues of the application.

The high quality of information has allowed people locally and in the wider community to make an informed decision about the proposal and I would imagine that the responses are overwhelmingly in favour of the project. It shows that when a company is prepared to go that one step further in communicating to the public that people can fully understand all of the issues and also the steps to be put in place to manage them. I fully support this application.

Byron Bay is widely known for pushing the barrier and making things possible. We as a town have so much to offer and this new proposal will put us on the map so to speak. Itâ□™s a fantastic opportunity for us all.

P22	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from Gina Brough (Delacretaz) (object)	Objections to Proposal 09_0028 (Permanent Festival Site at Yelgun) I am the owner of Lot 1 DP 394451 Jones Rd, Billinudgle. My property is at the eastern end of Jones Rd (closest to the beach), Obviously Jones Rd bounds the Proposed festival site. In the C1 Traffic Impact Assessment technical paper at point 2.2 submitted by the event organizers, I refer to the section headed Road Network, it states? ?Jones Road Jones Road is a two-way unsealed rural road. Jones Road is separated into two parts. The southern part of Jones Road adjoins at T-intersection with Tweed Valley Road, Yelgun.

The northern part of Jones Road is connected to Wooyung Road.?

They fail to elaborate????

The most eastern end of Jones Rd comes to a dead end just past the boundary of my property. The 2 parts to Jones Rd fail to connect and at present the actual road turns to acid sulphate soils which is mostly sand with deep gouges and potholes which is impassable by vehicles. The road also has a gate crossing it and it is locked. In the event of a bushfire or medical emergency, we are at the end of a dead end street and the only way out will be through 50,000 (possibly drunk) party goers. In the event of a bush fire this could be catastrophic.

The picture on page 77 of the above mention document shows that this road does not continue right through. However, they also fail to mention that it is impassable and blocked by a locked gate.

In the past 24 months I have had to rush both of my toddlers to hospital with breathing difficulties at least 20 times. With only one way out this could be deadly if we cannot pass through the festival urgently or if an ambulance is held up getting to us.

Next to my property is a pedestrian bush track which leads to the beach, via the Billinudgle reserve. This is a natural draw card for campers and day trippers which will lead to thousands of drunken party goers tramping through and littering precious habitat.

I also believe it will be too risky for my children to catch the bus to and from school from the end of Jones? Rd. With 50,000 intoxicated party goers and event staff wandering around it does not make for a safe thoroughfare for children. This will impact on our family not only for the 20 days of events but for many months of setting up and then the clean up.

It is like being stuck in a lift, we only have one way out and our safety is at risk. This is not the appropriate place for such a massive event site.

P23	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from Emily Butler of Love Police (support)	I have been to many outdoor event sites over the past number of years but have never come across a venue that has taken so much effort to develop and implement so many environmental programs. When events are not being staged at North Byron Parklands, there will be reafforestation and noxious weed removal activities. When there are events at this site they will need to comply with a bunch of strict environmental policies and procedures. If only other venues could take a leaf out of these guyâ□™s book. Everyone I know, both personally and professionally, enjoys attending and listening to music at pleasant and well managed outdoor sites, but there are currently so few of them. So when an opportunity arises to build a superior and sustainable live music and arts venue, it is really important that the government seizes the moment and approves it. North Byron Parklands is one such opportunity. P25	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from Michael Dore (support)	I am writing to express my opinion regarding the future home of Splendour In the Grass music and arts festival. North Byron Parklands is likely to be the first arts and music venue that has prepared an environmental, health and safety management manual to manage interactions with the environment. The environmental standard from this manual provides a range of measures designed to protect the environment. Given that the activity in question is low impact the environmental management of the site will easily achieve positive benefits for the environment. The tourism industry is a major contributor to the Byron Shire and Northern Rivers Region economies, with visitation critical to the regionsâ□™ economies. The proposed North Byron Parklands project will result in a massive increase in the number of domestic visitors to the area and to a lesser degree, will also attract many overseas visitors. As this industry is so important to the region it makes good sense for this project to proceed.

P27	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from nathalie verdejo (object)	I don?t agree with the festival site for the following reasons; The development will destroy the existing local character and social fabric of the area. Existing areas of "lower" cost housing in the north of the shire will begin to decrease as more and more dwellings at ocean shores and Brunswick heads are bought up for lucrative tourist lets to supply the requirements of people who don't want to or can't camp onsite. Where is a social impact statement for this. Who will police the illegal camping of thousands of people in tents and cars in the northern part of Byron Shire and the southern part of Tweed Shire because they can?t afford the camping or accommodation charges. With the huge increase in patrons the affects will be much greater. These people have no toilet facilities. The site is in a wildlife corridor and adjacent to the nature reserve. That many people and events will have an adverse impact on both. The nature reserve (wetland will end up with all the rubbish eg. cigarette butts, plastics and oil from cars parked in the floodplain next time it rains. Not to mention sediment from erosion caused by all the traffic on site. The area has many threatened species and has been recognised for that fact many times. This number of people , events and noise will have a large impact. Let?s use the "precautionary Principle". The site is majorly flood prone and it would be impossible to evacuate that many people and cars and camping gear from the site. I fear that many people will be put at risk from floodwaters and would hate to see any one die as a result of the festivals. At these festivals a lot of alcohol is consumed and trying to evacuate thousands of drunken people and campers is a disaster waiting to happen. The same can be said for the evacuation of large numbers of people in a bushfire. IMPOSSIBLE. Major traffic problems for the local community and other tourists within the shire. The number and size of the events is against Councils policy.

There are other existing areas of the shire that have / can have festivals eg. the blues festival site and Councils new sports and cultural complex that can cater for the Splendour in the Grass and other festivals much more environmentally, satisfactorily and safer than the proposed site at Yelgun.

P28	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from Patricia Sullivan (support)	I strongly support the application put forward by North Byron Parklands to establish a much needed outdoor music and arts venue. The North Byron Parklands event site will generate significant economic benefits to the region. There will be an increase in jobs for the maintenance and management of the North Byron Parklands site as well as employment opportunities from the organisations of the proposed events at the site. I also support this application on a number of fronts such as environmental management and social benefits flowing to the community. The work they have done for managing the environment is above and beyond what one would expect for such a low impact activity. P33	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from Jan Mangleson of Self (support)

I am writing to support the North Byron Parklands Development Application for a permanent event site at Jones Road. As a former councillor on the Byron Shire Council, I voted for a trial event of Splendour in the Grass on the site, with associated works, and took part in the extensive consultation process carried out by Parklands and the Splendour organisers. This was aborted by local environmental activists whose decades old aim is to increase the size of local nature reserves, and to disallow any access by local populations to enjoy or enhance these public lands.

I was impressed by the detailed plans outlined by Parklands to protect and enhance environmental issues and believe the area is far better served under the current ownership than ever before.

I am aware of many people in the shire who are afraid of intimidation and victimisation if they publicly support the Parklands development. This has happened to me, to the extent of a public campaign against me during the last council elections because of my support for Splendour and the Parklands development. I was not re-elected.

It is a sad indictment on our local society that activist pressure groups such as CONOS, PERA and others, with a very small and interchangeable membership have influenced communities with misleading and inaccurate claims. For twenty years and more, these minority pressure groups have held back economic growth in the Byron Shire.

I believe it is very important for government authorities to see past the nimby type objections to what is in reality an environmentally sustainable development that will be of great value to the residents of Ocean Shores and surrounding areas.

Horror stories and claims of environmental and social harm to the northern coastal area have been credibly refuted by the Parklands consultants.

Claims against Parklands such as traffic lockdown, flooding caused by the development ("rubbish from Splendour will float into your backyard in the flooding Parklands will cause"), noise disturbance, endangered species and corridors disruption, security etc have been addressed and proven to be incorrect.

The aim of these pressure groups is to increase the size of the Billinudgel and adjoining Nature Reserves. These are within the town boundaries of Ocean Shores (a total of 1000Ha to date) and were mainly part of the third stage of the town's development, according to its deed of agreement with the State government, council and others.

The tactics are to demonstrate against any applications to develop private holdings in the Stage Three area and rezone them as sensitive environmental areas, leading to pressure on the State Government to buy the land for the nature reserve at far below its real value.

This happened when Stage Three of the Ocean Shores town development was not allowed to go ahead because of these same tactics by the same activist groups. Parklands is part of the original Stage Three Ocean Shores footprint.

The town of Ocean Shores lost its only sportsfields land. The 7Ha land was given by the RTA to the nature reserves for "habitat compensation" because of CONOS, PERA and similar groups' campaigning. The town still has not been compensated for this loss and still does not have sportsfields, for a population of 7000 people.

I support decision making being taken away from local councils on significant developments. There is far too much scope for corruption and intimidation of local officials and decision makers.

Parklands worked intensively with Byron Council during the various stages of bringing this development to finality, over a period of four years. As with many other developments in the Shire, ideological pressure forced delay and refusal, even as recent as the Council meeting of November 11th. The staff recommendations were changed and overriden with a long multi paged amendment, known to some councillors, unknown to the others.

				I support enterprise that will bring economic prosperity to local areas, keeping in mind the balance of meeting the needs of local populations to earn a living and local environments to be protected. Parklands has done both. Tourism and associated industries are very important to the economy of the Byron Shire. The silent majority supports Parklands, but is too afraid to say so. P34	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from Mark Cherry ()	This submission strikes me as lacking the community consultation that should ideally accompany such plans. Being that there is already an events site i the local area at Tyagrah the community is unlikely to see benefits from this plan. There are however several negatives. The impact of these sites on the environment is well documented. One organisation?s greed to generate profit cannot be weighed against environmental damage that is intense, concentrated and periodic; therefore preventing possible regeneration of the site. Environmentally this proposal will change the area permanently in terms o flora, fauna and ecological balance. The impact on the local community and land owners will be many faceted, but of primary and immediate concern are: Noise, Traffic congestion, subsequent construction works to provide the site improved / increased amenities

I certainly plead on the discretionary staff to ensure they consider if there is actually a NEED for event site duplication, and if the projected benefits can realistically outweigh the cost to the environment, the impact on local (voting) landowners, and the cultural transformation that will be effected in surrounding towns as the nature of tourism in the area it changed to one of intense damage in cyclic rhythms that overwhelm local infrastructure.

Music has been a primary element of the Byron personality since the 1960s/70s. The scale and degree or organisation around music has kept pace with the expanding population and visitation (and thank goodness for that!). Where it is not well organised problems ocurr and the social impact is greater. Many of the now "old favourite" venues were vigorously opposed at conception. The beauty of this application is that it also strongly supports the environment. With jobs hard to come by in regional areas such as the north coast it is really important that projects that can provide ongoing employment opportunities are considered seriously by government. I believe that North Byron Parklands is one such venture that can offer many people a job opportunity. North Byron Parklands has adopted the mapped wildlife corridors from the Byron Biodiversity Conservation Strategy as areas to be dedicated to restoration of tree cover. Future plantings and assisted regeneration in these areas will significantly increase opportunities for movement of terrestrial fauna. This is only one of many significant programs that will enhance the environment within and adjacent to the site. Byron Bay is known for its culture and events. Donâ□™t deprive our town of such a tremendous opportunity. Business will thrive, local tourism will benefit and our accommodation facilities will be bulging. Sounds ideal!

P41	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from Margo Webster (support)	One of the big measures that will protect fauna at the North Byron Parklands site is the limiting of events to a minimal number each year. If such a proposal was to operate for 20 weeks a year then they may cause some environmental problems but given that it will only run for 20 days a year and the rest of the time it will be just farm land, then this has to be a strong positive. Positive environmental outcomes are important for any development and one very important outcome offered by the North Byron Parklands proponents is to apply a vegetation management plan across the entire site. Under this plan sections of the site will be restored back to pristine forest cover while others will be treated as managed parklands. Under this treatment very large areas will be planted with low density native trees that will provide connection points for fauna to avoid large pastoral areas and reduce the likelihood of predation during movement across the site. They are not required by law to do this, but do see it as an important environmental outcome.

I believe that cultural events in our community help people grow and develop. North Byron Parklands proposed event site would create social and inspiring opportunities for our regions youth.

P43	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from Andrew Jackson (object)	Dear Byron Shire Council/ Project Officer I am writing to you because I strongly object to the proposed 'Cultural Events Site' project at Tweed Valley Way and Jones Road Yelgun (09_0028) - Yelgun. The reasons for my objection are as follows; I own property in Yelgun and have family and friends living there. I plan to live there in the future when I retire. I know the community and the lifestyle they have chosen very well. It is healthy, it is family and community oriented. It is peaceful and respectful. This proposal jepordises all of that because if it goes ahead (as planned) it will have a permanant, negative - to the point of being destructive - effect on the lifestyle of the community of Yelgun and that of surrounding communities. This proposal means that the amenity of permanent residents will be sacrificed to the casual and transient enjoyment of others for the profit of a third party (who will not experience the ongoing detrimental consequences.) Yelgun is a very quiet little community, with many of the residents being farmers who need to get up early to work, including on weekends. Late and all night events would be a major intrusion on their lives and would create a large amount of noise pollution for people up to several kilometers away. It is adjacent to the rural and residential areas of Wooyung, South Golden Beach, Ocean Shores, and Billinudgel. Forcing a permanent festival site upon these residents condemns them to repeated intrusions of the traffic, noise, and other disturbances that are associated with mega-festivals.

Reduced Access to Public Thoroughfares - Traffic has increased substantially in the area during Splendour events, clogging roads in and around Byron Bay. The Yelgun site is even less suited to massive increases in traffic. The amount of extra traffic on these small country roads will greatly disturb the movements of locals just trying to go about their daily business and especially nearby residents with no other route options. The RTA had concerns about traffic issues when the proposal was for a single trial; They will no doubt have concerns about multiple events at a permanent site.

Anti-Social Behaviour in the Immediate Area - Drug and alcohol consumption is high among Splendour attendees. In fact, the sale of alcohol makes the festival especially lucrative for the promoters. A permanent festival site at Yelgun will result in a permanent ?schoolies? atmosphere in the immediate area, something that current residents want no part of. There is also a high risk of drink driving as attendees will not be able to walk to and from the site as they used to at Belongil Fields, and public transportation does not service the site. When 50,000 are in attendance, at least 25,000 people will be leaving the site in their cars in the early hours of the morning to make their way to their accommodation.

Negative Impact on Health Services - The number of attendees at mega-festivals and the heavy use of drugs and alcohol place a strain on local ambulance, hospitals, and psychological services during the course of the event. Given the past history of the need for emergency services during mega-festivals, many residents are concerned that their own health emergencies will receive less prompt attention as a result.

Fire risk - The risk of fire at the event site and in Billinudgel Nature Reserve is high, given that bonfires are planned by the event organisers and that smoking and camping on site are to be allowed. There is concern about people tramping through Billinudgel Nature Reserve between the event site and the unpatrolled beach, as they are likely to do. The risk of fire in this area, as a result of unmonitored activity, is also extremely high.

Flood zone - Massive, rapid flooding occurs on the Yelgun site, especially where the promoters have planned to locate their campgrounds and their parking lots. Event attendees will be at serious risk in periods of heavy rain from the inevitable overflows of North Yelgun Creek, Marshalls Creek, and the Capricornia Canal, all quite near to the site.

True Intentions of the Promoter - The aims of the promoters are simply to make a lot of money from multiple mega-festivals (on unsuitable property.) They intend to benefit themselves substantially at huge expense to the property and those who live in the area.

Court ruling - The Land & Environment Court ruled in May 2009 that Byron Shire Council?s 2008 approval of BPT?s proposed trial Splendour festival at Yelgun was ?invalid and of no effect?. It is difficult to see how the state could now rule in favour of a permanent festival site at this location, given this judicial decision about a one-off trial event.

Events Policy for the Shire - Byron Shire Council has been revising its Events Policy to better manage all events in the shire, from small-scale family-oriented sporting events to large-scale music festivals. Splendour?s proposal is not in line with the current thinking about events in the shire as they try to balance tourism interests with the interests of the permanent residents of the shire. The plans to develop a permanent festival site at Yelgun are also counter to Byron Shire Council?s recently-drafted Tourism Management Plan. The Tourism Management Plan stresses the need for greater diversity in the types of tourist attractions that should be developed and states that tourism must be managed in a way that overcomes Byron's image as a party shire, but this proposal will just add to that image and make it far worse.

I also have strong concerns for the welfare of the wildlife of the area. The site at Yelgun is in the middle of a high conservation area that has been protected for decades by local and state governments and is adjacent to Billinudgel Nature Reserve, a reserve the government worked hard to establish. The noise and disturbance of tens of thousands of people repeatedly through the year will have a significant negative effects on the wildlife.

This is the only remaining wildlife corridor from the sea to the hinterland in far north-eastern New South Wales between the cities of south east Queensland and Byron Bay. The survival of the wildlife corridor is more important than ambitions to hold huge music festivals in the last remnants of coastal animal habitat. It is the last place where shy wild animals can move and feed along the last east-west corridor without loud noises and bright lights that terrify them. Beautiful endangered birds such as the Rose-crowned Fruit-dove, and other wild animals need to pass along the corridor from the mountains to reach the last coastal forests to look for food during the cooler winter months.

Damage will quite surely be done to the flora and fauna of Billinudgel Nature Reserve from the amplified music, crowd noise, artificial lights, and people movements during festival days and during the many set-up and take-down days that will be required. The promoters cannot guarantee that they will be able to keep attendees out of the Reserve, especially since only the Reserve stands between the site and the beach that is part of the reserve. People illegally ride their motorbikes and walk their dogs in this Reserve now, so it's to be expected that attendees will do the same when at festivals. NSW should be protecting this prime asset, not setting it up for destruction

There is already a high number of native species killed on the road in this area as they move between sections of bush. Huge increases in traffic on these small country roads can only mean an increase in animal road deaths, especially as animals flee from the noise and chaos of a large festival adjoining their habitat.

Approval Process - Besides objecting to the proposal, I also strongly object to the Splendour promoters asking the state government to become the consent authority in this matter. Their proposal has been controversial from the start. Substantial opposition exists in the community, and a majority of current councillors have expressed opposition to the earlier plans for a trial The court decision, too, was an important development. Splendour?s response to the substantial opposition and legal judgment should be to find another venue. Instead, they are bypassing everyone in Byron Shire in hopes of getting the state to force the development onto the community. This should not be allowed.

Byron Shire has a population of 30,000 and already copes with around 1 million visitors every year. Byron residents must endure the impacts of noise, traffic congestion and overloaded infrastructure and services, overcrowding, excessive and still escalating rents and property prices, low paid service industry jobs, no public transport and a 24/7 party culture, binge drinking and a very high road toll. There are few benefits ? not even a bed tax to offset the costs that burden ratepayers. The economic benefits in the North Byron proposal are wildly overstated. The social and environmental impacts are grossly underestimated.

Encouraging up to 50,000 young people to party on an isolated site 30kms from Byron is a recipe for disaster. It will transfer all the problems that beset Byron to what is now a peaceful residential and farming district at Ocean Shores and Yelgun.

I also oppose the location of the festival site for the following reasons:

The size, scale, number and type of proposed events will have significant impact on:

1) High Value wildlife corridor and adjoining Billinudgel Nature Reserve

2) Volume of traffic using local roads

3) Safety of event goers due to high risk of flooding and/or fire

4) Ancillary services ? hospitals, police and fire and rescue squads also sewerage and garbage

5) Local Amenity including:

Affordable housing as proposal will increase pressure for holiday accommodation

Noise from events and partying tourists in neighbouring holiday lets

High levels of alcohol and drug use and associated problems ie: violence, vandalism, policing, traffic and other accidents.

Byron Council?s new event?s policy seeks to limit the number and size of large events due to the range of negative impacts on our community and the local environment. There are alternative sites available, with the appropriate zoning.

I urge you to support the community's right to quiet enjoyment of their rural lifestyle and reject the proposal for large scale events on the Yelgun site.

Yours sincerely,

Michele Grant

P46	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from Linda Barrett (support)	It is really important to note that any environmental pressures will be greatly reduced as a result of only using a percentage of the site for events. The areas that they will use are the grassy open spaces meaning that no activities will occur in bush land or forest blocks. It is just another example of good environmental management. Much of the agricultural and forestry industries of the northern rivers has significantly declined over the past decade and many people have been forced into lower paid sectors such as retail and tourism. Now more than ever there is a need for diversifying the employment base and the North Byron Parklands proposal will do exactly that. With job positions projected to be more than 200 there is a very real need to approve such a project. This proposal gives the Byron Shire the opportunity to showcase a sustainable purpose built outdoor event venue that benefits the community in so many ways. Creating jobs, boosting local business and leading the way in sustainable cultural developments.

The reasons for my objection are as follows; I have been a resident of Yelgun and have family and friends living there. I plan to live there again in the future. I know the community and the lifestyle they have chosen very well. It is healthy, it is family and community oriented. It is peaceful and respectful. This proposal jepordises all of that because if it goes ahead (as planned) it will have a permanant, negative - to the point of being destructive - effect on the lifestyle of the community of Yelgun and that of surrounding communities. This proposal means that the amenity of permanant residents will be sacrificed to the casual and transient enjoyment of others for the profit of a third party (who will not experience the ongoing detrimental consequences.) Yelgun is a very quiet little community, with many of the residents being farmers who need to get up early to work, including on weekends. Late and all night events would be a major intrusion on their lives and would create a large amount of noise pollution for people up to several kilometers away. It is adjacent to the rural and residential areas of Wooyung, South Golden Beach, Ocean Shores, and Billinudgel. Forcing a permanent festival site upon these residents condemns them to repeated intrusions of the traffic, noise, and other disturbances that are associated with mega-festivals.

I do not believe mitigation is possible given the overblown nature of the proposals and am particularly concerned- on environmental and social grounds, by the massive scope and magnitude both in numbers of proposed events and numbers of patrons that is being sought by the proponents. When events are not being staged at North Byron Parklands, there will be reafforestation and noxious weed removal activities. When there are events at this site they will need to comply with a bunch of strict environmental policies and procedures. If only other venues could take a leaf out of these guy?s book. As a parent I support the way that the event is staged and the manner in which the organisers accommodate the crowds. I have attended numerous Splendour in the Grass events at the Belongil Fields in Byron Bay and at Woodford in Qld. Initially I went with my children when they were younger but now go in my own right as I have such a great time. P50	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from Guy Pinkerton of Architectus (support)	The North Byron Parklands people have obviously spent a lot of time developing up systems and processes to manage the environment in which they operate. It impressive to see that during events they propose to have a wildlife rescue crew in place in the unlikely event that an animal is in need of help. What other proposal has this level of thought and detail when it comes to considering the health of the environment? For many young people in the local area, getting a job has proved to be very hard. This is because other than retail and tourism there are few large employers about. Bad luck if you do not want to make a career in pouring coffee or cleaning rooms. This project will offer a whole range of people with new prospects in securing a job in the creative industries, an industry that is on the rise in this area. We really do need more substantial employers. The two main reasons I believe the festival should be brought back is Tourism and Culture. Tourism and culture are so important to the area as many business rely on the influx of visitor for large events like Splendour to keep thier business alive. Visitors travel to the area to experience the laid back, coastal culture of the region. Parklands will bring more and more cultural events to the area and in turn boost tourism. The Northern Rivers region needs to plan ahead for future employment and training opportunities for our young community. We need to offer options to the young members of the community to encourage them to stay in the area. This proposal will provide these incentives.

P51	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from Carli Leimbach of Producer, Splendid Arts Initiative (support)	Splendid is a Lismore Regional Gallery project in partnership with Splendour in the Grass and NORPA. Splendid is a groundbreaking initiative that has been designed to build the culture of experimentation and interdisciplinary arts practice in Australia by facilitating opportunities for young and emerging artists to conceptualise and create new work for festival audiences at Splendour in the Grass. It is a unique and valuable resource, facilitating professionalism and excellence in the visual arts in the Northern Rivers region and across Australia. This region boasts one of the highest concentrations of artists in Australia. Splendid?s program provides crucial professional development opportunities and training for local young and emerging artists. The quality and benefit of the Splendid program is clearly evident through the keen support of local partners and in the high level of participation among artists and arts professionals.

Geographical distance from arts industry professionals and lack of opportunities for visibility are two of the key inhibiting factors faced by artists in this area. Splendid?s intensive laboratory residency is extremely effective in addressing these difficulties.

Splendid?s programs includes visiting Splendour in the Grass festival and working with the event production crew and industry professionals. This experience creates important networking opportunities and enables artists to gain critical career experience and advice.

Splendid strongly supports Splendour in the Grass having a permanent home at Yelgun and this important regional project.

That night a rave started up on the adjoining property with all the associated noise and strobe lighting. To the echidnas it must have been armageddon. It is a small armageddon that is being created in this festival site. From the air you can clearly see this is the link between the coast and the centre. Cut it and you change the course of evolution. To jeopardise this wilderness connection affects not just the shire but the planet. The opportunity for unthinking young people to party cannot be more important than the preservation of what makes them want to come to the area, and to bring their kids back. In the long run the approval of this site for multiple festivals could prove financially damning for the shire. P55	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from Sean Collins (support)	The level of commitment in relation to environmental monitoring before, during and after events is going to provide environmental benefits on two fronts. First it will accurately document the presence or otherwise of various fauna around event times. It will also importantly start to build a large amount of environmental data which can be used to guide and modify environmental practices into the future. With the already significant amount of environmental data captured through assessments and surveys, this body of knowledge is likely to be significant. I cannot stress how important it is to approve this project. Even if it is considered just based on employment opportunities it should be approved. Regional unemployment is a massive issue and I think that the government needs to help businesses to operate in what is already a very tough business climate. Therefore we should be getting right behind this type of proposal. Currently many things are conspiring against the tourism industry, particularly the very strong Australian dollar. Enticing domestic travellers to holiday in Australia rather than abroad is a huge challenge for the tourism sector. When a project such as North Byron Parklands comes along that proposes to attract 35,000 people per event to a region such as the North Coast of NSW, this must be given serious consideration by approving authorities. Add to the fact that a number of these large events will eventually occur each year, the economic and tourism benefits are substantial.

P56	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from Jim Rogers of Private Citizen (object)	I am quite happy for one Splendour Festival of 15,000 people a year. However,present submission is for too many people too often. Scale is too big and will adversely affect amenity of area and there is insufficient infrastucture. Noise, traffic jams, anti-social behaviour, rubbish and littering will occur the same as when in town. Also adverse affect on fauna and flora. P57	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from Barbara Jensen (object)	I support the policy adopted by my Council ie ?Byron Shire Council Events on Public and Private Land Policy? in October this year. Therefore I do not support the North Park Proposal. The key objectives from the new Byron Shire Council Public and Private Land Policy are to recognise the contribution that events make to the diverse character and culture of the Shire and to manage events so that they do not adversely impact on this existing character and culture. It also says that there would be no more than two major events a year that exceed 6000 participants. The North Park proposal is too big, too often and too many eg numbers of up to 50,000 patrons are mentioned. The traffic, noise, illegal holiday letting and rubbish issues from Splendour and the Blues Festival already present a huge impact on the residents of Byron Bay. To have more big events will lead to further disintegration of cultural character and social amenity.

My concerns are also based on what I have read about the site:

? It contains high conservation vegetation including endangered ecological communities, threatened plant and fauna species.

? It is within an identified critical east-west habitat corridor ie connecting the coastal area with the Border Ranges.

? It contains core koala habitat and the viability of that population is under real threat.

? It is flood prone which will make catchment and waste water management very challenging.

? It is close enough to populated areas to make noise and traffic an issue and the proposed buffer zones are too narrow to effectively reduce these impacts.

? And Byron Council has nearly completed the new Byron Regional Sport and Cultural Complex which I hope is a potential venue for small local culturally relevant music event.

Thank you for the opportunity to express my opinion, Barbara

P59	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from Barry wallace of Retired (support)	We have lived in Byron Bay for the past 20 plus years, during this time Byron Bay and surrounds have become a popular tourist destination from whitch I believe the benefits (to name a few) of a young and energetic vibe keeping us all young as well our real estate value increases have been good for both the local domestic community as well as our business community. During my business career, we worked via the Byron Business Group on some town aspects with the Splendor group and we found Splendor very supportive towards Byron's town and social instructure. i am aware that a very small but uncooperative group of people have made a lot of negetive noise far exceeding their actual numbers who, I believe are against the common community good. Although I have never been to a Splendor concert, for many reasons, including some as stated above, I support their application and believe they should be given a go. At the very least, they should be afforded a three y ear trial. Yours sincerly, Barry Wallace Name: Barry wallace Organisation: Retired

P60	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from Will Dawson of QUT (support)	Holding events requires a sound understanding of a whole range of logistical and safety aspects. The team behind North Byron Parklands have been responsible for putting together numerous large events over the past decade. In each case they have successfully managed important aspects such as noise, ecology, lighting, traffic and crowd and safety management. The systems and procedures they have developed will assist any event being held at the North Byron Parklands site which I believe will help result in successful events. The North Byron Parklands proposal will provide social benefits across the Northern Rivers area. Cultural events are valued by the community as it adds to their quality of life and creates improved social cohesion, lifestyle improvement, diversity, and increased creativity. For the educational institutions around the Northern Rivers this proposal is very positive. P61	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from Marlowe Jackson (support)	Byron Shire and the wider northern rivers region has been a fast growing area for the creative industries sector. Huge numbers of people have moved into the region with expectations of finding work in this sector and more than ever there is a need to ensure that projects that directly and indirectly benefit this growing sector are supported. The Parklands proposal if approved will become a dominant force in expanding the creative industries sector and will provide substantial job opportunities. The local area needs an established cultural event site! North Byron Parklands offers a a sustainable cultural event site for the community to meet together to celebrate, learn, collaborate, and showcase contemporary practices. North Byron Parklands is a good thing and should be supported by the local government! Because of the extensive level of community consultation undertaken by North Byron Parklands I have a very clear understanding of the benefits and issues of the application. The high quality of information has allowed people locally and in the wider community to make an informed decision about the proposal and I would imagine that the responses are overwhelmingly in favour of the project. It shows that when a company is prepared to go that one step further in communicating to the public that people can fully understand all of the issues and also the steps to be put in place to manage them. I fully support this application. Byron Bay is widely known for pushing the barrier and making things possible. We as a town have so much to offer and this new proposal will put us on the map so to speak. Itâ□™s a fantastic opportunity for us all.

The development and ongoing usage of a permanent festival site will unequivocally result in a fundamental decline or loss of fauna and flora species and habitats of northern NSW. A festival site would severely negatively impact upon local and landscape-scale ecosystem processes and functions. These claims are supported through current research and recent assessments undertaken by the NSW Government. The area occupied by the festival site has been continually identified as being of high biodiversity significance for a wide range of fauna and flora.

RE: NORTH BYRON PARKLANDS SUBMISSION

I wish to submit my total opposition to the North Byron Parklands submission to hold major events at the Jones Road/Tweed Valley Road.

I am Yelgun resident and have been since 1998 having purchased a house in 1995. When we purchased our property we did not have the luxury of the Yelgun Interchange or the Pacific Highway upgrade to the north and south. This proved to be a very difficult time when it was Easter and Christmas as the bank up of traffic could mean that you would spend many hours trying to get to your home.

We now enjoy the luxury of the Yelgun Interchange for our daily transport needs. My concern is that the capacity for the Yelgun Interchange would be greatly reduced with the amount of traffic that has been proposed.

This would be a great inconvenience to myself and other Yelgun Residents as we would then have to drive down to the Brunswick Interchange going south and the Billinudgel Interchange for going north. This would then affect my lifestyle where I am adding extra time to my travel and also extra petrol costs.

North Parklands have advised that through traffic would be allowed to pass the queues of event vehicles by temporarily using the road shoulders at reduced speeds to extend the length of right turn bays on Tweed Valley Way. Many of the road shoulders along Tweed Valley Way would not be in good enough condition to have lots of vehicles to go on them.

When North Parklands first did community consultations we were advised that the numbers would be around 17,500 and only once a year. We are now having to send in our concerns for 32,500 patrons which is at the 70% capacity. This is not a possible capacity crowd as that many patrons turned up at Woodford and many other patrons did not get tickets. So within the next two years we could easily be at 100% capacity for 50,000 patrons. This is twice the population of the whole of Byron Shire going down Tweed Valley Way which is the only entrance and exit to my home!!!!

They have quoted ?the increase in traffic on the road network around Easter and Christmas school holidays restricts the size of events that can be held on the site?. At no time in the consultation process did they ever talk about public holiday time. In this area everyone has friends come up or down the coast for holidays. This would mean that I would be very inconvenienced as I would have to run around and get special permits etc so they could come into Yelgun Road. They would also add many hours onto their trip while trying to find alternative routes to get here before the traffic build up. . Another total inconvenience to myself.

All of their calculations have been done on car occupancy of 3.2 people per car. So how much worse would the problem become if we got down to 2.5 people per car.

Once they are at a 100% capacity, as I mentioned I believe this will be within the next two years, what ability will I have to make complaints about the situation. It will already be set in concrete, like their temporary earthworks, and it will have permanently affected my lifestyle. The reason that we came to this area in the first place was we wanted to live in a quiet area with no stress. The entire consultation and submission process for this event has been very stressful on our household.

I do not have any objection to a festival of this magnitude but I do have a huge objection to having at a site that is totally dependent on one road in and road out. The alternative roads that they discuss still come off Tweed Valley Way and if by chance there was an accident north of the site and south of the site at the same time, which is entirely possible when you are talking about 7,000 cars being involved in this festival, how would the emergency crew get in.

My last concern is that if any campers happen to go into the area between the beach and the festival site and light a fire there is a potential for an underground fire due the area being peat. We had an underground fire a few years ago that lasted for a couple of months and was only extinguished after it flooded.

Yours faithfully

Kerry Innes

P66	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from malcolm fletecher (object)	The proponents traffic modelling is based on old scenarios based around a different road network and highly different patron numbers. The modelling does not adequately test the traffic impacts based on Tweed Valley Way road network and the suburbs it passes through. The modelling is also based on a guess of car-pooling rates. These claims are not supported by empirical data. The site has very limited access points. Large scale events as those proposed of 50,000 patrons would unequivocally cause major disruption to the daily movement of local residents, and particularly those situations where emergency services are required to attend emergencies cut-off by queuing traffic. Traffic reports from the most recent Splendour in the Grass event states traffic queues in excess of six hours based on smaller attendance figures than those proposed at Yelgun of 50,000. P68	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from angela cook (support)	Dear Sirs, While there are a number of identified threatened species at the North Byron Parklands site, all of these creatures are winged species such as water borne birds, owls and various bats. Research into the effects of intermittent noise shows that such fauna will usually relocate during such episodes and will return quickly once noise abates. Further the movement of such fauna is entirely dependent on food resources. If there are no fruits and blossoms across the site then the presence of these species will be very low. North Byron Parklands proposal of a sustainable arts and music venue that invites not just our locals to enjoy but that people will travel can only benefit our local economy. Letâ□™s get the creative juices flowing in the Northern Rivers. Bring Splendour home, letâ□™s get on with the job of creating exciting training and employment opportunities for our young people. P70	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from Todd and Sandra Cole of Waterlily Ridge Community (support)	We are the representatives of "Waterlily Ridge Community", an 8 lot community bordering the proposed festival site to the North. Given our close proximity and the number of sites which have the potential to be impacted upon, we feel as though we are key stakeholders in this decision. We are strong proponents of the environment, having spent the last twenty-odd years reafforesting the majority of our 130 acre property. At the same time, we view the proposal as an opportunity to enhance economic and cultural values for the area, as well as an overall better environmental outcome than previous land uses. North Byron Shire Parklands has always been sincere in their efforts in working with us and other relevant bodies to promote the extension of the wildlife corridor in our area. Overall, we are in support of the proposal. Keeping in mind wanting to achieve a social balance, to ensure the rural amenity and that residents can conduct regular daily activities for the majority of the year, we believe:

? a limit should be set of twelve days of loudly amplified music or other audible activities

? these audible activities should cease at midnight

? local residents should be informed well prior to an event of its type and scale; and

? local residents should be catered for in traffic management and allowed access exiting northbound traffic at the Yelgun Interchange

Yours Sincerely

P72	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from Jinki Trevillian (support)	I am adding my views to the Splendour In The Grass/North Byron Parklands discussion because I am increasingly frustrated by the lack of dialogue between the opposing camps. For example I was ?told? that 50,000 people will be coming to the NBSP site 12 days a year if the DA is approved. I had read the application and it clearly states that the anticipated increase in numbers for larger events would be subject to various requirements being met, ie the onus would be on the event organisers to firstly prove that they could adequately host the lesser maximum of 35,000 and then they could make a case for increases in numbers. For the record I have not attended a SITG festival (the music is not generally to my personal taste) but I see music festivals as a positive cultural expression. As a long time volunteer and at one time employee at the Woodford Folk Festival, I have seen firsthand the development of that property. Woodford is not, as one letter writer to the local Echo seemed to indicate, at the end of the road in the middle of open farmland, but would better be described as just off a regional highway, near a growing town in the populous Sunshine coast hinterland. Furthermore, the site borders onto state forest that adjoins Bellthorpe NP which has significant ecological value.

The significant and diverse wildlife of the Woodford site - from shy sugar-gliders to rare invertebrates - is detailed in its State Of the Woodford Environment report, an environmental self audit. I have seen not only the growth in population and numbers of diverse flora and fauna over the last fifteen years, but the impact of events with increasing numbers of visitors in that time. The overall impact is positive. Like some of the festival neighbours, the wallabies retreat to the hills for a few days, but once the crowds of people go they return in ever increasing numbers, and the incredibly successful nesting box program shows how shier and rarer critters are also thriving.

The Woodford festival site is now widely seen as a successful venture but it has had its fair share of detractors, including fiercely oppositional neighbours ? recall the poultry farmer who took the festival organisers to court to protect his couped chickens from the distressing impact of loud music. What Woodford benefitted from was the support of many environmentally minded volunteers who saw potential in the place as well as the event.

I am therefore not convinced that the NBP plans are incompatible with ecological values. Given that the wildlife corridor is already compromised by a major highway, the development of a parkland haven with extensive plantings could greatly benefit many animals ? even if they have to deal with temporary migrations of humans. What is required are some clear guidelines for environmental auditing and protection. As I understand it the organisers have consulted on these issues, what they obviously lack is community level consensus. Again I see an unfortunate lack of dialogue.

As event organisers and licensees NBP have to show that they can keep both their site and the people who visit it safe and secure. In addition to all the planning requirements of traffic, accommodation, sewerage, etc., for each event held the government might consider further requirements to activity on the site. These could include independent monitoring of wildlife numbers and safeguards for the wildlife corridor.

I can only hope that the NSW state Department of Planning will make a balanced and reasonable decision based on solid claims and not extreme and misleading rhetoric. There is a great opportunity here for a development which will have both strong cultural value and environmental benefits, if only the appropriate dialogue is followed through and some agreement on checks and balances is reached. I believe that cautious approval, subject to conditions, of the NBP proposal would be the best outcome for the region and the broader community.

P73	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from Mary Ramser of n/a (support)	When the owners of North Byron Parklands bought the property they took on board a court order to rehabilitate Yelgun Creek which was badly degraded by the former owner. This creek system used to flow into the Billinudgel Nature Reserve, feeding it with flood waters and providing the varied hydrological flows that the existing flora community required. The North Byron Parklands people will now rehabilitate the creek by removing excess siltation and undertaking riparian plantings. This will be a huge plus for the nature reserve. Four of the owners of North Byron Parklands each have a long and successful history in hosting events. The size of these events have ranged from 5,000 to 50,000 people and have occurred at a number of venues across NSW. The skills, systems and processes they have developed over the past 12-15 years will no doubt be employed to ensure all events held at North Byron Parklands are done so in a professional and safe manner. The North Byron Parklands proposal brings so many positive benefits to the northern rivers region that based on planning merit alone, this application must be approved. Whether one considers employment, income generation, environmental protection measures or a massive boost to the regionâ□™s tourism economy, this application exceeds all expectations. P77	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from Marie Bryant (object)

My major objection is that this is a closed valley on the Western side of the highway with a single road and only the one exit onto the freeway. If several thousand cars and campers are using the local road at the end of the valley I will not be able to get to work or leave the valley on time. Since the opening of the new highway section I have been amazed at how busy the roundabout onto the highway at the Billinudgel end has become. It is the only outlet for all the community north of Brunswick and from Mooball south. There is no way it could cope with the traffic generated by such a large event. The amount of traffic on Tweed Valley Way has increased significantly since the last DA.

Yelgun Valley is notorious for floods. We lose several days per year when we cannot get through to work. Will we be expected to be good Samaritans to the thousands in flooded tents or campers. In Byron there are many forms of accommodation available as well as camping. We have nothing. In fact council has refused applications for bed and breakfast accommodation on some local properties. Is it then going to apply a different standard to a big developer while refusing the small local person.

Such huge events need to be located very close to commercial centres so that all the services required by such a large number of people can be provided by existing infrastructure and service providers ? sewerage, garbage, hospital, and police services as well as other types of entertainment and retail outlets.

P79	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from Andrew Irwin (support)	I would like to strongly support the North Byron Parklands' application. As a Byron Bay resident, I believe the proposal will be a major economic and cultural boon to the local community. From my personal observation, the adverse effects of Splendour's relocation to Woodford this year were widely felt - from local business owners complaining to me about the lack of customers this winter to community groups such as our children's childcare centre ruing the absence of the festival's previous generous donations to its fundraising activities. In 2004, my wife and and I travelled from our former home in Melbourne to attend the renowned Splendour In The Grass festival with other friends who came over from Perth. The festival's location in Byron Bay was a huge drawcard for all of us, some of whom are keen surfers, and we and our friends made a week-long holiday of it in the Byron Shire. Between the lot of us, we contributed thousands of dollars to the local economy on accommodation Name: Andrew Irwin Address: 43 Kingsley St Byron Bay NSW 2481 IP Address: eth5193.nsw.adsl.internode.on.net - 150.101.116.72 Submission for Job: #3210 Cultural Events Site (Project Application) https://majorprojects.onhiive.com/index.pl?action=view_job&id=3210 Site: #1982 Cultural Events Site - Tweed Valley Way and Jones Road, Yelgun (09_0028) https://majorprojects.onhiive.com/index.pl?action=view_site&id=1982

P80	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from Stephen Whan Whan of DSEM (support)	Byron Shire and the wider northern rivers region has been a fast growing area for the creative industries sector. Huge numbers of people have moved into the region with expectations of finding work in this sector and more than ever there is a need to ensure that projects that directly and indirectly benefit this growing sector are supported. The Parklands proposal if approved will become a dominant force in expanding the creative industries sector and will provide substantial job opportunities. In the past the Splendour in the Grass festival has provide young adults with high level training in many areas, plus, supported creative youth initiatives like Splendid. These opportunities offered to the young community are truly invaluable to our region. I myself am a living beneficiary of some of these programs and I wish to have the opportunity to provide that unique experience to many others around the area. Splendour, being the size it is as a festival, draws a massive cultural painting and brings together communities from all over Australia to experience Byron Bay in all of it's beauty and to nothing more than appreciate and support it. Their more than one half page advertisement states that ?when operating at capacity? they will ?inject $192.6 million? into the national economy annually?. Repeat annually. P82	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from Amy Sloan of NTPFES (support)	Events are really important for young people today. Coming together is not just about getting drunk and partying. Itâ™s about helping each other and learning. Having a permanent cultural event venue in nature is the way forward for young people. This proposal is so important for the Northen Rivers region because of the number of great things that will come out of it. North Byron Parklands event site will bring more tourism to the area which in turn will lead to a boost in business for local businesses. The events at the site will also offer employment opportunities to the local community and help build the skills of the young workforce. North Byron Parklands is all about hosting lots of different events, all of which require people to work in a variety of jobs. One event can employ hundreds of people for a period of time and in an area such as Byron such job opportunities are very welcome. We should be doing all we can to make this project happen. This allows time for the rehabilitation of habitats and normal ecosystems processes. The proposed Parklands site has a long history with various Aboriginal clans in and around the area and North Byron Parklands has gone to great measures to maintain important cultural areas. It is great to see that the archaeological report conducted by Parklands does not identify any aspects of the project that will have a negative impact on important cultural artefacts or values. The projected visitor nights generated by the North Byron Parklands in its fifth year of operation is in the order of 97,000. This is a massive accommodation boon for hotels, motels, apartments and camping facilities in the region and does not even take into account the other forms of tourism expenditure that such visitors will make. Tourism is a key industry in northern NSW and should be supported in order to maintain and grow the sector into the future. North Byron Parklands through their application to the Department of Planning have more than adequately shown that this is an organisation willing to go beyond compliance in terms of environmental management. What other development would have documented in such detail the plans, policies and procedures to effectively manage all issues covering the environment. Everything from lighting and erosion control through to revegetation and fauna audits has been included in their impressive management manual.

Businesses like North Byron Parklands generate much needed jobs for our area. A lot of people I speak to are concerned about the lack of employment opportunities both within the shire and the northern rivers region. Any business that provides jobs to locals should be approved to operate.

The North Byron Parklands will have the Parklands teams involved who have an amazing track record in developing and holding outdoor cultural arts and music events. A guarantee that this proposal will be nothing but successful.

P86	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from Simon Monk (support)	If Woodfordia in Queensland can be highly respected as an enviro-friendly venue which hosts a number of festivals with large crowds, then surely North Byron Parklands can achieve the same level of acceptance and respect if given the chance. If you look at the multitude of government regional growth forecasts for areas such as the northern rivers it is plain to see that will a rapidly expanding population there is a strong need for a diverse and stable employment base. Jobs will be critical to the longer term sustainability of the region and therefore when projects such as North Byron Parklands come along they should be embraced and assisted by state and local governments. The two main reasons I believe the festival should be brought back is Tourism and Culture. Tourism and culture are so important to the area as many business rely on the influx of visitor for large events like Splendour to keep thier business alive. Visitors travel to the area to experience the laid back, coastal culture of the region. Parklands will bring more and more cultural events to the area and in turn boost tourism. The approval of the North Byron Parklands proposal will benefit the local creative industries and lead to a new wave of new and interesting jobs for the youth in the area. Letâ□™s build the local industry and make The Byron Shire a hub for creative individuals. Name: Simon Monk

I support 8 major festival days a year with 25,000 as a cap. Byron Shire's music industry will benefit enormously.. The site is well positioned. P93	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from Katie Castel (support)	With regards to the wildlife corridor it has been significantly degraded over many decades due to such activities as primary production and agriculture. As such it is currently highly fragmented and in need of revegetation. The Parklands proposal will see the biggest rehabilitation program the area has seen for the past 5o years as a result of its detailed vegetation management plan which will result in thousands of trees being planted in strategic areas. North Byron Parklands proposal is a very positive thing for the youth in the community. This proposal will see new jobs in the region and promote sustainable development throughout the country. This application must be approved for our youth! North Byron Parklands have undertaken a detailed economic impact assessment which bodes well for the tourism industry should it be approved. Projections show that tens of thousands of people will visit the area each year and this influx of people will significantly bolster our tourism businesses. With so many locals relying on the tourism industry for their income, such a project is very welcome.

				I lived in the Byron shire for most of my youth before moving to Brisbane for Uni, so I have a profound attachment to the area as it is. On top of this is the fact that Splendour belongs to Byron Bay, and the festival this year - although it was a good festival - was not Splendour. Please return the festival to the region where it was born and belongs. Also thankyou for giving veteren punters like me (8 splendours and counting) the chance to be in splendour club to reward our loyalty with guaranteed tickets purchases. P94	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from Jennifer Morris (support)	The North Byron Parklands Project willÂ impact the environment positively and should be supported. The preservation of ecological values in and around the Parklands site is an important aspect of North Byron Parklands proposal. The large amount of scientific assessment that has been conducted shows that the site has been heavily degraded over the past number of years and that the proposed fauna and flora management plans will greatly enhance and protect existing identified values on the site. Most businesses that operate in Northern NSW do not have anywhere near the level of sophisticated environmental strategies, controls and procedures that North Byron Parklands is preparing to put in place. It seems that every aspect of flora and fauna management has been considered and with a robust environmental auditing component I think we will see some excellent environmental outcomes arising from this development. I am very supportive of their approach.

P95	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from Kelly Hughes of Student (support)	The local area containing the Parklands site has an ancient meeting place for Aboriginal people to come to together for cultural purposes. The local indigenous stakeholders have been consulted and do not object to the Parklands proposal. It is fitting that the Parklands proposal will now serve as a cultural meeting place for all people. Many projects that have occurred across the North Coast of NSW have not undertaken even a tenth of the assessment, survey and fauna/flora investigations as that completed by North Byron Parklands. The extensive vegetation mapping and the identification of fauna across the site, coupled with two koala surveys (which did not locate any koalas) demonstrate the level of environmental assessment undertaken by this organisation. When you then add the environmental controls as proposed in their environmental, health and safety management manual it is evident that these people are very serious about environmental management. The real question is why would North Byron Parklands proposal not be approved? I can only see positives to such a development. Name: Kelly Hughes Organisation: Student

P96	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from ERIK ADAMS (object)	I would like to object to this proposal on the grounds that this area in the north east of Byron Shire is one of the last quiet family residential areas unaffected by the negative impacts of tourism, holiday letting and festival related loss of amenity that now affects the rest of the Shire. I am a resident of South Golden Beach which is one of the communities closest to the site. This area is populated by young families with mostly small children who moved here to get away from the the perpetual party atmosphere of Byron Bay and the congestion and disturbance that the regular festivals cause there. I am deeply disturbed at the prospect of festival site being situated so close to this very quiet neighbourhood. I am also concerned about it's proximity to the Billinudgel Natue Reserve which took much effort on the part of local conservationists to protect and which is the only wildlife corridor linking the coast to Mt Warning. I am not opposed to festivals but believe that this is the wrong place for them. P97	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from Brandon Saul (support)	The preservation of ecological values in and adjacent to the Parklands site is an important aspect of the proposal. Much scientific assessment has been undertaken which highlights that the site has been heavily degraded over the past number of years and that the proposed fauna and flora management plans will greatly enhance and protect existing identified values. The North Byron Parklands Project will actually result in a positive impact on the environment and should be supported. Most of the businesses within the Northern Rivers and Byron Shire are sole traders and do not offer any employment opportunities to the community. Bringing Splendour in the Grass festival back to Byron Bay would result in North Byron Parklands offering many new employment opportunities for the residents in the region. One of the strengths of the North Byron Parklands proposal is the flow on benefits it will provide to the tourism industry. Still picking itself up after the recent financial crisis the tourism industry stands to be the big winner from this proposal. With massive visitor generating capacity this proposal will singlehandedly attract hundreds of thousands of people to the region, all of whom need accommodation and other services once they arrive. With up to twenty days of events each year the work experience opportunities for people in the region are very exciting. The bump in and bump out periods provide further work. We need these jobs and the training they provide, from high level event management to ticketing, technical production and traffic management.

P102	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from Dr Hugh Forehead (object)	I would like to bring to your attention the following: Noise disturbances The proponent has failed to submit adequate noise modelling results. The standards used in the scenario modelling are not based on NSW standards. The noise limits presented are not satisfactory and will, as the consultant has concluded, will permanently alter the lifestyle of local residents. Traffic disturbances

				The proponents traffic modelling is based on old scenarios based around a different road network and highly different patron numbers. The modelling does not adequately test the traffic impacts based on Tweed Valley Way road network and the suburbs it passes through. The modelling is also based on a guess of car-pooling rates. These claims are not supported by empirical data. The site has very limited access points. Large scale events as those proposed of 50,000 patrons would unequivocally cause major disruption to the daily movement of local residents, and particularly those situations where emergency services are required to attend emergencies cut-off by queuing traffic. Traffic reports from the most recent Splendour in the Grass event states traffic queues in excess of six hours based on smaller attendance figures than those proposed at Yelgun of 50,000. P103	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from Neil Wedd of Edifice Complex (support)	When the owners of North Byron Parklands bought the property they took on board a court order to rehabilitate Yelgun Creek which was badly degraded by the former owner. This creek system used to flow into the Billinudgel Nature Reserve, feeding it with flood waters and providing the varied hydrological flows that the existing flora community required. The North Byron Parklands people will now rehabilitate the creek by removing excess siltation and undertaking riparian plantings. This will be a huge plus for the nature reserve. In the Byron and northern rivers areas tourism is subject to busy times and quiet times. It is planned that a number of events will occur at the North Byron Parklands site each year and one of these takes place in winter when tourism businesses are struggling to cover costs. Building a dedicated events venue in the Byron Shire will have a number of very positive benefits for the tourism industry which is a good thing.

P104	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from vicki steinlake (object)	A permanent festival site will negatively impact upon the social wellbeing of local and broader communities of the Byron and Tweed shires. Ongoing large and mega-festivals of up to 50,000 attendees per day, and additional unlimited events, cannot be sustained by a Shire of whose entire population is only 32,000 people (ABS 2009). This equates approximately that for every one resident in the Byron Shire there will be 1.6 festival attendees. The Byron Shire already has one large permanent festival site allocated for the annual ?Bluesfest? event located only some 10kms from the proposed Yelgun Site; it cannot tolerate and sustain another permanent festival site. No other Shire or LGA in all of Australia has two permanent large-scale festival sites of this magnitude. A second permanent festival site will dramatically alter the current social dimension and demographics of the Byron Shire and negatively promote the region as a shire. P105	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from Paul Wilson of - (support)	At the moment the average household income per year in the Byron shire and the Northern Rivers is much lower than the rest of NSW. The Byron Shire and Northern Rivers average annual income is aprox. $55,000 compared to NSWâ□™s average annual income of $71,000. Bringing Splendour home to Byron Bay to the North Byron Parklands site would open up many opportunities of employment to a community in real need. P106	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from Justin Harry (support)	North Byron Parklands will bring more tourism to The Byron Shire every year, boosting local business revenue and helping small business stay on thier feet. This proposal will benefit everyone. The size of events that could occur at Parklands is appropriate and sustainable. The few events that may reach 50,000 patrons per day in the future are not mega or huge. Other events in Australia and the rest of the world are much bigger. From Tweed Heads to Evans Head most of the business activity revolves around tourism. To have a cultural arts and music venue such as North Byron Parklands which will bring tens of thousands of visitors to the area and with the vast majority seeking accommodation over multiple nights is a huge economic windfall. Such a proposal would seamlessly add to the already diversified tourism offerings of the region and should be approved. P107	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from John Bishop of PetRescue Ltd (support)	One of the most significant benefits for the environment coming out of this application is the proponent's willingness to transfer a net 28ha of very high quality bushland to National Parks that would see an expansion of the Billinudgel Nature Reserve. Ignoring the significant value of the land proposed to be handed over, it has to be acknowledged that this is probably the only opportunity to expand this nature reserve as it is bound by private landowners who are unlikely to give away their land. The Byron Shire and Northern Rivers region is home to an aging community with a high proportion of retirees. This means many young people are leaving the area to seek education and employment opportunities elsewhere. North Byron Parklands would help provide employment for many of these young people, thus giving them a reason to stay in the area. The approval of the North Byron Parklands proposal will benefit the local creative industries and lead to a new wave of new and interesting jobs for the youth in the area. P108	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from Lauren Constable (support)	While the North Byron Parklands has some valuable forest cover it must be recognised that much of this cover resembles a patch quilt, the result of decades of agricultural use. To improve the value and function of these disparate forest blocks there is a much needed planting program similar to that proposed by the North Byron Parklands people to join and reconnect the vegetation. This one action of mass plantings will absolutely improve the environmental value across and adjacent to the proposal. Tourism is really the back bone of of regional areas such as the Northern Rivers. This proposal will not only boost tourism but it will boost the creative industries sector and encourage other supportive industries to invest in the creative industries sector creating growth in the area. P109	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from Simon Pearson (object)	I wish to strenuously object to this proposal. I shall not address all aspects, but object on the grounds that it is the wrong development in the wrong place. The developers bought the land knowing that the zoning would have to be changed to suit their requirements. This is a risk they chose to take. It is a peaceful rural zone, far removed from the hectic "on the go" party town of Byron Bay. It is almost a misnomer to talk of "Splendour" returning to Byron Bay. The area has nothing to do with Byron Bay other than it just falls into the Shire boundary. The General Manager of North Byron Parklands has publicly stated that activities will take place on "no more than 80 days" per year (he also implied that some form of activity would take place at other times). This is close to three months of the year. This would be for starters. The entrepreneur who will self limit growth has yet to be born. ENVIRONMENT. It require no special expertise to realize that high decibal noise and large human activity will adversely affect the environment for a considerable distance. It matters not that the onslaughts will be broken by periods of relative tranquility. Consider that loud noise is used to force flying foxes to break their breeding cycle and relocate. Obviously a similar impact can be expected on the local wild life. PERSONAL PERPECTIVE: No doubt in keeping with thousands of other rate payers in the north of Byron Shire, I bought a property here because it is quiet and semi-rural. I did not choose the hectic pace closer to Byron Bay.

I would not consider living here for one nano second had I known that music festivals of national significance were to held in proximity. The idea is a nightmare.

Noise, crowds of visitors road congestion. These are facts, not speculations. Arguements that attempt to minimize the impact are no more than superficial "spin". You can't introduces up to 50,000 people into a rural location without creating major disruption to the existing status quo.

There appears to be only one reason in favour of the proposal, that being to give a developer the chance to create a profitable enterprise. BUT this would not come without cost, that being the legal right for people to enjoy the quiet occupation of their own home (in addition to the environmental cost).

I ask why should a developer be allowed to buy into an established rural community and then have the rules change to suit their own selfish needs.

Please consider the genuine heartfelt concern of myself and others like me. The proposal may well be suited elsewhere (Woodford?) but not here.

I do not wish to go through the trauma of selling my house and moving, which is a distinct possibility if this grossly inappropriate proposal goes ahead.

Please respect the rights of the people and animals who live here and reject this proposal.

Thank you.

North Byron Parklands has held a number of tree planting days on the site where they have invited the public to get their hands dirty and plant a tree in the parts of the wildlife corridor that were just open paddock. It speaks volumes for the hypocrisy of local objectors that not one of them ever turned up to put a seedling in the ground to help expand the fragmented wildlife corridor that they so loudly claim to be safeguarding. Those 7,500 trees are now some metres high and thriving.

The list of events that each of the owners of North Byron Parklands have held over the past ten years is absolutely staggering in terms of venues, numbers of patrons and dealing successfully with a range of regulatory authorities. Such experience will provide a significant edge when events are held at North Byron Parklands and will no doubt make for a succession of successful events.

Three words. Jobs, tourism and culture. All of these are in rapid decline in the northern rivers region and in NSW. Its time to stand up and support these vibrant industries that promise to do so much for so many. The application has the necessary checks and balances in place to make any event operate in a sensitive and responsible manner. Its to time approve the North Byron Parklands proposal.

This proposal will expose our young people to an array of new job options including event management, live sound engineering, various publicity/promotional roles, and traffic management. The region needs new jobs and North Byron Parklands will provide this.

P116	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from Wendy Palmer (object)	I don?t agree with the festival site for the following reasons; The development will destroy the existing local character and social fabric of the area. Existing areas of "lower" cost housing in the north of the shire will begin to decrease as more and more dwellings at ocean shores and Brunswick heads are bought up for lucrative tourist lets to supply the requirements of people who don't want to or can't camp onsite. Where is a social impact statement for this. Who will police the illegal camping of thousands of people in tents and cars in the northern part of Byron Shire and the southern part of Tweed Shire because they can?t afford the camping or accommodation charges. With the huge increase in patrons the affects will be much greater. These people have no toilet facilities. The site is in a wildlife corridor and adjacent to the nature reserve. That many people and events will have an adverse impact on both. The nature reserve (wetland will end up with all the rubbish eg. cigarette butts, plastics and oil from cars parked in the floodplain next time it rains. Not to mention sediment from erosion caused by all the traffic on site. The area has many threatened species and has been recognised for that fact many times. This number of people , events and noise will have a large impact. Let?s use the "precautionary Principle". The site is majorly flood prone and it would be impossible to evacuate that many people and cars and camping gear from the site. I fear that many people will be put at risk from floodwaters and would hate to see any one die as a result of the festivals. At these festivals a lot of alcohol is consumed and trying to evacuate thousands of drunken people and campers is a disaster waiting to happen. The same can be said for the evacuation of large numbers of people in a bushfire. IMPOSSIBLE.

Major traffic problems for the local community and other tourists within the shire.

The number and size of the events is against Councils policy.

There are other existing areas of the shire that have / can have festivals eg. the blues festival site and Councils new sports and cultural complex that can cater for the Splendour in the Grass and other festivals much more environmentally, satisfactorily and safer than the proposed site at Yelgun.

With the huge increase in patrons the affects will be much greater. These people have no toilet facilities. The site is in a wildlife corridor and adjacent to the nature reserve. That many people and events will have an adverse impact on both. The nature reserve (wetland will end up with all the rubbish eg. cigarette butts, plastics and oil from cars parked in the floodplain next time it rains. Not to mention sediment from erosion caused by all the traffic on site. The area has many threatened species and has been recognised for that fact many times. This number of people , events and noise will have a large impact. Let?s use the "precautionary Principle". The site is majorly flood prone and it would be impossible to evacuate that many people and cars and camping gear from the site. I fear that many people will be put at risk from floodwaters and would hate to see any one die as a result of the festivals. At these festivals a lot of alcohol is consumed and trying to evacuate thousands of drunken people and campers is a disaster waiting to happen. The same can be said for the evacuation of large numbers of people in a bushfire. IMPOSSIBLE. Major traffic problems for the local community and other tourists within the shire. The number and size of the events is against Councils policy.

There are other existing areas of the shire that have / can have festivals eg. the blues festival site and Councils new sports and cultural complex that can cater for the Splendour in the Grass and other festivals much more environmentally, satisfactorily and safer than the proposed site at Yelgun.

P118	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from David Luscombe of David Luscombe and Associates (support)	It is appropriate that in this age, with the big business that music festivals have become, the promoters thereof are entitled to plan and implement these events knowing that they have a permanenet site and the blessing of the local relevant authoroties. These events are big business that bring enormous economic benefits to the regions in which they are held. In my experience (at 51 yeras ols and having attended festivals all over the world for most of my life) they are traditionally trouble free, as the attendenees are limited to those who have a purpose to see and enjoy the music, not just go to where a crowd may be to get drunk and cause touble. Having a world class sustainable event site will encourage the youth be become more creative, help them build towards a career in a creative industry and boost creative industries in on the Northern Rivers. P119	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from Barbara Kennerley (object)	I don?t agree with the festival site for the following reasons; The development will destroy the existing local character and social fabric of the area. Existing areas of "lower" cost housing in the north of the shire will begin to decrease as more and more dwellings at ocean shores and Brunswick heads are bought up for lucrative tourist lets to supply the requirements of people who don't want to or can't camp onsite. Where is a social impact statement for this. Having read the North Byron Parklands submission and attended many events over the past number of years I am blown away by the level of detail and the huge range of control measures that this development offers to ensure smooth and successful events. The North Coast of NSW needs a development of this nature and it should be approved by the NSW government.

You only have to look around the Byron community when a festival or an event takes place to see the people smiling and the excitement in the air. The North Byron Parklands proposal sure sounds like a perfect way to make sure the people keep smiling.

Letâ□™s build the local industry and make The Byron Shire a hub for creative individuals. From Tweed Heads to Evans Head most of the business activity revolves around tourism. To have a cultural arts and music venue such as North Byron Parklands which will bring tens of thousands of visitors to the area and with the vast majority seeking accommodation over multiple nights is a huge economic windfall. Such a proposal would seamlessly add to the already diversified tourism offerings of the region and should be approved. P123	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from Kirsten Clarke (support)	As a local resident of the Byron Shire, I support the proposed Cultural Events Site, Yelgun 09_0028. Bringing Spendour back to Byron will bring with it a vitality and richness of culture and diversity, the absence of which I felt this year with the festival held elsewhere. The impact on local business was devastating, I lost my job in music retail due to a massive slump in trade during what is usually a peak time when Spendour is in town! North Byron Parklands proposes to create up to 210 full time equivalent jobs and this is a significant contribution to the local economy and job stability for locals.

I value the community and cultural support that North Byron Parklands offers which has a ripple effect in the shire, adding a vibrancy and diversity of culture and providing a platform and forum to support the local creative arts industries.

I believe the proposed environmental management plan of North Byron Parklands will regenerate the land, investing in the environment for local fauna and our children.

P125	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from Karen Adlam (support)	The North Byron Parklands proposal is likely to improve wildlife corridors, fauna habitat and consolidation of fragmented forest blocks. This is shown by the level of environmental assessment that has been conducted across the site by North Byron Parklands. All assessments indicate that the proposal will have minimal environmental impacts. With so many people moving into capital cities the government needs to ensure that regional employment opportunities are secured whenever they are offered. Parklands have a project that will provide plenty of jobs for a range of people and it is super important that they jobs stay in our area. The North Byron Parklands application exceeds all expectations and must be approved. There is just so many good things that will come from North Byron Parklands proposal including environmental restoration, employment opportunities, a tourism increase, and a boost in local business? income. There is no reason why this proposal should not be approved by state government.

P126	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from Brooke Tzanenas (support)	The Department would be hard pressed to list other proposals such as the North Byron Parklands one that has clearly documented the environmental controls it proposes to put in place to actively manage the environment. The environmental management manual is an excellent example of a proactive organisation who is obviously serious about ensuring that fauna and flora is appropriately considered and managed within legislative requirements. Not only does the North Byron Parklands offer an economy boost for local businesses and employment opportunities, it also brings awareness to tackling waste, recycling and consumption. Tourism is a massive income generating activity for Byron Shire and the northern rivers region. The Parklands proposal will bring tens of thousands of people to the area, all of whom will need accommodation and food. It is so important that this project be approved because the positive economic impacts are so significant.

P127	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from Henry Montgomery (support)	I wish to register my support for the proposed Cultural Events Site - Tweed Valley Way and Jones Road, Yelgun (09_0028) - Yelgun. I submit that the proposal's impact on the natural environment can be managed in a way that will bring positive benefits to the site and the community. The event usage proposed is in grazed pasturelands covering less than 50% of the overall 660 acre site, leaving the majority for habitat use and bush regeneration. The proposal will result in an increase in the size and function of the Marshalls Ridge wildlife corridor and will transfer approximately 28 hectares of bushland to expand the Billinudgel Nature Reserve. The vegetation management plan shows that there will be increased connectivity of the currently fragmented forest blocks across the site. This means it will be easier for animals to move across the 660 acre site. Splendour's record on environmental works on the previous site in Byron Bay is evidence of their commitment to the natural environment. With respect to impact, the proposal will have a positive economic impact on the Byron Bay area, which currently struggles with unemployment and limited opportunities for work for young people. The proposal will also have a positive impact on the cultural tourism and creative arts industries as it will provide a home for creative arts and musical expression in the Northern Rivers. I submit that the proposal is in the public interest for all of the above reasons and because saying 'yes' to a signature venue is a positive statement for the economic and cultural future of Byron Shire and the Norther Rivers region, as opposed to the usual negativity that is associated with events in Byron Shire.

Cultural arts and music festivals are enjoyed by many people in Byron. People travel from near and far to attend. It would be such a shame to not offer this anymore. The long history of agricultural activities at the North Byron Parklands site has lead to the degradation of much of the site over the past 50 years. P130	Project Website Submission	19/11/2010	Online Submission from Greg Carey of Umbrella (support)	There is a reason why the government agencies including the National Parks and Wildlife services didn't object to this application, it really is in the best interest of everyone. If employment growth in regional areas is a key concern of the NSW state government then approving this project makes sound economic sense. There is a real need to support organisations that can provide such large numbers of jobs in an area where finding a good job can be very difficult. It seems to me that approving this project will have lasting long term benefits for job prospectors in this rural region. In a coastal region such as the Byron and Tweed areas tourism businesses are the financial lifeblood for so many people. Ensuring we attract businesses such as North Byron Parklands who will be responsible for bringing significant numbers of visitors to the region is vital if we are to maintain the viability of this critical sector. Government agencies should be approving projects of this nature. Why wouldnâ□™t we want a world class facility like North Byron parklands in the Byron region? P132	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from mark Grounds of love police (support)	It is pleasing to note that the North Byron Parklands proposal includes a requirement for wildlife rescue personnel to be present during all major events. This requirement means that there is a very capable first response team on hand to deal with trapped or injured wildlife. It is also an excellent opportunity for these people to monitor any interactions between people and fauna. Such data can then be used to modify and improve processes and procedures for future events. The establishment of the North Byron Parklands will generate additional employment opportunities for the management and maintenance of the venue and event organisations. I think this is a really important benefit for this region. The tourism business in Byron Bay this past winter has been very slow. With the loss of Splendour in the Grass to Queensland a much needed income stream during winter evaporated. The North Byron Parklands proposal would see a number of major events coming to the region and with it a significant increase in demand for tourist accommodation and activities. The project should be carefully considered by the government due to the much needed injection of funds into the local tourism industry. Many families would benefit from this proposal. Events are really important for young people today. Coming together is not just about getting drunk and partying. Itâ□™s about helping each other and learning. P135	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Dain Thomas (support)	To Whom It May Concern My name is Dain Thomas and I have been a resident of Byron Bay since 1999, and a small business operator since 2005. I wholly support the North Byron Shire Parklands Cultural Events Site at Yelgun (09_0028) as it seems like an absolutely perfect events site ? it is in the Byron Shire yet it?s deep enough in the ?bush? to minimize effects on the community. Byron Bay has never before been in such a dire need of a venue like this, in fact, in light of the recent winter which was the slowest in recent memory, one could say it is absolutely necessary to see this proposal approved for the future cultural and financial health of the Byron Bay area.

In my eyes a major attraction of Byron Bay has been as a place of celebration, and rightly so, the amount of world-class entertainment this small town has seen is quite amazing. It?s fair to say these events have shaped the town, not to mention fuelled many of it?s local businesses and created countless numbers of jobs.

To house this unique and appealing culture at the Yelgun site is an ideal solution. The organization that is North Byron Shire Parklands seem like moral custodians of such a space, most importantly due to their vigilant environmental stance and commitment to the regeneration of what is essentially neglected farmland.

As a resident of Byron Bay with quite a wide cross-section of friends I can safely say I am not alone with wanting to see this project go forward, every last person I associate with and know of is desperate to have Splendour In The Grass back in the Byron Shire, not to mention the extra events to experience.

Of course I understand that not all people are enthused or interested in Splendour In The Grass, but it?s clear to see North Byron Shire Parklands have in mind a varied program that will offer events for people of ALL ages and from all walks of life. The site could only work by catering to the entire community, and this will be a truly wonderful thing for the Northern Rivers population, and indeed the many international visitors the area receives.

I URGE you to support this proposal, I feel it is sound, has huge merit, and is essential to the Byron shire maintaining it?s appealing status to both residents and visitors. What alarms me in no small amount is the possibility that a vocal minority could block such a great project.

Yours sincerely,

Dain Thomas.

This initiative will see up to $100,000 a year ploughed back into the local community. If we rationally consider that the proposed North Byron Parklands venue will only be in operation for a number of weeks a year plus bump in and out then one can see that the environment will be rested for most of the year and the community will reap the benefits but not the downside of a venue that operates all year long. Apart from extensive consultation with indigenous groups and various elders the North Byron Parklands group has already established a long history of working with and employing local indigenous bush regeneration teams to plant thousands of trees across their site. P137	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Lynden Foss ()	This proposal is a shocking thing because.... 1. The area is agacent to a delicate nature reserve. Noise & disruption from the site in the building stage & the functing stage will disrupt the fauna, especially with mating & nesting. It is not a place that a huge festival site should be placed. On the edge of a major city is a much better idea. 2. The infastructure of Byron Shire & Tweed Shire will be stretched to the max. with police, fire, ambulance etc. having to be drastically upgraded to take up the slack. When there is a big festival at Easter in Byron Bay (which is miles away from this site) extra personal have to be brought in from Tweed Heads, Ballina etc. This will have to be done on a weekly basis if these people have their way & get this site as a permanent festival site. 3. The promise of more jobs is a joke.... any real jobs will be given to hangers on & cronies of the site owners & not to local people. There will be some part time jobs in meanial capcities. Nothing that will replace the disruption that this permanet site will reek on our community. This is a money making venture for a greedy few. Nothing more. 4. The roads to & from the site will ahve to be upgraded drastically to accomodate the influx of people to any event & to the bigger mega events the traffic will be astronimical. The Pacific Hifgway will have to have major upgrades & access roads wil have to be built at the expense of the tax payer.... & from the coffers of the NSW Govt. Do you have this money up your sleeves for this huge upgrade? 5. The proposed car park & camping area is on a flood plain. Even if there is minor flooding it will mean choas & will result in loss of property & maybe even life. It is proposterous to put a huge ammount of people in this sort of predicament. It is just dangerous. P140	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Yvette Myhill (support)	To whom this concerns, Having lived for many years in Byron Bay and having heard the arguments from both Splendour in the Grass and the community, I truly believe that the statements below are correct and I support them wholeheartedly. The Marshallâ™s Ridge wildlife corridor on the proposed site is actually damaged, populated with harmful weeds, and is in need of restoration. North Byron Parklands has committed, through its vegetation management plan and a number of other measures, to reduce forest fragmentation by planting endemic species which will help improve fauna movement opportunities. I know many people that will benefit from the North Byron Parklands proposal. Some will be directly employed, while others will have a venue to showcase their skills and talents. This project has the potential to benefit thousands of people. It is imperative that you consider this submission in the context of the above arguments. Please feel free to contact me to discuss further. Kind regards, Yvette Myhill 0438 017 884

P141	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Lisa Barbagallo of Showpony Productions (support)	?Cultural Events Site, Yelgun 09_0028? I am writing in regards to the ?Cultural Events Site, Yelgun 09_0028? and importance of the social capital the North Byron Parklands (Cultural Events Site, Yelgun 09_0028) proposal would bring to the area. The creation and representation of cultural activities such as Splendor In The Grass inspires a raft of civically valuable dispositions ? trust, openness, honesty, cooperativeness, tolerance, and respect and are a superb means of building social capital. Social capital can be built among spectators, performers, and producers and bring so many opportunities to young people in the area. In addition, it is important for the youth to be proud of where they come from. The Parklands proposed cultural event site is something that the youth are behind and should be supported by the local government. I hope the choices made regarding Cultural Events Site, Yelgun 09_0028 are in favour of the site going ahead and bringing Splendor In The Grass back to the region. It is such a positive move for those community groups and will be maximizing the development opportunities and outcomes, providing social cohesion, economic wellbeing and sustainability. North Byron Parklands offers a a sustainable cultural event site for the community to meet together to celebrate, learn, collaborate, and showcase contemporary practices. North Byron Parklands is a good thing and should be supported by the local government! If you speak to anyone these days, getting and keeping a job is high up on the list. Regional areas generally do not have a range of diversified industries to choose from. Parklands is offering meaningful and interesting work, particularly for young people and should be welcomed with open arms. I have seen what a range of other industry developments have offered up to protect the environment. In all cases their activities intrinsically contain much greater environmental risks compared to North Byron Parklands, yet their environmental controls are not even remotely as advanced or detailed. It is obvious that this proponent has thought long and hard about managing its activities in an environmentally and sustainable manner. Bring Splendour home to the Northern Rivers! The econ devlt argument is nonsense :the site is 30km from wonderful Byron Bay, most of the tourist dollars will be kept on site. -Get our music developers to work together and hold Splendour and the Blues Fest on the one site outside of Mullumbimby -we need to protect our cultural heritage and our local community interests not turn the Shire into a tacky Blackpool .We need integrity with our planning and directing the future of the shirre. -I am not opposed to the Splendour Fest per se just the greed of promoters and their bullying tactics to overdevelop and turn a sensitive ecological area into a mega fest site. -Please consider the adverse impacts this will have on the community in the North of the Shire.

P146	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Isha Bywaters ()	To Whom It May Concern:

I am writing in support of the North Byron Shire Parklands? Cultural Events Site (Project Application).

I was born at the Channon, just under 50 kilometres from Byron Bay. Many of my family members live in the Byron Shire and I plan to return to the area in the future. I, like many other Byron Shire locals, have personally gained from the opportunities that Splendour in the Grass has provided.

High housing and living costs and limited employment opportunities make it very difficult for young people to make headway in the Byron Shire. During my late teens and early twenties I was forced to relocate from the area to pursue work in other regions.

I was absolutely thrilled when I discovered that a music festival was being established in Byron Bay. Having attended Homebake at Belongil Fields in 1996 and having worked on a number of other large festivals, I wanted nothing more than to be involved in this festival. In 2001 I worked on the very first Splendour in the Grass festival. Initially I worked just on the festival weekend but as the festival grew I took up part-time employment in the Splendour office. This work became full-time and, finally, I could afford to live in Byron Shire permanently.

I request that the Director General and the NSW Department of Planning keep the economic and employment considerations at the fore when assessing this Project Application. Those members of the community who have the most to lose from the absence of this event in the region are also those who are least likely to access this particular forum and, therefore, are least likely to have a voice in this debate. It is my fear that those who object to the establishment of the North Byron Shire Parklands are not those who need the opportunities that these events bring to our area.

Splendour in the Grass has provided employment to so many people in the Byron Shire. My employment at Splendour in the Grass has provided me with incredible opportunities and I have been employed in various capacities at numerous other Australian festivals. I know that there are many other Splendour in the Grass employees, as well as contractors and volunteers, who have found opportunities through their employment on this festival.

I do not have a direct interest in Splendour in the Grass or the North Byron Shire Parklands. I finished working full-time on Splendour in the Grass in 2006 in order to complete my law degree in Brisbane and the last time that I was involved with the festival (other than as an attendee) was in 2008.

I have now completed my law degree and I work as a lawyer. I currently work in Intellectual Property, Consumer and Technology Law and on a daily basis I draw on the skills that I developed working on Splendour in the Grass. I passionately believe that the residents of Byron Shire have much to gain from the establishment of the North Byron Shire Parklands.

We would be remiss to reject this great opportunity to grow our region in such a creative way.

Your sincerely,

P147	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Shelley Hankins of Big Top Sydney (support)	North Byron Parklands is all about hosting lots of different events, all of which require people to work in a variety of jobs. One event can employ hundreds of people for a period of time and in an area such as Byron such job opportunities are very welcome. We should be doing all we can to make this project happen. North Byron Parklands offers young people the opportunity to interact with the wider community. Being young is all about getting out there and this proposal would provide a quality venue for young people in our region. The North Byron Parklands site has been subject to intensive agricultural activities and land clearing practices for many, many years. The North Byron Parklands will be the first proposed land use that will actually see a huge improvement in environmental outcomes due to planned mass plantings, fauna habitat creation and most importantly no event activities for some 260 plus days a year. This has to be seen as a major positive outcome for the local environment. Name: Shelley Hankins Organisation: Big Top Sydney Address:

P148	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Camilla Nova (object)	I would like to voice my objection to the mega festival site at Yelgun, for several reasons: 1. The site is a rural area where residents live there for the peace and quiet, not to be blasted by the cacophony of noise that pervades the whole atmosphere during such an event. I live approximately 10 km from the site of the Blues Festival in Tyagarah, and hear a pervasive thunder roar whenever it is on. It is like hearing the distant thump of a military engagement, with electric vibrations rolling over the hills. I do not like hearing this for 4 days at Easter, and to live closer would be a nightmare. 2. The site at Yelgun is right next to a wildlife reserve and corridor. Having 12 events with 38000 people and more invading the area cannot help but impact on the flaura and fauna of the area. 3. The mere prospect of having 38,000 people coming to the Byron Shire for 12 and more events a year is a horror story. People come to these events in a party mode, meaning high consumptions of alcohol and drugs. I see the effects of this in my work as a psychologist working with young people. There have been already too many tragedies in the community, as well as the after effects on the young people and their families. I cannot cope with the work I have now - Byron Shire becoming the festival/party town would only increase the toll on all members of the community. 4. The promoters have not been transparent with their community consultation nor with disclosing the real number of days that there would be traffic movement into and out of the site. To set up and break down the mini village they are talking about would take approximately 3 weeks either side of an event, thereby creating extra traffic for MOST of the year.

5. The promoters have tried to by pass the Byron Shire Council with their negotiations and are now talking to State Government, who have no idea of the local issues here. I am not in agreeance that a few people who have a lot of money can so adversely affect the local residents, and dismiss their objections in trying to push through their own self interests. Money is speaking louder than large numbers of concerned residents, and it is time that such blatant disregard of residents stops. One vote should count for one value for all of us, and that includes festival promoters.

6. Have you ever gone to Byron Bay during a music festival? The traffic is horrendous. No one in the Byron Shire goes into Byron Bay at those times unless they absolutely have to. To impose this same situation on the residents of the north of the Shire for more days of the year is objectionable and unwanted.

7. Land values of beautiful properties in the area would decrease. Are the promoters willing to compensate land owners for their loss of value?

8. What truly do we need more festivals for? It is only to make money for a few individuals. It will not positively impact on the income of commercial premises in Byron Bay, as the promoters want to have everything on site - camping, liquor sales, food, merchandise. It will be no advantage to anyone but the promoters.

Please stop this insanity of the Yelgun festival site!!

Regards -

P149	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Glen Goetze of Modular Recordings (support)	Our environment, events, culture and celebration is an amazing reason to go ahead with this proposal. In relation to event management there is no standard manual that an event operator can refer to. Typically successful management of an event is a result of past experience and the refinement of policies and processes. The North Byron Parklands team have been responsible for creating and hosting some of the most successful outdoor music festivals in the country. Having hundreds of thousands of satisfied customers through their turnstiles it is reassuring to know such professionals will be at the helm at the Parklands site. The North Byron Parklands proposal brings so many positive benefits to the northern rivers region that based on planning merit alone, this application must be approved. Whether one considers employment, income generation, environmental protection measures or a massive boost to the regionâ□™s tourism economy, this application exceeds all expectations. On this basis this proposal should be approved by the state government. The model of a green sustainable event space which gives back to its host community is a model we need, particularly if we want to sustain a vibrant creative culture. P150	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Peter Smith (object)	Dear Sirs, Re North Byron Parklands Festival Site. I wish to convey my strong objections to this proposal. I hear much of the concept of the ?Triple bottom line?, being Social, Environmental and Economic factors by which proposals of all kinds ought to be measured. This proposal offers poor returns on all three criteria. SOCIAL: There are a number of Social groups that will be affected if this proposal is permitted to proceed: a) The proximate residents. These people will be adversely affected by NOISE in no small measure. Residents of Crabbes Creek, Wooyung, Yelgun, Billinudgel and in particular Ocean Shores North will be hugely and adversely affected. b) The business community: There will be a small number of businesses that will obviously catch some of the over flow and the sales of items that the organisers have not been able to make available on site, however given the comprehensive retailing enterprise that is proposed, the benefit to the local business will be minimal. c) Motorists: It is clear from the traffic studies that there will be major disturbances to both the users of the Motorway and the local residents. d) The attendees: There are studies available that discuss the alcohol and drug use that takes place at Festivals. I posit that the likelihood of first time or occasional users taking drugs or alcohol to excess is exacerbated in an environment such as this where the attendees will be away from the normal routine and living circumstances, at the same tome that drugs will be more available and with the ?security? of knowing that they will not have to return to their normal life for some days: that is to say that they will not have to go home to their family and friends while experiencing the after effects of a night on drugs.

e) The dislocation of the local residents whose peace and serenity will be severely compromised, the consequent underlying dissatisfaction with their place of residence and the potential outcome of needing or wanting to relocate to an area that as far as possible replicates the sense of community and peace and quiet that they enjoyed back in the day before the festival juggernaut came to their town.

ENVIRONMENTAL:

As has been well discussed and published, the site has been identified as environmentally sensitive, one of the last remaining wildlife corridors between the coast and the hinterland and the habitat of some endangered species. Reports commissioned and paid for by the proponents remarkably indicate that the use of the site for Rock festivals and Doof parties will have little or no adverse effect on the wildlife, disingenuous claims that ought to be treated with the same cynicism latent within these very reports. No amount of specialist reports can mask common sense, which suggests that the use of the site as a rock festival or doof site has no benefits to the native inhabitants.

ECONOMIC:

a) The benefit is only to the promoters.

b) There will be a negative economic affect on local residents being the loss of amenity and disturbance which will put downward pressure on the values of the homes in which they currently enjoy an isolation and serenity that most have gone out of their way to achieve, giving up the benefits of proximity to infrastructure, social facilities, employment for the investment in more qualitative attributes,

c) There will be little positive benefit to the local businesses as the promoters plan to have an integrated site providing all requirements for the attendees, including food and other provisi0ns, cafes, restaurants, bars and cinemas, on site accommodation and camping, all sourced in bulk from major outlets, leaving little benefit to the local businesses and the possibility of a decrease in business and local residents shun the area to avoid the disturbance.

Viewed in a vacuum, the presentation of the site for the promoters intended purpose might seem relatively harmless, if you are seduced by the reports, promises and hyperbole. The reality is that there is no tangible benefit to anyone other than the promoters and substantial detriment to local businesses, residents and not least, the environment.

P151	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Andrew Kidman of NA (object)	I travel on the Tweed Valley Way at least 4 times a week. Whilst I would support 1 Festival a year and would be prepared to be inconvieneced for 1 festival a year. I do not agree with the proposed application of 4 major festivals a year and other events. Tweed Valley Way is a two lane road. Below are the traffic managment plans for the site as stated in the application. "Traffic management plans for the site during 70% and 100% capacity events would be implemented, including ticketing and vehicle inspection, temporary special event speed limit, temporary special event clearways on surrounding roads, facilitation of local traffic, the role and responsibilities of traffic controllers, and traffic contingency plans for dealing with unplanned scenarios." I don't see how this is going to fascillatate local traffic and there is large flow of traffic that frequent this road each day. This will become a nightmare for the people that use this road for their work and recreation. Tweed Valley Way is the only way people that live south of Murwilumbah can access the Pacific Highway. There are a lot of people using this road and it is a dangerous road. I can't see how local people will not be inconvienced by the number of proposed festivals. P152	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Lorrie Cruickshank (object)	I would like to register my strong objection to this proposal. In doing so, I would like to inform you of the reality of living with such an event, and of some of the social and economic consequences of year round tourism on both community and government. I was a resident of Sunrise Beach Estate, Byron Bay, a couple of kilometres from Belongil Fields where this event used to be held. Noise levels were extreme, and went on beyond midnight. (We were 5 kms from the Blues Festival and still badly affected) We were then woken time and again by people talking loudly, or arguing as they made their way back to their vehicles. Bear in mind that everybody is intoxicated and/or drug affected so social consideration is a blind spot. Parking. The applicants will argue that they provided parking. The reality was that hundreds chose to park in our suburb and walk/stagger, rather than pay. Sometimes they even parked across our driveways. Accommodation Despite plenty in the town and nearby camping grounds, many camped in their cars outside our homes ? for the entire festival! Traffic was a nightmare at the best of times, during the Splendour Festival -impossible ? as well as the days before and after. We were housebound. Security was always a concern with a number of strangers camped outside not only our home, but every home. We elected to stay in town despite noise, traffic, parking and invasion, to safeguard our property . Despite the above issues, and the cleanup that ensued, we tolerated it. It was, we figured, only once a year. I?m sure residents of Ocean Shores and Yelgun would not complain either if it was only once a year. The proposal you have before you is for year round festivals. And on a massive, massive scale.

Ocean Shores , the nearest town, has one public toilet. There is not one proper car park at any of our beaches. There is one small motel. There are no foot paths and there is almost no street lighting. In short, infrastructure does not service the residents, let alone ten times our population here in tourists! Whatever claims of parking, accommodation and services the applicants claim to provide, the reality is that the demand for these is borne by the nearest community.

It would be socially and economically irresponsible to impose this on our shire. There is no infrastructure to support them and we already know what the ramifications are ? it is evident in the town of Byron Bay where they have year round tourism. It has become a ?24hr party town.? There is no social amenity for residents.

Holiday Letting in residential areas has destroyed peace and quiet, privacy and security. Worse still, it has fractured the community. This has an economic as well as a social cost. Small services in the name of neighbourliness, now have to be performed by other agencies. Our police, ambulance, hospital and mental health services are permanently overstretched. With the population of the entire shire doubling with each of these events, the need for these services will exponentially increase the cost to the government if this development went ahead.

Our Council officers are constantly being diverted to deal with vandalised toilets, rubbish bins, streetlights and streetscapes. And these kinds of never-ending costs are borne by the ratepayers, not the developers. Just this week there is a plea from Council for information regarding the vandalising and stealing of mature trees. Three out of every five have had to be replaced. The cost is to be borne by the community at large (ie not those who profit from tourism) and staff are becoming demoralised. And the community has had a gutful.

Then there is the vandalising of our dunes in the name of ?private entry? onto our beaches and the threat of flooding and possible catastrophe that that poses. It seems inevitable that people at this site will find the shortest possible route to the beach. Remember that festival goers are a population who are in an altered state and normal social considerations do not prevail.

I am not painting a bleak picture here, merely recounting my own experience and that documented by our local governance. In nearly two decades of observation I have come to the conclusion that there are a few who profit from tourism ? festival or otherwise ? but mostly it the social and economic cost to the host community and increased demand on government services that far, far outweighs any argued benefit.

I urge you to reject this DA.

				Lorrie Cruickshank

Having reviewed North Byron Parklandâ□™s environmental, health and safety management manual it is clear that they have put a lot of energy into assessing and mitigating any potential environmental risks associated with these activities. The work they have done for managing the environment is above and beyond what one would expect for such a low impact activity. North Byron Parklands should be approved because the venue is going to provided a much needed avenue for musicians and artists to express their artistic ability and help earn a living. Too many venues have already closed down in NSW and it is time the government supported musicians and artists and helped them to make a living. North Byron Parklands is likely to be one of the most important venues in Australia. It needs to be approved. The northern rivers area over the past 20 years has been built on the back of the creative arts industry, so it is vital that the government support this industry by promptly approving the North Byron Parklands project.

Musicians and artists are finding it harder to earn a living by way of live performances because so many venues are being closed down around the country. It is time the government supported this industry and one way of showing this support is by approving the North Byron Parklands venue.

Skilling up the region is vital and this proposal delivers in so many ways. It is multi-faceted, delivering high quality events, a cultural centre, sustainability initiatives and ongoing community consultation. The training and work experience opportunities offered by such a proposal are highly valuable to a regional workforce.

P160	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Taylah Jones (support)	I support this application on a number of fronts but particularly on environmental management and social benefits flowing to the community. It is time to support the creative industries which so many people rely on for a living. Most of the jobs on the North Coast rely on industries such as tourism and retail trade. To help expand the employment base there is a strong need to nurture an array of other industries such as artistic and creative industries. North Byron Parklands is a project that will greatly assist in providing a diversity in job prospects and on this basis should be actively supported by government and the wider community. Byron Bay is built on its beautiful natural assets and many tourist attractions yet like many other coastal towns it suffers from seasonal swings. The North Byron Parklands proposal would significantly smooth tourism demand by attracting visitors in traditionally slow times. As tourism is so important to the town and surrounding areas such projects should be openly encouraged.

There is current trend on The Northern Rivers for young adults to move to major cities such as Sydney and Melbourne soon after finishing school. North Byron Parklands provides incentives for the youth to remain in the area by creating new and exciting employment opportunities, such as event management, live sound engineering, and even a career in music!

There is a large risk of flooding in the areas of camping and parking areas. With so many people coming to participate in these festivals, the population of Byron Shire will be double a few times a year. This increase in population will cause an increase in use of public facilities which will tax these public places. Up to 4 mega festivals per year with crowds projected to rise up to 50,000 or more for each festival plus another 4 festivals of up to 10,000 per day and another unlimited number of smaller events and doof parties will more than double the entire population of Byron Shire several times per year taxing amenities, services, beaches and other public places

P173	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from bronte murray (support)	Spelndour in the grass has grown and thrived in Byron and i know that if it was to return home, all of the people who have aided in this growth would be exceptionally happy to see it back in the area of its conception. It would also please most people i know to be able to attend the festival easily without having to travel hours to a new location that is completely alien to them. a permanent home is definitely needed and it's obvious the byron shire is the best place this could be. with thousands of local annual attendees, it would make sense for the festival to have a regular crowd which would create a more comfortable familiar festival environment. P174	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Jerry Cook of Representing self only (object)	The largest event(s) are primarily for young people. After speaking with medical staff & police, some very disturbing news is presented. Even though there is great effort to stop all drugs from entering the event, on site at the gate, the most damaging ones of all, are served by promoters on site, at inflated prices for profits into a few million dollars, that is, Alcohol Drugs (any flavour). This translates, on the ground, to serious damage. This is being kept hidden from public knowledge. Medical staff are forced to provide service to many hundreds of young people from this, such as ones from the age of 12 on up put on iv drips to save their very lives. Others are left on the ground in coma for some time before getting help, there are a number of violent incidents, the drink is also used for spiking damage & rape, the bad behaviour is extended into surrounding neighborhood areas, with all sorts of noisy damage to properties, and local individuals being attacked and abused and is very threatening to an otherwise peaceful area. This has already been shown at the old site.

The police are overwhelmed, and after speaking, in person, with Lismore Base Command, the word was that they would NEVER allow their children to attend this event, and that they were absolutely DISGUSTED with the radical way overuse of alcohol drugs, specifically. Byron Shire Councillors & staff are also equally offended. This had escalated over time.

Other drugs are also found, but none even remotely cause such enormous damage as Alcohol. The next most damaging is "ice"-or methamphetamine. Also, many enter the site loaded before they go in, to avoid the high on site cost or detection. When outside the site the behaviour is also quite bad and unpoliced.

Especially due to the very large numbers, a very serious social and area issue is being ignored. The alcohol drugs specifically cause bad, I don't care, behaviour in the shire we do not need, as well as badly damaging many young people permanently.

When asked to stop this practise, the promoters say NO-it is where we make our real profits, without which we could not do the event!! The profits are into the lower millions-nothing to do with local economy except for suck-in buy offs to swing opinions in their favour.

They do not intend to keep everyone on site, and we will have car camping packing the entire surrounding area, including where I am, a short distance away from the proposed site.

The sheer volume the promoters propose will be impossible to police, and there will be a lot of serious local damage.

The traffic will be backed up for kilometres, and our area will become a constantly abusive parking lot. Many will be forced to move away, quite unfairly, after having been here for many years.

I cannot accept this, and see the proposed event-now more than one proposed as well-with no top end size limits over time- as dramatically not acceptable!! There is more to it than an unwanted money buy off!

There are also a number of other serious problems with this site, such as the proposal to put the main access point right in the middle of a very sensitive wildlife area, and the fact that the area is subject to flooding-a large ditch extends through the main proposed use area even NOW, which STILL gets flooded and would make a disaster for SES to deal with as best they could with thousands camped there, as proposed. The sheer sizes, and continuous use, are a plan for DISASTERS, as proposed.

Even one event allowed on this site will open the door to mind numbing future disasters with promoters plans. The sizes proposed are incredible, twice the size of the old site, OR MORE! An attempted forced developer buy off of the entire area. Long term local populations would be forced out. Democracy?

Planning much smaller events with broader demographics could work by accessing the site from the north, and there could be a ban on the site sale of alcohol drugs, but the whole situation is very delicate at best.

This IS NOT A GOOD SITE FOR HUGE EVENTS! I absolutely DO NOT SUPPORT IT.

I do not make political donations at all to anyone. I am a 70 year old pensioner.

P175	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from William Ballard (support)	One of the big measures that will protect fauna at the North Byron Parklands site is the limiting of events to a minimal number each year. If such a proposal was to operate for 20 weeks a year then they may cause some environmental problems but given that it will only run for 20 days a year and the rest of the time it will be just farm land, then this has to be a strong positive. I know of many businesses that rely on events for a large part of their income. These businesses employ local people and locally based jobs are hard to come by. We should support Parklands as it will be a large employer in the region. How many fantastic cultural events and opportunities has NSW lost to other states, particularly to Queensland and Victoria over the past decade. Lets not make the same mistake again by letting the North Byron Parklands project slip through our fingers. They have the necessary controls, they have an amazing cultural vision and they stand to tip the artistic balance back into the favour of this State. We should all get behind it. P176	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from darren robb (support)	Events are a huge part of the Byron Shire calendar and the area has benefited over the years in so many ways by these well managed shows. Right now there are no venue spaces available for events due to various land use changes and space restrictions. Even the recently acquired event space for the Blues Festival is reported only to ever be used for this one event. The North Byron Parklands site is a once in a generation opportunity to develop a world class event venue that can cater for small and large events and provide the economic, social and environmental benefits that have traditionally flowed from these activities. P177	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Richard Nixon (support)	In recent times visitor day trips to the northern rivers has been declining. Coupled with a downward trend in the average per head tourism spend it is clear that strategies need to be put in place to increase visitor numbers. Projects that can significantly increase tourism numbers in a short space of time include cultural event activities such as those proposed by North Byron Parklands. This business is capable of attracting hundreds of thousands of visitors each year to the northern rivers which will be a huge boom for the area. How many more venues have to close in NSW before people realise that soon there will be nowhere to play live music or undertake live performances. The NSW Government has a responsibility to ensure that well managed live outdoor venues are made available to the people of this state. North Byron Parklands proposal to rejuvenate the Parklands site has lead to the employment of local indigenous bush regeneration teams to plant thousands of trees across their site. This program is an ecellent way to involve the traditional land owners in the area and helps to restore the site and set the foundations for a sustainable event site.

I say bring it on North Byron Parklands! The North Byron Parklands Project willÂ impact the environment positively and should be supported. The preservation of ecological values in and around the Parklands site is an important aspect of North Byron Parklands proposal. The large amount of scientific assessment that has been conducted shows that the site has been heavily degraded over the past number of years and that the proposed fauna and flora management plans will greatly enhance and protect existing identified values on the site. P179	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Zoe Aukeela (support)	It seems they most likely disturbance for the environment will be light and noise and also traffic. Having reviewed North Byron Parklandâ□™s environmental, health and safety management manual it is clear that they have put a lot of energy into assessing and mitigating any potential environmental risks associated with these activities. The work they have done for managing the environment is above and beyond what one would expect for such a low impact activity. I know of many businesses that rely on events for a large part of their income. These businesses employ local people and locally based jobs are hard to come by. We should support Parklands as it will be a large employer in the region.

Positive environmental outcomes are important for any development and one very important outcome offered by the North Byron Parklands proponents is to apply a vegetation management plan across the entire site. Under this plan sections of the site will be restored back to pristine forest cover while others will be treated as managed parklands. Under this treatment very large areas will be planted with low density native trees that will provide connection points for fauna to avoid large pastoral areas and reduce the likelihood of predation during movement across the site. They are not required by law to do this, but do see it as an important environmental outcome.

P180	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Isaac Holtby (object)	I go back to the Wooyung caravan park every 1 or 2 years for the Christmas holidays, and I've always enjoyed the peacefulness and the remoteness of it, I would HATE to see that go away just because of some loud and annoying music events. And in terms of traffic, if people are traveling along that road then it could take them hours to drive through what they could normally drive through in seconds. I've been in Wooyung and TRYING to sleep when there is a doof party going on with only about a thousand people, and it was pretty loud, I cannot possibly imagine how loud a doof part of 50000 people would be, but I don't think I would be able to sleep. If people are deprived of too much sleep they could be deprived of good health, and so therefore through these doof parties peoples lives and health could be affected. These doof parties could also affect peoples hearing. Can't people just enjoy a peaceful holiday, with enough sleep? P181	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Dawn Gill (object)	I strongly object to this submission for many reasons. 1. suitability of this land for events?.why was this parcel of land bought for this purpose when it is classed totally unsuitable..?? The land is not zoned for this development and the owners were very well aware of this before they purchased the land. The previous application was rejected in the Land and Environment Court under the 7kHabitat Protection Zoning and nothing has changed in this application except they now intend to make matters worse by increasing crowd numbers and frequency of events

2. the flood issue?.so much can be underwater and a ridiculous contingency plan. Do we as nearby landowners need to help the SES rescue partygoers..??

3. our wildlife corridor?the poor defenceless animals that will be scarred for life (if they live)..!!

4. This exceeds the limit set out in the Byron Shire Council Events Policy?.why so many events per year..?

5. The Bluesfestival site owners, Tyagarah when through all the normal Council approvals but NBP has to revert to overriding Council and going directly to the State Government. Their proposal has already been refused in the Land and Environment Court, then it is now back in the State Labour Government's Planning Department. Why..???

6. Traffic problems?.how are residents to go about their normal daily routine when they cannot exit their own road because of gridlock traffic conditions..?? (Traffic at the Splendour Festival held at Woodford 2010 was backed up for over 6km. That will close down all local roads.)

7. the noise issue?.what can we say as nearby residents, obviously not what Jessica Ducrou has stated ?who would want to live next door to a festival site.?? and yet still try and force this submission through.

P182	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from sabina dods of starfish takeaway ,brunswick heads (object)	I completely object to the proposed Spledour festival site being at Yelgun.It is so misleading to even call it North Byron Parklands. It is adjacent to a very busy highway and all patrons who will be leaving,will be doing it by car.When it was in Byron,at least they could walk back into town.There is no hospital close,access for fire brigade and emergency services would be very difficult,given the ridiculous number of patrons they intend to have. The number of events planned and the increase in number is driven by greed and the so called donations to the community are tokenistic considering the amount of money they will make out of there events and the massive upheaval to our lives and community. I realize that the State government could make a lot of money out of the G.S.T that it would receive but are you so motivated by money that you would forget that this festival will totally destroy an enviroment that needs protecting. Animals and humans cannot be subjected to the volume of the music that will be produced at this site.People living in and around the area will need to sleep with earplugs and I can tell you this firsthand as I have worn them when I attended Splendour in Byron Bay a few years ago,as I wore earplugs at the festival.I do not understand why they bought this site they obviously thought they could get the rules changed,as previous developers have failed and onsold the land to Splendour inc.my partner and I have seen no increase in incomes from these festivals as food etc. is provided on site. They say they support local youth,but there are no youth concession tickets and people under 18 have to be accompanied by an adult,so that means that a lot of kids around here cannot afford to go and end up jumping the fence and then be breaking the law. Patrons will also build campfires and this will be impossible to monitor. There have been some extensive fires in this area without there being a festival her and there is serious possibilities of loss of life.I can only pray that you do not approve this festival. I have seen other developers go to the State government when they have been refused by the local council and The Land and Enviroment Court and then receive approval.Think of the enviroment.Think of the residents and the tourist who stay away when festivals are on.Families and day trippers avoid festvals and all the cues and massive traffic conjestion.Lastly my partner and I have been discussing our future and the future of our business should this massive festivals appliction be approved and we will seriously contemplate moving. This would mean starting another business elsewhere and we employ local youth during peak and off season as well as a few permanent staff. I have lived in Byron next to illegal holiday letting and moved to the north of the shire to get away from schoolies and the whole party scene as have many others. They,Splendour should hold there festival at the same site as th Blues festival and not be so greedy and expect to have four festivals. The money does not flow into the community.It trickles in and those selling alcohol and drugs will definitely benefit. I am not some close minded person saying this. I have a seventeen year old daughter and know that she has been solicited to buy llicit drugs,such as Ecstacy at Splendour ,as have a lot of people who attend. Finally,we do not need to encourage more of this partying atmosphere in our Shire.I have lived on the coast since 1981. I have studied Music at Southern Cross University and been employed as a musician. I love music.It is my greatest passion,but we have a fabulous Mullumbimby Music Festival,low key,and the Blues Festival.If they want to have Splendour they need to meet with the people who run the Blues Festival and work something out.They are asking you to change the rules for them.You create these zonings for reasons,but they want you to make an exception for them and if you do you will be destroying the lives of those who live in the north of the shire forever!!!!!!!!!!

P183	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Georgia Brook (support)	While the North Byron Parklands has some valuable forest cover it must be recognised that much of this cover resembles a patch quilt, the result of decades of agricultural use. To improve the value and function of these disparate forest blocks there is a much needed planting program similar to that proposed by the North Byron Parklands people to join and reconnect the vegetation. This one action of mass plantings will absolutely improve the environmental value across and adjacent to the proposal. If you look at the multitude of government regional growth forecasts for areas such as the northern rivers it is plain to see that will a rapidly expanding population there is a strong need for a diverse and stable employment base. Jobs will be critical to the longer term sustainability of the region and therefore when projects such as North Byron Parklands come along they should be embraced and assisted by state and local governments. The North Byron Parklands has been subjected to decades of intensive cattle farming and sugar cane crops. With respect to the cattle, they have severely degraded the understory of most of the forest blocks on the site. The Parklands proposal includes a commitment to fence off many of the forest blocks which will allow a much needed fauna understory to regrow and which will provide habitat for many vertebrate creatures.

P184	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from tim manton of Manton Management (support)	The North Byron Parklands people have obviously spent a lot of time developing up systems and processes to manage the environment in which they operate. It impressive to see that during events they propose to have a wildlife rescue crew in place in the unlikely event that an animal is in need of help. What other proposal has this level of thought and detail when it comes to considering the health of the environment? The list of events that each of the owners of North Byron Parklands have held over the past ten years is absolutely staggering in terms of venues, numbers of patrons and dealing successfully with a range of regulatory authorities. Such experience will provide a significant edge when events are held at North Byron Parklands and will no doubt make for a succession of successful events. From Tweed Heads to Evans Head most of the business activity revolves around tourism. To have a cultural arts and music venue such as North Byron Parklands which will bring tens of thousands of visitors to the area and with the vast majority seeking accommodation over multiple nights is a huge economic windfall. Such a proposal would seamlessly add to the already diversified tourism offerings of the region and should be approved. A business that combines ecology with events and community giving. P190	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Tom Williams of Seven Network (support)	There is a real need to reverse the current trend of closing music and artistic venues around the State of NSW. Music and arts are so important to the health and vibrancy of a community and I urge you to approve the North Byron parklands venue. The current population of the Northern Rivers is approximately 294,000 people, and is anticipated to increase to approximately 376,000 people by 2036. Such an increase in population requires a suite of stable employers. North Byron Parklands can play a significant role in providing jobs to people in this region. North Byron Parkland events are not only for the youth, they?re for the whole community, young and old. Events can rejuvenate and reconnect us with our elders and our juniors. I have been supporting and attending Splendour In The Grass for over 6 years. The organisers of the event have always provided everything they can for all attending to ensure a safe, protective, enjoyable and culturally significant experience for people of all ages. My experiences have always been very postitive and I'm alarmed to think that the authorities concerned with these matters of interest contradict the feelings within the community. Byron Bay holds a special place in all our hearts and we all want to see it prosper and succeed environmentally and economically. Splendour In The Grass and it's organisers do a wonderful job and I fully support all their actions and interest. Music needs to be heard and Splendour is the best place in the World to hear it from.

P191	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Libby Valentine (object)	I am writing to object to the planned proposal for the festival site at Yelgun, reasons listed below: Festivals 12 months per year - too many Festival capacity 50,000, camping capacity 9,000 - not enough beds (where do they expect to accommodate the extra 41,000 people?) No infrastructure to support the festivals i.e no transport, accommodation, etc Inappropriate site environmentally (last remaining wildlife corridor connecting hinterland to coast) interruption to local traffic on a regular basis (12 months of festivals, plus bump in and bump out periods - traffic heading south will be diverted to Brunswick heads, a diversion of approx 15 kms out of the way for many residents of South Golden beach and Fern Beach, adding another 20 - 30 mins onto the journey

Noise pollution carrying across into residential areas late into the night, 12 months a year.

Increase in population to the area, including putting stress on areas unable to support the large increase in population i.e local beaches (1 public toilet)etc

Increase in pollution

Loss of public amenity and peaceful lifestyle

This festival site has been promoted as being beneficial to the Byron Shire as a whole, when really it is a money making exercise only, with very little benefits to our community, and many people opposed to it's existence. The populations closest to the festival site would experience a very large disruption to their lives on every level.

This is not really benefitting the community at all, but rather benefitting the wallets of the promoters.

Thanks for taking the time to consider this objection.

P192	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Anna Butler (support)	One of the most significant benefits for the environment coming out of this application is the proponentâ□™s willingness to transfer a net 28ha of very high quality bushland to National Parks that would see an expansion of the Billinudgel Nature Reserve. Ignoring the significant value of the land proposed to be handed over, it has to be acknowledged that this is probably the only opportunity to expand this nature reserve as it is bound by private landowners who are unlikely to give away their land. Apart from extensive consultation with indigenous groups and various elders the North Byron Parklands group has already established a long history of working with and employing local indigenous bush regeneration teams to plant thousands of trees across their site. This tree planting program has been a great way to involve traditional land owners in helping to restore what is currently quite a degraded site. The Parklands project is going to attract tens of thousands of people to stay in the wider area. Many of these attendees will extend their stay in the region before and after various events and this will generate a direct positive impact for accommodation providers as well as food and beverage establishments within the local area and region. So many people are employed in the tourism industry so having a world class events venue would be extremely advantageous. P193	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Christina Fendel (object)	I object to the proposal for the Yelgin site to be used for cultural events as proposed by Splendor in the Grass. It is not an appropriate site due to its proximity to the nature reserve, the population surrounding the area and the addition of another large festival site in the Byron Shire. It should either remain in Woodford or use the same site as the Blues Festival. P194	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Catherine Johnson (object)	1: In 2009, the applicants were stopped from proceeding with a trial festival at Yelgun by a ruling from the Land & Environment Court concerning the roads they planned to build on the part of their land zoned as 7(k) habitat. THEIR CURRENT PROPOSAL IGNORES THAT COURT RULING AND CALLS FOR ROADS IN THE SAME PLACE. IN FACT, THIS PART OF THE PROPOSAL IS IN DIRECT CONTRAVENTION TO A SPECIFIC WARNING THE COURT GAVE CONCERNING ANY FUTURE PROPOSAL THE GROUP MIGHT LODGE. Can they just do this in flagrant disregard for the laws of this land? 2: The applicants have engaged in minimal community consultation with the people in the shire and have made no effort to respond to our very genuine concerns. What they HAVE done is try to rally support by placing adverts in the local newspapers but without giving the facts of the case to locals who are unfamiliar with the details. They have tried to pull the wool and pretend that they are being badly done to.

In fact, it was when they discovered how much opposition there was to their ideas for a permanent festival site that they applied to the state as a Major Project under Part 3A guidelines of the Planning Act. This Part 3A business has been called into serious question because it takes the decision making completely out of the hands of the local Council and community and puts it solely in the hands of the Planning Minister.

THIS DECISION SHOULD BE MADE BY OUR LOCAL COUNCIL, NOT THE STATE MINISTER FOR PLANNING.

3: THE PROPOSAL ABSOLUTELY VIOLATES BYRON SHIRE COUNCIL'S EVENTS POLICY WHICH CALLS FOR NO MORE THAN TWO MAJOR MUSIC EVENTS IN THE SHIRE PER YEAR.

The Splendour promoters want four extremely large events, others that would be of the size Splendour used to be, and unlimited "minor" events. It is not clear what those "minor" events might be, but they are likely to include "doof" parties and other noisy events that will also disturb the wildlife and the human neighbours. The proposal also goes against Byron Council?s Tourism Management Plan (2009) that calls for overcoming Byron Shire?s ?party town? image.

Can you tell me why the NSW Government should be allowed to override the wishes of the local council who we elect to presumably represent locals' wishes? The current mayor and council were elected on a mandate to block this proposal. This is most unjust.

5: Camping on site will be available for only some of the festival goers. Some may pay for accommodation elsewhere, but many will look for cheap alternatives such as camping in their cars and vans near the site. That means the people of Yelgun, Crabbes Creek, North Ocean Shores, Billinudgel, Wooyung, Brunswick Heads, etc. will have to deal with illegal camping on their streets, intrusion on their properties, etc.

People who live near the Reserve see this kind of behaviour regularly in the Reserve, along with motorbikes, dogs, and kids playing with matches; We will inevitably see more of the same if 50,000 people are right next door to the Reserve for days. Byron Shire Council rangers and NPWS rangers are woefully understaffed. There is no way they will be able to patrol the sensitive areas adequately.

The applicants' stated plans for managing traffic snarls, fire risks, flooding, and acid sulphate soils are woefully inadequate.

The people who live near the site will be at serious risk for these reasons, too. The increased traffic and mushrooming volume of people in the area especially concern me as Ocean Shores and Brunswick Heads are sleepy little dormitory agglomerations not equipped to cope with large volumes of additional visitors ~ even if they do bring some additional $$ to the area. This should NOT be a reason to allow this project to go ahead.

The promotors are solely prompted by financial gain without taking into account the wishes of local residents or the biodiversity of the area.

How can you even consider reviewing this petition which was already thrown out once before. I urge you to use reason in this matter.

P196	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Michael Howard (support)	North Byron Parklands have already undertaken a number of detailed fauna and flora surveys across the proposed site. On top of this they have now committed to undertaking environmental audits for all major events (before, during after). Such information will be very valuable in terms of fine tuning the current environmental policies and procedures and will dramatically reduce any associated environmental pressures. As far as most events go in terms of protecting the environment, they put in place things like recycling bins and the like. North Byron Parklands is proposing a bunch of environmental controls that go way above and beyond such simple measures. I am extremely impressed with the environmental programs they are going to commit to and have every confidence that the environment will be more than adequately protected. P198	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Rae Harvey of Crucial Music (support)	North Byron Parklands staff have already developed a solid working relationship with National Parks ground staff, local indigenous bush regeneration teams and local council ecology staff. To date North Byron Parklands has planted thousands of trees adjacent to the Billinudgel Nature reserve, installed dozens of nest boxes to improve habitat opportunities and removed thousands of metres of barbed wire fencing to reduce impediments to fauna movement. These actions have been completed prior to asking for any sort of approval for use of the land as an outdoor venue. What is truly impressive is the number of environmental programs this organisation is proposing should the application be approved. North Byron Parklands ability to generate new and exciting employment opportunities will encourage young adults to remain working and living in the region instead of packing up and moving to a large city seeking employment. It is important to maintain the balance of ages in the community. This proposal must be approved! Young people need to gather together to celebrate. Young people will gather regardless of cultural event venues. Itâ□™s up to us as adults to decide that we want to support venues that support young people.

As time progresses and we all grow up a little with our environmental outlook, we will recognise that being successful in business can also mean being successful with the ecology and environment in which your business operates. Those in the position to bring about such change should be encouraged, not demonised. Byron and the surrounding areas relies substantially on a range of small businesses and cottage industries to employ the people that live in this community. There are not many large employers such as what North Byron Parklands would become should it be approved. I think we need to approve and support these types of projects in regional areas to ensure there are enough job choices available to people. There has been a rapid decline in jobs, tourism and culture in the Northern Rivers over recent years. Proposals like North Byron Parklands are the answer to these problems. We need to support creative industries that promise to provide so much for the community. Approve the North Byron Parklands proposal.

The number and scale of the proposed festivals is too large. The surrounding towns and communities will be adversely impacted by traffic and noise on over 20 days per year to start with and, as stated by the developers, they will seek to increase the number of events over time. ? Unacceptable environmental impacts. ? I support there being a purpose built festival venue, modeled on the Woodford festival site in Queensland, where there are only 2 major festivals per year. There is already a festival site at Tyalgum, used for the Blues and Roots Festival, and this could also be used for Splendour in the Grass and that would save duplication of resources and impacts. ? As a resident of Byron Shire I object to my home being used for the purposes of making large amounts of money to the detriment of the people who live here. P203	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Darcy Condon (support)	To the Department of Planning, Re: Cultural Events Site, Yelgun 09_0028 I support the application for the proposed North Byron Parklands cultural and events venue. I am a resident of South Golden Beach, which is located around two kilometres from the proposed event site. I believe this will provide a sufficient buffer between the event site and the closest residential neighbourhoods of South Golden Beach, North Ocean Shores and Fern Beach. The positives from this proposal far outweigh any potential negative impacts, which through proper plans of management can be either negated or mitigated. With one child attending Ocean Shores Community Pre-school and another at Ocean Shores Primary School, I am especially happy to see that the North Byron Parklands Community Grants Program will distribute over $100,000 annually to local community groups when the Parklands is operating at capacity. This will surely prove a boon to the abovementioned school and pre-school, as well as other local community groups, all of which have limited fundraising avenues when compared to their counterparts in Byron Bay and Mullumbimby who can draw on many more businesses for donations and support.

The environmental initiatives proposed for the site are also welcomed, as it is unlikely that this degraded farmland will receive the same care and attention otherwise. The North Byron Parklands project is an innovative and acceptable use of this very large, former grazing and cane-growing property. If the NBP proposal doesn?t proceed then it?s likely that the land will revert to less enviro-friendly uses, or could possibly be subdivided into another cookie-cutter seaside suburb. In that eventuality, it is extremely unlikely that another party would step up to continue the environmental regeneration works being undertaken by the North Byron Parklands? group. Such a lost opportunity would be a dreadful shame.

Given time, this project will show that being successful in business can also mean being successful with the ecology and environment in which a business operates. Those in the position to implement such innovative initiatives should be encouraged, not obstructed.

My children were thrilled to be able to plant seedlings at two of the North Byron Parklands? tree planting events and now keep a close eye on the progress of the forest they helped to create in a part of the wildlife corridor that was previously just an open paddock. By planting these trees and watching them grow, my children already have a clear and practical understanding of the proponents? vision for the future of this property.

As they grow up, I would like my children to have the option of either staying in their home region or of at least having a home region that is worth returning to for a regular visit. Part of the vibrancy of Byron Shire is that it has a good representation of young people, unlike other rural shires throughout Australia where the demographic is much older due to younger people having to leave to find employment or a more interesting lifestyle befitting their age group. These young people stay around Byron Shire because there is always something to see and do. Removing Splendour (and the potential for other events) from the local social and cultural mix will make the Byron Shire a much less interesting place to live or visit and the end result will be the departure of those young people.

The Parklands project will also open up much greater opportunities for local musicians and artists to gain exposure on a large scale. Already local musicians, DJs, performance artists and other creative artisans from the NSW Northern Rivers enjoy the support of Splendour In the Grass, but with the potential for other events the members of the local creative community will have many more opportunities to showcase their talents.

I am also aware of many local people who rely on casual employment from festivals but who now have to travel far and wide ? and mostly interstate - to enjoy regular work. This will enable them to gain further work in their home region. Another positive spinoff will be the experience and training on offer. Young people will get the chance to be involved in the organisation of events which will enable them to learn new skills that will open up the possibility of careers in the creative arts, events or music industries.

It is also obvious and apparent that numerous local businesses also benefit, either directly or indirectly, from the presence of events in the shire. Many businesses in Byron Bay struggled this past winter when the festival relocated to Woodford Qld. Those saying they enjoyed the quiet times this year are short-sighted and cannot see the decay and decline that will follow the removal or rejection of economic generators such as the Splendour In the Grass festival and the associated North Byron Parklands venue.

The benefits from hosting Splendour In the Grass and other events at North Byron Parklands will be spread along the Byron and Tweed Coasts, where there are numerous accommodation, dining and tourism options. Many who attend Splendour in the Grass and other events in Byron Shire spend time in the area before and after those events seeking other activities as part of their extended stay.

Byron Bay itself is a recognised iconic tourism destination that has thousands of beds in a wide range of accommodation outlets specifically designed to cater for the tourism market. When those beds remain empty for much of the year then the town should be very nervous. It is tourism that this town has to thank for many of its facilities and attractions. What other country town of around 9,000 residents has two cinemas (one a multi-screen complex), four music venues attracting top-class touring acts from around the country and overseas, numerous high quality cafes and restaurants, a large range of fashion stores, spas, a multitude of massage and other natural health practitioners, a range of art galleries presenting established and emerging artists and a myriad of other attractions such as ocean kayaking, scuba diving, whale watching, deep sea fishing and much, much more. Tourists help drive all of these attractions and once visitor numbers are allowed to decline so will these attractions and facilities with an accompanying drop in employment in those and other associated areas such as hospitality and accommodation.

For all of the above reasons, I strongly urge you to approve the North Byron Parklands project.

Yours sincerely,

Darcy Condon

Even if it is considered just based on employment opportunities it should be approved. Regional unemployment is a massive issue and I think that the government needs to help businesses to operate in what is already a very tough business climate. Therefore we should be getting right behind this type of proposal. Skilling up the region is vital and this proposal delivers in so many ways. It is multi-faceted, delivering high quality events, a cultural centre, sustainability initiatives and ongoing community consultation. The training and work experience opportunities offered by such a proposal are highly valuable to a regional workforce. One of the things that really impresses me about the North Byron Parklands proposal is the level of community consultation they have undertaken. From public planting days to environmental forums, site tours to newsletters and letter box drops, these guys have demonstrated a strong willingness to communicate and listen to the community. I feel they have shown that they will more than adequately manage a variety of events at this site in a professional and sensitive manner.

The local community needs the festival, as it offers a huge amount of business for local shop owners, pubs, hotels, motels and camping grounds. Many of these local business will feel great financial pressure if Splendour in the Grass does not return to the region. The North Byron Parklands project is an innovative and acceptable use of this very large, former grazing and cane-growing property. If the NBP proposal doesnâ□™t proceed then itâ□™s likely that the land will revert to those uses, or could possibly be subdivided into another cookie-cutter seaside suburb. Who will continue the environmental regeneration works being undertaken by the North Byron Parklandsâ□™ group? No-one. That would be a terrible lost opportunity. Name: jOY LUKE

P209	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Ben Kirkwood of Byron Beach Cafe (object)	I want to give my support to North Byron Parklands application. I Believe this event is very important to our local economy, our cultural diversity and in terms of regional tourism. Splendor in the grass is one of the best run more well organized and profession events I have seen done in this area and is a huge asset to the region. My business suffered a 20% downturn when Splendor moved to Woodford and the flow on effect from other local businesses being effected is still being felt in our cafe. P210	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Ned Howells-Whitaker of GO1 (support)	North Byron Parklands have already undertaken a number of detailed fauna and flora surveys across the proposed site. On top of this they have now committed to undertaking environmental audits for all major events (before, during after). Such information will be very valuable in terms of fine tuning the current environmental policies and procedures and will dramatically reduce any associated environmental pressures. Job opportunities are a hot topic on the north coast. If North Byron Parklands is not allowed to operate in Byron Shire then these jobs will be lost to another region willing to approve this project. The creation of local jobs is a very important one. It is vitally important to the local tourism industry that the North Byron Parklands project is approved. This single project is expected to attract hundreds of thousands of visitors to the region each and every year. The flow on effects to the tourism operators will be significant and will also help to grow much needed jobs for the region.

North Byron Parklands will add incentive to the young people of the Northern Rivers to stay in the local area. This proposal will see a number of new employment opportunities for the youth in the community including event management, traffic control, ticketing and more. The region needs to provide more jobs for young people so they all donâ□™t move to cities.

Re: Development Application Number: 09_0028, Cultural Events Site- Yelgun.

I wish to write in strong support of the development application for the cultural events site proposed at the North Byron Parklands. The proposal represents a commitment to sustainable development and is key in setting industry example both from a development and an events management perspective.

This proposal and the vast variety of sustainable initiatives that have been incorporated into the proposal, form an important benchmark for sustainable events across the country.

I currently work in regulating the environmental health components of events and the concepts proposed for this site, provides a much wider response to sustainability concerns, than any event that I have seen to date. What is clear is that the works undertaken on this site provide more than a token response to environmental protection, and further work to increase the environmental value of the site. I expect such initiatives would provide a much greater outcome for the site, than would otherwise be provided from other residential or commercial development options. Particularly given the current initiatives are voluntarily, based on a genuine awareness and concern for the environment. These initiatives show long term commitment and may also serve as an illustration to other event organisers on the possibilities for sustainable event management. The proliferation to events across the country is endless.

The benefits to the local and regional economy are additionally wide spread as $192.6 million is expected to be injected on an annual basis. To add to this, the site proposes to create a number of full time positions and further a whole raft of roles in which young people will be provided with training and development opportunities. The benefits to both the individual (professionally and personally) and the social cohesion of the community at large, is vast. The tourism industry, which is so key to the economy of the local area, is also set to gain as a result of this proposal. Additionally the approval of this application will ensure the local area remains attractive to artists of all genres, generating further income for the area. The commitment to social sustainability at this level by this development is encourageable and should be supported.

I strongly support the development proposal of a cultural events site at the North Byron Parklands. The ethos behind the proposal is at the forefront of the development industry and event management and further presents an opportunity for the state and local area to show a commitment to a sustainable environment, social fabric and the economy.

Thank you.

P212	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Theresa Holtby (object)	I write to register my strong objection to the project application detailed above. Although I live overseas, I grew up in the Wooyung valley, and I return to the area affected by the proposal for family holidays at least every two years, sometimes every year. I object to the application on the following grounds: 1. There is already a very similar facility at Tyagarah. The area does not need two such sites. 2. The wildlife of the Billinudgel Nature Reserve would be adversely affected by a festival site. We (humans in general, and the relevant authorities in particular) have a responsibility to protect and preserve the Reserve, not to cave in to commercial pressures and sell out the defenceless animals and plants who live there. Allowing this project to go ahead would make a joke of the protection the designation 'nature reserve' is supposed to offer. 3. I was in the area one New Year's Eve when an illegal doof party occurred - 2004, I think. It was extremely frightening, especially for my children. We didn't sleep all night. Young people out of their minds on drugs wandered around not only the site itself, but the environs for a km or more around it, attacking other people's property, trespassing, and behaving in menacing ways. Allowing such a site to go ahead threatens traditional family holiday makers with the danger of fire, abuse, and assault. Claims that drugs will not be allowed sound good but I simply don't believe they can be realistically implemented. 4. The area cannot support the traffic required to transport 50, 000 (or even 10 000) people in, without causing extreme disruption to normal traffic. 5. The proposed site is prone to flooding, any move to raise parts of the site to counteract this would make the flooding problems of the surrounding areas even worse than they already are.

6. The majority of the people who now live in or regularly holiday in the vicinity of the site love it for its quiet natural beauty. The festivals proposed would greatly disrupt that beauty, not only with objectionable noise and drug-affected behaviours, but simply by increasing the number of people in the area to levels not supported by the infrastructure.

With all of the above in mind, I implore you not approve this application.

Sincerely,

Theresa

P213	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Harley Graham of Harley Graham Architects (support)	NSW Department of Planning

The local indigenous stakeholders do not object the North Byron Parklands proposal. There is actually an ancient Aboriginal meeting place situated in the local area that contains the Parkland site. This site will be a cultural meeting place for all Australians.

In the past the Splendour in the Grass festival has provide young adults with high level training in many areas, plus, supported creative youth initiatives like Splendid. These opportunities offered to the young community are truly invaluable to our region.

While it has to be recognised that the recently upgraded Pacific Highway and the existing Tweed Valley Way represent the biggest barrier to fauna migration in an east-west direction, the owners of North Byron Parklands have committed to improving the currently degraded wildlife corridor in a number of ways. Putting aside the fact that they have already planted over 7,000 trees in the corridor area and removed large quantities of noxious weeds, their vegetation management plan will dramatically improve vegetation cover and thereby improve species movement opportunities through the further planting of endemic trees. This is a huge positive.

It would be a disaster for youth in the area to once again feel marginalised by the ageing population who seem to be intent on creating one big retirement village on the far north coast of NSW.

Yours Faithfully

P216	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from margie bauer (support)	It is really important to note that any environmental pressures will be greatly reduced as a result of only using a percentage of the site for events. The areas that they will use are the grassy open spaces meaning that no activities will occur in bush land or forest blocks. It is just another example of good environmental management. I know of many businesses that rely on events for a large part of their income. These businesses employ local people and locally based jobs are hard to come by. We should support Parklands as it will be a large employer in the region. I know so many people that will benefit from the North Byron Parklands proposal. I believe music is a part of meodern culture and society and Splendour in the Grass hosts such a wide range of music and artists that is such a great opportunity for locals to have the chance to see and to attract visitors to our area. I strongly believe that by North Byron Parklands using this site for these events that they will put the effort into environmental and conservation. I think this is a positive way to use coastal land that is already in a developed area and that would most likely only ever be used for cheap housing develpments by big developers . For this reason having this land as an event and cutural site it will protect the area from overdevelopment and add interest and diversity to the area. I strongly support this proposal. North Byron Parklands proposed event site will provide a wide variety of employment opportunites to the reagion that is said to increase as the years go on. North Byron Parklands require staff to maintain and manage the event site plus each event organistaion will be looking to the local comunity for employees for their events.

I honestly do not think there is any other event venue in Australia, let alone NSW, that has so much going for it. Positioned in beautiful Byron Bay this incredible venue will stimulate so many other supportive industries to invest and grow the creative industries sector. This sector along with tourism is the life blood of regional areas such as northern NSW and I cannot see any sensible reason why it should not be approved.

I manage an accommodation business in Byron Bay and it is of great financial consequence to us that the festival stays in the area. The time of year the show is on is during our off peak season. The influx during the 5 days it is on allows us to survive the down time in this very seasonal town of Byron. The demographic of the people who stay with us all seem to be very respectful and polite and we have never had any trouble from the people who come and enjoy the festival. Having been to festivals all over the world i can also say it is the best run and most environmentally aware festival i have ever been too. P223	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Marlene Yen (support)	Dear Sir / Madam ?Cultural Events Site, Yelgun 09_0028? The regionally significant economic, employment, socio-cultural and broader community benefits associated with the Splendour in the Grass festival remain an increasingly valuable asset that this event brings to Byron-Tweed and beyond. Contributions in these areas have grown substantially over the last 9 years and will continue to do so, if not in northern NSW then hopefully elsewhere. However it is clear that Northern NSW is particularly well suited and in need to reap the benefits that Splendour brings to it.

Aside from these obvious and immediately tangible benefits, the enviromental arguments against this proposed relocation to Yelgun just do not stack up. To suggest environmental impacts will outweigh potential environmental gain is, in our opinion, a ludicrous distortion of the realities on the ground, even more so in the context of decades of previous environmental disturbance via grazing, the proposed environmental enhancements to the Marshalls Ridge wildlife corridor, the expansive veg mgt plans, the proposed nature of the site usage (scale, frequency and impact footprint), the expansion of the Billinudgel nature reserve, and the environmental education benefits to a wide number of worthy .

We trust the Government will see this substantial merit across so many facets of society, and make a favourable decision based on these all too obvious facts.

P224	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from David Chatfield of Handsome Tours (support)	I just heard about the proposed North Byron Parklands and got instantly excited. What better way to show the beauty Byron Bay has to offer? The current population of the Northern Rivers is approximately 294,000 people, and is anticipated to increase to approximately 376,000 people by 2036. Such an increase in population requires a suite of stable employers. North Byron Parklands can play a significant role in providing jobs to people in this region. The environmental assessments completed for the North Byron Parklands proposal identify a number of threatened species which in the most part are winged creatures. It is most likely (based on research elsewhere) that these creatures will move away from any light and noise disturbances for no longer than for the period they occur. This is particularly true if there are specific food resources available on the North Byron Parklands site. So, once an event is finished it is more than probably that these animals will return and enjoy the quietude that will prevail at this site for the vast majority of the year. The environmental standard from this manual provides a range of measures designed to protect the environment. Given that the activity in question is low impact the environmental management of the site will easily achieve positive benefits for the environment. This proposal brings in new hope to Byron Bays local economy, small businesses that currently struggle will thrive on the additional revenue.

Tourism is really the back bone of of regional areas such as the Northern Rivers. This proposal will not only boost tourism but it will boost the creative industries sector and encourage other supportive industries to invest in the creative industries sector creating growth in the area. P228	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from mish Moran of seesaw signs (support)	The reasons for bringing splendour home are many and varied. Bellow are just 2. As a music lover splendour is one of only 2 times each year that we get see brilliant world class and local acts - who would never come to Byron otherwise - all in our home town. As a local business owner, Splendour employ our service for many months prior to the festival as well during the festival itself. This is often a much need boost to business over the quiet winter months. The amount of people the festival brings to town is also an amasing boost of wealth to the service and retail industry who are also hit hard during the quiet non-tourist season. Splendour generates business not only for accommodation, and retail but also for the restaurant industry due to people not only wanting to eat out and visit the pubs during the weeks prior to, during and after the festival, but they also employ local restaurant business for their stalls and for wait/bar staff at the festival. Also, most importantly, Splendour are super prompt payers!! P229	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Benjamin Dierikx of Individual (object)	As a long term resident of the Tweed-Byron Shire it strikes me as absurd to place a festival ground in the middle of a nature corridor and flood plain. On these grounds alone the development should not be allowed to proceed. However, beyond the obvious there lies a social implication that while not easily measured in rushed SIA that conflate economy with society and reduce its measure to simple dollar terms, the social impact of the introduction of such large transient populations, with their drug and alcohol culture, would be far reaching and in no way a positive contribution to the permanent local communities living here. Having worked, studied and taught in the tourist industry for many years, both in Australia and abroad I would like to bring to your attention an element of the social impact such a development will inevitably bring to our area. Here I am not talking simply the costs and pressures to local health and law enforcement, but rather an episodic cultural shift in the local demography that by its very purpose is not moving into the area through any interest in the area and its inhabitants perse. Rather, there will be a large population of people who have no interest in the area itself, only the artificial cultural spectacle on offer. The kind of disposition of indifference to the local community and geographical surrounds constitutes the introduction of a value system not in keeping with that of permanent residents. Its presence will be felt in many arenas but most worryingly as a subcultural option for the youth growing up here. In saying this I would like to contrast this kind of visitor to the area from those who come to stay in hotels, motels, caravan parks and camping grounds in so much as this latter group have come to the area for its own sake. On these grounds I oppose the proposed development. P231	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Matt Nielsen of Hello Pavement (support)	I have been to many outdoor event sites over the past number of years but have never come across a venue that has taken so much effort to develop and implement so many environmental programs. When events are not being staged at North Byron Parklands, there will be reafforestation and noxious weed removal activities. When there are events at this site they will need to comply with a bunch of strict environmental policies and procedures. If only other venues could take a leaf out of these guyâ□™s book. Apart from extensive consultation with indigenous groups and various elders the North Byron Parklands group has already established a long history of working with and employing local indigenous bush regeneration teams to plant thousands of trees across their site. This tree planting program has been a great way to involve traditional land owners in helping to restore what is currently quite a degraded site. The northern rivers area over the past 20 years has been built on the back of the creative arts industry, so it is vital that the government support this industry by promptly approving the North Byron Parklands project.

Musicians and artists are finding it harder to earn a living by way of live performances because so many venues are being closed down around the country. It is time the government supported this industry and one way of showing this support is by approving the North Byron Parklands venue.

This proposal is a no brainer for the young. The jobs are vital, not just at North Byron Parklands but in all the industries which this proposal supports and makes more viable. The proposal is a tangible cultural asset for our young people.

P232	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission (object)	I do not support this project. It is not environmentally sustainable. Too much pollution of all types (chemical, material, erosion) will be generate on the site and will affect surrounding areas as well as the site itself. The local native wildlife will be severely and adversely affected by all types of construction and and events proposed for this site. We do not have a healthy wildlife population as it is and the pressure from construction and operation of this development may be the tipping point for some or many species. Furthermore, I believe that the project is being promoted by misleading campaigns that have greenwashed the proposal and have not been honest - particularly with the festival public, many of whom have been encouraged to make submissions with no real information about the consequences of the project. P233	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from cassie cannon of ABC Music (support)	The North Byron Parklands site has numerous positives in its favour. Not the least among them are the numerous accommodation outlets within easy reach via excellent road networks. The venue is also close to airports at both Ballina and Coolangatta, a factor which will appeal to interstate and overseas visitors. There is also plenty of room on site for thousands to camp. The two main reasons I believe the festival should be brought back is Tourism and Culture. Tourism and culture are so important to the area as many business rely on the influx of visitor for large events like Splendour to keep thier business alive. Visitors travel to the area to experience the laid back, coastal culture of the region. Parklands will bring more and more cultural events to the area and in turn boost tourism. P234	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Paul Arrowsmith of Resident of Yelgun Valley (object)	Dear Sir, As a resident of Yelgun Valley, I am opposed to the scale of the development proposed by the proponent, North Byron Parklands. My reservations lie with, traffic coordination, noise control for both human residents and wildlife in the adjacent vicinity, sanitation, possible fire danger, cost to our Council, crowd control, flood danger and access for residents, especially in an emergency (whether medical, vetrinary,fire or storm damage). I would respectively suggest that the scale of this proposal is totally at odds with the needs of the residents of the immediate area and the shire as there is already a purpose built festival site and state of the art sports complex close by. The proposed site, being at the northern most end of the shire, will facilitate heavy traffic congestion and any suggestions of mitigating this by 'car pooling' is somewhat spurious, along with guarantees of increased employment for our shire and increased tourist and visitor numbers. It has been drawn to the writers attention that the proponents have been stationed at venues in Byron Bay to solicit signatures from patrons to support their proposal, many of these signatures are from people who, are visitors or tourists and/or reidents who do not understand the scale and disruptive detail of the application.

Byron Shire Council has said "no" and The Land and Environment Court has said "no", I implore you to also say no to this oversized fun park/ camping ground. I thank you for your time taken in reading my submission and hope that sanity will prevail.

P235	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Marisa Robinson (support)	With regards to the wildlife corridor it has been significantly degraded over many decades due to such activities as primary production and agriculture. As such it is currently highly fragmented and in need of revegetation. The Parklands proposal will see the biggest rehabilitation program the area has seen for the past 5o years as a result of its detailed vegetation management plan which will result in thousands of trees being planted in strategic areas. The culture of Byron Bay is fantastic and eye opening. This proposal will share our culture with all. Cultural arts and music festivals are enjoyed by many people in Byron. P237	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Andrew Glover of Creep Box Photography (support)	It is pleasing to note that the North Byron Parklands proposal includes a requirement for wildlife rescue personnel to be present during all major events. This requirement means that there is a very capable first response team on hand to deal with trapped or injured wildlife. It is also an excellent opportunity for these people to monitor any interactions between people and fauna. Such data can then be used to modify and improve processes and procedures for future events. If you speak to anyone these days, getting and keeping a job is high up on the list. Regional areas generally do not have a range of diversified industries to choose from. P239	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Brittany Schumacker (support)	North Byron Parklands is committed to developing world class sustainable event site through careful planning and management of activities that take place throughout the year. Job opportunities are a hot topic on the north coast. If North Byron Parklands is not allowed to operate in Byron Shire then these jobs will be lost to another region willing to approve this project. The creation of local jobs is a very important one. Having read the environmental assessment report I can say without reserve that I strongly support the proposal put forward by North Byron Parklands. P240	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Alessandra Castrogiovanni of Xlantic Media, LLC (support)	To Whom It May Concern, I am writing in support of the North Byron Parkland project for several reasons. First it will inject financial benefits and help local economy with revenue created from tourist dollars while increasing employment and much needed jobs. Second, it is an amazing platform to increase visibility of artists and a general community of culture which is a social benefit enhancing our quality of life and the memorable and beautiful experiences that life can offer which is inspiration for our youth and emerging artist population. Third, as an individual who has worked in the music business for ten years, there are very few places in the world that enhance our sense of community and are environmentally sustainable -- both of which this project promises to provide. Thanks for your consideration and I hope to hear good news about the success of this project. Best regards, Alessandra Castrogiovanni Music Manager

P241	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Fay Burstin (support)	I would like to strongly support the North Byron Parklands' application. As a Byron Bay resident, I believe the proposal will be a major economic and cultural boon to the local community. From my personal observation, the adverse effects of Splendour's relocation to Woodford this year were widely felt - from local business owners complaining to me about the lack of customers this winter to community groups such as our children's childcare centre ruing the absence of the festival's previous generous donations to its fundraising activities. In 2004, my husband and I travelled from our former home in Melbourne to attend the renowned Splendour In The Grass festival with other friends who came over from Perth. The festival's location in Byron Bay was a huge drawcard for all of us, some of whom are keen surfers, and we and our friends made a week-long holiday of it in the Byron Shire. Between the lot of us, we contributed thousands of dollars to the local economy on accommodation; in restaurants and on other food purchases; retail; health and therapeutic pursuits; and other tourist activities. We loved the experience and encouraged many other friends to do the same in subsequent years.

After another lovely holiday here in 2008, my husband and I and our two small children moved permanently to Byron Bay about 18 months ago. The Splendour In The Grass festival has provided employment opportunities for both of us and a number of our friends in the shire. These jobs have been highly sought-after positions in creative fields such as event management and curation, jobs that are scarce anywhere in metropolitan Australia, let alone in a small regional centre. These are invaluable jobs that will disappear from the shire if the NBP proposal is rejected - and may well send our family interstate.

My overwhelming experience is that the Byron Shire wants and needs NBP. Please don't let a few noisy individuals parading bogus environmental claims decimate a community and one of its flagship events.

P242	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from kate doedee (support)	In relation to environmental management one of the biggest impacts on fauna in this region is dogs. It is pleasing to note that the environmental, health and safety management manual strictly prohibits dogs from entering the site. Just this on initiative will help to reduce pressure on the environment, not to mention the host of other excellent environmental programs they have documented. I know of many businesses that rely on events for a large part of their income. These businesses employ local people and locally based jobs are hard to come by. We should support Parklands as it will be a large employer in the region. There has been a rapid decline in jobs, tourism and culture in the Northern Rivers over recent years. P245	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Jerry Soer of Staple MGMT (support)	It is unlikely that there is another events venue that has the level of environmental management systems in place as those proposed by North Byron Parklands. Based on ISO14001 the environmental policies and procedures to be implemented at this venue will provide robust monitoring and mitigation measures to ensure that fauna and flora is protected. Measures such as requiring suitable buffer zones between event activities and forest blocks is one such positive initiative. As part of Parklands proposed construction phase they have developed a range of measures to mitigate environmental impacts. These include erecting signage, supervision of minor tree removal by a qualified ecologist, compensatory planting, fauna culverts and the installation of sediment and erosion control systems. This is just for the construction component of the project. The environmental controls proposed for the operation phase are even more detailed and impressive. There has been a rapid decline in jobs, tourism and culture in the Northern Rivers over recent years. Proposals like North Byron Parklands are the answer to these problems. We need to support creative industries that promise to provide so much for the community.

P248	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Adam Jones (support)	The level of commitment in relation to environmental monitoring before, during and after events is going to provide environmental benefits on two fronts. First it will accurately document the presence or otherwise of various fauna around event times. It will also importantly start to build a large amount of environmental data which can be used to guide and modify environmental practices into the future. With the already significant amount of environmental data captured through assessments and surveys, this body of knowledge is likely to be significant. Please allow the North Byron Parklands proposal to go through, it would mean so much to me and all my friends. Positive environmental outcomes are important for any development and one very important outcome offered by the North Byron Parklands proponents is to apply a vegetation management plan across the entire site. Under this plan sections of the site will be restored back to pristine forest cover while others will be treated as managed parklands. Under this treatment very large areas will be planted with low density native trees that will provide connection points for fauna to avoid large pastoral areas and reduce the likelihood of predation during movement across the site. They are not required by law to do this, but do see it as an important environmental outcome. North Byron Parklands offers young people the opportunity to interact with the wider community. Being young is all about getting out there and this proposal would provide a quality venue for young people in our region. P249	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Nick Marson of Freelance Tour Manager (support)	The level of environmental assessment that has taken place across North Byron Parklands is greater than for any other development in the Northern Rivers region. Not even councils or government agencies responsible for managing environmental values has undertaken such in-depth studies. All such assessments indicate that the proposal will not only have minimal environmental impacts, it is actually likely to improve wildlife corridors, fauna habitat and consolidation of fragmented forest blocks. These are very positive outcomes. With so many people moving into capital cities the government needs to ensure that regional employment opportunities are secured whenever they are offered. Parklands have a project that will provide plenty of jobs for a range of people and it is super important that they jobs stay in our area.

				Tourism is one of the biggest employers in the northern rivers area and the North Byron Parklands proposal is projecting that it will bring thousands of people to the area each year. Increasing visitor numbers to the area is the surest way to help grow these tourism businesses particularly when the proposal shall bring large numbers of people to the area in traditionally slow times. The economic value of creative industries for the region is estimated to be $190 million with the indutry having a job growth rate of 100% over the past decade. Lets bring Splendour in the Grass home, back to the the Byron Shire and develop our creative industires further to provide new and exciting job opportunities for the youth in the future. P250	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Susan Heymann of Chugg Entertainment (support)	Tourism is a massive income generating activity for Byron Shire and the northern rivers region. The Parklands proposal will bring tens of thousands of people to the area, all of whom will need accommodation and food. It is so important that this project be approved because the positive economic impacts are so significant. The North Byron Parklands site has undergone a number of detailed assessments to assure the site is enhanced to be able to become a â□œsustainableâ□□ site for cultural events in the area. It is unlikely that many other developments on the north coast have gone into this much detail and conducted such thorough assessments. This shows the level commitment the North Byron Parkland have for this site. Having a world class sustainable event venue at the Parklands site will put The Northen Rivers on the map as a leader in sustainable venue developments. This will also aid local educational institutes such as Southern Cross University in environmental related courses by having a world class example in the area. P251	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Matt Elmer of The Dwarf (support)	12 months after the first major event at the proposed event site, North Byron Parklands will commission an in depth ecological impact assessment and review. Any reasonable recommendations arising from the review with be processed through the environmental, health and safety manual created especially for the parklands site. This will ensure the site will be ecologically sound for future major events. Regarding employment, so many people are forced to leave coastal areas in search of a job. We need the government to play an active role in identifying suitable industries and businesses that can provide local jobs in these areas. North Byron Parklands is an obvious choice in helping to bridge this gap and should be approved to operate in Byron Shire.

				Byron Bay is built on its beautiful natural assets and many tourist attractions yet like many other coastal towns it suffers from seasonal swings. The North Byron Parklands proposal would significantly smooth tourism demand by attracting visitors in traditionally slow times. As tourism is so important to the town and surrounding areas such projects should be openly encouraged.

P252	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Drue Stevens of Student (support)	Byron Bay is widely known for pushing the barrier and making things possible. We as a town have so much to offer and this new proposal will put us on the map so to speak. Itâ□™s a fantastic opportunity for us all.
				The North Byron Parklands site has numerous positives in its favour. Not the least among them are the numerous accommodation outlets within easy reach via excellent road networks. The venue is also close to airports at both Ballina and Coolangatta, a factor which will appeal to interstate and overseas visitors. There is also plenty of room on site for thousands to camp.
				One of the most significant environmental controls being put in place by North Byron Parklands is the limiting of major events to 12 event days each year. Effectively this will mean 2 or 3 events over 2 or 3 days each once the venue is up and running to capacity. What does this mean for the local ecology? It means that disturbances of light, noise and traffic will only occur for a fraction of time each year. This plus the numerous other environmental controls means that the impact on fauna and flora will be temporal and minimal in nature.

P253	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Jo Walker of Austereo (support)	I have spent 6 amazing years at Splendour in the Grass in Byron Bay. This is the first year that I didn't go. Not that I had anything against the QLD, but I was sad to see that it wasn't in Byron. I did hear that tourism was down in a major way which also made me sad. I have been staying at the same place in Belongil every year and always look forward to my trip to Byron for Splendour. I know that Village Sounds put on a great festival, which is respectful to the environment. There is always a green levy with every ticket. It would be a real shame if this festival wasn't returned to its traditional venue. There's my 2 cents.. P254	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Martin Novosel of Boundary Sounds (support)	Parklands ensures that the site area and the adjoining sites are protected by maximising â□˜down timeâ□™ between large events. This allows time for the rehabilitation of habitats and normal ecosystems processes. Currently many things are conspiring against the tourism industry, particularly the very strong Australian dollar. Enticing domestic travellers to holiday in Australia rather than abroad is a huge challenge for the tourism sector. When a project such as North Byron Parklands comes along that proposes to attract 35,000 people per event to a region such as the North Coast of NSW, this must be given serious consideration by approving authorities. Add to the fact that a number of these large events will eventually occur each year, the economic and tourism benefits are substantial. With such a massive projected increase in the population of the north coast how are people expected to find meaningful work? It is only by governments thinking outside of the traditional tourism and accommodation industries and assisting other sectors to operate that such jobs can be made available. Parklands covers an industry that can provide lots of local jobs. P255	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Russ Bryant of Lick It Media (support)	Hi, the preservation of ecological values in and adjacent to the Parklands site is an important aspect of the proposal. Much scientific assessment has been undertaken which highlights that the site has been heavily degraded over the past number of years and that the proposed fauna and flora management plans will greatly enhance and protect existing identified values. P256	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Margaret Collins of Golden District Management (support)	One of the unintended effects on the environment from outdoor events is light spill. So it is pleasing to see that this issue is well addressed under the organisationâ□™s environmental standard. This standard requires lighting to be directed downwards, away from forest blocks, using low pressure sodium vapour lights where possible, and turning off light towers at a certain time of night. Such measures will greatly reduce disturbances to any localised fauna during such events. Until very recently NSW has had a less than enviable employment track record mainly due to the global financial crisis. While it looks like the state is on the mend we still need to ensure that projects like North Byron Parklands are given the green light because of the large number of regional jobs it will provide. A place where people can get together and enjoy the beauty that Byron Bay has to offer. Why wouldnâ□™t we want a world class facility like North Byron parklands in the Byron region? This proposal will create new jobs to young adults and promote sustainable development. The local government should welcome that and support this proposal. P257	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Melissa Cherry (object)	I consider that this development will negatively impact on delicate ecosystems and place a burden on already insignificant local infrastructure. Another major objection I raise is the fact that the types of events supported by such a venue will attract mass traffic and attendance by an undesirable element of society in terms of drug, alcohol and other abuses not to mention the impacts on neighbouring residents. The area under question is currently a natural flood basin with a wide range of flora and fauna and as there is already a similar venue within the shire I see there is no positive benefit to come of approval, only a long list of negative impacts environmentally and socially. P258	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Kate Barnes of Miranda Brown Publicity (support)	To Whom it may concern, I am putting forward my support to develop the North Byron Parklands as a sustainable site for festivals and events, including Splendour in the Grass. Businesses from across the northern rivers involved in tourism related activities stand to benefit significantly from the influx of visitors both from within and outside NSW. The likely spend from attendees at events held at North Byron Parklands would be strong given people will procure accommodation, buy food and drink and purchase a range of other goods and services. This will translate into an economic bonus for the region that must not be squandered. I think the North Byron Parklands gives the youth of today a chance to enjoy new experiences. This is what we need to keep the youth entertained and focused. After attending the 2010 Splendour in the Grass I believe this event strongly fosters a sense of respect and community amongst it's patrons and this rubs off on the youth attending such a festival. Byron Shire should relish such a positive development in it's council and work with developers/organisers to ensure the environmental impacts are contained. Kind Regards, Kate Barnes

P260	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Andrew Levins of Heaps Decent (support)	As a DJ who regularly plays Australian festivals, I can honestly say that the Splendour In The Grass festival was as good as they get when it was at it's Byron Bay site. North Byron Parklands have already undertaken a number of detailed fauna and flora surveys across the proposed site. On top of this they have now committed to undertaking environmental audits for all major events (before, during after). Such information will be very valuable in terms of fine tuning the current environmental policies and procedures and will dramatically reduce any associated environmental pressures. In relation to employment and wages the Byron local government area has one of the Stateâ□™s lowest average wages, around $31,000 per annum. A proposal like Parklands will bring much needed employment opportunities top the area and will likely provide a large number of positions that are well paid. The Shire and the region need these opportunities. North Byron Parklands comprises a number of people with envious event management track records. These people have hosted many, many events that have attracted millions of people. If the North Byron Parklands venue can attract a large number of people to the area each year (which it is estimated to do) then the local tourism industry stands to benefit significantly. Given the past few years which have been tough for these operators, surely this is a welcome opportunity. Splendour in the Grass has provided high level training in a range of areas and has supported youth initiatives such as Splendid. With the expanded suite of festivals at North Byron Parklands the opportunities for work experience and training are invaluable. P261	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from James Robinson-Gale (support)	I write in support of a "Cultural Events Site, Yelgun 09_0028". Having visited the site and considered this matter, I am fully supportive of this application. It appears to me that the applicants have made enormous strides in protecting and enhancing the environmental values (where they exist) of the site. The site seems well suited to the proposed use and I understand that the applicants are doing their utmost to alleviate any disturbance to the few neighbours, with noise mitigation etc. This region is sustained economically by tourism and the creative arts, while being a burgeoning local industry in its own right, is integral to our tourism success. The loss of the Splendour in the Grass festival this year to Queensland has impacted enormously on the economies of towns like Byron Bay and Brunswick heads (and the State as a whole). The continued loss of Splendour and the missed opportunity for this region to host more varied events would be a great shame. I hope that the Minister will look favourably on this excellent proposal and invaluable regional opportunity. Name: James Robinson-Gale Address: 10/231 Fowlers Lane Bangalow NSW 2479

P262	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Natalie Bell of Milefire Management (support)	Byron Bay is a recognised tourism icon. It has thousands of beds in a wide range of accommodation outlets specifically designed to cater for the tourism market. When those beds remain empty for much of the year then the town should be very nervous. Those basking in the quiet times are shortsighted and cannot see the decay and decline that will follow the removal of economic generators such as the Splendour In the Grass festival and the associated North Byron Parklands project. Because of the extensive level of community consultation undertaken by North Byron Parklands I have a very clear understanding of the benefits and issues of the application. The high quality of information has allowed people locally and in the wider community to make an informed decision about the proposal and I would imagine that the responses are overwhelmingly in favour of the project. P266	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Brian Taranto of Love Police (support)	I have designed and sold the event merchandise for Splendour In The Grass since the first show back in 2000. I have watched it grow form the boutique event to an event that celebrate all styles of music and culture and brings a lot of annual enjoyment to the attendees. A big part of the enjoyment of the event was the fact that it was in beautiful Byron Bay and we could enjoy the many great things to do in the area at the same time. I know for all my friends this was true also. The fact that Splendour in now not in Byron, means i have not been to town for over 12 months, and I miss the place terribly...please bring it home. The site in question if not used for a sustainable cultural arts and event venue may end up being used by whoever buys it in a manner that would place greater pressure on the environment. Here we have an opportunity to hold a low impact activity that will see the land rested for some 75% of the year. Allowing such large rest times will benefit both fauna and flora across and adjacent to the site. This is a very positive outcome.

The approval of this proposal will lead to new employment opportunities that may not have previously been offered on the north coast of NSW. New and exciting jobs will boost the youth employment and inspire young adults to remain in the local area after completing study.

The Parklands project is going to attract tens of thousands of people to stay in the wider area. Many of these attendees will extend their stay in the region before and after various events and this will generate a direct positive impact for accommodation providers as well as food and beverage establishments within the local area and region. So many people are employed in the tourism industry so having a world class events venue would be extremely advantageous.

If this proposal is approved, the Byron Shire area will be able to market itself as a place for sustainable events and creativity. We will have a world class cultural event venue that will provide new employment and training opportunities to the young people in our community.

P267	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Sarah Kent (support)	To Whom it may Concern, I just heard about the proposed North Byron Parklands and got instantly excited. What better way to show the beauty Byron Bay has to offer for a region that prides itself on creativity and the environment. Each year i look forward to heading to Byron and often stay the week after the Spendour in the Grass Festival to enjoy all that Byron has to offer. From Tweed Heads to Evans Head most of the business activity revolves around tourism. To have a cultural arts and music venue such as North Byron Parklands which will bring tens of thousands of visitors to the area and with the vast majority seeking accommodation over multiple nights is a huge economic windfall. Without the festival which promotes the region (at no cost to the destination) and encompasses similiar cultural values, many of those businesses would lose a large chunk of their income, especially in a time when domestic tourism is at an all time low due to the increased value of the dollar. In my opinion i believe that the economic and cultural impacts of such a venue far out way the social impacts while bringing the enviornmental impacts to the forefront through the education that has been a part of the Spendour in the Grass Festival. Therefore this proposal would seamlessly add to the already diversified tourism attractions of the region and should be approved. North Byron Parklands has so much to offer the Byron Shire and Northern rivers region. It seems strange to think twice about this proposal. This proposed venue has to go ahead.

P268	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Vera Rizzo (support)	While there are a number of identified threatened species at the North Byron Parklands site, all of these creatures are winged species such as water borne birds, owls and various bats. Research into the effects of intermittent noise shows that such fauna will usually relocate during such episodes and will return quickly once noise abates. Further the movement of such fauna is entirely dependent on food resources. If there are no fruits and blossoms across the site then the presence of these species will be very low. If you speak to anyone these days, getting and keeping a job is high up on the list. Regional areas generally do not have a range of diversified industries to choose from. Parklands is offering meaningful and interesting work, particularly for young people and should be welcomed with open arms. North Byron Parklands has a strong focus on cultural management. This is shown by the proposed cultural centre aimed to provide learning opportunities for staff to build a greater understanding of our local indigenous and non-indigenous ancestry. The young people on the Northern Rivers deserve to have a festival that they can be proud of, a festival that they religiously attend, and a festival that is held in a environmental sound and sustainable venue. I fully support the North Byron Parklands proposal.

P270	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Sergio Scudery (object)	I think that a permanent festival site of this kind is totally inappropriate for this area. As a 10 years resident of this residential area I appreciate the slow pace of our local community. Also I object the permanent destruction of one important wildlife corridor by this project. While the community (and may be the wildlife) could endure few days a year of loud music and heavy traffic, obviously the proponent of this project has a very different agenda. This will change for ever (and for the worst) the social and environmental fabric of a wide area. P271	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Stephen Zagami of freelance tour manager (support)	One of the most significant benefits for the environment coming out of this application is the proponentâ□™s willingness to transfer a net 28ha of very high quality bushland to National Parks that would see an expansion of the Billinudgel Nature Reserve. Ignoring the significant value of the land proposed to be handed over, it has to be acknowledged that this is probably the only opportunity to expand this nature reserve as it is bound by private landowners who are unlikely to give away their land. Young people living on the north coast have a tough time finding employment, and particularly jobs that are of interest to them. The Parklands proposal will provide hundreds of jobs for people in our area and this represents a huge plus for a lot of kids. One of the most significant environmental controls being put in place by North Byron Parklands is the limiting of major events to 12 event days each year. Effectively this will mean 2 or 3 events over 2 or 3 days each once the venue is up and running to capacity. What does this mean for the local ecology? It means that disturbances of light, noise and traffic will only occur for a fraction of time each year. This plus the numerous other environmental controls means that the impact on fauna and flora will be temporal and minimal in nature. P272	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Zoltan Blazer of Modular (support)	North Byron Parklands will bring more tourism to The Byron Shire every year, boosting local business revenue and helping small business stay on thier feet. This proposal will benefit everyone. The Byron Shire Council identifies the creative industries sector as one of nine key focus areas which foster the prosperity of the shire through sustainable job creation. The shire has a long history of creative endeavours and this needs to be built on by supporting such proposals as that put forward by North Byron Parklands. Generating a large number of jobs for the area, it is extremely important that it is approved. Doing so will provide a broad spectrum of the local community with jobs that would otherwise not be available. What other venue in NSW or Australia for that matter has paid so much attention to environmental management considerations as North Byron Parklands? If all other outdoor venues even implemented 10% of what Parklands is proposing then we would see a massive improvement in environmental outcomes for this important creative industries sector. This development is likely to become the best practice benchmark for all other similar organisations. Events are really important for young people today. It is my understanding that the highly respected operators of that venue, the Woodford Folk Festival, fully support the plans for North Byron Parklands and are actively advising the NBP owners on the best way forward. This is a major stamp of approval for the whole project, given that Woodfordia stands to lose the very valuable Splendour business should NBP come into being Apart from the amazing environmental initiatives covering fauna and flora across the North Byron Parklands site that have been developed, these guys are also going to tackle waste, recycling and the minimisation of resource consumption through a number of proven effective measures. P280	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Maree Zuvela (support)	Many people worry about financially providing for themselves and their families and rightly so. Today it is hard to find a good job outside of the larger cities. When a project such as North Byron Parklands comes along offering lots of jobs it is surely in the interests of working families that such a project is located in a regional area. It should be approved just on its employment capabilities let alone any other benefits it is bound to bring. The North Byron Parklands will be the 1st proposed land use that will see a massive improvement in environmental outcomes for the site. For many years the North Byron Parklands site has been used for intensive agricultural activities and land clearing, impacting on the site dramatically. North Byron Parklands has planned mass plantings, fauna habitat creation and most importantly no event activities for some 260 plus days a year to restore the site. This has to be seen as a great result for the local environment.

Why wouldnâ□™t we want a world class facility like North Byron parklands in the Byron region? This proposal will create new jobs to young adults and promote sustainable development. The local government should welcome that and support this proposal.

North Byron Parklands ability to generate new and exciting employment opportunities will encourage young adults to remain working and living in the region instead of packing up and moving to a large city seeking employment. It is important to maintain the balance of ages in the community. This proposal must be approved! Byron Bay is built on its beautiful natural assets and many tourist attractions yet like many other coastal towns it suffers from seasonal swings. The North Byron Parklands proposal would significantly smooth tourism demand by attracting visitors in traditionally slow times. As tourism is so important to the town and surrounding areas such projects should be openly encouraged.

Splendour in the Grass has provided a lot of mentorship and training opportunities for young people in the past. The fabulous Splendid initiative is an example of this. They really invest in young people. Even if these initiatives remain limited to Splendour in the Grass, itâ□™s important to have these opportunities for young people in the region.

I am a consulting environmental engineer, and have lived in the Byron Shire for many years. Byron has developed a reputation for a wide range of cultural events which are large in scale and, in general, highly successful. The East Coast Blues and Roots Festival, Splendour in the Grass, and the Byron Bay Writers Festival enrich the cultural life of not only the Byron Shire, but also the broader Australian community. They set the Byron Shire apart from so many other beautiful NSW coastal resort towns by marking our area as a place not only to relax, but also to be excited and inspired by the arts.

During the years where these large festivals were all located in the immediate vicinity of Byron Bay, the strain on local infrastructure was enormous. This resulted in less than happy experiences for both locals and visitors. As such, the development of a dedicated Cultural Events Site and Yelgun represents an excellent way to eliminate many of the challenges associated with Byron Shire?s programme of festivals without sacrificing the many social, economic and cultural benefits provided by such events.

Further, it must be noted that the environmental planning and management which is has been applied to the North Byron Parklands site is visionary, and will yield benefits to the environment within and around the Yelgun site itself over the coming decades. The purpose built facilities planned for the site are configured such that events can proceed with negligible impact on neighbours, and enable the regeneration of the local ecosystem started over the last few years to progress.

On this basis, I urge the Department of Planning to approve the Cultural Events Site at Yelgun (09_0028) for development.

Kind Regards,

David Fligelman

It is a sensitive area due to the wildlifr corridor. there is only one road in & out which will cause traffic chaos & would be an absolute disater should an emergency such as a flood or bush fire occur. The local place of gathering in an emergency is the seven day adventist church or the Country club. Neither of these places would be able to cater for the community & festival goers shld an evacuation take place. Both these issues have arisen in recent years & could quite easily reoccur.No NO NO please do not allow this proposal Name: Gypsy Hamlin Address: 13 Beach Ave Sth Golden Beach NSW 2483 IP Address: - 119.225.168.165

P291	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Bianca Gordon of BMF Advertising (support)	The North Byron Parklands project will incorporate a range of best practice environmental policies and procedures including a requirement to only host events in the existing cleared areas of the site. This means that all forested areas will be protected via fencing and security measures and effectively be out of bounds for event usage. This is a very positive initiative from an environmental point of view. Furthermore, in a coastal region such as the Byron and Tweed areas tourism businesses are the financial lifeblood for so many people. Ensuring we attract businesses such as North Byron Parklands who will be responsible for bringing significant numbers of visitors to the region is vital if we are to maintain the viability of this critical sector. P292	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from A McCoy of ReGenesis Village (support)	Cultural Events Site. Yelgun 09-2028

I write this letter in support of the North Byron Parklands.

The location of the site is perfect for the forms of entertainment which the proposal suggests will be held there.

I know that the people who are behind this venture are motivated and committed to making this an exemplary project.

The proposal, should it be allowed to continue will bring many benefits to our region with few disadvantages.

Our region will benefit from the following:

Employment, Land Care, Wildlife Protection, Aboriginal Heritage Education, Music and The Arts, Financial Support for Other Community Based Projects.

Our youth will be afforded a designated area in which to interact socially in a safe environment.

Please give this proposal the consideration and support to which it is entitled.

Yours Sincerely,

P293	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Rick Jose of Secret Sounds (support)	I am a Byron Shire resident and I support this Events Site application for the following reasons. - This region has been and still is known for it's diverse and energetic arts, events and music culture which this site will serve to promote and foster. - The Byron Shire region is one of the most popular tourist destinations for Australian and International travelers. We should embrace this and encourage more cultural events throughout the year. - Splendour has become internationally recognised as one of the great music festivals for young people.

- The organisers of Splendour have proven over the decade that it has been staged that Festivals can be properly managed with the successful mitigation of any negative impacts.

- This site, if approved will provide job opportunities to numerous residents of Byron Shire, especially young people.

- This site and it's events will have a continued positive economic influence on the Byron Shire and a flow on effect in and around Northern NSW.

- The application seems to address all of the issues needing to be managed by a site of this type, including environmental impacts.

- The current owners of this property have already shown that they are committed to preserving and improving the areas not allocated for festival use for bush regeneration and habitat use.

- Ultimately this is overall a positive development with relatively little disruption but numerous long term positive outcomes.

P295	Project Website Submission	18/11/2010	Online Submission from Lisa Naismith (support)	I am so excited about the opportunities that a proposal of this nature can offer to both the people of Byron Shire and the north coast. It provides for employment, tourism and cultural experiences that unfortunately over the past years have been driven out of the shire by small minded local politics. North Byron Parklands can play a massive role in putting this beautiful area firmly back on the tourist map. This application should be approved. When the owners of North Byron Parklands bought the property they took on board a court order to rehabilitate Yelgun Creek which was badly degraded by the former owner. This creek system used to flow into the Billinudgel Nature Reserve, feeding it with flood waters and providing the varied hydrological flows that the existing flora community required. The North Byron Parklands people will now rehabilitate the creek by removing excess siltation and undertaking riparian plantings. This will be a huge plus for the nature reserve. Byron Bay is widely known for pushing the barrier and making things possible. We as a town have so much to offer and this new proposal will put us on the map so to speak. Itâ□™s a fantastic opportunity for us all.

Staging of this development is unsatisfactory as the developer thinks that major events can be staged with temporary water and sewage infrastructure in place.This should be fully completed before any events are permittted to take place. 4.The number of days planned for events at this venue especially major events will cause extreme chaos on the road network and also the accommodation in surrounding small towns and communities.Community services will also be put under extreme stress trying to look after these large numbers of people. 5.Community services such as police,emergency services and hospitals will be hard pressed to contend with such large numbers of people for so many days over the year.

6.Evacuation of large numbers of people in times of flood and bush fires will be extremely difficult as they will also have to service help to the local community as well as those attending events.Are the local services able to cope with these numbers?

7.Large numbers of people using legal and illegal drugs at events often leads to unacceptable social behaviour such as brawls and sexual assualt.Will the local hospitals be able to cope with these problems?Security service personal trained to deal with and prevent serious assualt will certainly be necessary to deal with violence and sexual assault resulting from alchol and drug abuse at this venue but also in the community from such a large influx of people into the area.

Is there adequate professionally trained people in the community to deal with the victims of such assults?

This DA does not address many serious issues and needs to look much more carefully at how this development will affect the surrounding communities and whether this small community is truely able to cope with the many problems this project will bring with it.

P298	Project Website Submission	17/11/2010	Online Submission from Alec Tullio (support)	Byron Shire Council has always longer for a permanent event site in its LGA, particularly now that the existing sites are either no longer available or are two inadequate to deal with world class events. The Blues Fest have bought a site which they intent to use only for their event which leaves a very big demand for a sustainable events venue elsewhere in the area. The North Byron Parklands venue would fill this vacuum and provide a world class event space which local and NSW people could be proud of. The project has so many benefits environmentally and socially that it would such a shame for the NSW government not to approve it. Byron Bay has so much beauty to offer and the North Byron Parklands is a perfect way to put it on display. I say yes, to this proposal. Everyone from around the country considers the Byron shire to be one of the most attractive and enjoyable places NSW has to offer. Coupled with the fact that Splendour In The Grass is one of the most renowned music festivals in Australia, it seems perfectly logical to make the Byron Shire the permanent home of Splendour so it and the location can continue to be enjoyed by music lovers nationwide for many years to come.

				Your recognition of these proposals will be greatly appreciated and we all hope you can make the right decision in regards to Splendour in the Grass finding a home!

P299	Project Website Submission	17/11/2010	Online Submission from Jenny Fitzgerald (object)	I object to North Byron Parklands going ahead as a cultural/festival site on the following grounds: * The number of festivals/large gatherings of people is too many as initially requested. These festivals will become more and larger events than this area can handle. * The area within the proposal includes: land that is subject to flooding (that's why there are no houses now), there is an area of peat which could catch fire and then burns for many months (has happened previously), The flora and fauna will be devastated even if certain areas are block off The residents of the greater Ocean Shores area should not have to put up with the massive amount of noise, unwanted extra people (there is very limited facilities for visitors). I am not against festivals but feel that there is not enough control over the number of events, and people attending. Splendour in the Grass and other such festivals have grown in popularity because they are/were located in Byron Bay which appeals to many visitors and has the infrastructure - keep them closer to where they want to be, Byron Bay Name: Jenny Fitzgerald Address: 2 Putta Place Ocean Shores NSW 2483 IP Address: - 120.19.144.44 Submission for Job: #3210 Cultural Events Site (Project Application) https://majorprojects.onhiive.com/index.pl?action=view_job&id=3210 Site: #1982 Cultural Events Site - Tweed Valley Way and Jones Road, Yelgun (09_0028) https://majorprojects.onhiive.com/index.pl?action=view_site&id=1982

P300	Project Website Submission	17/11/2010	Online Submission from Michael McNamara (object)	The proposal runs counter to many locally decided plans and priorities. 1. The proposal does not align with the 2009 Land & Environment Court Decision. The Land & Environment Court ruled in May 2009 that Byron Shire Council's 2008 approval of BPT's proposed trial Splendour festival at Yelgun was "invalid and of no effect". The state should not now rule in favour of a permanent festival site at this location, given the judicial decision about a one-off trial event. Also, the current proposal includes the key element that resulted in the Court?s rejection of the approval: the building of roads for a place of assembly in a 7(k) habitat zone. 2. The proposal does not align with Byron Council?s Tourism Management Plan. The plans to develop a permanent festival site at Yelgun run counter to Byron Shire Council's Tourism Management Plan (May 2009), which specifically indicates that Byron?s ?party? image needs to be overcome. Allowing a permanent festival site at Yelgun with multiple party-heavy events such as Splendour in the Grass will only exacerbate the growing image of Byron Shire as ?party central?. It is not only large events that will enhance the party-town image of the shire. The applicants have indicated that they intend to hold a number of ?medium sized? events on the site and unlimited small events. An acceptance of this proposal would allow numerous ?doofs? and other music events that would create as much noise and disruption as a full-blown mega-festival like Splendour.

3. The proposal does not align with Byron Shire Council?s Events Policy.

The intention to hold multiple large music events on the Yelgun property runs counter to the Events Policy that Byron Shire Council has put in place. That policy calls for a limit of 2 large, amplified music festivals each year in the shire. The policy intelligently aims to balance the desires of mega-event promoters with the needs and wishes of the residents and ratepayers of the shire.

4. The proposal contradicts the 2009 NSW Far North Coast Regional Conservation Plan.

The property in question is part of the Billinudgel Range, which is identified in

DECCW?s Far North Coast Regional Conservation Plan as ?one of the few remaining coast to ranges habitat corridors in the Far North Coast Region and ? home to a number of threatened species? (p 36). The Plan also notes that ?it is likely that the area contains significant Aboriginal heritage values.? Given the importance of the area to the state?s Conservation Plan, it would be unwise and contradictory for the state to allow the establishment of a permanent festival site that would attract tens of thousands of people repeatedly throughout the year into this environmentally sensitive area.

5. The proposal contradicts the 2009 Northern Rivers Regional Biodiversity Management Plan.

The property in question is part of a ?priority area? identified in the DECCW?s 2009 Northern Rivers Regional Biodiversity Management Plan on page 54. The designated wildlife corridor within this area is supposed to ?play an ameliorative role for fauna species? in response to the predicted effects of climate change. The negative impacts and disruptions that would result from a permanent festival site on this property would negate the intended protection of wildlife in the area. Noise from heavily amplified music, artificial lights well into the night, and crowds in the thousands should not be allowed in an area of such environmental and ecological sensitivity.

It is not surprising that this area has been designated a ?priority area? for conservation by the state. The site at Yelgun is in the middle of a conservation area that has been protected for decades by local and state governments and is immediately adjacent to Billinudgel Nature Reserve, a reserve the government worked hard to establish. The plan to introduce the noise and movements of tens of thousands of people repeatedly into this area will affect this sensitive environment as surely as it will affect the wildlife. The developers? plans to plant trees on the property will not mitigate the severe negative effects of the disruptive commercial activities they are planning.

P304	Project Website Submission	17/11/2010	Online Submission from Sarah Irving (support)	There is a real need to reverse the current trend of closing music and artistic venues around the State of NSW. Music and arts are so important to the health and vibrancy of a community and I urge you to approve the North Byron parklands venue. In regards to employment so many traditional industry sectors have left the mid and far north coast of NSW. This has resulted in a significant structural change to our employment base. A new shift towards service industries and importantly the creative industries means that the necessary infrastructure and planning decisions are required to capitalise on this trend. North Byron Parklands is one such project that will strengthen the North Coastâ□™s existing creative industries base and will generate significant part time and full time employment, all of which is much needed in these areas.

Cultural arts and music event facilities such as those proposed by North Byron Parklands will greatly assist the local tourism industry by attracting thousands of people from Queensland, Sydney and Victoria. All of these visitors will require accommodation and other services and will greatly benefit the tourism sector. This is surely a good thing.

As a youth of the area I am constantly searching for ways to broaden my horizons. I believe this proposal will offer new opportunities, new jobs, new experiences and new ways to develop.

P305	Project Website Submission	17/11/2010	Online Submission from Ryan Sullings of hotmail (support)	On the subject of employment the north coast has a long history of hosting many different types of events. These events provide jobs for so many people and in an area where paying the rent or mortgage is tough it is critical that these events are allowed to continue. Without a permanent event area these jobs will be lost to the north coast. As such this project should be approved on the employment prospects it brings, let alone any other positives. If we consider the important contributions to the region made by tourism such as income generation and the creation of jobs then it follows that approving projects that have a large positive effect on increasing tourism rates will be a good thing for the State of NSW. North Byron Parklands will be responsible for drawing thousands of intra and interstate visitors, most of whom will require accommodation, food and beverages and in many instances will actively pursue some form of paying leisure activity. To let such an opportunity pass the region by would be a crime. Events are not just for young people, they are for keeping us young. For reinvigorating us and reconnecting us. Having a permanent space in nature to gather together as different communities â□“ young people, old people, music lovers, bird watchers, is a very exciting proposition for Australia. P306	Project Website Submission	17/11/2010	Online Submission from Russell Eldridge (object)	I object to the proposal at Yelgun on the following grounds: Social impact The proposed multi-event development will have a negative impact on the residential amenity of nearby neighbourhoods. It will introduce up to 50,000 people on a regular basis to a quiet residential/rural area that is being given no say on the inevitable changes this will bring. Multiple events involving large crowds over several days will inevitably damage the family-orientated, low-key nature of the nearby communities. These massive crowds will comprise people focused only on partying. The area also lacks the infrastructure to cope with such an influx - accommodation, public transport, shops, emergency services. These communities are already feeling the strain of unregulated illegal holiday letting. Festival on-site camping will not cope with all attendees and up to 25,000 young people will be looking for cheap accommodation options. This will result in kerbside camping, bush camping and short-term rental houses overcrowded with people in party mode. This has already happened in the suburbs adjoining the previous Splendour venue. The people of that area have expressed their relief at the departure of the annual event. A recent promotional event on the Yelgun site including amplified music could clearly be heard in a suburb more than 2km away. And this music was below the usual rock concert levels. The bona fides of the developers must be questioned regarding their statements and proposals to minimise or eliminate negative social impact. Their DA lacks concrete, detailed measures. Perhaps the strongest condemnation of their attitude towards the local communities is their almost total lack of community consultation since the development was first mooted a few years ago. As recently as a three or four months ago, I walked the site with the chief planner and their ecologist. They admitted there would be negative impacts on the nearby communities. They said there was little they could do to control the behaviour of people outside their gates. I pointed out their lack of community consultation and they admitted the failing. Within a week, community flyers appeared in mailboxes. Too little too late. Environmental impact. The site impacts on a unique wildlife corridor connecting coastal wetland forest with higher altitude habitat. This will be disrupted, if not destroyed. Regular loud music will have a negative effect on wildlife.

The site is part of a floodplain subject to frequent inundation. The worst affected areas include the camping grounds and carparks. The proposal has inadequate flood response procedures and infrastructure to deal with flooding, which may happen with as little as 20 minutes? warning.

The bushfire risk is significant as the site adjoins a nature reserve which has experienced fires in the past. The organisers will have no control over the movements or activities of 50,000 people once they are outside the site. People will use the bushland to gain access to the nearby beach. Regular users of the beach already see frequent evidence of fires by overnight campers or parties. The bushland stretches all the way from the festival site to suburban streets, which would be threatened by a major fire. Local fire brigade resources are extremely limited.

Traffic

The local roads are inadequate to cope with the festival load. Local people rely on these roads to commute to school, work and to shop and socialise. The experience this year of Splendour at Woodford (a long-established venue) revealed kilometres-long traffic bank-up. Many local people expressed their dissatisfaction with the traffic disruption. And the numbers are far below what Splendour proposes for the Yelgun site in Byron Shire. Local people should not be denied ready access to an essential public road system for which they pay taxes. My own estimate is that a supermarket shopping trip for my family will result in a 36 kilometre longer round-trip.

Tourism

Byron Shire is struggling to attract high-end and family tourism because of the focus on facilities that turn Byron Bay in particular into a party town. The area has an abnormally high drink-driving record and abnormally high alcohol and drug-related offences. Judicial officers have criticised the proliferation of events such as rock concerts/festivals, which fuel these offences. Many older people no longer go out at night in Byron Bay ? even to the cinema - because of public drunkenness, street violence and other anti-social behaviour.

Over-supply

Byron Shire already has a permanent large-scale music festival site at Tyagarah, which hosts the Blues Fest. In addition, the council is constructing a multi-million-dollar recreation and sport venue closer to Byron Bay, with the hope of attracting appropriate events, including music concerts.

The shire has several other smaller music events and there is live music every night of the week. There is no shortage of this type of entertainment. Many people feel that this contributes to the party town image and the erosion of community connection. The council recognises this in its events policy.

Inadequate services

This is largely covered in the above points. But fire, medical, ambulance, SES and police resources in this area are barely able to cope with current everyday needs. Introducing a small city (up to 50,000 people) in permanent party mode and from a risk-taking demographic is the height of folly. Not only will these services not cope, but they will not be available for the permanent residents for whom they are largely intended. Residents in the north of the shire have regular experience of trying to contact local police only to be patched through to Byron Bay and to be told that there is no one available because of the demands on the streets of Byron. And there is little hope of seeing a council ranger in the area. Sometimes the council only has one ranger to service the entire shire.

Summary

This is an over-development of a site which is inappropriate for even one large music festival. Public rallies and letters to local papers reveal widespread rejection of this proposal by people in the north of the shire. If Splendour is to have a home in the region then the State Government should reject this proposal and assist the developers to find an appropriate site which has the required support services and which doesn?t damage nearby communities.

Thank you.

P307	Project Website Submission	17/11/2010	Online Submission from Melissa PARON-CLARKE of Resident of Ocean Shores (object)	Dear Sir/Madam I grew up in Yelgun and lived there for 18 years. My Mother still lives on the Yelgun family farm and has done so for 75 years. My memories of Yelgun and my feelings towards it are happy and warm. It's a place you drive into and feel relaxed and safe. A little place hidden in the Byron Shire. I am now 38years old,and live in Ocean Shores with my own family. We still visit my Mum every week so my children can create the same fond memories I have of Yelgun. When my husband and I decided to buy a house to raise our family, we intentionally did not look in Byron Bay because we knew if you live in Byron Bay you have to tolerate the TWO annual festivals. This is NOT the lifestyle we wanted. WE chose Ocean Shores due to the limited tourists, easy going traffic and the families who call the north of our shire home. People who choose to live in Bryon Bay want the festivals in their lives. I DO NOT. I have not discussed the wildlife, the party goers, traffic, environment and the number of festivals per year etc. these issues concern me greatly. My main point is that we have not wanted a crowded, loud and busy community, therefore, you should not make me live in one as I have already chosen the community I want to live in. Yelgun with a PERMANENT Festival site is not the right thing for the north of the shire. Give the festivals back to Byron Bay or take them elsewhere. a very concerned local Melissa Paron-Clarke Name: Melissa PARON-CLARKE Organisation: Resident of Ocean Shores

However, I feel it to be more important and effective to write to you as a local of North Byron Shire with a family of 4 children growing up in this area. I live within a 5 km distance to this site and feel extremely passionate about its success. The focus has been much too biased toward Splendour in the Grass, when they should be on the further product development and the opportunities that this site will allow for cultural, environmental and job prospects. Splendour in The Grass is the means to an end to allow for commercial viability, and has gained all the spotlight. But it is the possibillity of a first class conference facility, a home for cultural events (specifically indigenous) and further opportunities for our greater community that is the true attraction of this project. We truly lack PRODUCT in the region to sustain solid tourism growth. Byron Bay has become tired and distracted by its own success, where as the Tweed is hungry for product and a hook in the global tourism market. This project has the potential to create this hook and pull Byron out of its own arrogance and into its place as the key as the cultural hub of the Northern Rivers.

The economic impact is significant, but it is much more than this. The cultural, environmental and social impacts will be far greater.

As a local I live on a 10 acre property in Billinudgel but am impacted by regular "Doof" parties in my own street that continue on for the entire night, with the ugly ramifications the morning after (10 year old daughter being hassled whilst riding her horse passed the venue with drunken louts). What control do I have over these events? None. I only see a community lacking, with limited resources to control these gatherings, and assist the greater community that is affected.

At least with a controlled venue and the events, under the supervision of a well funded organisation, that has the time and the resources to only be a positive impact with the community to benefit.

I also want my children to live and work in this region. We need job prospects and careers to do so.

P309	Project Website Submission	17/11/2010	Online Submission from Patricia McGee of Dept of Human Services, Community Services (support)	Re: ?Cultural Events Site, Yelgun 09_0028? I have lived in the district for the past few decades and have watched the evolution of cultural events and the search for a dedicated event site. The Parklands site is perfectly suited as a cultural event site; it is well located between Byron and Tweed coasts, the Coolangatta airport and a large interchange on the national highway, and the fact that there are few nearby residences reinforces its suitability. As a parent, I strongly support the opportunities for job creation the Parklands project offers, especially as the jobs are in the creative industry and cultural tourism sectors. This is a great opportunity for the region, both in terms of supporting local businesses, and highlighting the other attractions our region has to offer; many other regions in Australia do not enjoy such job opportunities. I can understand why Queensland is trying to entice the ?Splendour in the Grass? festival to one of its regions to reap the economic and cultural benefits! The Parklands team have been most conscientious in their consultations with the local community and have endeavoured to find a suitable balance so as to realise the benefits of the cultural events site with minimal impact on the local environment. The cap on site usage demonstrates commitment to achieving this balance. I have seen the success of the Community Grants Fund in past years and I look forward to its application at Parklands, which will translate into real and effective improvements for local community groups such as the local soccer club, Surf Life Saving Club, and the like. ?Splendour in the Grass? operated successfully within Byron Shire for 9 years. The community knows, and recognises that the responsive management of ?Splendour? resulted in very few complaints, while providing major positive benefits such as increased business for local businesses and bringing world class entertainment to the local area. Our region deserves a world class cultural events site. The Parklands team is offering just that ? a well managed environmentally sustainable resource which the entire region will eventually benefit from.

Subject: Re North Byron Parklands Development

Splendour In The Grass

I would like to take this opportunity to show my support for the north byron parklands development & splendour in the grass returning to Byron Bay.

I think that your development will be a wonderful thing for the Byron shire. It will provide entertainment for our kids, employment for many and would generate a lot of income for many of the businesses in and around the byron shire.

I think your proposal is a sound and ecologically friendly proposal.

I am happy and proud to support this proposal.

P311	Project Website Submission	17/11/2010	Online Submission from Catherine MacPherson (object)	I am writing to inform you that I am 100% opposed to this proposal I have lived in South Golden Beach for 18 years. I came to this area for a peaceful lifestyle and if this mega festival site goes ahead I feel, that firstly the quality and the peace and quiet of my life will be severely disrupted. I am disturbed and very concerned about the massive size of this development. This is precious, necessary and important wildlife corridor. I understand there are at least 26 threatened species. This is well known to be high quality habitat for koalas. These animals require our protection. I am very concerned about raising the flood level in north ocean shores as the last big flood, the flood waters came to 2 cm below my back door. The thumping noise from the festival will be horrific and incredibly disturbing. The continual noise of trucks moving music equipment, food, sewerage will destroy the quality of my life. It is devastating to imagine that up to 4 times each year this huge number of up to 50,000 visitors cars & buses will invade our community and create total havoc, with continual traffic jams on the highway. Also the potential illegal parking and camping, littering and general unruly behaviour is something that will be distressing to this area. So for these reasons I TOTALLY OPPOSE the proposal for this mega festival site at Yelgun.

The splendour festival was held at woodford festival site in Queensland this year. This woodford site is TOTALLY welcoming this festival and is all set up and running in a safe and professional manner. It makes perfect sense to have these mega festivals there, where they are wanted and welcomed.

This mega festival site is NOT WELCOME in our very small Byron Bay community.

We need and are looking for your support to protect us from the detrimental effects a mega festival site would have on our precious community, wildlife & lifestyle.

Please help our community

P313	Project Website Submission	17/11/2010	Online Submission (object)	Real Greed or Real Need. Please don't do it. I have lived here for twenty years and my family and I are split on this matter, the three kids want the festival (that they can't afford to go to) but they will move on and we will be stuck with it. Byron Shire by its very nature, is already exceedingly culturally wealthy and already has a major festival site (Blues Fest) about 15 klms from this one! We also have the annual Mullumbimby Music Festival which is an event that makes use of existing amenities, a very clever low carbon footprint affair by all reports. If Splendour creates such wealth for our Shire,(read Byron Bay) why cant they just rent the space at Tyagarah, they don't have to mess with anything then and they can just take their money and run, no harm no foul. Honest money making instead of all of this precocious public relations, environmental sustainability babble. If either of these major festivals were really concerned with this, they would have been holding out the olive branch to one another long ago. Why cant they share the one site, their schedules don't even conflict. We are ratepayers and have done without sportsfields and numerous other amenities here in the North of the Byron Shire, due in part to a govt. trade off, in order to preserve this very area, and all of its glorious natural surrounding coridoors, such a beautiful peaceful environment. Why now is it even possible that this company have the option for a massive festival, sorry "cultural" space? You have no doubt heard about the environmental concerns many residents have, including lots of flood talk, I have not heard any mention of fire problems. My home backs onto Billinudgel Nature Reserve we have been threatened twice by very serious fires that have started in the peat on Jones Road area. They are very difficult to fight, smouldering for days sometimes weeks and very prone to flare ups. Incredibly dangerous, for mass evacuation. Let?s face it festivals=very few people making lots of money, I don't object to that, but at what cost to THIS community, let us make that distinction perfectly clear, this is not Byron Bay. The Yelgun site, is a way for Splendour owners to appease the over burdend people of Byron Bay, NOT Byron Shire. We in the North of the shire are a little tired of being the poor relatives of the sparkling jewel and of being neglected by council and bullied by both. Give us a break for once and say no to Splendour in the Grass et al and perhaps this consortium might see their way to making a real difference to the people of the Byron Shire by instead carefully developing some of their land, while still making a buck, for the real need ...Low Key Housing.

P314	Project Website Submission	17/11/2010	Online Submission from Victoria Jeffery of Byron Bali Villas (support)	With such a massive projected increase in the population of the north coast how are people expected to find meaningful work? It is only by governments thinking outside of the traditional tourism and accommodation industries and assisting other sectors to operate that such jobs can be made available. P315	Project Website Submission	17/11/2010	Online Submission from Kathleen Norley (object)	I strongly oppose this DA for these reasons stated below.

* In 2009, the applicants were stopped from proceeding with a trial festival at Yelgun by a ruling from the Land & Environment Court concerning the roads they planned to build on the part of their land zoned as 7(k) habitat. Their current proposal ignores that court ruling and calls for roads in the same place. In fact, this part of the proposal is in direct contradiction to a specific warning the Court gave concerning any future road-building the group might propose doing.

*The Byron Bay Council strongly oppose this DA.

*Until a few weeks ago the Local Emergency Unit had not been informed of the increase in numbers from 22,500 to groups of 300 to 35,000 - 50,000. Plus the applicants claim of community consultation is questionable at least, if not disturbing in the fact that until some months ago we received by mail their flyers filling us in on there plans.

*Fire....this 600 acre's (which has the Billinudgel Nature reserve in the Middle), has very large areas of Peat, and as you are aware when peat catches on fire it burns for weeks, sometimes years. We in Byron have had one peat fire that burned for years, in Hewingsdale, and the area that this DA is situated on, had a peat fire that burnt for months which was eventually put out by a very long and heavy rain event, in that time some people had to leave their homes and live else were as they where becoming ill. They applicants are intending to put up to 29,000 people if mitigating circumstances arise, and those circumstances will arise. That many party goers in a camping area, some drunk and drugged, lighting little fires or flicking a cigarette,into the bush, an we have fire, with only one main entry an exit gate to the property and one other emergency road that is a goat track and leads onto Cudgen Creek Road and a spider road, is a serious catastrophe waiting to happen. Plus only a ten meter buffer around 25,000 -29,000 people. The whole site is surrounded by large tracks of gum tree bushland even getting 300 people out is going to be difficult.

Regional Fire Brigade had not been updated on numbers. Also Bush Fire Authority was for 17,500 Stamped 5th Oct)& Attached to Fire Hazard Assessment for a Trial DA.

*Flood...this is another poorly thought out, and wrong site for car park, as the water table is close to the ground. If we have a rain event for a week which is not uncommon in this area, the car park area is like a flood basin. The cars will have to be left which in turn, will have the run of... coming straight down into our water ways an into Marine National Parks, which will kill of all marine life plus the loss of jobs with the oyster leases that are situated at the end of water course.

SES where not informed of the increase in numbers

*Evacuation Point....is the Ocean Shores Country Club this the evacuation point is for all of the community's of Brunswick Heads, Oceans Shores, New Brighton, South Golden Beach and North Ocean Shores, this is already thousands of people and we find it hard to reach this area. Some being evac'd by fire truck as water to high, or fire moving to fast. Now they inform us that this IS the events site's evac. place how in gods earth are our SES, Fireies, etc. going to get 300 let alone 30,000 - 50,000 people to this spot.... Country Club was not advised of increased numbers or that they where to be the evac. site for Festivals or events.

* The applicants? claims of providing over 200 jobs and infusions of millions of dollars into the economy are highly questionable. Those promised benefits are based on the site operating at full capacity, virtually the whole year but at this point, the only event they have on the books is Splendour in the Grass and there is no certainty that they will be scheduling any others. For this reason, too, the proposal should not be decided by the NSW DoP.

* Traffic an Amenity.... As the applicants are going to be bringing all these cars of the Major Highway and down onto our country roads, and in the the old DA closing off the Yelgun Interchange as its to close to the Event Site Entry a large majority will access the site by cutting across into the small villages roads that cannot sustain the Tar weight of already overloaded an stressed roads, how are these Villages and Towns going to cope with this invasion all through the year.As we have not been told when other events of major size are going to happen. This DA does not cover the road usage, by the many trips that the buses an cars will be using. In saying this, it is then that we will have no access to and from our homes, places of employment, Dr,s etc. you say that this wont happen but come up here and see what happens when its holiday time our roads cannot, an will not, be able to cope with this amount of usage, without a Very large injection of cash from the State Government. We moved into the northern end of this area as we know that the Historical site for Festivals an Events was near Byron Bay, which has the accommodation, and other infrastructure to cope with these events, but with this new site the applicants are going to be dropping of people into the early hours of the morning with no where to go and many fueled with alcohol and drugs.An from past experience this is where we have experienced problems over many years.

* Environment... On ecological grounds I wish to focus on one primary point. The wildlife corridor is of high state significance and is the only corridor that links coastal wetlands with higher range rainforest form the border to south of Evans Head. There is increasing evidence of species extinction as a result of the loss of corridors enabling winter migrations to lowland forests and wetlands. There is ,in addition , increasing evidence that certain species are under extinction threat as a result of human noise impacts (Bernard Krause and others). At a time in our history when we are facing a species extinction period unprecedented since the loss of the megafauna we continue to toy with our ecosystems in the name of "progress".

You have to live here to see the way the wind and weather play such a big part in our lives regarding situations of emergency even the RTA when putting in the new section of Highway, Brunswick to Chinderah had to quite literally throw the Blue book from the Department of Meteorology out as it did not apply to our area. They had to be bought back to widen and deepen certain holding ponds and change some sections.

One other thing I must mention is that the people that make up our Local Emergency Unit happen to be friends, family, children, friends of friends, how dare a Promotional Groups put these gallant and life saving people into a situation where they will not be able to save peoples lives, because the almighty dollar is far more important than them. They will be in control of 300 - 35,000 - 50,000 people. An when someone yells fire all of these people will scatter knowing that the beach is in the opposite direction to the exit. Knowing or believing that they can escape another way. There is not enough open spaces to put these people even if they do escape.

One other important fact is that the Applicants had 17 months to put there Submission together and the residents that are going to be Majorly affected by this Site where given only 6 weeks to read and compile over 2205 pages of DA. Please say no to this DA.

I thank you for reading and hope you see this submission not as a nimby but that the site is in the totally wrong area and incapable of coping with this many people. There are other places that these promoters can go that will keep their patrons safe and there Carers safe. EG. The New Sports an Cultural Center which has 8 million dollars of tax payers money going into it and isn't surrounded by bush with a Nature Reserve in the middde of it an patrons and staff will all be safe.

P316	Project Website Submission	17/11/2010	Online Submission from Melissa Martin (support)	The North Byron Parklands people have obviously spent a lot of time developing up systems and processes to manage the environment in which they operate. It impressive to see that during events they propose to have a wildlife rescue crew in place in the unlikely event that an animal is in need of help. What other proposal has this level of thought and detail when it comes to considering the health of the environment? When you have the combined expertise of event operators as those that make up the owners of North Byron Parklands it is quite evident that events that are proposed to be held at the Parklands site will be conducted in a successful and safe manner. With years of combined expertise these industry leaders will ensure that all events are conducted in a manner that ensures the management of all aspects of large and small events are adequately covered. Tourism is really the back bone of of regional areas such as the Northern Rivers. This proposal will not only boost tourism but it will boost the creative industries sector and encourage other supportive industries to invest in the creative industries sector creating growth in the area. This proposal needs to be approved. Personally.... I support the North Byron Parklands people in the effort to conduct safe, controlled environment for events proposed. I live in Canberra with my family and love to holiday in the Byron Bay area as it is rich in culture and the arts. I enjoy attending and supporting local events, including Splendour in the Grass. These events are what draw me to the area. I am not interested in attending events such as this anywhere else, as the atmosphere is compromised due to the location which does not hold the same appeal as beautiful Byron Bay. The arts/music culture, you could argue, is the backbone of Byron Bay. The townsfolk including business would feel a great loss if arts and music festivals of this nature were taken from the parklands. With a growing population these cultural events would have only have a positive impact to the local economy and support young people and local business.

P317	Project Website Submission	17/11/2010	Online Submission from Mary Sutton (support)	It seems they most likely disturbance for the environment will be light and noise and also traffic. Having reviewed North Byron Parkland?s environmental, health and safety management manual it is clear that they have put a lot of energy into assessing and mitigating any potential environmental risks associated with these activities. The work they have done for managing the environment is above and beyond what one would expect for such a low impact activity. The North Byron Parklands event site will generate significant economic benefits to the region. There will be an increase in jobs for the maintenance and management of the North Byron Parklands site as well as employment opportunities from the organisations of the proposed events at the site. North Byron Parklands will attract tens of thousands of visitors to the area, create employment opportunities, and promote sustainable development. It seems obvious that this development will benefit our community, the local government just needs to support it!

				In my community I know of more than a dozen people who will gain from the approval of this application. From part time work to gaining new business this project represents an excellent opportunity to strengthen the local economy.

P318	Project Website Submission	17/11/2010	Online Submission from kendall sargeant (support)	The North Byron Parklands site has undergone a number of detailed assessments to assure the site is enhanced to be able to become a â□œsustainableâ□□ site for cultural events in the area. It is unlikely that many other developments on the north coast have gone into this much detail and conducted such thorough assessments. This shows the level commitment the North Byron Parkland have for this site. The size of events that could occur at Parklands is appropriate and sustainable. The few events that may reach 50,000 patrons per day in the future are not mega or huge. Other events in Australia and the rest of the world are much bigger. It would a great shame for the Byron Shire to loose the Splendour in the Grass festival. The local community needs the festival, as it offers a huge amount of business for local shop owners, pubs, hotels, motels and camping grounds. Many of these local business will feel great financial pressure if Splendour in the Grass does not return to the region.

P320	Project Website Submission	17/11/2010	Online Submission from Debbie Edinburg (support)	North Byron Parklands have already undertaken a number of detailed fauna and flora surveys across the proposed site. On top of this they have now committed to undertaking environmental audits for all major events (before, during after). Such information will be very valuable in terms of fine tuning the current environmental policies and procedures and will dramatically reduce any associated environmental pressures. Byron Bay is built on its beautiful natural assets and many tourist attractions yet like many other coastal towns it suffers from seasonal swings. The North Byron Parklands proposal would significantly smooth tourism demand by attracting visitors in traditionally slow times. As tourism is so important to the town and surrounding areas such projects should be openly encouraged. P323	Project Website Submission	17/11/2010	Online Submission (object)

I wish to record my opposition to the above mentioned project application.

The current proposal of a permanent festival site at Yelgan is completely detrimental to the wildlife in the area. With all the lights,music, noise, rubbish, cars, tents etc it will be extremely destructive for the current habitat.

Also, since sound and light travels indiscriminately, people in the neighbouring areas will definitely be affected, along with the increase in traffic, rubbish, drugs alcohol and vandalism etc. There are enough festival sites within the Shire already, with infrastructure in place, we do not need another.

I do not wish my name to be made available to the proponent.

P324	Project Website Submission	17/11/2010	Online Submission from Kristen Skinner (support)	North Byron Parklands is a really exciting idea and I really hope it goes ahead. My friends and I will definitely attend events held at the venue. I think this venue would make a huge difference to our community. The North Byron Parklands proposal will see the largest restoration program the region has seen for the past 5o years as a result of its highly detailed vegetation management plan which will result in 1000?s of trees being strategically planted around the site. The wildlife corridor has been significantly degraded over many decades due to primary production and agriculture activities. This means the corridor is currently very fragmented and in real need of revegetation. P325	Project Website Submission	17/11/2010	Online Submission from Jon Verzosa (support)	To whom it may concern, As a regular at Splendour having attended 6 Splendour In the Grass festivals I have always felt Splendour's home is in Byron. This year's festival @ Woodford was awesome but it sounds like the North Byron Parklands site is even better. Splendour has always been a environmentally conscious festival (being able to pay for your carbon footprint as part of the ticket price for example) and I think the North Byron Parklands proposal continues and expands on this.

It is pleasing to note that the North Byron Parklands proposal includes a requirement for wildlife rescue personnel to be present during all major events. This requirement means that there is a very capable first response team on hand to deal with trapped or injured wildlife. It is also an excellent opportunity for these people to monitor any interactions between people and fauna. Such data can then be used to modify and improve processes and procedures for future events.

The opportunity to showcase the stunning nature in the Byron region through a sustainable event venue is surely a wonderful proposition. Outdoor events bring people closer together, letâ□™s show the way Australia. Bring Splendour home!

The North Byron Parklands will have the Parklands teams involved who have an amazing track record in developing and holding outdoor cultural arts and music events. A guarantee that this proposal will be nothing but successful.

In that time, nobody from the local surrounding community at any time came to lend a hand or show any interest whatsoever in the preservation and rejuvenation of their surrounding environment. The antagonists are using the nature reserve as a propaganda tool for their own means. During that time we were ourselves attacked by dogs owned by the members of the surrounding community and we also saw many kangaroos that had been mauled to death by them over many a night. The only people that showed any interest in restoring the environment has been the Parklands, Matt Morris and team. It would be a tragedy if this proposal is not accepted. Thanks for your time. P330	Project Website Submission	17/11/2010	Online Submission from Katie Thawley (support)	North Byron Parklands has held a number of tree planting days on the site where they have invited the public to get their hands dirty and plant a tree in the parts of the wildlife corridor that were just open paddock. It speaks volumes for the hypocrisy of local objectors that not one of them ever turned up to put a seedling in the ground to help expand the fragmented wildlife corridor that they so loudly claim to be safeguarding. Those 7,500 trees are now some metres high and thriving. With the recent global financial crisis many businesses in the area were hit hard. Employment opportunities diminished and there is a real need for viable employers such as the proposed North Byron Parklands. The jobs this group will provide are going to be extremely important to many families and individuals. Because of the extensive level of community consultation undertaken by North Byron Parklands I have a very clear understanding of the benefits and issues of the application. The high quality of information has allowed people locally and in the wider community to make an informed decision about the proposal and I would imagine that the responses are overwhelmingly in favour of the project. It shows that when a company is prepared to go that one step further in communicating to the public that people can fully understand all of the issues and also the steps to be put in place to manage them. I fully support this application.

P332	Project Website Submission	17/11/2010	Online Submission from Juliana Balkema ()	Objections to Proposal 09_0028 (Permanent Festival Site at Yelgun) Proposal 09_0028 to the NSW Planning Department was submitted as a Part 3A Major Project. The proposal calls for Billinudgel Property Trust to establish a permanent, yearround festival site on the property called North Byron Shire Parklands in Yelgun, Byron Shire. We strongly object for the following reasons: 1. Proposal does not align with 2009 Land & Environment Court Decision The Land & Environment Court ruled in May 2009 that Byron Shire Council's 2008 approval of BPT's proposed trial Splendour festival at Yelgun was "invalid and of no effect". The state should not now rule in favour of a permanent festival site at this location, given the judicial decision about a one-off trial event. Also, the current proposal includes the key element that resulted in the Court?s rejection of the approval: the building of roads for a place of assembly in a 7(k) habitat zone.

2. Proposal does not align with Byron Council?s Tourism Management Plan

The plans to develop a permanent festival site at Yelgun run counter to Byron Shire Council's Tourism Management Plan (May 2009), which specifically indicates that Byron?s ?party? image needs to be overcome. Allowing a permanent festival site at Yelgun with multiple party-heavy events such as Splendour in the Grass will only exacerbate the growing image of Byron Shire as ?party central?.

It is not only large events that will enhance the party-town image of the shire. The applicants have indicated that they intend to hold a number of ?medium sized? events on the site and unlimited small events. An acceptance of this proposal would allow numerous ?doofs? and other music events that would create as much noise and disruption as a full-blown mega-festival like Splendour.

3. Proposal does not align with Byron Shire Council?s Events Policy

The intention to hold multiple large music events on the Yelgun property runs counter to the Events Policy that Byron Shire Council has put in place. That policy calls for a limit of 2 large, amplified music festivals each year in the shire. The policy intelligently aims to balance the desires of mega-event promoters with the needs and wishes of the residents and ratepayers of the shire.

4. Contradicts the 2009 NSW Far North Coast Regional Conservation Plan

The property in question is part of the Billinudgel Range, which is identified in DECCW?s Far North Coast Regional Conservation Plan as ?one of the few remaining coast to ranges habitat corridors in the Far North Coast Region and ? home to a number of threatened species? (p 36). The Plan also notes that ?it is likely that the area contains significant Aboriginal heritage values.? Given the importance of the area to the state?s Conservation Plan, it would be unwise and contradictory for the state to allow the establishment of a permanent festival site that would attract tens of thousands of people repeatedly throughout the year into this environmentally sensitive area.

5. Contradicts the 2009 Northern Rivers Regional Biodiversity Management Plan

The property in question is part of a ?priority area? identified in the DECCW?s 2009 Northern Rivers Regional Biodiversity Management Plan on page 54. The designated wildlife corridor within this area is supposed to ?play an ameliorative role for fauna species? in response to the predicted effects of climate change. The negative impacts and disruptions that would result from a permanent festival site on this property would negate the intended protection of wildlife in the area. Noise from heavily amplified music, artificial lights well into the night, and crowds in the thousands should not be allowed in an area of such environmental and ecological sensitivity.

It is not surprising that this area has been designated a ?priority area? for conservation by the state. The site at Yelgun is in the middle of a conservation area that has been protected for decades by local and state governments and is immediately adjacent to Billinudgel Nature Reserve, a reserve the government worked hard to establish. The plan to introduce the noise and movements of tens of thousands of people repeatedly into this area will affect this sensitive environment as surely as it will affect the wildlife. The developers? plans to plant trees on the property will not mitigate the severe negative effects of the disruptive commercial activities they are planning.

6. Understatement of Activity and General Vagueness as to Specifics

It is important to accurately assess just what the community would face if this proposal is approved. However, the proponents have given ambiguous figures as to the number of events they are planning and have given no upper limit on expected daily attendance. A flyer they distributed indicates that they intend to have 12 event days each year for major events, which are described as events with ?greater than 10,000 patrons?. Thus, area residents could every year face four 3-day events, three 4-day events, six 2-day events, twelve 1-day events, or some combination of those, each drawing unlimited numbers of people.

The promoters have also seriously understated the amount of activity associated with an event. For example, the same flyer (distributed in May 2010) states that ?the proposal is for cultural events with an upper limit of 20 days event usage a year? of which 12 days would be for major events such as the Splendour rock music festival. This makes it sound as if the impact of the site would be minimal and very low-key. No mention is made of preparation and cleanup days.

However, two key promoters stressed that by the time Splendour at Woodford opened for business in 2010, they had been on site for 2 and 3 weeks, respectively, to oversee the setting up of what they described as the ?little city? that would be the event site. (See http://www.messandnoise.com/articles/4026422). Time is also needed to take everything down and clean up. So the actual amount of people movements, vehicle movements, noise, and disruptions for major events would be far more than 12 days a year. If, for example, the promoters held 4 major events similar to Splendour (each with 3 days of operation), they could need as many as 24 weeks (168 days) of preparation and disassembly, e.g., three weeks before and three weeks after each event. On top of that would be the event days for the ?moderate events? and ?small events,? each of which would have its own prep and disassembly time.

Understatement and vagueness on these points is convenient for the promoters but not at all fair to the community who needs to know what this will actually mean to their lives. This level of understatement and vagueness is not appropriate for a Major Project, especially since the promoters have submitted a Concept Plan. If approved, the community will not be able to register objections once the true scope and scale of activity comes to light. It is not right for the promoters or the state to expect the community to accept this level of uncertainty about just what this development is going to involve. All that is clear at this point is that there will be an ongoing stream of activity on the site that will only increase in intensity on actual event days. This is another reason to conclude that the developers? ambitions exceed the site at Yelgun. Another location would be far more suitable to their intentions.

7. Need for the Precautionary Principle

An April 2010 report by respected ecologists Andrew Benwell and David Scotts contradicts the developers? assurances that multiple large festivals will have little impact on the wildlife in the area (?A Review of the Effects of Human Intrusion and Disturbances on Wildlife: Reference to a Proposed Permanent Cultural Events Site at Yelgun, NSW?). As the report?s authors stress, the proposed buffer zones between events areas and wildlife habitats are not large enough, and the nature of the events, which will bring a ?massive increase in human disturbance?, will pose significant risks to the wildlife in the area. For example, a 7(k) koala habitat is immediately adjacent to the site and was a pivotal point in the case that went before the Land & Environment Court and that the promoters lost. The Benwell and Scotts report, taken together with objections 1-6 above, provides ample justification for invoking the precautionary principle, especially given the recent study by Dr Stephen Phillips indicating that the koala population on the Tweed Coast has dropped by 50% in recent years (http://www.mygc.com.au/article/news/local-newsroom/29639-dramatic-drop-in-tweedkoala-population.php).

8. Shire Overloaded with Festival Sites and Underloaded with Infrastructure

Within Byron Shire, a mega-festival site already exists at Tyagarah (site of the annual BluesFest), and Council is currently building a sports/cultural events site on Ewingsdale Road. The shire simply does not need a third festival site.

As of August 2010, Byron Shire Council?s request to increase its rates further was refused, yet if this proposal is approved, Council will have to provide infrastructure to accommodate the thousands of non-rate-paying visitors that a permanent festival site will attract to the shire, especially to the infrastructure-poor north of the shire: roads maintenance, drainage, public amenity blocks, waste disposal, water and sewage, etc. Approving the proposal will place an enormous burden on the shire.

9. Scale Too Large

When Splendour in the Grass began ten years ago, it occurred only once a year and was a much smaller festival (under 10,000 daily attendance). It has grown through the years, and the promoters now want to grow it much further. They have adamantly refused to scale the festival back when that was suggested to them. When asked why they moved the event to Woodford in 2010, they said that they ?ran out of room at Belongil? (http://www.messandnoise.com/articles/4026422).

The event at Woodford had daily attendance of at least 32,000 people (some estimates said 35,000). This is twice what the festival drew in Byron Bay in 2009 and appears to be the new minimum daily attendance number. In addition, the promoters are on record as saying that the 2010 event was only 50% of what they envisioned for the future and that they would have to have more attendees in order to pay for growing the event still further. (See answer to the question ?So you can only get bigger?? at http://www.messandnoise.com/articles/4026422). News coverage of the Woodford event has aerial views that show the scale of the event: http://ten.com.au/videoplayer.htm?channel=Entertainment+Scoop&clipid=2683_news-grass-020810&bitrate=300&format=flash. Multiple festivals of this sort would simply overwhelm the north of Byron Shire, especially since they would be staged repeatedly through the year (the actual number still undisclosed).

10. Inadequate Community Consultation

The developers have held several ?information sessions? on their property, but these have been used to tell neighbours what they intend to do, not listen carefully to concerns or objections. In late May 2010, over 13 months after submitting their proposal to NSW Planning, they letter-boxed a small, one-page informational flyer in North Ocean

Shores with skeletal details about their plans and a vague invitation to ?provide feedback? or ?ask questions.? They have also selectively approached a few people, inviting them to come for special ?tours? of the site. Such haphazard community consultation cannot be considered suitable for a project that is considered ?major? by state standards.

The pattern of ignoring or downplaying objectors began in 2007, when the promoters submitted their first DA (for a one-off trial festival) to Byron Shire Council. Several large community meetings were convened in response, with hundreds in attendance. The promoters were specifically invited to one of these, but when they heard that many attendees were opposed to their DA and would be voicing protests, they declined to come, saying that they didn?t want to hear a lot of negative comments. From then until the one-page flyer was left in post boxes at the end of May, 2010 (3 years), the communities closest to the site have heard nothing directly from them. The only news the community has had during this time has been from promoters? press releases or their letters to the editors of local papers. During this time, several community associations sent multiple letters to the local papers to register their strong opposition to the plans. None of those associations has been approached for a meeting to hear and respond to their concerns.

Instead, the promoters bypassed the local council and the community altogether, applying to the state to approve their plans. In doing so, they have repeatedly criticised Byron Shire Council for ?pushing them out of the shire? although Council approved their DA for a trial festival. (It was the Land & Environment Court decision that put a stop to their plans.) The proponents have also stated that ?only a small, vocal minority? are against their plans. This is a convenient assertion but is also far from the truth.

The promoters commissioned a survey in August 2007 when they submitted their first DA for a trial festival. The questions were very general in nature and did not indicate the specific plans the promoters had for the one-off event at their Yelgun site. The promoters then used the results to assert that they had widespread community support for the specific event they were planning. That was a highly questionable claim. It is important to ensure that the promoters do not now present this old and inadequate survey about a trial event as evidence that the community approves of their current plans or as proof that they have adequately consulted the community about a permanent events site in that location.

The overall impression among a great number of people and associations in the Byron/Tweed area is that the promoters want to talk only to people who approve of their ambitions and will praise them. They have shown little interest in interacting with people who object to their plans or have real concerns?unless they can carefully limit and control the interactions so that the outcome is favourable to them. This is not the kind of robust consultation that a community should expect when a Major Project is the focus of attention.

11. Year-round ?Schoolies? Atmosphere

A local paper, The Byron Times, emphasises the party atmosphere of Splendour in the Grass and similar events. In fact, drug and alcohol consumption is high among Splendour attendees, and the sale of alcohol makes the festival especially lucrative for the promoters. (When asked in person if they would consider making the event alcohol-free to reduce anti-social behaviour, they stated that they would not.) A permanent festival site at Yelgun with events scheduled throughout the year will result in a permanent ?schoolies? atmosphere in the quiet north of the shire?something the current residents adamantly oppose.

Also, there is no strategy in place to police thousands of party-goers when they descend upon the site. The proponents? offer only assurances that fences will contain them and that they will provide internal security. We are concerned about who will police them when they jump the fences to gain access to the nature reserve, the beach, and private properties in the vicinity.

In staging Splendour in the Grass at Woodford in 2010, the promoters said that it was ?incredibly disappointing? and ?a pain in the arse? that they could not sell fullstrength alcohol but said that they had ?some really great wins? such as being able to sell wine in bottles and operate ?quite late hours?. (See answer to the question about midstrength alcohol sales in Queensland at http://www.messandnoise.com/articles/4026422.)

Byron Shire does not need a site that stages such events year round and would just increase in the amount of drinking among the young people who most like to attend large rock festivals.

12. Other Negative Impacts on Residential Amenity

The site is in the middle of a quiet, rural, residential area populated by people who live there because it is a quiet, rural, residential area. It is immediately adjacent to the rural hamlets and residential areas of Wooyung, Crabbes Creek, Billinudgel, Yelgun, South Golden Beach, and New Brighton and the residential community of North Ocean Shores and Ocean Shores. Forcing a permanent festival site upon these residents condemns them to repeated intrusions of the traffic, noise, and other disturbances that are associated with mega-festivals. Large numbers of people pouring into the area will overwhelm these hamlets and communities. The key promoter said about those who object to this proposal: ?Their objections are really based on that they don?t want to live next door to it. I can completely understand. Who would want to live next door to a festival site?? (See answer to the question ?What?s happening with the site you guys purchased outside of Byron? at http://www.messandnoise.com/articles/4026422). Yet the promoters assume that it?s all right to establish a permanent festival site next door to many hundreds of people who do not want to live next door to a festival site!

13. Lack of Consideration of Indigenous People's Concerns

Although Splendour promoters claim to have the support of ?the Aboriginal community? for their plans at Yelgun, we know a sizeable number of indigenous people in the immediate area who are strongly opposed to the promoters? plans. Despite the fact that the promoters have received positive reactions from a few people of indigenous heritage does not mean that the entire indigenous community supports them. A great number of indigenous neighbours have not been consulted by the promoters; their voices have not been heard.

14. Fire Risk

The risk of fire at the event site and in Billinudgel Nature Reserve is high, given that several bonfires are planned by the event organisers and that smoking and camping on site are to be allowed. People will also inevitably tramp through Billinudgel Nature Reserve between the event site and the unpatrolled beach. This expected unmonitored activity also poses a high fire risk.

15. Flood Risk

Massive, rapid flooding occurs on the Yelgun site, especially where the promoters have planned to locate their campgrounds and their parking lots. Event attendees will be at serious risk in periods of heavy rain from the inevitable overflows of North Yelgun Creek, Marshalls Creek, and the Capricornia Canal, all quite near to the site. When the RTA was upgrading the Pacific Highway in northern Byron Shire, the Blue Book (Dept of Meteorology) that they were using as a reference didn?t have the correct information regarding weather patterns in the vicinity. When the RTA got the correct information, they had to enlarge a number of the channels to address the probability of increased flooding. As residents of the area know well, the property in question floods easily, quickly, and unpredictably.

16. Negative Impact on Health Services

The number of attendees at mega-festivals and the heavy use of drugs and alcohol place a strain on local ambulance, hospitals, and psychological services during the course of the event. Given the past history of the need for emergency services during megafestivals, many residents are concerned that their own health emergencies will receive less prompt attention as a result.

17. Reduced Access to Public Thoroughfares

				Traffic has always increased substantially in the shire during Splendour events, especially clogging roads in and around Byron Bay. The Yelgun site is even less suited to such massive increases in traffic. The RTA had concerns about traffic issues when the proposal was for a single trial event. They will no doubt have concerns about multiple events at a permanent site. P333	Project Website Submission	17/11/2010	Online Submission from Ayla Eldridge ()	Byron Bay is a recognised tourism icon. It has thousands of beds in a wide range of accommodation outlets specifically designed to cater for the tourism market. When those beds remain empty for much of the year then the town should be very nervous. Those basking in the quiet times are shortsighted and cannot see the decay and decline that will follow the removal of economic generators such as the Splendour In the Grass festival and the associated North Byron Parklands project. The various Aboriginal clans in and around the proposed North Byron Parklands site have had a long history in this area and for this reason the Parklands people have spent a lot of time consulting indigenous groups and organisations to work out how best to assess the site for significance. This process was done in a cooperative framework with the results that potential sites of significance will be protected through fencing and other means. The archaeological report does not identify any aspects of the project that will have a negative impact on important cultural artefacts or values.

There has been a long search for a permanent cultural events site in the Byron Shire and while the Blues Festival has purchased a site (after the North Byron Parklands property was bought) they have always committed to only hosting the Blues Fest there. So there is still a very strong need for another site that can cater to a range of cultural and community events. The North Byron Parklands site is the perfect choice conveniently located in the North of the Shire and should be supported by all levels of government. It will be a huge benefit for the area on so many fronts.

P334	Project Website Submission	17/11/2010	Online Submission from David Hancock (support)	I am a Byron Shire local 57 years of age and unlike to attend the Splendour festival, much more likely to attend smaller events but it seems to me that these festivals must be catered for in some way. Belongil Fields no longer fits the criteria. These people have really done their homework and their plans should be allowed to proceed. There are a multitude of reasons why this proposal should be given the go ahead. The local economy will benefit, there will be jobs for the youth of the area. It will help tourism and it will attract support for the local creative industries. In my opinion the area they have chosen is ideal for the purpose. P338	Project Website Submission	17/11/2010	Online Submission from Nii-Lantey Bannerman of Groove Magazine (support)	I welcome the establishment of a cultural event site for the region. The Parklands site will host the community to come together for a wide range of community events to celebrate, to learn, for ceremonies, to exchange ideas, to demonstrate and showcase new ways of doing things. This is good for people and the planet. The environmental assessments completed for the North Byron Parklands proposal identify a number of threatened species which in the most part are winged creatures. It is most likely (based on research elsewhere) that these creatures will move away from any light and noise disturbances for no longer than for the period they occur. This is particularly true if there are specific food resources available on the North Byron Parklands site. So, once an event is finished it is more than probably that these animals will return and enjoy the quietude that will prevail at this site for the vast majority of the year. This proposal offers career opportunities and new life to Byron Bay for both young and old, there are many people in our community looking outside Byron for employment opportunities, why not offer work to them at home.

First it will accurately document the presence or otherwise of various fauna around event times. It will also importantly start to build a large amount of environmental data which can be used to guide and modify environmental practices into the future. With the already significant amount of environmental data captured through assessments and surveys, this body of knowledge is likely to be significant. Please allow the North Byron Parklands proposal to go through, it would mean so much to me and all my friends. The local government must get behind the North Byron Parklands proposal and bring Splendour in the Grass back to the Byron Shire area. The Byron shire needs the tourism, the culture and the job opprotunities that will come from this development. Lets get behind it! It would be a huge shame for this venue proposal not to be approved. North Byron Parklands proposed venue will give back to the local community, providing a environmentally sustainable area for cultural events and a gathering place for young people.

This tree planting program has been a great way to involve traditional land owners in helping to restore what is currently quite a degraded site. There are literally thousands of tourism businesses within 75 kilometres of the proposed North Byron Parklands event site. Most of these businesses are family owned and operated and as such are likely to benefit income wise from this proposal. With a flatter than normal couple of years this extra income will be warmly welcome by these businesses. North Byron Parklands will add incentive to the young people of the Northern Rivers to stay in the local area. This proposal will see a number of new employment opportunities for the youth in the community including event management, traffic control, ticketing and more. The region needs to provide more jobs for young people so they all donâ□™t move to cities. I have been going to Splendour in the Grass since 2003 when I was 19 yrs old and it is my favourite leisure activity all year. I would be so disappointed if my local festival couldn't go

P346	Project Website Submission	16/11/2010	Online Submission from Bill Hauritz of Queensland Folk Federation Inc (support)	Hello Jess I made a couple of reforms before I sent this submission off. Here are the final comments fyi. Only a few changes. Cheers Bill I am the Founder of the Queensland Folk Federation Inc and Founder and Director of The Woodford Folk Festival. I was also the principal organiser of our organisation's invitation to Splendour on The Grass moving temporarily to our site at Woodford this year. Our invitation for next year has also been issued. I should state that it is our organisation's hope that Splendour on the Grass remains at Woodford. I should declare though, in the interests of fairness, that we support the application to house this wonderful event at the Yelgun site. We support the designation of the Yelgun site and the relocation of Splendour in the Grass for the following reasons. ? Organisers of Splendour, despite some setbacks, successfully transversed the very difficult task of moving an entire festival, larger than most municipal councils, to our site with just a few months preparation and planning. As probably the most experienced festival organiser in Australia, I observed a passion for ?doing the right thing?. The issue of traffic was difficult and mistakes were made. It was mostly out of the hands of Splendour organisers. The issues were fixed in 12 hours. Splendour organisers went the full distance in observing community protocols, endearing themselves to the local community and ourselves and demonstrating complete integrity in their attitudes and actions.

? I have studied many of the well published objector?s reasons for opposing the well thought out and transparent proposal for the Yelgun site. It is my view that these objectors have exaggerated their claims and have been less than fair in their assessments; misinformed on both the intentions and science, submitting to fear and rumour. This happened at Woodford prior to Splendour this year. All fears have now been removed and the event will enjoy almost complete community support should they return as we hope.

? The land in question has been comprehensively inspected by myself on the invitation of Splendour organisers. In my view it is perfect for such development for many reasons. If I may simply summarise my views; the site works proposed will not only house such events like Splendour but will create, by necessity, substantial improvements in the land?s environmental values. The logistical geographical factors concerning the big issues such as traffic, acoustics and public amenity are near perfect for such development.

? Our society needs to set aside land for the purposes of cultural development. The sheer success of our own event, now 25 years old and growing along with many other examples worldwide, demonstrate that not only are these events culturally imperative, but that they have become important and sustainable economic boons to rural communities. We set aside land for residential, industrial, commercial, sporting and environment use but nowhere in our town planning statutes have we provided for such land use. It is needed.

? In our Town Planning work at Woodford we have worked with State Government and Regional Councils to find ways for such designation of land. While this has been difficult to navigate, the support we have received from politicians on all sides of our Parliaments and the unanimous support from their bureaucracies have found a way. The objectors have all but disappeared and the environmental lobby that opposed us in the beginning are now our fiercest allies. There is a way.

If officers assessing the application require any information in regard to Splendour in the Grass at Woodford we would be very happy to provide whatever documentation required. Please contact me.

Splendour in the Grass is one of the great festivals in Australia. It needs it's own home and the Yelgun property is the right place.

Byron Shire and the wider northern rivers region has been a fast growing area for the creative industries sector. Huge numbers of people have moved into the region with expectations of finding work in this sector and more than ever there is a need to ensure that projects that directly and indirectly benefit this growing sector are supported. The Parklands proposal if approved will become a dominant force in expanding the creative industries sector and will provide substantial job opportunities. I can see this project creating only positive outcomes for the WHOLE community. In a shire where employment is scarce, this project will create jobs not only for those employed directly from this project but also from the flow on effect of the services required to cater for events. There has been much written in the local papers recently about the environmental impacts on the site, I believe NBP have gone above and beyond their call of duty in adressing these issues. Whilst I believe in environmental sustainability, I also believe in community sustainability, the community being able to support itself. P350	Project Website Submission	16/11/2010	Online Submission from Laura Robertson (support)	There is current trend on The Northern Rivers for young adults to move to major cities such as Sydney and Melbourne soon after finishing school. North Byron Parklands provides incentives for the youth to remain in the area by creating new and exciting employment opportunities, such as event management, live sound engineering, and even a career in music! The size of events that could occur at Parklands is appropriate and sustainable. The few events that may reach 50,000 patrons per day in the future are not mega or huge. Other events in Australia and the rest of the world are much bigger. North Byron Parklands is likely to be the first arts and music venue that has prepared an environmental, health and safety management manual to manage interactions with the environment. The environmental standard from this manual provides a range of measures designed to protect the environment. Given that the activity in question is low impact the environmental management of the site will easily achieve positive benefits for the environment.

P352	Project Website Submission	16/11/2010	Online Submission from Linda Tohver (object)

I object to the application for a number of reasons relating to sustainability and intergenerational equity:

a) Environmental - increased vehicle and Co2 emissions; impact on natural environment and biodiversity; litter (imagine all the water bottles filling up our creeks and landfills!) and illegal dumping; waste and water management for the number of events proposed both on and off-site with number of tourists/event goers.

b) Social impacts - increase in transitory population inclusive of traffic and the impact of this on local population; lack of resources and infrastructure equipped to deal with increase in transitory population in surrounding areas; potential increase in violence and increase in criminal activity (there are always more break-ins around the time of the big festivals); increased drug and alcohol abuse, local safety, and consequences both on and off site and local resources being used to deal with these issues; illegal holiday lettings;

c) Economic impacts - most of the money spent is within the festival grounds, so local businesses do not profit as much as would be predicted. Employment that the event organisers claim is only for casual and therefore creates more transitory population/ so no guarantee of future employment of locals.

I strongly object that this unique and culturally and ecologically diverse part of northern NSW be subjected to ongoing festival use and the impact of such festivals has on local communities and my children in the future.

P353	Project Website Submission	16/11/2010	Online Submission from Lisa Bell (support)	The Department would be hard pressed to list other proposals such as the North Byron Parklands one that has clearly documented the environmental controls it proposes to put in place to actively manage the environment. The environmental management manual is an excellent example of a proactive organisation who is obviously serious about ensuring that fauna and flora is appropriately considered and managed within legislative requirements. Employment opportunities are getting harder and harder for many people in rural areas to find. With so many industries moving out of rural areas we need to encourage those businesses that want to set up in these regions with as much help as possible. I understand that North Byron Parklands will provide a large number of jobs across a very broad range skill sets. Projects of this nature should be approved on this basis alone. As a state, we need to get behind this proposal. Over the years we have lost many cultural event opportunities to QLD and VIC because we don?t have a sufficient event site. North Byron Parklands has all the right controls in place and a positive cultural outlook for our sate. We must support this application. The Northern Rivers region needs to plan ahead for future employment and training opportunities for our young community. We need to offer options to the young members of the community to encourage them to stay in the area. This proposal will provide these incentives. GIVE US A HOME!! Lisa! The beauty of this application is that it also strongly supports the environment. If you speak to anyone these days, getting and keeping a job is high up on the list. P355	Project Website Submission	16/11/2010	Online Submission from Laura Cameron (support)	Our environment, events, culture and celebration is an amazing reason to go ahead with this proposal. North Byron Parklands has adopted the mapped wildlife corridors from the Byron Biodiversity Conservation Strategy as areas to be dedicated to restoration of tree cover. Future plantings and assisted regeneration in these areas will significantly increase opportunities for movement of terrestrial fauna. This is only one of many significant programs that will enhance the environment within and adjacent to the site. Byron Bay is widely known for pushing the barrier and making things possible. P356	Project Website Submission	16/11/2010	Online Submission from melissa warren (support)	North Byron Parklands is committed to developing world class sustainable event site through careful planning and management of activities that take place throughout the year. Events offer a broad range of jobs to lots of individuals. From labourers to sound engineers or caterers to sign writers these jobs are very much needed in NSW. We have already lost a lot of our events to Queensland and other states and we must grasp this huge employment opportunity with both hands. The government has an obligation to approve this project. With respect to ensuring that staff and contractors take care to protect and enhance the environment where events will take place, it is excellent to note that the North Byron Parklands proposal includes an environmental induction for such workers. In this instance all workers are required to read and sign an environmental induction which covers a range of important environmental issues, not the least the environmental incident notification system. P357	Project Website Submission	16/11/2010	Online Submission from dallas james robertson (support)	The North Byron Parklands is quite unique in that the proposed outdoor venue will be non-operation for the vast majority of the year. With only twenty event days per year this means that there is significant time for resting the site which is a huge positive for the environment. It should be considered that if this development does not proceed then some other form of development which may be far more intrusive and full time in nature may be applied for and approved in the future. P359	Project Website Submission	16/11/2010	Online Submission from Brendan Deegan of 7whatevers (support)	I welcome the establishment of a cultural event site for the region. The Parklands site will host the community to come together for a wide range of community events to celebrate, to learn, for ceremonies, to exchange ideas, to demonstrate and showcase new ways of doing things. This is good for people and the planet. Please approve this project, it really sounds exciting for various reasons, arts, employment and cultural awareness. How fantastic! Its time for our state government to get behind the music and arts industries and support them by helping to provide a much needed sustainable outdoor music and arts venue. Its time to approve North Byron Parklands. I know many people in the creative industries sector that will benefit financially and through greater exposure to their markets if the North Byron Parklands project is approved. P360	Project Website Submission	16/11/2010	Online Submission from Stephen Baird (support)	There is a real need to reverse the current trend of closing music and artistic venues around the State of NSW. Music and arts are so important to the health and vibrancy of a community and I urge you to approve the North Byron parklands venue.
				The North Byron Parklands proposal has considered both indigenous and non-indigenous issues associated with the proposal. In particular, Parklands has worked closely with the local Tweed/Byron Aboriginal Land Council and has complemented a number of archaeological digs to help determine the significance of parts of the site. It is pleasing to see that certain areas of the site will become ?out of bounds? to protect identified areas of importance.
				With respect to the mapped wildlife corridor it should be pointed out that many parts of it identified as high conservation have in fact been cleared by previous land owners. The North Byron Parklands proposal has not only committed to helping restore this corridor, they have also committed to doing so in accordance with the Byron Shire Council wildlife map. This means having the opportunity to actually realise ?on-ground? what the currently inaccurate council map purports is in existence. The end result will be a greatly improved corridor that actually has some functioning capabilities.

P362	Project Website Submission	16/11/2010	Online Submission from Brent Manieri of Surf Life Saving NSW (support)	Byron and the surrounding areas relies substantially on a range of small businesses and cottage industries to employ the people that live in this community. There are not many large employers such as what North Byron Parklands would become should it be approved. I think we need to approve and support these types of projects in regional areas to ensure there are enough job choices available to people. Lets set the standard for cultural event venues in Australia. North Byron Parklands will be a sustainable cultural venue that be available for future generations to enjoy. The Byron Shire usually promotes sustainable developments, so why not support this one?

This proposal is a no brainer for the young. The jobs are vital, not just at North Byron Parklands but in all the industries which this proposal supports and makes more viable. The proposal is a tangible cultural asset for our young people.

One of the big threats to the environment is the accidental ignition of a bushfire. The North Byron Parklands group have identified this as a risk and have developed a Bushfire Standard that address this issue and places a number of carefully considered controls such as provision of bulk water tanks, having the Rural Fire Brigade onsite during major events and the provision of fire extinguishers, etc. I am confident that with such measures and given most of the site is cleared that this issue will be well managed.

P364	Project Website Submission	16/11/2010	Online Submission from Shandell Boyd (support)	North Byron Parklands commintment to the preserving and enhancing the local ecosytems is shown through the large amount of ecological planning that has already gone into the proposed site. Parklands has developed a environmental, health and safety management manual to ensure the end result is a sustainable cultural events site. The proposed Parklands site has a long history with various Aboriginal clans in and around the area and North Byron Parklands has gone to great measures to maintain important cultural areas. It is great to see that the archaeological report conducted by Parklands does not identify any aspects of the project that will have a negative impact on important cultural artefacts or values. The North Byron Parklands proposal provides so many new opportunities to the community. The residents will be offered new job opportunities and business owners will gain more business through a boost in tourism to the area. P365	Project Website Submission	16/11/2010	Online Submission from Timothy Snartt (support)	The North Byron Parklands proposal is likely to improve wildlife corridors, fauna habitat and consolidation of fragmented forest blocks. This is shown by the level of environmental assessment that has been conducted across the site by North Byron Parklands. All assessments indicate that the proposal will have minimal environmental impacts. I honestly do not think there is any other event venue in Australia, let alone NSW, that has so much going for it. Positioned in beautiful Byron Bay this incredible venue will stimulate so many other supportive industries to invest and grow the creative industries sector. This sector along with tourism is the life blood of regional areas such as northern NSW and I cannot see any sensible reason why it should not be approved. A cultural event site such as the one proposed by North Byron Parklands will help develop creative industries on the north coast. Events such as Splendour In The Grass inspire and encourage young adults to be creative and also provide special initiatives such as the young artists program, Splendid. P366	Project Website Submission	16/11/2010	Online Submission from Sam Andary of HY (support)

With the Environmental, Health and Safety management manual prepared by North Byron Parklands the management of environmental values will be done so within a world class framework which will reduce potential and actual impacts on fauna and flora. The system is that comprehensive that it has even considered and regulated light spill from potable lighting towers. The proponents should be commended on such an initiative.

Holding events requires a sound understanding of a whole range of logistical and safety aspects. The team behind North Byron Parklands have been responsible for putting together numerous large events over the past decade. In each case they have successfully managed important aspects such as noise, ecology, lighting, traffic and crowd and safety management. The systems and procedures they have developed will assist any event being held at the North Byron Parklands site which I believe will help result in successful events.

The North Byron Parklands application exceeds all expectations and must be approved. There is just so many good things that will come from North Byron Parklands proposal including environmental restoration, employment opportunities, a tourism increase, and a boost in local businessâ□™ income. There is no reason why this proposal should not be approved by state government.

North Byron Parklands proposal is a very positive thing for the youth in the community. This proposal will see new jobs in the region and promote sustainable development throughout the country. This application must be approved for our youth!

P370	Project Website Submission	16/11/2010	Online Submission from Ian and Kris Campbell (object)	I object to this proposed project on the following grounds- -The proposal is contrary to the State Governments planning decisions regarding the site. -Up to 50,000 attendees (nearly double the shires population) coming daily to a rural area with very limited access. How will we, who live here, be able to go about our business without being seriously inconvenienced by local road access blocked in both directions for ten kilometres? -The proposal for regular events throughout the year causes us real concerns for our privacy and security. Are the proponents of this project going to install some type of gated security for the residents of Yelgun? -The flora and fauna of Billinudgel Nature Reserve will be subjected to significant and intolerable threats from noise, artificial lighting and human disturbance. -The site is highly susceptible to flooding and fire. The resources of local emergency services are limited and can't be in two places at once.In an emergency situation, due to limitations with access (as noted above), emergency services may well be unable to do their job.

-The infrastructure and services in the surrounding villages and towns will be overwhelmed by the proposed massive influx of event attendees.

-There is already a permanent event/festival site for this region at Tyagerah.Why are two required?

-This area (northern end of Byron Shire) is predominantly rural and urban with quite a high density of people in both areas.The minimal services and infrastructure we have access to will be unable to meet the demands placed upon them by this project with its proposed eight major events and unlimited smaller events and massive influx of attendees filling our front gardens,limited rental properties, roads, parks, beaches, shops and supermarkets, restaurants,cafes and hotels beyond bursting point, leading to the alienation of locals, visitors and tourists not involved with anything to do with this proposal.

As such it is currently highly fragmented and in need of revegetation. The Parklands proposal will see the biggest rehabilitation program the area has seen for the past 5o years as a result of its detailed vegetation management plan which will result in thousands of trees being planted in strategic areas. This proposal will expose our young people to an array of new job options including event management, live sound engineering, various publicity/promotional roles, and traffic management. The region needs new jobs and North Byron Parklands will provide this. P373	Project Website Submission	16/11/2010	Online Submission from Jaimi Robinson of Hot Tomato Radio (support)	It is pleasing to note that the North Byron Parklands proposal includes a requirement for wildlife rescue personnel to be present during all major events. This requirement means that there is a very capable first response team on hand to deal with trapped or injured wildlife. It is also an excellent opportunity for these people to monitor any interactions between people and fauna. Such data can then be used to modify and improve processes and procedures for future events. With such a massive projected increase in the population of the north coast how are people expected to find meaningful work? It is only by governments thinking outside of the traditional tourism and accommodation industries and assisting other sectors to operate that such jobs can be made available. Parklands covers an industry that can provide lots of local jobs.

Because of the extensive level of community consultation undertaken by North Byron Parklands I have a very clear understanding of the benefits and issues of the application. The high quality of information has allowed people locally and in the wider community to make an informed decision about the proposal and I would imagine that the responses are overwhelmingly in favour of the project. It shows that when a company is prepared to go that one step further in communicating to the public that people can fully understand all of the issues and also the steps to be put in place to manage them. I fully support this application.

North Byron Parklands proposal is a very positive thing for the youth in the community. This proposal will see new jobs in the region and promote sustainable development throughout the country. This application must be approved for our youth!

P374	Project Website Submission	16/11/2010	Online Submission from gayle gillett of skydive byron bay (support)	When the owners of North Byron Parklands bought the property they took on board a court order to rehabilitate Yelgun Creek which was badly degraded by the former owner. This creek system used to flow into the Billinudgel Nature Reserve, feeding it with flood waters and providing the varied hydrological flows that the existing flora community required. The North Byron Parklands people will now rehabilitate the creek by removing excess siltation and undertaking riparian plantings. This will be a huge plus for the nature reserve. As part of Parklands proposed construction phase they have developed a range of measures to mitigate environmental impacts. These include erecting signage, supervision of minor tree removal by a qualified ecologist, compensatory planting, fauna culverts and the installation of sediment and erosion control systems. This is just for the construction component of the project. The environmental controls proposed for the operation phase are even more detailed and impressive. Many projects that have occurred across the North Coast of NSW have not undertaken even a tenth of the assessment, survey and fauna/flora investigations as that completed by North Byron Parklands. The extensive vegetation mapping and the identification of fauna across the site, coupled with two koala surveys (which did not locate any koalas) demonstrate the level of environmental assessment undertaken by this organisation. When you then add the environmental controls as proposed in their environmental, health and safety management manual it is evident that these people are very serious about environmental management. North Byron Parklands will join forces with local learning institutes like Southern Cross University and SAE (School of Audio Engineering) to further improve the areas creative industries. This alliance will provide the community with world class training and work experience opportunities. P375	Project Website Submission	16/11/2010	Online Submission from Caitlin Maskey of N/A (support)	Events are a huge part of the Byron Shire calendar and the area has benefited over the years in so many ways by these well managed shows. Right now there are no venue spaces available for events due to various land use changes and space restrictions. Even the recently acquired event space for the Blues Festival is reported only to ever be used for this one event. The North Byron Parklands site is a once in a generation opportunity to develop a world class event venue that can cater for small and large events and provide the economic, social and environmental benefits that have traditionally flowed from these activities. Losing this much needed business to Queensland or another state would be a crime. A lot of my friends are moving outside of Byron Bay to bigger and better opportunities. It would be great if we had those opportunities offered to us closer to home. In conclusion we have to fight for our right to party. P376	Project Website Submission	16/11/2010	Online Submission from Marie Hayes of N/A (object)	1: Usage of said land, as a multi Cultural Event site contravenes the protection of Aboriginal Heritage and totally disregards the State of NSW Parliaments historic step,through introduced legislation on 8 Sep.2010, to amend the preamble of the Constitution Act 1902 (NSW), to formally acknowledge Aboriginal people as the State?s first people and nation. If the State is serious in continuing to make unique and lasting contribution to the identity of New South Wales, it must move on from ?SORRY ?to acts of reconciliation, to formally acknowledge and honour Aboriginal People as the traditional custodians and occupiers of the land in NSW and recognition, which the bill includes,that Aboriginal people have a SPIRITUAL ,social, CULTURAL and economic relationship with their traditional lands. Aboriginal people must have equal rights. Desecration of any other religions sacred sites, memorials, grave yards would not be tolerated under NSW law. Aboriginal Heritage, sacred, sites must be included. 2: The Great Eastern Ranges (East-West) Wildlife Corridor is the last protected space for preservation and migration of endangered species .The State have spent millions over the years in conserving the Billinudgel Nature Reserve. The traffic of 35,000 to 50,000 ?party goers? would destroy all possible continuation of these government introduced projects and aims.

3: The infrastructure of neighbouring towns cannot support the needs of so great a number of revellers, many of whom will be opting for sleeping in cars, vans and nature reserves..

4: Noise pollution, and Greenhouse Gas Emissions from such high volume traffic inherently breeches the governments own commitments and development goals re reduction of the same.

5: Shire Traffic Congestion issues are already unresolved and adding an extra 50,000 people will further exacerbate traffic problems.

P378	Project Website Submission	16/11/2010	Online Submission from Brent Lucadou-Wells (support)	Environmental audits are a requirement for all major events. If we consider that eventually there might be up to three major events in a given year one can start to get an idea of the breadth and depth of environmental information that will be captured by these environmental audits. North Byron Parklands will be able to build up an impressive database of fauna and flora observations and will then be able to adjust or modify their policies and procedures to better protect environmental values moving forward.

The average annual household income in the Byron Shire and the Northern Rivers is substantially lower than NSW (approximately $55,000 compared with $71,000) and as such employment opportunities generated by North Byron Parklands would be incredibly valuable to the Shire and the region.

Imagine an events venue that can attract tens of thousands of visitors to a rural area. Imagine an events venue that has investigated and assessed all aspects of its operation and developed best practice policies and procedures. Imagine an events venue that generates lots of employment opportunities and provides much needed income for a range of businesses. Well the events venue is North Byron Parklands and it should be approved by the government because sustainable projects like this are few and far between.Â Â Â Â Â

I also feel that the organisers have always gone to extra lengths to ensure the festival has as little a negative impact on the natural surroundings as possible. So many people I know gain so much enjoyment from listening to live music. It seems to form an important part of our cultural expression within our society, however it appears to be on the wane in this country. P380	Project Website Submission	16/11/2010	Online Submission from John Byron (support)	North Byron Parklands aims to maintain the integrity of the events site and manage the sites usage using the latest environmental mangement and monitoring systems to ensure a sustainable events site for future generations. Much of the agricultural and forestry industries of the northern rivers has significantly declined over the past decade and many people have been forced into lower paid sectors such as retail and tourism. Now more than ever there is a need for diversifying the employment base and the North Byron Parklands proposal will do exactly that. With job positions projected to be more than 200 there is a very real need to approve such a project. This proposal will expose our young people to an array of new job options including event management, live sound engineering, various publicity/promotional roles, and traffic management. P381	Project Website Submission	16/11/2010	Online Submission from Tim Leoncelli (support)	North Byron Parklands have already undertaken a number of detailed fauna and flora surveys across the proposed site. On top of this they have now committed to undertaking environmental audits for all major events (before, during after). Such information will be very valuable in terms of fine tuning the current environmental policies and procedures and will dramatically reduce any associated environmental pressures. The Byron Shire Council identifies the creative industries sector as one of nine key focus areas which foster the prosperity of the shire through sustainable job creation. The shire has a long history of creative endeavours and this needs to be built on by supporting such proposals as that put forward by North Byron Parklands. Generating a large number of jobs for the area, it is extremely important that it is approved. Doing so will provide a broad spectrum of the local community with jobs that would otherwise not be available.

P382	Project Website Submission	16/11/2010	Online Submission from Cecilie Holm (support)	There is a real need to reverse the current trend of closing music and artistic venues around the State of NSW. Music and arts are so important to the health and vibrancy of a community and I urge you to approve the North Byron parklands venue. With the employment numbers as low as they are, the Byron Shire community needs the jobs that will come from approving the North byron Parklands proposal and bringing Splendour in the Grass home! Tourism is one of the biggest industries and employers on the north coast and is very important to many people for their livelihood. P384	Project Website Submission	16/11/2010	Online Submission from Justine Millsom of Glass Bar and Dining (support)	Talking to locals whilst on visits to Byron Bay, it is obvious they are struggling with the recent decline in tourism due to the rise of the Australian dollar. Everybody from restauranteurs to cab drivers really do rely on times such as 'The Blues and Roots Festival' and 'Splendour in the Grass' to help boost cash flow in the region The Byron and surrounding areas in the last twenty years have survived on the back of tourism. While other more traditional industries have been in decline, tourism has provided an income for countless families and individuals in the region. North Byron Parklands is a project that will generate large numbers of visitors to the region which given the recent global financial crisis is just what the sector needs. It should be approved on this basis alone. . With up to twenty days of events each year the work experience opportunities for people in the region are very exciting. The bump in and bump out periods provide further work. We need these jobs and the training they provide, from high level event management to ticketing, technical production and traffic management. P385	Project Website Submission	16/11/2010	Online Submission from Nathan Williams (support)	One of the big measures that will protect fauna at the North Byron Parklands site is the limiting of events to a minimal number each year. If such a proposal was to operate for 20 weeks a year then they may cause some environmental problems but given that it will only run for 20 days a year and the rest of the time it will be just farm land, then this has to be a strong positive. The events management industry is extremely competitive and only those operators who can demonstrate compliance with all facets of event management time and time again are the ones that survive. The owners of North Byron Parklands each have years of experience in bringing highly successful events to the general public. Such an outstanding track record only comes about through effective, well planned event policies and procedures. So many people in the northern rivers area rely on the tourism industry for their bread and butter. These days most businesses are geared towards the tourism dollar and if past trends are anything to go by this industry sector will continue to play a key role in the region?s economic fortunes. The people behind Parklands will play a dominant role in growing and sustaining the tourism industry and we should all get behind them to make this project a reality. If this proposal is approved, the Byron Shire area will be able to market itself as a place for sustainable events and creativity. P386	Project Website Submission	16/11/2010	Online Submission from Jeremy Benwell (object)	Splendour's proposal to hold their festival at Yelgun is typical development having little regard for the environment and the community. There is around 30 threatened fauna species known or likely to use habitats within the proposed Yelgun cultural event site and the Billinudgel Nature Reserve. These include frogs, potoroos, koalas, bats and owls. The negative effects of a festival site hosting huge events year round, right on the edge of a nature reserve is predominant. Such things as Artificial night lighting, Human-induced noise, mass people presence will all lead to habitat degradation. The environmental is one factor and then there is the community. Yelgun is an important buffer zone that separates Byron Bay to the the Gold coast. P390	Project Website Submission	16/11/2010	Online Submission from Sarah Ewing (support)	I have been to many outdoor event sites over the past number of years but have never come across a venue that has taken so much effort to develop and implement so many environmental programs. When there are events at this site they will need to comply with a bunch of strict environmental policies and procedures. If only other venues could take a leaf out of these guyâ□™s book. There is currently approximately 294,00 people living on the Northern Rivers and this

P391	Project Website Submission	16/11/2010	Online Submission from Sara Zuidland (support)	Many supposed local environmental groups have been invited to visit the North Byron Parklands and to participate in the public tree planting days that have been held over the past few years. Unfortunately none of these groups have actually converted their words into action by helping to repair this partially degraded site. The local indigenous bush regeneration team on the other hand has been responsible for planting thousands of trees in key locations and is another example of the Parklands group working with its community. Byron has had a long history in hosting world class events however such events have always been held at suboptimal venues, most of which are no longer available. The Blues Festival has recently bought a site but it is my understanding that they only intend to hold this one event there each year. The North Byron Parklands on the other hand is significantly bigger and has better highway access and large buffers around the site to contain noise and other activities. Approving this development will allow the growth of such popular events as Splendour in the Grass to stay in NSW. I have visited Byron Bay for the Splendour festival on a number of occasions, while the focus is on the music for the weekend, there is a consistent background theme of enjoying and appreciating our gorgeous surrounds. I have always been happy to see the Splendour team's approach to highlighting the need to support and encourage community participation in the festival and the rehabilitation and maintenance of the sites environment. P392	Project Website Submission	16/11/2010	Online Submission from Lauren Barrowcliff of Faulkner Media Management (support)	The Parklands development proposes the planting of thousands of extra trees that will improve habitat for wildlife and boost the ecological integrity of the Billinudgel Nature Reserve and the â□˜coast to hinterlandâ□™ wildlife corridor. The extended â□˜restâ□™ time that the event site will receive will not only aid the direct sight but encourage growth in the surrounding nature reserves. We constantly hear about politicians doing their best to ensure a supply of good jobs for our young people, however NSW currently is experiencing very high rates of youth unemployment. Governments and politicians must become more aware of the types of projects that will generate such youth oriented jobs and the North Byron Parklands proposal is a very good example. Reported to generate in excess of 200 jobs it seems to make sense to me to approve it.

				Tourism is a massive income generating activity for Byron Shire and the northern rivers region. The Parklands proposal will bring tens of thousands of people to the area, all of whom will need accommodation and food. It is so important that this project be approved because the positive economic impacts are so significant.

There is actually an ancient Aboriginal meeting place situated in the local area that contains the Parkland site. This site will be a cultural meeting place for all Australians. In a coastal region such as the Byron and Tweed areas tourism businesses are the financial lifeblood for so many people. Ensuring we attract businesses such as North Byron Parklands who will be responsible for bringing significant numbers of visitors to the region is vital if we are to maintain the viability of this critical sector. Government agencies should be approving projects of this nature.

				If you look at the multitude of government regional growth forecasts for areas such as the northern rivers it is plain to see that will a rapidly expanding population there is a strong need for a diverse and stable employment base. Jobs will be critical to the longer term sustainability of the region and therefore when projects such as North Byron Parklands come along they should be embraced and assisted by state and local governments.

This is a huge windfall for an environment which is currently predominantly cleared pasture land. This proposal will create a cultural breading ground for the Byron Shire and for that reason alone this proposal must be approved by local government. Bring Splendour home! While it has to be recognised that the recently upgraded Pacific Highway and the existing Tweed Valley Way represent the biggest barrier to fauna migration in an east-west direction, the owners of North Byron Parklands have committed to improving the currently degraded wildlife corridor in a number of ways. Putting aside the fact that they have already planted over 7,000 trees in the corridor area and removed large quantities of noxious weeds, their vegetation management plan will dramatically improve vegetation cover and thereby improve species movement opportunities through the further planting of endemic trees. When events are not being staged at North Byron Parklands, there will be reafforestation and noxious weed removal activities. When there are events at this site they will need to comply with a bunch of strict environmental policies and procedures. If only other venues could take a leaf out of these guyâ□™s book. With so many people moving into capital cities the government needs to ensure that regional employment opportunities are secured whenever they are offered. Parklands have a project that will provide plenty of jobs for a range of people and it is super important that they jobs stay in our area. This proposal offers career opportunities and new life to Byron Bay for both young and old, there are many people in our community looking outside Byron for employment opportunities, why not offer work to them at home.

I believe that the people of Byron Bay have probably grown used to having that little extra influx of people once a year. Alot of the businesses probably prepare all year to be ready to make that extra bit of money in this busy time and I feel in the long run will miss the income splendour brings.

Apart from all of this, it is a great chance for people that might not otherwise think to journey to Byron Bay to see everything Byron has to offer. It is a beautiful area and I think the more people that get to experience the natural beauty this venue has to offer, all the better for Byron Bay.

It is a tradition that has been going on for years and it would be very sad to see it gone.

Re: Cultural Events Site ? Tweed Valley Way and Jones Road, Yelgun (09_0028) - Yelgun

Dear Department of Planning ,

As an environmental consultant and professional ecologist who has carried out previous studies of the proposed festival site (see end of this submission), I wish to register the following objections to the Project Application:-

? serious adverse impact on the nature conservation values of the project site and adjoining Billinudgel Nature Reserve, including over 30 listed threatened fauna species;

? conflict with habitat protection land-use zoning (7k) and identified wildlife corridor;

? use of ecological monitoring as a mitigation measure;

? adverse impact on aboriginal cultural heritage; and

? public safety risks.

The following sections of this submission explain my reasons for lodging these objections.

Ecological Risk of Proposal ? the Impacts of Human Intrusion and Disturbance

The key issue of this Project Application is impact on threatened species and the locality?s high conservation values. The ecological assessment report (Fitzgerald 2010) generally finds that the impacts of the festival site on threatened fauna species cannot be predicted. I would argue that there is much evidence to indicate that the effects will significantly adverse (Benwell and Scotts 2009).

Monitoring of ecological impacts and changes to the land-use if significant adverse impacts are detected have been proposed. Ensuring an independent and rigorous scientific evaluation of the proposal?s ecological impact is problematic and expecting clear evidence of whether or not adverse impacts are occurring is in my opinion unrealistic. Too often monitoring is applied as a mitigation measure then tardily implemented and without serious possibility of findings interfering with the development once it is underway. Hard decisions about ecological impact should be made at the project assessment stage and not put off in the guise of monitoring, presented as a mitigation measure.

More importantly, I would argue that there is already evidence from scientific research to indicate that the proposal would have a major adverse edge effect on threatened fauna habitat, impacting significantly on local threatened fauna populations. If deterioration in the ecology of the locality occurs as a result of the festival site it will be as a result of the ecological edge effects associated with large scale human presence, noise, illumination and loss of habitat space for local threatened fauna. There is large body of research literature on edge effects. Ecological edge effects are in my opinion a key environmental issue which is not adequately addressed in the Project Application.

The report ?A Review of the Effects of Human Intrusion and Disturbance on Wildlife; Reference to a Proposed Permanent Cultural Events Site at Yelgun, New South Wales? (Benwell and Scotts 2009) examines the potential significant impacts of increased human intrusion and disturbance on wildlife and seeks to place those impacts within the context of a planned permanent cultural events site at Yelgun, on the north coast of New South Wales. Human intrusion and disturbance refer to the effects of human activities such as movement and congregating of people, increased noise, artificial night lighting, pedestrian and vehicular traffic and other indirect impacts, which intrude on wildlife, but do not involve direct destruction of habitat. Such ?non-consumptive disturbances? are often associated with outdoor recreational activity occurring in parklands, reserves and other areas that also function as wildlife habitat. The impact of human disturbance on wildlife is subtle compared to overt forms of disturbance such as deforestation and chemical pollution, which have immediate destructive effects, but human disturbance has insidious and cumulative effects on wildlife (Price 2008). In the context of this review we are primarily considering human-induced effects as manifestations of the impacts of activities associated with a cultural festival site (e.g. elevated people presence, periodic intense noise, artificial lighting, potential changes to species compositions and interactions).

With regard to the proposed cultural events site at Yelgun, there is a tacit assumption that Billinudgel Nature Reserve will act as a refuge or source of unoccupied available habitat for individuals displaced from the festival site by human disturbance. Putting aside the likely impacts of elevated human disturbance as an edge effect on the reserve itself, this assumes that there is available habitat; the reserve is not already at carrying capacity for that species given food resources and predator activity; and that increased density within the reserve will not affect long-term survival and fecundity. Arguments could be made either way, but essentially we do not know with any certainty what the exact effects of a massive increase in human disturbance (relative to the current situation) will be, but there is a significant risk that survival and fecundity of local populations will be adversely affected, resulting in population declines.

Possible mitigating circumstances for large scale human disturbance at Yelgun include habituation and buffer zones. The term ?habituation? is often misused to describe any observed moderation in wildlife responses to human disturbance and is often confused with tolerance which is the intensity of disturbance that an individual tolerates without responding in a defined way; tolerance is often mistaken for habituation (see Sec. 6.2). The phenomenon of habituation appears to depend on the frequency and the intensity of encounters. Wildlife is less likely to habituate to human disturbances entailing either low frequency or high intensity. In the case of the proposed cultural events site at Yelgun, it would appear that human disturbance will be intermittent and probably very high in intensity, a combination least likely to result in habituation behaviour in wildlife.

Narrow buffer zones are unlikely to be effective in mitigating potential loss of wildlife diversity at the Yelgun locality, because of the intensity of human disturbance associated with a large cultural events site and its close proximity to core and matrix habitat (of regional conservation significance). Rather than narrow buffer zones, it is suggested that conservation areas established in rural landscapes that then become subject to increasing pressure from development, require a graded system of land-use buffer zoning that explicitly recognises the level of human disturbance associated with different land uses and their impact on wildlife.

In sensitive species, human activity within or adjoining wildlife habitat elicits various stress-related responses ranging from physiological responses (e.g. changes in chemical and hormone balances), to altered activity and time budgets (e.g. more vigilance and less foraging), to more drastic changes in activity known as escape or flight response (e.g. cessation of feeding or breeding behaviour and vacation of an otherwise suitable area of habitat) (e.g. Blumstein 2003; Price 2008; Ambrose 2009). Research on avifauna generally shows that a large proportion of species in a given area of habitat subjected to human disturbance exhibit behaviour consistent with stress, avoidance or disruption, and the evidence points to other major fauna groups being affected in parallel fashion. These effects have obvious implications for the maintenance of species richness and population viability of threatened species in conservation reserves and other habitat areas affected by encroaching human activity.

Research shows how the level of human disturbance determines the degree of likely impacts on the wildlife that reside, or utilize habitats within or nearby to the site of disturbance. Quantification of the relationship between disturbance type and intensity and the response of biota is not possible with a high degree of precision, but the general trends in the relationship have been demonstrated by research. As group size and disturbance intensity increase, the negative effects on wildlife overall also increase, although there may be species (often exotic) which adapt to exploit new types of habitat created. Intense and concentrated disturbance will tend to alienate habitat within the activity site, exacerbate edge effects emanating into adjoining reserves or protected areas, and increasingly affect sensitive wildlife species. At Yelgun, the sudden intrusion into the landscape of large concentrations of people, high levels of noise, artificial night lighting and other impacts are likely to act as an intense disturbance on a high proportion of species.

Research indicates that for relatively small groups of people in parks and reserves, human activity may exert a direct disturbing effect on avifauna up to 100m from the activity and considerably greater edge effect distances have been demonstrated for other fauna. Artificial night lighting can have a severe impact on nocturnal insect fauna, undermining the foodweb of consumer species dependant on this resource base. The use of yellow sodium vapour lights in place of normal white lights can greatly reduce this impact, but the extirpation process continues to operate, as insects are drawn in from surrounding habitat albeit at a lower rate (some insects are actually more attracted to yellow sodium lighting).

The effect of noise on wildlife has only recently been considered a potential threat to animal health and long-term survival. Noise can be frightening and disturbing to animals which vary tremendously in their response to noise ranging from apparent near indifference to various escape and flight behaviours. Other common behavioural responses to noise include elevated stress levels, acoustic adjustment and habitat avoidance.

The research reviewed herein indicates that the consequence of intense human disturbance is likely to be avoidance or abandonment of habitat and changed behaviour patterns by a proportion of the vertebrate fauna. On a wider scale this may adversely affect the sustainability of local populations of threatened fauna species, which depend on the surrounding matrix as well as Billinudgel Nature Reserve to maintain viable local populations. A major negative impact of human disturbance on a number threatened fauna seems highly likely from research which demonstrates that the impact of human disturbance is proportional to the intensity of disturbance as measured by group size. One research study found that the relationship between recreation intensity and bird density was log linear, indicating that the exclusion process was exponential (i.e., doubling the amount of recreation activity (people-presence) quadrupled the disturbance effect). The implications if group size (or disturbance intensity) is in the thousands or tens of thousands are obvious.

Research supports the expectation that as intruder group size increases, the negative effect of human disturbance extends further. Consequently a larger area of habitat may be vacated as species withdraw to a perceived safe distance, or move to another area of habitat if available. Fernandez-Juricic (2000) explains how important it is that human disturbance loads are incorporated in management decisions at local and regional scales. It is clear that a legislated land-use planning process is urgently needed for protecting nature conservation areas with appropriate land-use buffer zones. The Yelgun location supports suites of threatened species but requires restoration to enhance long-term viability of wildlife, not further disturbance.

Local and Regional Land-use Planning

As Department of Planning would be aware, the Byron Biodiversity Conservation Strategy, the Cleland Inquiry and numerous other planning documents prepared by NPWS, Byron Shire Council and the Department of Planning in the last 15 years, clearly identify the major conservation values of the subject locality. These include known or potential habitat for over 30 threatened fauna species, Endangered Ecological Communities, a regionally significant wildlife corridor and frontage along half of the site?s perimeter to Billinudgel Nature Reserve. Current land-use zonings and Council environmental planning policies were put in place to protect these values. The Byron Biodiversity Conservation Strategy (2004) identifies all forest vegetation within and adjoining the proposed festival site as Very High Conservation Value and all fauna habitat as Threatened Fauna Habitat.

At a regional and State level, the proposed site footprint and adjacent area has been repeatedly and consistently identified as high significance habitat critical to the fecundity of a range of priority and threatened faunal species. Moreover, this area as has been identified as functioning as one of the last remaining key wildlife and climate change corridor connecting the coastal plains with the world heritage Border Ranges region.

The following NSW State strategies and plans independently and clearly identify and highlight this development site and its surrounds as significant for a range of environmental reasons:-

Adverse Impact on Aboriginal Cultural Heritage

The access road and pedestrian walkway on the southern side of Jones Rd would directly impact on what Collins (2006) described as the most complex Aboriginal site so far discovered in the Marshall Ridge area (a registered ?Natural Indicative Place?).

The relevant section in Collins (2006) states as follows: ?The most complex Aboriginal site so far registered in the study area is Site #4-2-114/115, located at the eastern end of the isolated spur on the north-western margin of Yelgun flats (see Figure 1). This has been interpreted as a ?permanent campsite visited at regular intervals during times of seasonal abundance ? The range of implements and raw stone materials suggest a variety of economic activities took place on a repetitive basis. It is impossible to imagine this range of implements being discarded in a single or even a few visitations? (Piper 2002:49)?.

I discovered and reported this site in 2001 while undertaking environmental assessment work for the National Parks and Wildlife Service for a boundary fence to be installed around Billinudgel Nature Reserve. The registered site is located at a point where the boundary of Billinudgel Nature Reserve intersects the old RTA road corridor (this has recently been transferred to National Parks) at the eastern end of the knoll or low ridge which extends back to the Tweed Valley Way. Topsoil had been scraped away within the RTA corridor (visible as a pale area in aerial photography ? see Figure 1 attached) making the abundant artefacts easy to see (in 2001), but not from the western part of the knoll on the proponent?s land which is covered by pasture making artefacts hard to see. No archaeological field excavations were carried out on the western part of knoll covered by pasture where the proposed access road and pedestrian walkway is located. This work should carried out independently.

Quoting from the Register of National Estate Database Place Report (1994):

AHC Official Statement of Significance - North Ocean Shores

?Description

The site contains the Byron and Tweed Shires most unique and valuable portions of our living heritage and culture. It is the only surviving remnant of relatively undisturbed and natural coastline now existing in northern NSW and south eastern Qld. This is the last place where one can experience important in situ Aboriginal cultural sites stretching from the beach inland to the Pacific Highway with its very last surviving Aboriginal Initiation Sacred Site, Bora Rings, still existing in an original intact coastal environment....the aboriginal translation of Yelgun is sun.....?and so on.

The natural and cultural heritage significance of the Jones Road area including the Project Application site appears to have been quickly forgotten in the scramble for new development opportunities in Byron Shire. A permanent festival site with multiple events each year, attended by tens of thousands of people would make a mockery of the recognition of the areas natural and cultural heritage significance. (Note - the Australian Heritage Commission has been disbanded and the database was distributed to the States; it may have since become a ?Natural Indicative Place?, whatever the case those values remain in a natural-rural landscape largely free of the effects of intensive development.)

Public Safety Risk - Flooding

From my own observations as a local resident, there have been probably 10-15 major floods at the festival site in the last 25 years, or one major flood every two to three years on average. I have witnessed the Yelgun Creek flats on the southern side of the site (the car parking area) and much of the festival area to the north of Jones Road flooding to a depth of two meters or more on several occasions in the last 20 years.

The proponent has prepared an Emergency Evacuation Risk Plan, but appears to be unaware that major floods occur as flash floods, which would make an orderly evacuation of 24,000 people from the site impossible.

Public Safety Risk ? Intractable Soils

I have carried out several environmental surveys on the flats north and south of the Jones Road ridge (the car parking area and festival site). The Yelgun Flats on the southern side of the ridge are composed of a heavy clay alluvium that becomes impassible to the standard motor car after only a small amount of rain (e.g. 25mm or more), given the large number of vehicles that would drive across the flat and churn up the soil.

Traffic Issues

As stated in my previous submission, the Yelgun festival site will likely result in a large increase in traffic movement as many festival goers will also want to experience the attractions of Byron Bay while at the festival. It is quite likely that thousands of people will be traveling back and forth between Byron, Brunswick Heads etc and the festival site each day. This is not a problem with the present festival site which is located in easy access to central Byron Bay.

Alternative Sites

There are hundreds of properties available throughout the region where festivals can be held that are not within a wildlife corridor or adjacent to a Nature Reserve. If Splendour was really interested in the environment it would buy a property away from wildlife corridors and busland remnants. Woodford is 50km inland at the end of a road in open farmland with no close residential areas.

Byron Echo Editiorial 9/11/2010

?The pros and cons of the project have been well rehearsed in this newspaper and elswhere.....However, the one unarguable objection to the plan is the impact of numerous of numerous large and noisy gatherings on the wildlife of the site and the adjacent reserve. Jones Road is also the northern boundary of the Billinudgel Nature Reserve, which is the area?s last wildlife corridor connecting to the coast. It is so important to the preservation of biodiversity in the shire that Council has been prepared to court unpopularity by refusing to develop a sports ground there. Public sports facilities are more useful to the community than private festival sites, so it follows from the principled decision not to use the land at Shara Boulevarde for playing fields that music festivals are equally inappropriate.

The issue is a defining one: we have dominion over the animals ? are we custodian or destroyer? Do we opt for entertainment and employment at the expense of the critters, or do we take our ecological responsibility seriously??

Judge Preston in the Land and Environment Court ruled that the development was prohibited in a 7(k) Habitat Zone under the Byron LEP and ruled that the approval was invalid and of no effect.

Thank you for the opportunity to make this submission.

P405	Project Website Submission	16/11/2010	Online Submission from Terry Kav (support)	Imagine an events venue that can attract tens of thousands of visitors to a rural area. Imagine an events venue that has investigated and assessed all aspects of its operation and developed best practice policies and procedures. Imagine an events venue that generates lots of employment opportunities and provides much needed income for a range of businesses. Well the events venue is North Byron Parklands and it should be approved by the government because sustainable projects like this are few and far between. North Byron Parklands is likely to be the first arts and music venue that has prepared an environmental, health and safety management manual to manage interactions with the environment. The environmental standard from this manual provides a range of measures designed to protect the environment. Given that the activity in question is low impact the environmental management of the site will easily achieve positive benefits for the environment. With the employment numbers as low as they are, the Byron Shire community needs the jobs that will come from approving the North Byron Parklands proposal and bringing Splendour in the Grass home! Byron Bay has developed into a hub of environmental champions since the 1960s and the Splendour proposal is a responsible step towards combining arts and entertainment within the natural surrounds to enhance the festival experience and showcase forward-thinking sustainability ideas inherent in the region. P406	Project Website Submission	16/11/2010	Online Submission from sussi mallon (support)	When the owners of North Byron Parklands bought the property they took on board a court order to rehabilitate Yelgun Creek which was badly degraded by the former owner. This creek system used to flow into the Billinudgel Nature Reserve, feeding it with flood waters and providing the varied hydrological flows that the existing flora community required. The North Byron Parklands people will now rehabilitate the creek by removing excess siltation and undertaking riparian plantings. This will be a huge plus for the nature reserve. I know of many businesses that rely on events for a large part of their income. These businesses employ local people and locally based jobs are hard to come by. We should support Parklands as it will be a large employer in the region.

One of the most significant environmental controls being put in place by North Byron Parklands is the limiting of major events to 12 event days each year. Effectively this will mean 2 or 3 events over 2 or 3 days each once the venue is up and running to capacity. What does this mean for the local ecology? It means that disturbances of light, noise and traffic will only occur for a fraction of time each year. This plus the numerous other environmental controls means that the impact on fauna and flora will be temporal and minimal in nature.

P408	Project Website Submission	15/11/2010	Online Submission from Tanya James (support)	The North Byron Parklands site has numerous positives in its favour. Not the least among them are the numerous accommodation outlets within easy reach via excellent road networks. The venue is also close to airports at both Ballina and Coolangatta, a factor which will appeal to interstate and overseas visitors. There is also plenty of room on site for thousands to camp. So many people in the northern rivers area rely on the tourism industry for their bread and butter. These days most businesses are geared towards the tourism dollar and if past trends are anything to go by this industry sector will continue to play a key role in the regionâ□™s economic fortunes. The people behind Parklands will play a dominant role in growing and sustaining the tourism industry and we should all get behind them to make this project a reality.

I think that events like this help people grow, experiencing North Byron Parklands would be one of those growing experiences for me.

This area is somewhere I prefer to go for such an event. The surrounding areas are far easier for accomodation options. The size of the property means more space to enjoy.

P412	Project Website Submission	15/11/2010	Online Submission from Renea Cockle (support)	North Byron Parklands proposal to bring splendour home is an opportunity to boost local business for many years to come. Each year when the festival season comes around businesses in the Byron Shire and surrounding areas will get a boost in sales due to the increase in tourism, helping small business and survive and in turn helping the local community. There is current trend on The Northern Rivers for young adults to move to major cities such as Sydney and Melbourne soon after finishing school. A number of events proposed to be held at this site already have initiatives such as Eco Cops which are undergraduate environmental science students who promote environmental programs and accepted practices to patrons while at an event. This is a very good proactive measure. This proposal has endless opportunities including networking with Southern Cross University and SAE, furthering our regions creativeness, training and work experiences. A business venture with such strong environmental credentials should be encouraged as a way forward to protect the pockets of this land that have not yet been touched by heavy industry and residential development. A fresh source of employment, especially one targeting youth is also an important development for the region. However, the most significant aspect of creating a permanent home is the guarantee this gives that such a cultural event can continue. The jobs created in the local area are significant but far more importantly such festivals support the Australian music industry. They offer a cultural outlet for uniquely Australian musical expression. As well as this Splendour offers a rich cultural experience including spiritual and religious elements that are not easily accessible to many youths. This rich tapestry of cultural and religious expression fits perfectly into the environmentally aware and sustainable environment offered in the Byron Bay region. One event can employ hundreds of people for a period of time and in an area such as Byron such job opportunities are very welcome. We should be doing all we can to make this project happen. Many projects that have occurred across the North Coast of NSW have not undertaken even a tenth of the assessment, survey and fauna/flora investigations as that completed by North Byron Parklands. The extensive vegetation mapping and the identification of fauna across the site, coupled with two koala surveys (which did not locate any koalas) demonstrate the level of environmental assessment undertaken by this organisation. When you then add the environmental controls as proposed in their environmental, health and safety management manual it is evident that these people are very serious about environmental management. The team behind North Byron Parklands have been responsible for putting together numerous large events over the past decade. In each case they have successfully managed important aspects such as noise, ecology, lighting, traffic and crowd and safety management. The systems and procedures they have developed will assist any event being held at the North Byron Parklands site which I believe will help result in successful events. Please approve this proposal! It is very important for our young people to feel like the region has new and exciting jobs to offer for them. We need to hold onto our youth as packing up and moving to large cities is becoming the norm in our community. North Byron Parklands provides incentives for young people to remain in the region.

Regarding the ecology of the site, having undertaken a number of vegetation and flora surveys, including detailed koala surveys, the North Byron Parklands group have completed more ecological assessments than other traditional developments such as housing, industrial estates, and quarries. This demonstrates that the organisation is serious about identifying and managing ecological issues.

P422	Project Website Submission	15/11/2010	Online Submission (support)	Please do not disclose my personal details on your website* Dear Department of Planning, I am writing to support the application for Splendour in the Grass to be held at Byron Bay on large, accessible, managed land. I experienced this year's festival at Woodford and I have to say that although the site was lovely, its accessibility left a lot to be desired and it was hard to get into and out of the site. The accessibility of the proposed site along with the owners' commitment to regeneration and proper management of the site mean that this is a positive outcome for wildlife, the economy of the local area and the music-loving festival-going public. Parklands ensures that the site area and the adjoining sites are protected by maximising down time between large events. This allows time for the rehabilitation of habitats and normal ecosystems processes. With so many people relying on tourism for their income on the North Coast there is an obligation on behalf of state and local governments to help facilitate any reasonable project that will increase domestic and international tourist numbers. North Byron Parklands will become the home of a number of major events with each of these events attracting thousands of people to the area. This will greatly enhance the local tourism sector. P426	Project Website Submission	15/11/2010	Online Submission from Natalie Laukkanen (support)	. With so many people worried about finding a job in this current economic climate a project of this nature in a regional area is a breath of fresh air. As a community we need to get behind this fantastic concept and support it. As a government, there is a huge moral responsibility to approve it just on employment considerations alone. As an event Splendour in the Grass certainly provides many employment opportunities but is also an event which takes into consideration environmental impact on all fronts including traffic, noise, ecology, flooding, safety, etc. The fact that North Byron Parklands have demonstrated it has assessed all significant risks and put in place measures to manage all issues (where most more traditional developments do not even come close to the level of risk assessment undertaken by North Byron Parklands) there should be no reason to disallow the return of this event. I feel it would be a huge loss for the community if this event is unable to return to its home town of Byron so please consider this proposal carefully.

P427	Project Website Submission	15/11/2010	Online Submission from sandra webber (support)	One of the big threats to the environment is the accidental ignition of a bushfire. The North Byron Parklands group have identified this as a risk and have developed a Bushfire Standard that address this issue and places a number of carefully considered controls such as provision of bulk water tanks, having the Rural Fire Brigade onsite during major events and the provision of fire extinguishers, etc. I am confident that with such measures and given most of the site is cleared that this issue will be well managed. In relation to event management there is no standard manual that an event operator can refer to. Typically successful management of an event is a result of past experience and the refinement of policies and processes. The North Byron Parklands team have been responsible for creating and hosting some of the most successful outdoor music festivals in the country. Having hundreds of thousands of satisfied customers through their turnstiles it is reassuring to know such professionals will be at the helm at the Parklands site.

One of the most significant environmental controls being put in place by North Byron Parklands is the limiting of major events to 12 event days each year. Effectively this will mean 2 or 3 events over 2 or 3 days each once the venue is up and running to capacity. What does this mean for the local ecology? It means that disturbances of light, noise and traffic will only occur for a fraction of time each year. This plus the numerous other environmental controls means that the impact on fauna and flora will be temporal and minimal in nature.

North Byron Parklands would provide many opportunities for young people to gain experience in professional event management. This is something that just would not be provided if Splendour in the Grass was not held in Byron Bay. This is a great was of retain

This means that all forested areas will be protected via fencing and security measures and effectively be out of bounds for event usage. This is a very positive initiative from an environmental point of view. There is current trend on The Northern Rivers for young adults to move to major cities such as Sydney and Melbourne soon after finishing school. North Byron Parklands provides incentives for the youth to remain in the area by creating new and exciting employment opportunities, such as event management, live sound engineering, and even a career in music! P430	Project Website Submission	15/11/2010	Online Submission from Andrew Taylor (object)	To Whom It May Concern Re: Yelgun Festival Site / North Byron Parklands I wish to make known my displeasure of the Festival Organizers plans for a permanent festival site in Yelgun. I'm sure you've heard it before from many South Golden Beach / Ocean Shores / Yelgun / Crabbes Creek / Billinudgel residents, but here is my take on it. This area will not and cannot sustain a festival site bringing in such high turnover of people on such a regular basis. I have lived in the immediate area since 1997. It is a quiet area. At night around here, it is very quiet. We can hear wildlife, birds, the ocean and not much else. Noise from the festival site would definitely be heard in my suburb. We are bordered to the north by the Billinudgel Nature reserve, and the wildlife corridor that Byron Shire spent considerable time and financial resources during the 1980s and 1990s to preserve for the sake of our local native animal species. And now ?Splendor? wants to set up camp, slap bang in the middle of this nature area with regular noisy concerts. Another point: this area gets rain. Heaps of rain. Rain for most of the year. And it gets sodden. Super muddy, and takes days after the downpours to run off to the various estuaries that run out to Brunswick River. This proposed site is going to be a permanent mud bath. That means muddy campsites, amenities blocks, stage areas, access roads etc. That?s not really very hygienic or pleasurable for their paying concert goers. We have basic community infrastructure up at this end of Byron Shire. We, as a community, request and often have to fight for more, and are constantly reminded of our council budget restrictions. We are making slow changes for the betterment of our local area. It?s generally safe, peaceful and easy living in South Golden Beach. It is quiet, friendly, and a great place to bring up my young family, with so many other young families living in my immediate community.

I have also taken offense at the name the applicants have chosen to promote under. They call themselves North Byron Parklands. Cashing in on the ?Byron Bay? name, but also ?parklands? which, in my mind would mean a quiet, treed, bird sanctuary with picnic tables and children?s play equipment. It may be something like that presently, but if given the go-ahead for their countless festivals, it will be anything but a ?parkland?!

Not so long ago, I went to quite a lot of outdoor festivals and events including Splendor in the Grass at Belongil Fields. I like the festival atmosphere, I love good live music. It?s fun, its loud, it?s a young person?s dream. To meet people, get out of it on alcohol and recreational drugs, dance til midnight, stomp up a riot. Make heaps of noise. Cheer along with the other young people. Awesome.

But?..

Its about the location of the venue. This proposal is for a fairly well organized event, in a completely unsuitable environment.

Square peg, round hole! The Splendor organizers have purchased, at considerable cost I assume, a large piece of North Coast wilderness. A wildlife paradise. But upon reading their application, they want to throw music event, after music event, after music event, all year long [just about]. That?s stupid, unthought-out, and pretty selfish and self-involved to think that the land they purchased is a suitable site for ongoing festival use.

Obvious fact : Electronic music, live bands, tens of thousands of party people, ?in a wildlife corridor? This has got to be absolutely rejected on the grounds of commonsense! Wildlife doesn?t hang around festival sites; they hide in fear, and relocate to??? Oh that?s right, that?s the wildlife corridor and nature reserve we already have in place for the native species to live in and diversify. Why don?t we just scare those native species away permanently? Good thinking Festival applicants!

Now, why would they oversee such obvious commonsense? Because they want to make money by exploiting this quiet corner of Byron Shire, and using their mean-spirited capitalistic enterprise to destroy a wilderness area and the surrounding communities of Crabbes Creek, Yelgun, South Golden Beach, New Brighton, Ocean Shores, and Brunswick Heads for their own greedy financial gain.

There are no long term benefits coming to our community from this festival site. If there is a token donation from the North Byron Parklands to the community, it will be far outweighed by the upheaval to the local residents caused from putting on these regular events in our immediate vicinity.

As for creating local jobs and revenue, from previous Splendor festivals, my understanding is that the event organizers pay under award rates to staff and helpers, and top up the ?payment? with free tickets to their events. That doesn?t help the local economy, nor does it give the locals real dollars that put real food on the table, or help pay the rent / mortgage of the regular folk living here. My ex-partner was Stage Manager at Splendor til 2009. I know these practices having been going on since Splendors inception. They?re not an employer, these people are exploiters. I won?t sit idle while they push through their detestable adjenda, whilst they?re going on about ?supporting the local community?. Huh? They?re in it for personal financial gain, and I hope whoever is reviewing this application sees the light and gives it the unequivocal ?thumbs down?.

One 'Splendor in the Grass' type festival a year, I could, and many of my neighbors could, probably deal with. Even their site, given 11 monthes between events, might possibly rebalance itself. But a commercial Festival Site with setups and pull downs for days around the proposed events, ridiculous traffic congestion at the Yelgun turnoff during these regular events [every second weekend will be ?local disruption weekend?] is an injustice to the local community. I don?t need it, nor do I want it. It?s about a couple of people wanting to get rich throwing parties. I hope many of my surrounding neighbors are also smart enough to say ?NO? to the North Byron Parklands permanent festival site.

Thanks for taking time to read my objection.

Skydive Byron Bay is currently Australia?s largest adventure tourism activity and the second largest employer in the Byron Shire. We support the NBP?s proposal on the following grounds: Economy - the loss of Splendour in the Grass to the Woodford site resulted in a material loss of revenue for our business. We are obviously keen to see this restored with the festival returning to the Byron Shire. We note that the festival typically provided a much needed boost to the economy in winter when it was most needed by local businesses.

Cultural ? Byron Bay was culturally defined by its unique festivals. There appears to be a minority with no tolerance for these festivals with the attitude of ?no longer in my backyard?. The overwhelming majority of residents in the Byron Shire want culturally diverse, sustainable festivals (particularly Splendour). We consider NBP?s proposal provides a strong platform for this. We consider that government has a key role in preserving the cultural DNA of the town in its forthcoming decision.

Employment ? Byron Shire is recognized by Industry and Investment NSW as a high unemployment area. The 210 full time equivalent jobs created by the North Byron Parklands proposal will make it the Shire?s largest employer and will create more jobs with the ensuing multiplier effect. An employer of their caliber is also likely to attract higher/diverse skills to the region which can fill resource, knowledge and service gaps.

Social Benefits ? we consider the economic, cultural and employment benefits will provide significant social benefits.

Environment ? Mat Morris (General Manager ? NBP) is known to me. As a trained environmental scientist, I trust his expertise and his judgment on the environmental impact of the proposal and have known him as a person of integrity. We consider the proposals put forward by NBP to represent practical and sustainable environmental outcomes which enhance the local environment. We also have every intention in supporting NBP in regeneration programs and the like as part of the carbon abatement strategy for our business moving forward.

Tourism ? the NBP proposal is pivotal in maintaining competitive advantage for the regions tourism.

Creative Industries ? Byron Shire is unique in terms of its creative industries heritage. NBP?s proposal can only enhance this platform.

Your sincerely,

Adrian Kennedy

P433	Project Website Submission	15/11/2010	Online Submission from Diana Vidovic of EMI MUSIC (support)	While much is made of the Marshallâ™s Ridge wildlife corridor the actual reality of this corridor is that it is fragmented, populated with noxious weeds and is great need of repair. Restoration will only come about by the landowner, in this instance being North Byron Parklands. This business has committed through its vegetation management plan and a number of other measures to reduce forest fragmentation by planting endemic species which will no doubt improve fauna movement opportunities. The establishment of the North Byron Parklands will generate additional employment opportunities for the management and maintenance of the venue and event organisations. I think this is a really important benefit for this region. The Byron and surrounding areas in the last twenty years have survived on the back of tourism. While other more traditional industries have been in decline, tourism has provided an income for countless families and individuals in the region. North Byron Parklands is a project that will generate large numbers of visitors to the region which given the recent global financial crisis is just what the sector needs. It should be approved on this basis alone. Bring Splendour home to the Northern Rivers! Letâ™s look after the young people in the community by approving this proposal. The North Byron Parklands will be the first proposed land use that will actually see a huge improvement in environmental outcomes due to planned mass plantings, fauna habitat creation and most importantly no event activities for some 260 plus days a year. This has to be seen as a major positive outcome for the local environment. The local indigenous bush regeneration team has been responsible for planting over seven thousand trees in key locations of the site. P437	Project Website Submission	15/11/2010	Online Submission from Anna Andrews (support)	The level of commitment in relation to environmental monitoring before, during and after events is going to provide environmental benefits on two fronts. First it will accurately document the presence or otherwise of various fauna around event times. It will also importantly start to build a large amount of environmental data which can be used to guide and modify environmental practices into the future. With the already significant amount of environmental data captured through assessments and surveys, this body of knowledge is likely to be significant. North Byron Parklands will help build up creative industries in the Northern Rivers area. Establishing a permanent and sustainable cultural event venue will lead to an array of new job opportunities and in time create economic growth in the region. All along the NSW coastline tourism businesses provide employment and income to hundreds of thousands of individuals and families. This is certainly the case in the northern rivers region where the proposed North Byron Parklands is to be located. P440	Project Website Submission	15/11/2010	Online Submission from Stephen Pigdon of ICT (support)	North Byron Parklands organisation are serious about managing the ecological issues at the event site. An example of this is the fact that there have been more vegetation and flora surveys conducted at the site than housing, industrial estate, and quarries assessments. The North Byron Parklands event site will generate significant economic benefits to the region. There will be an increase in jobs for the maintenance and management of the North Byron Parklands site as well as employment opportunities from the organisations of the proposed events at the site. Because of the extensive level of community consultation undertaken by North Byron Parklands I have a very clear understanding of the benefits and issues of the application. The high quality of information has allowed people locally and in the wider community to make an informed decision about the proposal and I would imagine that the responses are overwhelmingly in favour of the project. It shows that when a company is prepared to go that one step further in communicating to the public that people can fully understand all of the issues and also the steps to be put in place to manage them. I fully support this application.

				The North Byron Parklands idea is inspiring for young people. There is precious little around, particularly in regional areas, which is inspiring for them. The proposal is all about the environment, events, culture and celebration. Itâ□™s about young people and being young. This is really important.

The Byron shire needs the tourism, the culture and the job opprotunities that will come from this development. Lets get behind it! If we want to maintain a vibrant creative culture in our region we need to support proposals such as this. North Byron Parklands sustainable event space is a perfect way to sustain and encourage our local creatuve culture.

To date North Byron Parklands has planted thousands of trees adjacent to the Billinudgel Nature reserve, installed dozens of nest boxes to improve habitat opportunities and removed thousands of metres of barbed wire fencing to reduce impediments to fauna movement. P446	Project Website Submission	15/11/2010	Online Submission from Shari Ward (support)	The opportunity to showcase the stunning nature in the Byron region through a sustainable event venue is surely a wonderful proposition. Outdoor events bring people closer together, letâ□™s show the way Australia. Bring Splendour home! In the Byron and northern rivers areas tourism is subject to busy times and quiet times. It is planned that a number of events will occur at the North Byron Parklands site each year and one of these takes place in winter when tourism businesses are struggling to cover costs. Building a dedicated events venue in the Byron Shire will have a number of very positive benefits for the tourism industry which is a good thing. North Byron Parklands proposal is a very positive thing for the youth in the community. This proposal will see new jobs in the region and promote sustainable development throughout the country. This application must be approved for our youth! There is a reason why the government agencies including the National Parks and Wildlife services didnâ□™t object to this application, it really is in the best interest of everyone.

P449	Project Website Submission	15/11/2010	Online Submission from Andrew Wood (support)	Dear NSW Dept of Planning, Having attended several events organised by the Splendour in the Grass team, it has been easy to recognise their passionate consideration for the environment and the support and promotion of the local region. This is exemplified by the following: Regarding the ecology of the site, having undertaken a number of vegetation and flora surveys, including detailed koala surveys, the North Byron Parklands group have completed more ecological assessments than other traditional developments such as housing, industrial estates, and quarries. This demonstrates that the organisation is serious about identifying and managing ecological issues. With up to twenty days of events each year the work experience opportunities for people in the region are very exciting. The bump in and bump out periods provide further work. We need these jobs and the training they provide, from high level event management to ticketing, technical production and traffic management.

I believe it is imperative that the North Byron Parklands become the new home for Splendour in the Grass.

Yours sincerely,

Right now there are no venue spaces available for events due to various land use changes and space restrictions. Even the recently acquired event space for the Blues Festival is reported only to ever be used for this one event. P453	Project Website Submission	15/11/2010	Online Submission from mat lee of bk building (support)	For each event held at the Parklands site, the event holder will need to prepare an event management plan that meets all the high standard of requirements outlined in the environmental, health and safety management manual created by North Byron Parklands. The Parklands project will greatly assist the ecological integrity of the area especially for the Billinudgel Nature Reserve and the â□˜coast to hinterlandâ□™ wildlife corridor. The project results in thousands of extra trees planted, improved habitat for wildlife and additions to the Nature Reserve. The careful scheduling of events to maximise â□˜downtimeâ□™ will allow the Parklands site to assist the functioning of the adjoining Nature Reserve. Because of the extensive level of community consultation undertaken by North Byron Parklands I have a very clear understanding of the benefits and issues of the application. The high quality of information has allowed people locally and in the wider community to make an informed decision about the proposal and I would imagine that the responses are overwhelmingly in favour of the project. It shows that when a company is prepared to go that one step further in communicating to the public that people can fully understand all of the issues and also the steps to be put in place to manage them. I fully support this application.

In the past the Splendour in the Grass festival has provide young adults with high level training in many areas, plus, supported creative youth initiatives like Splendid. These opportunities offered to the young community are truly invaluable to our region.

Under this plan sections of the site will be restored back to pristine forest cover while others will be treated as managed parklands. P458	Project Website Submission	15/11/2010	Online Submission from Melissa Condurso (support)	Not only does the North Byron Parklands offer an economy boost for local businesses and employment opportunities, it also brings awareness to tackling waste, recycling and consumption. The North Byron Parklands has been subjected to decades of intensive cattle farming and sugar cane crops. With respect to the cattle, they have severely degraded the understory of most of the forest blocks on the site. The Parklands proposal includes a commitment to fence off many of the forest blocks which will allow a much needed fauna understory to regrow and which will provide habitat for many vertebrate creatures. P459	Project Website Submission	15/11/2010	Online Submission from KURTIS LINDSAY (object)	1. There are already lots of festivals in Byron Shire, we do not want or need any more. People do live there, Byron Shire is not a non stop party for people to make money from at their expense. There is already ONE festival site at (Tyagarah), and that is enough. These Splendor people had a successful event at WOODFORD, surely they can use that venue and leave us alone. 2.Just think about US! Who live here! Each festival that these people are proposing, will bring tens of thousands of people here. That is, 4 Mega festivals, and another 4 at 10,000 people a day. The cost to the rate payer is considerable, the strain that our roads, hospitals and sewerage disposal is immense. The supermarkets sell out of cheap food lines(cheap no frills milk, bread etc), the traffic is difficult to negotiate. 3.This site is prone to severe floods. An unpredicted storm event during a mega festival will result in human deaths. 4.This site will burn during bush fire events, and if this happened during a festival it would be a disaster. Festival activity in hot, dry weather may also promote fire, particulalry from ciggarette buts. 5.The State Governments own planning decisions to protect this site are being dumped. 6.The wildlife in the Billinudgel Reserve will be impacted upon. The following vulnerable species are known to occur in the immediate vicinity of the site: the vulnerable wallum tree frog (Crinia tinnula), grass owl (Tyto capensis),black bittern (Ixobrychus flavicollis, Australasian bittern (Botaurus poiciloptilus), Bush Hen (Gallinula olivaceus) and brolga (Grus rubicunda) the endangered Black-necked Stork (Ephippiorhynchus asiaticus)and the critically endangered Beach-stone Curlew (Esacus neglectus) all of which are closely associated with wetland communities in Billinugel NR and are likely to utilise the proposed development site, therefore will be adversely affected.

				7. The copous amounts of ciggarette buts, food packaging and drug utensils will accumulate and what doesn't get removed after each event will be washed into the numerous drainage lines throughout the area and end up in the wetlands further threatening the above mentioned species, and directly impacting threatened marine species like the endangered Loggerhead Turtle (Caretta caretta). 8.We are sick to death of the drug and alcohol abuse that takes place at these festivals and it DOES spill over onto OUR streets. P460	Project Website Submission	15/11/2010	Online Submission from Hayley Roberts (support)	If Woodfordia in Queensland can be highly respected as an enviro-friendly venue which hosts a number of festivals with large crowds, then surely North Byron Parklands can achieve the same level of acceptance and respect if given the chance. With the employment numbers as low as they are, the Byron Shire community needs the jobs that will come from approving the North byron Parklands proposal and bringing Splendour in the Grass home! One of the many environmental programs to be undertaken by North Byron Parklands is the staged exclusion of cattle by fencing of existing forest blocks which will also assist with connectivity for terrestrial fauna by allowing the development of ground-layer and mid-layer vegetation and by providing additional shelter and food resources. Deployment of nest-boxes will also assist habitat connectivity for gliders by providing shelter sites in areas with low natural hollow abundance. These are very positive initiatives. P461	Project Website Submission	15/11/2010	Online Submission from Michelle Sahayan (support)	Dear Sir or Madam, I write to you in support of the proposal to return the Splendour in the Grass festival to the Byron Shire. I have attended many of their festivals over the years, and have found them well organised, enjoyable and safe.

The level of detail undertaken in the identification and assessment of likely impacts on fauna and flora across and adjacent to the North Byron Parklands site is impressive. There is unlikely to be many (if any) other types of development north coast that have gone to this level of detail and thoroughness. The commitments listed to preserve and enhance the ecology certainly help to put this development into the â□œsustainableâ□□ development basket.

If employment growth in regional areas is a key concern of the NSW state government then approving this project makes sound economic sense. There is a real need to support organisations that can provide such large numbers of jobs in an area where finding a good job can be very difficult. It seems to me that approving this project will have lasting long term benefits for job prospectors in this rural region.

The Byron and surrounding areas in the last twenty years have survived on the back of tourism. While other more traditional industries have been in decline, tourism has provided an income for countless families and individuals in the region. North Byron Parklands is a project that will generate large numbers of visitors to the region which given the recent global financial crisis is just what the sector needs. It should be approved on this basis alone.

I look forward to attending the festival in the Byron Bay region once again.

Cheers,

M. Sahayan

P462	Project Website Submission	15/11/2010	Online Submission from Ilka Nelson of The Last Tree (object)	My objection to the proposed Cultural Events Site is because it does not encompass much broader, long term global sustainability measures. We have reached an ecological limit, making these measures imperative for all new large scale projects. All future 'designs' need to be smart - a fundamental feature is location being central to key public transport nodes (so train transport is a good example in terms of passenger/fuel/emission ratio). In cases where best case scenario designing is not possible then we improve on existing infrastructure eg: the Woodford event site or within a towns (Byron Bay) limits - this has twofold benefits - mitigation and adaption - mitigating new resource consumption and adapting established facilities for the future (which will be required...in the future...its smart design. I have worked on festivals that really canvassed attendees (with economic incentives) to use the bus transport provided - despite being 5 hours in to the desert - most punters chose to still drive their own cars - behavior change requires much more effort/time to change - its easier to design well from the beginning. For a NEW project of this scale I am pro good future design - which models itself in a renewable energy world and does not rely on oil as a major facilitator to its success (as I believe this proposed site does in terms of transport)- its a consideration, in the future when oil is not an option for the individual, how will participants get to the proposed site, would a change of this scale make the proposed site redundant? Because this is the scale we need to be designing for. A good reference for 'future design' is Tony Fry, Professor of Design Futures at Griffith University. I have just attended a Climate Change conference and again the graphs/science are overwhelming - a sobering reminder for us to take courageous leaps in our decision processes, from short term possibilities to long term necessities. P463	Project Website Submission	15/11/2010	Online Submission from Stephen Birt (support)	My wife and I have been going to Splendour In The Grass now for the past 7 years. Last year (2009) we took our then 6month old son who loved it, and the year before that (2008) he went in utero. A big part of the Splendour experience for us is the location. We had our honeymoon in Byron Bay and every year have combined going to Splendour with having our annual holiday in Byron Bay. We always stay for the week after staying in local accommodation and enjoying the local cafes, restaurants and shops as well as the natural beauty of the beaches and surrounds. Byron feels like a second home for us. We didn't go to this years Splendour mainly due to the fact that for the first time it wasn't held in Byron. I have been an avid festival goer for the last 20 years and Splendour has definately been my favourite mostly due to it's location Please allow the festival to be held at the North Byron Parklands not only for the employment it brings to the area or the boost to the local economy (every year we observe a lot of Splendour goers staying around to holiday well after the festival as we do) but to help retain the magic relaxed feel that attending such a great event in such beautiful surrounds provides. .

P464	Project Website Submission	15/11/2010	Online Submission from Melanie Hayden (support)	The level of commitment in relation to environmental monitoring before, during and after events is going to provide environmental benefits on two fronts. First it will accurately document the presence or otherwise of various fauna around event times. It will also importantly start to build a large amount of environmental data which can be used to guide and modify environmental practices into the future. With the already significant amount of environmental data captured through assessments and surveys, this body of knowledge is likely to be significant. Too many people are forced to look outside Byron for employment opportunities. The North Byron Parklands proposal offers ample opportunities and will surely make the locals very happy. North Byron Parklands proposal to bring splendour home is an opportunity to boost local business for many years to come. Each year when the festival season comes around businesses in the Byron Shire and surrounding areas will get a boost in sales due to the increase in tourism, helping small business and survive and in turn helping the local community.

				I am a young an enthusiastic person always looking for new ways to broaden my horizons. North Byron Parklands will open me up to new creative opportunities and experiences. It is important that this proposal is apporved by local government.

P465	Project Website Submission	15/11/2010	Online Submission from Will Dennis of N/A (support)	Having been to the past four Splendour in the Grass festivals, I feel that I can say with confidence that Splendour is a market leader in sustainable and eco friendly festivals. Also, one can't argue against the positive impact that this festival brings to Byron Bay and it's surrounding areas in terms of employment and local business. Having friends who live in Byron and own retail businesses in the area it is clear that this event really provides a massive influx to the local economy. I have been to many outdoor event sites over the past number of years but have never come across a venue that has taken so much effort to develop and implement so many environmental programs. When events are not being staged at North Byron Parklands, there will be reafforestation and noxious weed removal activities. When there are events at this site they will need to comply with a bunch of strict environmental policies and procedures. Furthermore, stringent policies with regards to recycling and carbon-offsetting ensure that the events held at these beautiful lands have a minimal impact on the natural environment. If only other venues could take a leaf out of these guyâ□™s book.

Lastly, Splendour provides many unique opportunities to grassroots musicians from the local area and really invests time and money into local acts, rather than simply throwing money at big name musicians.

P466	Project Website Submission	15/11/2010	Online Submission from anna bird (support)	One of the unintended effects on the environment from outdoor events is light spill. So it is pleasing to see that this issue is well addressed under the organisationâ□™s environmental standard. This standard requires lighting to be directed downwards, away from forest blocks, using low pressure sodium vapour lights where possible, and turning off light towers at a certain time of night. Such measures will greatly reduce disturbances to any localised fauna during such events. North Byron Parklands ability to generate new and exciting employment opportunities will encourage young adults to remain working and living in the region instead of packing up and moving to a large city seeking employment. Here we have an opportunity to hold a low impact activity that will see the land rested for some 75% of the year. Allowing such large rest times will benefit both fauna and flora across and adjacent to the site. This is a very positive outcome. With respect to ensuring that staff and contractors take care to protect and enhance the environment where events will take place, it is excellent to note that the North Byron Parklands proposal includes an environmental induction for such workers. In this instance all workers are required to read and sign an environmental induction which covers a range of important environmental issues, not the least the environmental incident notification system. This is a great initiative. Please keep in mind that without such things in life, life would become very generic and boring. It seems to be a real way of the times, that the only way to fix an issue is to stop it all together. Be a little more proactive and positive about such an event. There are very few in the world as well run and presented as splendour, so let's keep it enjoy it for what an amazing get together it is!

P475	Project Website Submission	15/11/2010	Online Submission from Graeme Batterbury (object)	We strongly object for the following reasons: 1. Proposal does not align with 2009 Land & Environment Court Decision The Land & Environment Court ruled in May 2009 that Byron Shire Council's 2008 approval of BPT's proposed trial Splendour festival at Yelgun was "invalid and of no effect". The state should not now rule in favour of a permanent festival site at this location, given the judicial decision about a one-off trial event. Also, the current proposal includes the key element that resulted in the Court?s rejection of the approval: the building of roads for a place of assembly in a 7(k) habitat zone. 2. Proposal does not align with Byron Council?s Tourism Management Plan The plans to develop a permanent festival site at Yelgun run counter to Byron Shire Council's Tourism Management Plan (May 2009), which specifically indicates that Byron?s ?party? image needs to be overcome. Allowing a permanent festival site at Yelgun with multiple party-heavy events such as Splendour in the Grass will only exacerbate the growing image of Byron Shire as ?party central?.

It is not only large events that will enhance the party-town image of the shire. The applicants have indicated that they intend to hold a number of ?medium sized? events on the site and unlimited small events. An acceptance of this proposal would allow numerous ?doofs? and other music events that would create as much noise and disruption as a full-blown mega-festival like Splendour.

3. Proposal does not align with Byron Shire Council?s Events Policy

The intention to hold multiple large music events on the Yelgun property runs counter to the Events Policy that Byron Shire Council has put in place. That policy calls for a limit of 2 large, amplified music festivals each year in the shire. The policy intelligently aims to balance the desires of mega-event promoters with the needs and wishes of the residents and ratepayers of the shire.

4. Contradicts the 2009 NSW Far North Coast Regional Conservation Plan

The property in question is part of the Billinudgel Range, which is identified in DECCW?s Far North Coast Regional Conservation Plan as ?one of the few remaining coast to ranges habitat corridors in the Far North Coast Region and ? home to a number of threatened species? (p 36). The Plan also notes that ?it is likely that the area contains significant Aboriginal heritage values.? Given the importance of the area to the state?s

Conservation Plan, it would be unwise and contradictory for the state to allow the establishment of a permanent festival site that would attract tens of thousands of people repeatedly throughout the year into this environmentally sensitive area.

The property in question is part of a ?priority area? identified in the DECCW?s 2009 Northern Rivers Regional Biodiversity Management Plan on page 54. The designated wildlife corridor within this area is supposed to ?play an ameliorative role for fauna species? in response to the predicted effects of climate change. The negative impacts and disruptions that would result from a permanent festival site on this property would negate the intended protection of wildlife in the area. Noise from heavily amplified music, artificial lights well into the night, and crowds in the thousands should not be allowed in an area of such environmental and ecological sensitivity.

It is not surprising that this area has been designated a ?priority area? for conservation by the state. The site at Yelgun is in the middle of a conservation area that has been protected for decades by local and state governments and is immediately adjacent to Billinudgel Nature Reserve, a reserve the government worked hard to establish. The plan to introduce the noise and movements of tens of thousands of people repeatedly into this area will affect this sensitive environment as surely as it will affect the wildlife. The developers? plans to plant trees on the property will not mitigate the severe negative effects of the disruptive commercial activities they are planning.

These festivals are an assault upon our social amenity;an assault upon the natural environment & destuctive & costly to our existing built infrastructure. These "festivals" bring tens of thousands of people together in small country towns. The numbers of festival goers is equivalent to or far exceeds the population of the whole shire. No matter what the 'on-site infrastructure', it is obvious that the local existing infrastructure, eg roads & traffic are not built for these numbers & suffers to the detriment of the local rate payers. The title "cultural" is a misrepresentation. These festivals are pretending they provide artistic & cultural events, but really just make lots of money selling alcohol. We locals suffer the detrimental result of large numbers of alcohol intoxicated people poor behaviour & their rubbish. Then we have to pay higher rates to repair the damage. Jobs will be critical to the longer term sustainability of the region and therefore when projects such as North Byron Parklands come along they should be embraced and assisted by state and local governments. NSW STATE GOVERNMENT

The Director of Regional Projects,

Dear Sir,

I am a rate payer in Bryron Shire, and have lived here for 29 years. I strongly oppose the as mentioned Splendor Festival Site Development at Yelgun. My objections are:-

1. We already have lots of festivals here in Byron Shire, and enough is enough, we do not want any more. People do live here, Byron Shire is not a non stop party for people to make money from at our expense. If this is passed, how many more of these festival sites will we have to have, we already have ONE (Tyagarah), and that is enough. These Splendor people had a successful event at WOODFORD, surely they can use that venue and leave us alone.

2.Just think about US! Who live here! Each festival that these people are proposing, will bring tens of thousands of people here. That is, 4 Mega festivals, and another 4 at 10,000 people a day. The cost to the rate payer is considerable, the strain that our roads, hospitals and sewerage disposal is immense. The supermarkets sell out of cheap food lines (cheap no frills milk, bread etc), the traffic is difficult to negotiate.

3.This site floods and it is stupid putting it there. I feel sorry for the council planners who have to give approval for such frivolity. A severe storm event during a mega festival will result in human casualties.

4.This site will burn ie bush fire, and if this happened during a festival it would be a disaster.

5.The State Governments own planning decisions to protect this site are being dumped.

6.The wildlife in the Billinudgel Reserve will be impacted upon. The vulnerable species present there will be adversely affected.

7.We are sick to death of the drug and alcohol abuse that takes place at these festivals and it does spill over onto OUR streets. We are sick to death of the crime that comes with festivals and that includes sexual assault.

I request that you REJECT THIS DEVELOPMENT?????

P483	Project Website Submission	14/11/2010	Online Submission from Kerry Petherbridge (object)	The proposal before you is on a scale far too large and frequent for the continued natural and existing cultural amenity of this area. While it will attract economic value into infrastructure projects it constitutes a short-sighted revenue-raising scheme that will prevent the possibility of more sensitive development in the future. It will do this by interfering irrevocably with delicate fauna and flora, forcing traffic congestion through areas of tranquil beauty, encouraging vast numbers of unconcerned visitors through reserve habitats with accompanying litter and habitat destruction issues and bringing noise and traffic pollution increases deemed unacceptable to many residents and concerned citizens. P485	Project Website Submission	14/11/2010	Online Submission from daniel coward (object)	I oppose to this - as the nature is a real concern - this is an area that should be protected forever. P486	Project Website Submission	14/11/2010	Online Submission from Peter Stupka (object)	I object to this application for the following reasons: Wildlife Corridor - The site at Yelgun is in the middle of a high conservation area that has been protected for decades by local and state governments and is adjacent to Billinudgel Nature Reserve, a reserve the government worked hard to establish. The noise and disturbance of tens of thousands of people repeatedly through the year will have a significant negative effects on the wildlife. This is the only remaining wildlife corridor from the sea to the hinterland in far north-eastern New South Wales between the cities of south east Queensland and Byron Bay. The survival of the wildlife corridor is more important than ambitions to hold huge music festivals in the last remnants of coastal animal habitat. It is the last place where shy wild animals can move and feed along the last east-west corridor without loud noises and bright lights that terrify them. Beautiful endangered birds such as the Rose-crowned Fruit-dove, and other wild animals need to pass along the corridor from the mountains to reach the last coastal forests to look for food during the cooler winter months.

Damage will quite surely be done to the flora and fauna of Billinudgel Nature Reserve from the amplified music, crowd noise, artificial lights, and people movements during festival days and during the many set-up and take-down days that will be required. The promoters cannot guarantee that they will be able to keep attendees out of the Reserve, especially since only the Reserve stands between the site and the beach that is part of the reserve. People illegally ride their motorbikes and walk their dogs in this Reserve now, so it's to be expected that attendees will do the same when at festivals. NSW should be protecting this prime asset, not setting it up for destruction

There is already a high number of native species killed on the road in this area as they move between sections of bush. Huge increases in traffic on these small country roads can only mean an increase in animal road deaths, especially as animals flee from the noise and chaos of a large festival adjoining their habitat.

Negative Impact on Residents - Yelgun is a very quiet little community, with many of the residents being farmers who need to get up early to work, including on weekends. Late and all night events would be a major intrusion on their lives and would create a large amount of noise pollution for people up to several kilometers away. It is adjacent to the rural and residential areas of Wooyung, South Golden Beach, Ocean Shores, and Billinudgel. Forcing a permanent festival site upon these residents condemns them to repeated intrusions of the traffic, noise, and other disturbances that are associated with mega-festivals.

Reduced Access to Public Thoroughfares - Traffic has increased substantially in the area during Splendour events, clogging roads in and around Byron Bay. The Yelgun site is even less suited to massive increases in traffic. the amount of extra traffic on these small country roads will greatly disturb the movements of locals just trying to go about their daily business and especially nearby residents with no other route options. The RTA had concerns about traffic issues when the proposal was for a single trial They will no doubt have concerns about multiple events at a permanent site.

Anti-Social Behaviour in the Immediate Area - Drug and alcohol consumption is high among Splendour attendees. In fact, the sale of alcohol makes the festival especially lucrative for the promoters. A permanent festival site at Yelgun will result in a permanent ?schoolies? atmosphere in the immediate area, something that current residents want no part of. There is also a high risk of drink driving as attendees will not be able to walk to and from the site as they used to at Belongil Fields, and public transportation does not service the site. When 50,000 are in attendance, at least 25,000 people will be leaving the site in their cars in the early hours of the morning to make their way to their accommodation

Negative Impact on Health Services - The number of attendees at mega-festivals and the heavy use of drugs and alcohol place a strain on local ambulance, hospitals, and psychological services during the course of the event. Given the past history of the need for emergency services during mega-festivals, many residents are concerned that their own health emergencies will receive less prompt attention as a result.

Fire risk - The risk of fire at the event site and in Billinudgel Nature Reserve is high, given that bonfires are planned by the event organisers and that smoking and camping on site are to be allowed. There is concern about people tramping through Billinudgel Nature Reserve between the event site and the unpatrolled beach, as they are likely to do. The risk of fire in this area, as a result of unmonitored activity, is also extremely high.

Flood zone - Massive, rapid flooding occurs on the Yelgun site, especially where the promoters have planned to locate their campgrounds and their parking lots. Event attendees will be at serious risk in periods of heavy rain from the inevitable overflows of North Yelgun Creek, Marshalls Creek, and the Capricornia Canal, all quite near to the site.

True Intentions of the Promoter - The aims of the promoters are simply make a lot of money from multiple mega-festivals on unsuitable property. They intend to benefit themselves substantially at huge expense to the property and those who live in the area.

Court ruling - The Land & Environment Court ruled in May 2009 that Byron Shire Council?s 2008 approval of BPT?s proposed trial Splendour festival at Yelgun was ?invalid and of no effect?. It is difficult to see how the state could now rule in favour of a permanent festival site at this location, given this judicial decision about a one-off trial event.

Events Policy for the Shire - Byron Shire Council has been revising its Events Policy to better manage all events in the shire, from small-scale family-oriented sporting events to large-scale music festivals. Splendour?s proposal is not in line with the current thinking about events in the shire as they try to balance tourism interests with the interests of the permanent residents of the shire. The plans to develop a permanent festival site at Yelgun are also counter to Byron Shire Council?s recently-drafted Tourism Management Plan. The Tourism Management Plan stresses the need for greater diversity in the types of tourist attractions that should be developed and states that tourism must be managed in a way that overcomes Byron's image as a party shire, but this proposal will just add to that image and make it far worse.

Approval Process - Besides objecting to the proposal, we also strongly object to the Splendour promoters asking the state government to become the consent authority in this matter. Their proposal has been controversial from the start. Substantial opposition exists in the community, and a majority of current councillors have expressed opposition to the earlier plans for a trial The court decision, too, was an important development. Splendour?s response to the substantial opposition and legal judgment should be to find another venue. Instead, they are bypassing everyone in Byron Shire in hopes of getting the state to force the development onto the community. This should not be allowed.

P492	Project Website Submission	14/11/2010	Online Submission from Blake Shaw (support)	To Whom It May Concern, I am in support of approving the NBSP site to hold major events. It is recognised that there may be some localised negative impacts due to traffic in the Byron and Ocean Shores Area, however the benefits to the Northern Rivers area far outweighs any localised impacts. The benefits of this proposal include rehabiliation of the north byron site, with the view of making this site more environmentally sustainable, economic benefits to the Northern Rivers area from the festivals (including the equivalent of over 200 estimated full time jobs for the area), the ability to maintain the Northern Rivers area as a key tourism destination for South QLD and Northern NSW residents. It is a shame that the North Byron parklands management have had to decline the $45,000 grant for rehabilitation of the area due to the action brought against them. I fully support the approval to hold major events at the North Byron Shire Parklands site. P493	Project Website Submission	14/11/2010	Online Submission from John Finlay (object)	I moved to North Ocean Shores from Sydney because of its unique location on the North Coast and the quality of life that it brings with it. Ocean Shores is a great area to bring up a family and engage in the many outdoor opportunities that the area presents. Eg Beaches, Billinudgel Nature Reserve with its many types of Bird & Animal life. I strongly oppose the proposed development of a massive festival site at Yelgun for the following reasons: The arrival of tens of thousands of festival goers daily into this site would totally disrupt traffic on local access roads and increase illegal holiday letting and its associated problems (already a problem in Byron Bay). This is a massive influx of people into an area that would be grossly unable to cope.

Roads and cycle ways and general infrastructure that are adequate for the area?s present population, would be totally overwhelmed should this proposal being sought by North Byron Parklands for a massive entertainment venue at Yelgun be granted.

It would have severe irreversible and negative effects on the native wildlife and fauna that take refuge at this unique site and in the Billinudgel Nature Reserve through noise, human disturbance and artificial lighting.

Nearby Brunswick Heads is a beautiful family friendly village which provides safe patrolled swimming beaches, cosy restaurants, pub and entertainment suitable for the whole family. This community minded village and its facilities would be transformed into a permanent party town if this massive festival site were to be realised as it hosts the nearest pub to the proposed site.

Byron Shire already has one permanent festival site at Tyagarah which successfully accommodates large world class music events, eg Byron Bluesfest. We do not need another festival site.

The area proposed is subjected to heavy floods and with the effects of climate change this could become more prevalent.

In summary this is an area with tremendous natural beauty with ecological importance, a wildlife corridor connecting to the coast, which offers excellent quality of life through its safe and friendly environment.

This proposal is contrary to the state government?s own planning decisions to protect and preserve this unique site. Let?s all thrive to achieve this aim and preserve one of the last wild life sanctuary by not granting a licence to this and similar environmentally unfriendly projects.

(There is a natural ridge through the property that is a corridor for our native wild life.) *The huge increase in TRAFFIC and NOISE in our quiet neighbourhood. Based on other festivals both in the Byron area and other places we will experience massive numbers of people. *The proposed site is in a FLOOD ZONED area and having experienced long periods of continuous rain, the whole area is under water. If this happened during a festival everyone would need to be evacuated, how? *By allowing this development it goes against the State Governments own planning decision to protect this unique area! Due to these reason and more, I STRONGLY OBJECT to the proposed cultural events site.

P495	Project Website Submission	14/11/2010	Online Submission from Kirsten Howie (support)

To Whom it May Concern,

While Splendour in the Grass cannot stay at Belongil and the producers are supportive of a move to somewhere near Byron- their proposal seems to be the only solution.

The reasons listed by the friends dont have much for me to alter and so I have included it all here.

Please consider positively and not allow a great idea to die out.

Reasons to allow the development to be approved as follows:

? Economy

North Byron Parklands will inject $192.6 million annually into the national economy (total multiplier effect) when operating at capacity (RPS Group 2010).

? Employment

North Byron Parklands will create up to 210 full time equivalent jobs.

? Community Grants

The North Byron Parklands Community Grants Program will commence with the first major event held. It will distribute over $100,000 annually to local community groups when North Byron Parklands is operating at capacity.

? Culture

- North Byron Parklands supports the cultural tourism and creative arts industries.

- The venue will provide a home for creative arts and musical expression in the Northern Rivers.

? Social benefits

- Cultural events add to quality of life.

- Events generate intangible benefits such as improved social cohesion, lifestyle improvement, appreciation of diversity and increased creativity.

- North Byron Parklands provides an ethically and responsibly run nature based venue to facilitate gatherings of Australians of all ages.

? Opportunities for young people

-The proposal provides training and jobs for young people in fields which are difficult to access in regional areas ? such as event management, cultural heritage management etc.

- Young people will be encouraged to get involved in the organisation, hosting and coordination of events to learn new skills necessary to gain work in the creative arts and music industries.

? Environment

- The event usage proposed is in grazed pasturelands covering less than 50% of the overall 660 acre site, leaving the majority for habitat use and bush regeneration.

- The proposal involves increasing the size and function of the Marshalls Ridge wildlife corridor.

- The proposal involves transferring approximately 28 hectares of bushland to expand the Billinudgel Nature Reserve.

- The proposal will provide opportunities to work with bush regenerators, universities and TAFE colleges to repair currently degraded land.

- The vegetation management plan will increase connectivity of the currently fragmented forest blocks across the site. This means it will be easier for animals to move across the 660 acre site.

? Tourism

The tourism industry, directly and indirectly, is a major employer and contributor to the economy of the Northern Rivers and a diversity of events throughout the year is a vital part of the tourism mix.

? Creative industries

- The creative arts sector contributes over $190 million to the local economy.

- The region has a long history of hosting events. This has seen the creative industries sector become a strong regional employer and significant income generator. - The proposal will ensure that Byron and the Northern Rivers region retains and attracts artists of all disciplines. These communities have been declining in Byron Bay in particular.

Projections show that tens of thousands of people will visit the area each year and this influx of people will significantly bolster our tourism businesses. With so many locals relying on the tourism industry for their income, such a project is very welcome. P499	Project Website Submission	13/11/2010	Online Submission from Jo Baker (object)	As a local resident over the last 11 years, I strongly appose this development. There are numerous reasons for this which I will explain. Firstly, I understand that music and festivals are a cultural activity and should be enjoyed, but there should be a reasonable, ethical and environmentally correct assessment on where such events should take place. In my opinion how can such an event even be slightly considered, let alone be approved in this particular site. This site has proven to be a wildlife corridor (in which your very department has spent millions protecting over the years) and is in a flood and fire prone zone. Will it take people in large numbers to die, for the department of planning to really understand and appreciate how dangerous this site is for such a large scale event. I hope that the department of planning does not choose greed over life, meaning loss of wildlife, human life and the quality of life of the local residents. If this event is approved the quality of life for the local residents will be drastically compromised or possibly gone forever, there is this misconception that everyone moves to the northern rivers for a party life, I am 35 years old and have friends who are younger and older than myself and we all agree that parties are enjoyed in everyones life but we don?t hold parties every second week, which this event could potentially occur. The majority of residents who moved to this area are looking for a quieter more peaceful life and the tranquility of living in this area is its main attraction. It?s fine if you are a visitor, you have your fun, leave a mess, cause environmental damage and off you go again. As a rate payer I have to pay for others to come and use this area as a stomping ground, people argue and say that this event will promote tourism and jobs to the area, but most of the money will go to the developers and the event holders which will be interstate and overseas, the only impact we will have will be ridiculous traffic, camping on our doorsteps, over populated sidewalks and drunken unsociable behaviour. The infrastructure of this small shire struggles already with growing tourism even at this level now our road are dangerous, littered with potholes and has an alarming rise in drinking driving fatalities, particularly with the youth in this area. These events undoubtedly encourage drinking creating more temptation for young people to drink excessively in which will cause these terrible road tragedy statistics to rise.

Again this last issue reiterates my main concern of will greed take precedent over life? I pray that the Department of Planning chooses not to have blood on their hands.

P500	Project Website Submission	13/11/2010	Online Submission (object)	(Please note, I do not wish the proponent to be made aware of my name on this submission, nor do I want my name placed on the departments website). I wish to lodge an objection to the proposed Permanent Festival Site at Yelgun (Cultural Events Site, Yelgun 09_0028) for the following reasons outlined below. 1.Decline in Biodiversity, Habitat, Ecosystem Functions and Processes The development and ongoing usage of a permanent festival site will unequivocally result in a fundamental decline or loss of fauna and flora species and habitats of northern NSW. A festival site would severely negatively impact upon local and landscape-scale ecosystem processes and functions. These claims are supported through current research and recent assessments undertaken by the NSW Government. The area occupied by the festival site has been continually identified as being of high biodiversity significance for a wide range of fauna and flora. The festival site footprint and adjacent habitat has been repeatedly identified as possessing high priority habitat significance by the following detailed research and assessments: ?DECCW Northern Rivers Biodiversity Management Plan (2010) ?DECCW Border Ranges Biodiversity Management Plan (2009) ?DECCW Key Habitats and Corridor research (2003) ?DECCW/DoP Draft North Coast Regional Strategy (2009) ?Byron Shire Biodiversity Strategy (2004) The area has been identified as a providing a key linkage between coastal habitats through to the world heritage Border Ranges Biodiversity Hotspot region via Jerusalem and Nightcap National Park Estates. The proposed site is transversed by two key Faunal Habitat Corridors linkages as identified by DECCW (2009?); a Coastal Climate Change Corridor and a Moist Forest Climate Change Corridor. These two key climate change corridors provide one of very few northern NSW linkages for fauna between the coast and cooler upland regions of NSW and SE Queensland. The Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change and Bureau of Meteorology data demonstrates that Australia?s temperatures are progressively becoming hotter and that Climate Change is acknowledged as a key priority for all levels of government. It is therefore imperative that these few remaining climate change corridors are treasured and conserved to act as ecological conduits. This position is further substantiated in that the area?s significance occupies a key coastal corridor as identified within the NSW Great Eastern Ranges (GER) initiative. As evidence of the corridor?s rarity, the next southern linkage does not occur until some 300km further south.

The applicant?s ecologist Mark Fitzgerald has acknowledged that the impacts from the festival are largely unknown which is a serious concern. Substantial research undertaken by expert ecologists Scotts and Benswell (2010) unequivocally demonstrate the permanent and severe negative impacts ongoing festivals have on the fecundity of local and regional fauna and flora through the major decline of ecosystem functions and processes. As the proponent proposes large number of mega, major festivals and an unlimited number of events, this will indisputably devastate biodiversity function and habitation of this vital and unique precinct. Thus the precautionary principle should be maintained and to not allow the site to operate based on the resulting impacts to biodiversity.

Fauna surveys were conducted at periods of low season and therefore do not reflect the full list of potential species inhabiting the site. Surveys should be conducted at regular intervals spanning the entire year particularly spring times where flowering plants and shrubs provide for greater and more varied frugivorous species.

Moreover, the assessment does not refer to the full DECCW threatened fauna records for the Billinudgel Nature Reserve. The DECCW threatened species database contains records for Spotted Quoll species in the Billinudgel Nature Reserve, which is a NSW TSC listed, but also an EPBC Commonwealth listed species. Owing to the latter status, an activity which deemed to impact upon an EPBC listed species should initiate involvement by the Commonwealth Government.

The D.A fails to demonstrate any monitoring evaluation, reporting and implementation (MERI) framework which is a fundamental requirement for demonstrating management activities. The D.A fails to offer any strategic assessment process and reporting structure to track long to short term impacts on the biodiversity of the proposed site. There is no clear linkage back to state government authorities on management and ongoing activities within or surrounding the proposed festival grounds. The applicants appear not to show accountability to any state government authority.

Moreover, the impacts and mitigation efforts addressed by the consultants were based on a single trial event of only 17,500 attendees and not ongoing large and mega festivals of up to 50,000 people. The proposed activities for mitigation do not have implementation guidelines not do they have a reporting system to identify what activity has been undertaken and milestone targets or indicators of level of success or failure. There is no guarantee of these actions will ever be implemented or monitored or that the proponents will ever be accountable.

The table below (table 1) from the DECCW Northern Rivers Biodiversity Management Plan outlines some of the ensuing effect of the festival site on biodiversity; some threats/impacts are direct (e.g. habitat trampling), while others would be induced by human presence (e.g. increased fox presence and predation of wildlife).

The proposed establishment of an effluent system associated with Yelgun Creek has the potential to severely impact on surrounding SEPP14 wetlands and EECs. The construction of effluent ponds (which coincidentally are based on grossly underestimated attendance numbers), would cause a disruption to the natural hydrological state of Yelgun Creek which flows through SEPP14 wetlands and through to estuarine habitats and DECCW Marine Habitat Protection Zones. The proponent DA does adequately identify nor address the impacts caused by vehicle, human and chemical pollution on the adjacent riparian, estuarine and wetland habitats and their associated fauna.

2.Impact on Community and Individual Wellbeing

A permanent festival site will negatively impact upon the social wellbeing of local and broader communities of the Byron and Tweed shires. Ongoing large and mega-festivals of up to 50,000 attendees per day, and additional unlimited events, cannot be sustained by a Shire of whose entire population is only 32,000 people (ABS 2009). This equates approximately that for every one resident in the Byron Shire there will be 1.6 festival attendees. The Byron Shire already has one large permanent festival site allocated for the annual ?Bluesfest? event located only some 10kms from the proposed Yelgun Site; it cannot tolerate and sustain another permanent festival site. No other Shire or LGA in all of Australia has two permanent large-scale festival sites of this magnitude. A second permanent festival site will dramatically alter the current social dimension and demographics of the Byron Shire and negatively promote the region as a shire.

Drug and alcohol usage in the Byron Shire exceed the NSW average owing to its back-backer and younger visitor status; any additional activities on the scale of that of the proposed festival of 50,000 attendees per day will irreversibly impact upon the local resident community. There is the potential for local suburbs to suffer altered rental usage patterns; from long-term family residents to short-term holiday type letting aimed at the festival patrons. The town of Byron Bay already possesses some of these characteristics and a small Shire of only 32,000 cannot sustain nor tolerate other suburbs changing demographics. Further statistics also show greater levels of violence, crime, and sexual abuse during festivals. These activities have the potential to be transferred into suburban areas as attendees leave the festival grounds and occupy surrounding urban areas, for which ABS records clearly show, is occupied predominantly by families and older residents.

3.Health and Safety Impacts

The Byron Shire has two small hospitals (Mullumbimby and Byron Bay) with approximately 20 beds that serve its local entire population of 32,000. Hospital resources and staff would be unable to cope with events on the scale proposed by the proponents, particularly with regards to higher than usual admittance rates resulting from alcohol and drug usage (overdoses), violence, heat exhaustion and other accidents during festivals of 50,000 people.

Given a moderate disruption or emergency, police and emergency workers (SES, Ambulance, RFS, RTA) would be unable to cope with the ensuing events.

4.Events Policy

Byron Shire council has fully supported and adopted an Events Policy which aims to promote festivals that are congruent with maintaining the character and amenity of the Shire. The proposed festival site and its proposed activities are in complete disagreement with this policy and do not respect the Council?s position.

5.Noise disturbances

The proponent has failed to submit adequate noise modelling results. The standards used in the scenario modelling are not based on NSW standards. The noise limits presented are not satisfactory and will, as the consultant has concluded, will permanently alter the lifestyle of local residents.

6.Traffic disturbances

The proponents traffic modelling is based on old scenarios based around a different road network and highly different patron numbers. The modelling does not adequately test the traffic impacts based on Tweed Valley Way road network and the suburbs it passes through. The modelling is also based on a guess of car-pooling rates. These claims are not supported by empirical data. The site has very limited access points. Large scale events as those proposed of 50,000 patrons would unequivocally cause major disruption to the daily movement of local residents, and particularly those situations where emergency services are required to attend emergencies cut-off by queuing traffic. Traffic reports from the most recent Splendour in the Grass event states traffic queues in excess of six hours based on smaller attendance figures than those proposed at Yelgun of 50,000.

7.Flooding Impacts

Areas on the festival site grounds, predominantly the car park and the camping zones, are located on a floodplain which experiences frequent flooding. Byron Shire has mapping and documentation which outlines the effect of flooding in the proposed areas. The application fails to adequately acknowledge or address the issues of flooding on the festival grounds.

Conclusion

The development application is not in agreement with the wishes and of the residents of the Byron Shire. It is not congruent with the character and amenity of the Byron Shire. The development would result in serious irreversible impacts on the resident populations of the Byron Shire. The development would result in serious irreversible impacts upon fauna and flora at the site, local, regional and landscape level. The proposed festival site is unsuitable. There already exists a large-scale permanent festival site within proximity of this proposal. The Byron Shire does not need, nor can it sustain another festival site. This proposed festival site has one primary objective - to make money. The Byron Shire will be forever harmed if this festival site were to proceed. The proposed festival application should unequivocally be rejected, permanently. Put yourselves in our shoes, and please, never allow this disrespectful and damaging festival to manifest.

P505	Project Website Submission	13/11/2010	Online Submission from Shane Buckland of Soma Corp (support)	Too many people are forced to look outside Byron for employment opportunities. The North Byron Parklands proposal offers ample opportunities and will surely make the locals very happy. The Parklands project is going to attract tens of thousands of people to stay in the wider area. Many of these attendees will extend their stay in the region before and after various events and this will generate a direct positive impact for accommodation providers as well as food and beverage establishments within the local area and region. P506	Project Website Submission	13/11/2010	Online Submission from Coral Wheatley of N/A (object)	The site at Yelgun is in the middle of a high conservation area that has been protected for decades by local and state governments and is adjacent to Billinudgel Nature Reserve, a reserve the government worked hard to establish. The noise and disturbance of tens of thousands of people repeatedly through the year will have a significant negative effects on the wildlife. This is the only remaining wildlife corridor from the sea to the hinterland in far north-eastern New South Wales between the cities of south east Queensland and Byron Bay. The survival of the wildlife corridor is more important than ambitions to hold huge music festivals in the last remnants of coastal animal habitat. It is the last place where shy wild animals can move and feed along the last east-west corridor without loud noises and bright lights that terrify them. Beautiful endangered birds such as the Rose-crowned Fruit-dove, and other wild animals need to pass along the corridor from the mountains to reach the last coastal forests to look for food during the cooler winter months. Damage will quite surely be done to the flora and fauna of Billinudgel Nature Reserve from the amplified music, crowd noise, artificial lights, and people movements during festival days and during the many set-up and take-down days that will be required. The promoters cannot guarantee that they will be able to keep attendees out of the Reserve, especially since only the Reserve stands between the site and the beach that is part of the reserve. People illegally ride their motorbikes and walk their dogs in this Reserve now, so it's to be expected that attendees will do the same when at festivals. NSW should be protecting this prime asset, not setting it up for destruction.

P508	Project Website Submission	13/11/2010	Online Submission from Wendy LOVEJOY (object)	Wildlife Corridor - The site at Yelgun is in the middle of a high conservation area that has been protected for decades by local and state governments and is adjacent to Billinudgel Nature Reserve, a reserve the government worked hard to establish. NSW should be protecting this prime asset, not setting it up for destruction

There is already a high number of native species killed on the road in this area as they move between sections of bush. Huge increases in traffic on these small country roads can only mean an increase in animal road deaths, especially as animals flee from the noise and chaos of a large festival adjoining their habitat.

Negative Impact on Residents - Yelgun is a very quiet little community, with many of the residents being farmers who need to get up early to work, including on weekends. Late and all night events would be a major intrusion on their lives and would create a large amount of noise pollution for people up to several kilometers away. It is adjacent to the rural and residential areas of Wooyung, South Golden Beach, Ocean Shores, and Billinudgel. Forcing a permanent festival site upon these residents condemns them to repeated intrusions of the traffic, noise, and other disturbances that are associated with mega-festivals.

Reduced Access to Public Thoroughfares - Traffic has increased substantially in the area during Splendour events, clogging roads in and around Byron Bay. The Yelgun site is even less suited to massive increases in traffic. the amount of extra traffic on these small country roads will greatly disturb the movements of locals just trying to go about their daily business and especially nearby residents with no other route options. The RTA had concerns about traffic issues when the proposal was for a single trial They will no doubt have concerns about multiple events at a permanent site.

Anti-Social Behaviour in the Immediate Area - Drug and alcohol consumption is high among Splendour attendees. In fact, the sale of alcohol makes the festival especially lucrative for the promoters. A permanent festival site at Yelgun will result in a permanent ?schoolies? atmosphere in the immediate area, something that current residents want no part of. There is also a high risk of drink driving as attendees will not be able to walk to and from the site as they used to at Belongil Fields, and public transportation does not service the site. When 50,000 are in attendance, at least 25,000 people will be leaving the site in their cars in the early hours of the morning to make their way to their accommodation

Negative Impact on Health Services - The number of attendees at mega-festivals and the heavy use of drugs and alcohol place a strain on local ambulance, hospitals, and psychological services during the course of the event. Given the past history of the need for emergency services during mega-festivals, many residents are concerned that their own health emergencies will receive less prompt attention as a result.

Fire risk - The risk of fire at the event site and in Billinudgel Nature Reserve is high, given that bonfires are planned by the event organisers and that smoking and camping on site are to be allowed. There is concern about people tramping through Billinudgel Nature Reserve between the event site and the unpatrolled beach, as they are likely to do. The risk of fire in this area, as a result of unmonitored activity, is also extremely high.

Flood zone - Massive, rapid flooding occurs on the Yelgun site, especially where the promoters have planned to locate their campgrounds and their parking lots. Event attendees will be at serious risk in periods of heavy rain from the inevitable overflows of North Yelgun Creek, Marshalls Creek, and the Capricornia Canal, all quite near to the site.

True Intentions of the Promoter - The aims of the promoters are simply make a lot of money from multiple mega-festivals on unsuitable property. They intend to benefit themselves substantially at huge expense to the property and those who live in the area.

Court ruling - The Land & Environment Court ruled in May 2009 that Byron Shire Council?s 2008 approval of BPT?s proposed trial Splendour festival at Yelgun was ?invalid and of no effect?. It is difficult to see how the state could now rule in favour of a permanent festival site at this location, given this judicial decision about a one-off trial event.

Events Policy for the Shire - Byron Shire Council has been revising its Events Policy to better manage all events in the shire, from small-scale family-oriented sporting events to large-scale music festivals. Splendour?s proposal is not in line with the current thinking about events in the shire as they try to balance tourism interests with the interests of the permanent residents of the shire. The plans to develop a permanent festival site at Yelgun are also counter to Byron Shire Council?s recently-drafted Tourism Management Plan. The Tourism Management Plan stresses the need for greater diversity in the types of tourist attractions that should be developed and states that tourism must be managed in a way that overcomes Byron's image as a party shire, but this proposal will just add to that image and make it far worse. Approval Process - Besides objecting to the proposal, we also strongly object to the Splendour promoters asking the state government to become the consent authority in this matter. Their proposal has been controversial from the start. Substantial opposition exists in the community, and a majority of current councillors have expressed opposition to the earlier plans for a trial The court decision, too, was an important development. Splendour?s response to the substantial opposition and legal judgment should be to find another venue. Instead, they are bypassing everyone in Byron Shire in hopes of getting the state to force the development onto the community. This should not be allowed. Events Policy for the Shire - Byron Shire Council has been revising its Events Policy to better manage all events in the shire, from small-scale family-oriented sporting events to large-scale music festivals. Splendour?s proposal is not in line with the current thinking about events in the shire as they try to balance tourism interests with the interests of the permanent residents of the shire. The plans to develop a permanent festival site at Yelgun are also counter to Byron Shire Council?s recently-drafted Tourism Management Plan. The Tourism Management Plan stresses the need for greater diversity in the types of tourist attractions that should be developed and states that tourism must be managed in a way that overcomes Byron's image as a party shire, but this proposal will just add to that image and make it far worse.

Approval Process - Besides objecting to the proposal, we also strongly object to the Splendour promoters asking the state government to become the consent authority in this matter. Their proposal has been controversial from the start. Substantial opposition exists in the community, and a majority of current councillors have expressed opposition to the earlier plans for a trial The court decision, too, was an important development. Splendour?s response to the substantial opposition and legal judgment should be to find another venue. Instead, they are bypassing everyone in Byron Shire in hopes of getting the state to force the development onto the community. This should not be allowed.

P510	Project Website Submission	13/11/2010	Online Submission from Grant Hawkins of Byron Bay Accom (support)

I am writing in support of a permanent sustainable cultural event venue at Yelgun.

Being in the accommodation industry we benefited from having Splendour held in Byron Bay. If the Yelgun site is refused and Splendour returns closer to Byron Bay we would benefit, however we do not believe this is in the best interests of the shire and shire businesses.

There are of course many economic beniefits to having a sustainable cultural event site at Yelgun site and I sure these have been well documented in many other submissions. So I would hope we all agree this is a positive move from an economic point of view. It is the other issues where there seems to be greatest difference of opinion.

The reason I support the Yelgun site is that it is that the owners propose a very professional, modern and well managed way to hold cultural events. I love music and believe it is essential to our cultural lifeblood that we stay passionate about expressing ourselves in creative ways. Some of these ways cause friction with parts of the community. I strongly support allowing this expression with sensible safeguards to community interests.

I also support a maximum of two venues able to hold events with more than 16,000 participants in the Byron Shire again with sensible community safeguards.

I am for a balanced solution to this issue...but let us allow the raw creative expression that so much of our western society is dumbing down and supressing. That would not be good for anyone's future.

Yours Sincerely

Grant Hawkins

P511	Project Website Submission	13/11/2010	Online Submission from Lisa Wentworth of Stay at home parent (support)	Re Cultural Events Site, Yelgun 09_0028

I grew up in Byron Bay and have watched over the years the dilution of culture which was brought here by its founders. However what is left of Byron Bay culture is why I have chosen to bring up my family here after many years of living in other parts of Australia. It is still unique and we need to fight to protect it to give our kids the benefits of what I had.

I wish to express my strongest possible support for the North Byron Parklands Proposal. The employment and economic benefits for a struggling rural area are obvious. The organisers are generous with community grants and seem to be working extremely hard to consult the community to become a part of the community rather than just ship in and ship out.

The quality and variety of jobs the festival offers are above that of just accommodation and hospitality (ie a change from cleaning and waitressing which is virtually the only other employment available for young people).

The benefits which are less discussed and underrated are what a privilege it is to host such great events. What a great benefit to youth, parents, and locals to be able to attend wholesome, outdoors festivals where people can get a sense of enjoying something together.

In Byron we like to think we are at the forefront of living a positive lifestyle. This proposal will help to bring people here and keep people here including our children.

Yours sincerely

Lisa Wentworth

P514	Project Website Submission	13/11/2010	Online Submission from Jenny O'Brien (support)	There are numerous reasons why North Byron Parklands should be allowed to proceed. The owners have shown significant commitment to the environment and conservation, as well as promoting social development and economic opportunities. To summarise some of the positive outcomes that are likely to result from this development application being approved: - North Byron Parklands has shown dedication to the environment through planning to permanently set aside 62% of its 660 acres for eco system support purposes - Culturally significant areas as identified by local Aboriginal people are being preserved - 210 full time equivalent jobs will be created, as well as thousands of external employment opportunities - North Byron Parklands will, when operating at capacity, inject $192.6 million (total multiplier effect) into the national economy annually (RPS Group 2010) - A world class event venue will be created - The North Byron Parklands Community Grant Fund will distribute over $100,000.00 each year to community groups and charities.

P515	Project Website Submission	13/11/2010	Online Submission from Caryn Streeter (support)	It is a good sign when an organisation like North Byron Parklands goes the extra mile to assess the possible environmental impacts related to their project. North Byron Parklands have proposed extensive mitigation strategies that will protect the ecological attributes and improve the overall environmental viability of the site. This high level of planning should be encouraged. In the Byron and northern rivers areas tourism is subject to busy times and quiet times. It is planned that a number of events will occur at the North Byron Parklands site each year and one of these takes place in winter when tourism businesses are struggling to cover costs. P516	Project Website Submission	13/11/2010	Online Submission from Chris Kettle of my247.com.au (support)	North Byron Parklands is all about hosting lots of different events, all of which require people to work in a variety of jobs. One event can employ hundreds of people for a period of time and in an area such as Byron such job opportunities are very welcome. We should be doing all we can to make this project happen. The North Byron Parklands application exceeds all expectations and must be approved. There is just so many good things that will come from North Byron Parklands proposal including environmental restoration, employment opportunities, a tourism increase, and a boost in local businessâ□™ income. There is no reason why this proposal should not be approved by state government. The Byron region can market itself as a hub for events and creativity if this proposal is approved. In regards to employment so many traditional industry sectors have left the mid and far north coast of NSW. This has resulted in a significant structural change to our employment base. A new shift towards service industries and importantly the creative industries means that the necessary infrastructure and planning decisions are required to capitalise on this trend. North Byron Parklands is one such project that will strengthen the North Coastâ□™s existing creative industries base and will generate significant part time and full time employment, all of which is much needed in these areas. With respect to ensuring that staff and contractors take care to protect and enhance the environment where events will take place, it is excellent to note that the North Byron Parklands proposal includes an environmental induction for such workers. In this instance all workers are required to read and sign an environmental induction which covers a range of important environmental issues, not the least the environmental incident notification system. This is a great initiative.

P520	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from hannah briggs (support)	The youth in Byron need to have some positive distraction. The different aspects of culture, music and art that the North Byron Parklands proposal will offer guides the youth in a positive way and teaches them that amazing experiences can be had without trouble. A place where people can get together and enjoy the beauty that Byron Bay has to offer. For many young people in the local area, getting a job has proved to be very hard. This is because other than retail and tourism there are few large employers about. Bad luck if you do not want to make a career in pouring coffee or cleaning rooms. This project will offer a whole range of people with new prospects in securing a job in the creative industries, an industry that is on the rise in this area. We really do need more substantial employers. P521	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Tim O'Donnell (support)

If this proposal is approved, the Byron Shire area will be able to market itself as a place for sustainable events and creativity. We will have a world class cultural event venue that will provide new employment and training opportunities to the young people in our community.

There are literally thousands of tourism businesses within 75 kilometres of the proposed North Byron Parklands event site. Most of these businesses are family owned and operated and as such are likely to benefit income wise from this proposal. With a flatter than normal couple of years this extra income will be warmly welcome by these businesses.

This proposal brings in new hope to Byron Bays local economy, small businesses that currently struggle will thrive on the additional revenue.

It is unlikely that there is another events venue that has the level of environmental management systems in place as those proposed by North Byron Parklands. Based on ISO14001 the environmental policies and procedures to be implemented at this venue will provide robust monitoring and mitigation measures to ensure that fauna and flora is protected. Measures such as requiring suitable buffer zones between event activities and forest blocks is one such positive initiative.

Splendour isnt splendour if it isn't in byron bay. Make it happen as more positives will come from this even than negatives for the shire and its people.

P522	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from David Warren of Santos Ltd. (support)	While the current research into noise emissions and their effects on fauna is far from comprehensive, the team at North Byron Parklands have developed a host of environmental procedures and processes to manage this issue. From the use of sophisticated unidirectional public address systems to fauna monitoring programs the management systems that will be employed will greatly reduce any possible impacts on fauna. The pleasing thing to note is that fauna are only temporarily inconvenienced by noise if at all. This proposal brings in new hope to Byron Bays local economy, small businesses that currently struggle will thrive on the additional revenue. Skilling up the region is vital and this proposal delivers in so many ways. P523	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Gil Contemplacion (support)	The site in question if not used for a sustainable cultural arts and event venue may end up being used by whoever buys it in a manner that would place greater pressure on the environment. Here we have an opportunity to hold a low impact activity that will see the land rested for some 75% of the year. Allowing such large rest times will benefit both fauna and flora across and adjacent to the site. This is a very positive outcome. You only have to look around the Byron community when a festival or an event takes place to see the people smiling and the excitement in the air. The North Byron Parklands proposal sure sounds like a perfect way to make sure the people keep smiling. P524	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Sharon Lehmann of Vegifix (support)	The approval of this proposal will lead to new employment opportunities that may not have previously been offered on the north coast of NSW. New and exciting jobs will boost the youth employment and inspire young adults to remain in the local area after completing study. Its time for our state government to get behind the music and arts industries and support them by helping to provide a much needed sustainable outdoor music and arts venue. Its time to approve North Byron Parklands. I know many people in the creative industries sector that will benefit financially and through greater exposure to their markets if the North Byron Parklands project is approved. In NSW we need more venues so it makes good sense to approve this project. The young people on the Northern Rivers deserve to have a festival that they can be proud of, a festival that they religiously attend, and a festival that is held in a environmental sound and sustainable venue. I fully support the North Byron Parklands proposal.

Establishing a permanent and sustainable cultural event venue will lead to an array of new job opportunities and in time create economic growth in the region. With respect to ensuring that staff and contractors take care to protect and enhance the environment where events will take place, it is excellent to note that the North Byron Parklands proposal includes an environmental induction for such workers. P526	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Rhianna Clamp (support)	There is a reason why the government agencies including the National Parks and Wildlife services didnâ□™t object to this application, it really is in the best interest of everyone. The tourism business in Byron Bay this past winter has been very slow. With the loss of Splendour in the Grass to Queensland a much needed income stream during winter evaporated. The North Byron Parklands proposal would see a number of major events coming to the region and with it a significant increase in demand for tourist accommodation and activities. The project should be carefully considered by the government due to the much needed injection of funds into the local tourism industry. Many families would benefit from this proposal. There are not very many opportunities in the far north coast for professional event management experience, especially since Splendour in the Grass has (hopefully temporarily!) gone. North Byron Parklands would provide excellent training in the area of event management. With up twenty days of events a year and the associated planning involved with both large and small events, this is a jewel for retaining our young professionals and aspiring professionals. P527	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from JOANNE PEARCE of DHL (support)	The North Byron Parklands will see the subject site have the opportunity to maintain low impact activity that will see the site unoccupied for some 75% of the year. By allowing the sites land to rest both fauna and flora growth wil be encouraged across and adjacent to the site. This restoration will be a positive outcome for the local environment. There is currently approximately 294,00 people living on the Northern Rivers and this number is said to increase to approximately 376,000 residents by 2036. This huge increase in the next 26 years requires action to create employment opportunities in the region. North Byron Parklands can offer an array of employment opportunities in the future to tackle this population increase.

It is very exciting to see a proposal of this sort in the Byron Shire. North Byron Parklands will see a rise in employment opportunities for residents, a boost in sales in local businessâ□™, and a influx of cultural events. This development will make the north coast a definite stop on the tourist map for years to come. Lets get behind it!

We must bring Splendour home! The opportunities the Parklands event site will bring to the youth in the community such as employment and culture are just too good to miss.

I am a young an enthusiastic person always looking for new ways to broaden my horizons. North Byron Parklands will open me up to new creative opportunities and experiences. It is important that this proposal is apporved by local government. Cultural arts and music event facilities such as those proposed by North Byron Parklands will greatly assist the local tourism industry by attracting thousands of people from Queensland, Sydney and Victoria. All of these visitors will require accommodation and other services and will greatly benefit the tourism sector. This is surely a good thing.

The various Aboriginal clans in and around the proposed North Byron Parklands site have had a long history in this area and for this reason the Parklands people have spent a lot of time consulting indigenous groups and organisations to work out how best to assess the site for significance. This process was done in a cooperative framework with the results that potential sites of significance will be protected through fencing and other means. The archaeological report does not identify any aspects of the project that will have a negative impact on important cultural artefacts or values.

While there are a number of identified threatened species at the North Byron Parklands site, all of these creatures are winged species such as water borne birds, owls and various bats. Research into the effects of intermittent noise shows that such fauna will usually relocate during such episodes and will return quickly once noise abates. Further the movement of such fauna is entirely dependent on food resources. If there are no fruits and blossoms across the site then the presence of these species will be very low.

P533	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Sunita Wheatley (support)	At present the North Byron Parklands site is subject to significant sediment and erosion issues. Previous land practices have seen poor top soil removal and impacts on graded lands. The North Byron Parklands proposal aims to address these existing soil impacts and also has put in place a sediment and erosion control plan during their construction and operation phases. This is to be commended. With such a massive projected increase in the population of the north coast how are people expected to find meaningful work? It is only by governments thinking outside of the traditional tourism and accommodation industries and assisting other sectors to operate that such jobs can be made available. P535	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Jennifer Turner ()	The Department would be hard pressed to list other proposals such as the North Byron Parklands one that has clearly documented the environmental controls it proposes to put in place to actively manage the environment. The environmental management manual is an excellent example of a proactive organisation who is obviously serious about ensuring that fauna and flora is appropriately considered and managed within legislative requirements. In the northern rivers area more and more people have been moving into the creative industries sector because of the interesting and fulfilling work that can be undertaken. There is a very real need to continue growing this sector to provide people with more job opportunities. North Byron Parklands is a proposal that will truly make a big impact in job availability in the region and will be a very positive economic force.

Apart from the amazing environmental initiatives covering fauna and flora across the North Byron Parklands site that have been developed, these guys are also going to tackle waste, recycling and the minimisation of resource consumption through a number of proven effective measures. They have even proposed a ?resource centre? where materials can be stored and used again and again for other events. This is a pretty impressive effort I must say.

Splendour in the Grass has provided high level training in a range of areas and has supported youth initiatives such as Splendid. With the expanded suite of festivals at North Byron Parklands the opportunities for work experience and training are invaluable

I have been to all but one Splendour and the last was closer to my home on the Sunshine Coast but I belive Splendour belongs in Byron Shire. Lets watch this site be transformed into a vibrant centre for the Arts and an environmentaly sound site for the future.

P536	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Michelle Kam (support)	Splendour in the Grass has provided a lot of mentorship and training opportunities for young people in the past. The fabulous Splendid initiative is an example of this. They really invest in young people. Even if these initiatives remain limited to Splendour in the Grass, itâ□™s important to have these opportunities for young people in the region. I know of many businesses that rely on events for a large part of their income. These businesses employ local people and locally based jobs are hard to come by. We should support Parklands as it will be a large employer in the region. Additionally, positive environmental outcomes are important for any development and one very important outcome offered by the North Byron Parklands proponents is to apply a vegetation management plan across the entire site. Under this plan, sections of the site will be restored back to pristine forest cover while others will be treated as managed parklands. This treatment will ensure that very large areas will be planted with low density native trees that will provide connection points for fauna to avoid large pastoral areas and reduce the likelihood of predation during movement across the site. They are not required by law to do this, but do see it as an important environmental outcome. These reasons, combined with the fact that Splendour in the Grass has always been enjoyed by thousands, make it both economically and environmentally sound to offer a permanent home to this incredible event. It's blatant that the benefits of this festival far outweigh any possible detriment, so why not entertain the people, for just 3 days a year. 				One of the unintended effects on the environment from outdoor events is light spill. So it is pleasing to see that this issue is well addressed under the organisationâ□™s environmental standard. This standard requires lighting to be directed downwards, away from forest blocks, using low pressure sodium vapour lights where possible, and turning off light towers at a certain time of night. Such measures will greatly reduce disturbances to any localised fauna during such events.

P540	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Anne Rudd (support)	The Parklands project will greatly assist the ecological integrity of the area especially for the Billinudgel Nature Reserve and the â˜coast to hinterlandâ™ wildlife corridor. The project results in thousands of extra trees planted, improved habitat for wildlife and additions to the Nature Reserve. The careful scheduling of events to maximise â˜downtimeâ™ will allow the Parklands site to assist the functioning of the adjoining Nature Reserve. Under the North Byron Parklands environmental management manual there is a particular Environmental Standard that requires events being held on the site to adhere to a number of stringent environmental controls. The controls include buffer zones, environmental inductions, fencing aspects, wildlife rescue teams and lighting requirement to reduce illumination of bush blocks. I am unaware of any other outdoor event venue requiring such tight environmental controls. Parklands will certainly be moving towards Australian best practice, if not worldâ™s best environmental practice. North Byron Parklands will provide trainingÂ and work experience opportunities that will be extremely valuable to the regions workforce. The proposal will deliver high quality events, a cultural centre, sustainability initiatives, and ongoing community consultation which in turn will offer the regions workplace new skills training.

P542	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Belinda Crofts (support)	While it is understood that business ventures such as North Byron Parklands are focussed on turning a profit, it is also really pleasing to see they have expended a fair amount of effort on protecting and enhancing the environment in which they operate. Initiatives such as light spill and noise management and inducting all staff and contractors is a great way to protect the environment and demonstrate a commitment to sustainable best practice. This proposal really needs to be approved by local government. The young people in the region will support the events and attend. Some will be able to be employed by the event managers for what seems like an endless possibility of jobs, from musicians performances to fence erecting. In addiiton to this is it would be of great economic benefit to the Byron region atracting guests from all of Australian and International travellers. An example of this is the fact that there have been more vegetation and flora surveys conducted at the site than housing, industrial estate, and quarries assessments. Many people worry about financially providing for themselves and their families and rightly so. Today it is hard to find a good job outside of the larger cities. When a project such as North Byron Parklands comes along offering lots of jobs it is surely in the interests of working families that such a project is located in a regional area. P545	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Lia Pielli (support)	Not only have the North Byron Parklands organisation developed what must be considered worldâ™s best practice environmental management systems and processes, they are also planning to have an environmental education program folded into the mix for good measure. A number of events proposed to be held at this site already have initiatives such as Eco Cops which are undergraduate environmental science students who promote environmental programs and accepted practices to patrons while at an event. This is a very good proactive measure. The proposed Parklands site has a long history with various Aboriginal clans in and around the area and North Byron Parklands has gone to great measures to maintain important cultural areas. It is great to see that the archaeological report conducted by Parklands does not identify any aspects of the project that will have a negative impact on important cultural artefacts or values. So many individuals, families and businesses rely on the tourism dollar for their living. In the North Coast region a large majority of business are geared towards the tourism market. With the dollar at record heights more Australians are considering overseas travel and this will impact on local tourism dependant businesses. If a project like North Byron Parklands succeeds in gaining approval then this region stands to deliver a much needed and welcomed tourism boost. The government must seriously take this into account. This program is an ecellent way to involve the traditional land owners in the area and helps to restore the site and set the foundations for a sustainable event site. If you consider that businesses involved in the tourism industry that will directly benefit from the North Byron Parklands project stretch from Ballina in the South to Tweed Heads in the North, not to mention all the inland towns, then it becomes very apparent that this project will benefit a very wide area. P549	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Gemma Sargent (support)	Holding events requires a sound understanding of a whole range of logistical and safety aspects. The team behind North Byron Parklands have been responsible for putting together numerous large events over the past decade. In each case they have successfully managed important aspects such as noise, ecology, lighting, traffic and crowd and safety management. The systems and procedures they have developed will assist any event being held at the North Byron Parklands site which I believe will help result in successful events. North Byron Parklands is set to play a pivotal role in strengthening the north coast tourism sector by attracting so many people to the area. These visitors will likely stay one or two days either side of the event they are attending and will no doubt spend a lot of money on goods and services and tourism related activities. This project should be supported from the Premier down, because the regions stands to gain so much from it. Please approve this proposal! It is very important for our young people to feel like the region has new and exciting jobs to offer for them. P551	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Damian Licari (object)	I have a long-term association with Byron Shire having been a visitor for more than 20 years and I have recently become a local resident (and ratepayer) of Ocean Shores. Over this time I have seen great change within the Shire. Although some of these changes have had a positive effect on the local community and amenity of the area, many changes have had a negative effect. Over this time I have observed that the character of Byron Bay, in particular, has transformed from a sleepy holiday hamlet into a party town. At least part of the responsibility for transforming Byron Bay into a party town lies squarely in the lap of the Splendour Festival which has grown from a small, friendly and local festival into a corporate free for all. Fortunately the hamlet of Brunswick Heads and the suburb of Ocean Shores have thus far not been tarred with the ?party town? brush and remain pleasant places for residents to live and great places to visitors to enjoy. Consequently, I am writing to object to the proposed development. I base my objection on the grounds that the proposed development does not meet the objects of the Environmental Planning and Assessment Act 1979.

Pursuant to s5(a)(i) the proposed development does not meet the objective of providing ?proper management, development and conservation? and does not promote ?the social and economic welfare of the community and a better environment?. With the Hotel Brunswick at Brunswick Heads and the Ocean Shores Tavern at Ocean Shores located nearby, these areas will be transformed into permanent party towns and will irrevocably damage the social welfare of the community. Traffic into/out of Brunswick Heads and Ocean Shores will constantly be at the mercy of festival goers. I note that traffic at the Splendour Festival held at Woodford was banked up for over 6km!

Pursuant to s5(a)(vi) the impacts of the proposed development does not meet the objective of ?protection of the environment, including the protection and conservation of native animals and plants, including threatened species??. There is also no doubt that the life cycle of threatened fauna listed in the schedules of Threatened Species Conservation Act 1995 that have been recorded in the Billinudgel Nature Reserve and will be significantly affected by the noise, lighting and inappropriate use resulting form the proposed development.

Pursuant to s5(a)(vii) the proposed development cannot in any way be described as ?ecologically sustainable development?. With more than 250,000 partying on the edge of the Billinudgel Nature Reserve per year there will undoubtedly result in inappropriate use of the reserve. Sensitive vegetation will be damaged and an increased threat of bushfire will put life and property at risk. Byron Shire already has a permanent festival site at Tyagarah, there is no need for another site within the Shire.

The proposed development will negatively impact on housing affordability. There will be an enormous increase in holiday letting in Brunswick Heads and Ocean Shores which will put further pressure on rents and the availability of rental accommodation for local residents. Pursuant to s5(a)(viii) , the proposed development does not meet the objective of the ?provision and maintenance of affordable housing?.

Ultimately, it is not in the public interest for this development to be approved in any way shape or form (Note, I define the ?the public? as the residents of Brunswick Heads and Ocean Shores and the residents of Byron Shire in general).

P552	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Lucy Cahill (support)	The North Byron Parklands project will incorporate a range of best practice environmental policies and procedures including a requirement to only host events in the existing cleared areas of the site. This means that all forested areas will be protected via fencing and security measures and effectively be out of bounds for event usage. This is a very positive initiative from an environmental point of view. Byron and the surrounding areas relies substantially on a range of small businesses and cottage industries to employ the people that live in this community. There are not many large employers such as what North Byron Parklands would become should it be approved. I think we need to approve and support these types of projects in regional areas to ensure there are enough job choices available to people. I believe that cultural events in our community help people grow and develop. North Byron Parklands proposed event site would create social and inspiring opportunities for our regions youth.

We need businesses such as Parklands who can provide employment opportunities to many in our community, particularly young people. It is vitally important to the local tourism industry that the North Byron Parklands project is approved. This single project is expected to attract hundreds of thousands of visitors to the region each and every year. The flow on effects to the tourism operators will be significant and will also help to grow much needed jobs for the region. P558	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Megan Jones (support)	With regards to the wildlife corridor it has been significantly degraded over many decades due to such activities as primary production and agriculture. As such it is currently highly fragmented and in need of revegetation. The Parklands proposal will see the biggest rehabilitation program the area has seen for the past 5o years as a result of its detailed vegetation management plan which will result in thousands of trees being planted in strategic areas. Getting people to spend their tourism dollar in the northern rivers area is extremely important for sustaining the local and regional tourism businesses. On average Australian holiday makers will spend about $130 per night staying in the northern rivers region and the North Byron Parklands project is going to attract between 80,000 and 120,000 people to the area each year. The economic income will be huge and will support a whole host of tourism based organisations. Why wouldn?t we want a world class facility like North Byron parklands in the Byron region? Over the past 5 years the northern rivers area and Byron shire have experienced a drop in the number of domestic tourists. The North Byron Parklands proposal would help to attract a significant number of domestic tourists from south east Queensland and southern NSW and Victoria. As much of the region is built on tourism it is important that such projects are allowed to proceed.

Being young it?s important to get out there. North Byron Parklands offers us opportunities to interact on levels that promote us to look outside the square. It would be a great opportunity for us to have this venue available.

North Byron Parklands organisation are serious about managing the ecological issues at the event site. An example of this is the fact that there have been more vegetation and flora surveys conducted at the site than housing, industrial estate, and quarries assessments.

P561	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Stephen Cooke of Lindisfarne Anglican Grammar School (support)	Most of the jobs on the North Coast rely on industries such as tourism and retail trade. To help expand the employment base there is a strong need to nurture an array of other industries such as artistic and creative industries. North Byron Parklands is a project that will greatly assist in providing a diversity in job prospects and on this basis should be actively supported by government and the wider community. From an environmental perspective North Byron Parklands has ticked all the boxes in terms of assessment and risk mitigation. This was also reflected when they originally applied for a one off trial event through Byron Shire Council. Not only did the Council approve the DA but none of the state government agencies including National Parks and Wildlife Services objected to the application. North Byron Parklands will provide jobs and training in event management, ticketing, technical production and traffic management for up to 20 days each year. These work and training opportunities are needed and are very exciting for young adults in the community. P564	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Britt Holmberg of student (support)	North Byron Parklands through their application to the Department of Planning have more than adequately shown that this is an organisation willing to go beyond compliance in terms of environmental management. What other development would have documented in such detail the plans, policies and procedures to effectively manage all issues covering the environment. Everything from lighting and erosion control through to revegetation and fauna audits has been included in their impressive management manual.

Many projects that have occurred across the North Coast of NSW have not undertaken even a tenth of the assessment, survey and fauna/flora investigations as that completed by North Byron Parklands. The extensive vegetation mapping and the identification of fauna across the site, coupled with two koala surveys (which did not locate any koalas) demonstrate the level of environmental assessment undertaken by this organisation. When you then add the environmental controls as proposed in their environmental, health and safety management manual it is evident that these people are very serious about environmental management.

North Byron Parklands has so much to offer the Byron Shire and Northern rivers region. It seems strange to think twice about this proposal. This proposed venue has to go ahead.

P567	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Jasper Seymore of student (support)	The preservation of ecological values in and adjacent to the Parklands site is an important aspect of the proposal. Much scientific assessment has been undertaken which highlights that the site has been heavily degraded over the past number of years and that the proposed fauna and flora management plans will greatly enhance and protect existing identified values. The North Byron Parklands Project will actually result in a positive impact on the environment and should be supported. This proposal brings in new hope to Byron Bays local economy, small businesses that currently struggle will thrive on the additional revenue. Along with that, splendour in the grass has created on of the mulit cultural social events in australia. Thats what byron bay is all about, getting along and going with it. P568	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Kylee Stewart (support)	It is vitally important to the local tourism industry that the North Byron Parklands project is approved. This single project is expected to attract hundreds of thousands of visitors to the region each and every year. P569	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Katie Spencer (support)	It is a good sign when an organisation like North Byron Parklands goes the extra mile to assess the possible environmental impacts related to their project. North Byron Parklands have proposed extensive mitigation strategies that will protect the ecological attributes and improve the overall environmental viability of the site. This high level of planning should be encouraged. Regarding employment, so many people are forced to leave coastal areas in search of a job. We need the government to play an active role in identifying suitable industries and businesses that can provide local jobs in these areas. North Byron Parklands is an obvious choice in helping to bridge this gap and should be approved to operate in Byron Shire.

What other venue in NSW or Australia for that matter has paid so much attention to environmental management considerations as North Byron Parklands? If all other outdoor venues even implemented 10% of what Parklands is proposing then we would see a massive improvement in environmental outcomes for this important creative industries sector. This development is likely to become the best practice benchmark for all other similar organisations.

A cultural event site such as the one proposed by North Byron Parklands will help develop creative industries on the north coast. Events such as Splendour In The Grass inspire and encourage young adults to be creative and also provide special initiatives such as the young artists program, Splendid. Lets build up the creative industries in the region!

The benefits for the local economy are so great. Return the festival to it's home and help local businesses.

P571	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Prue Anderson (support)	I think the North Byron Parklands gives the youth of today a chance to enjoy new experiences. This is what we need to keep the youth entertained and focused. Imagine an events venue that can attract tens of thousands of visitors to a rural area. Imagine an events venue that has investigated and assessed all aspects of its operation and developed best practice policies and procedures. Imagine an events venue that generates lots of employment opportunities and provides much needed income for a range of businesses. Well the events venue is North Byron Parklands and it should be approved by the government because sustainable projects like this are few and far between.Â Â Â Â Â Not only have the North Byron Parklands organisation developed what must be considered worldâ□™s best practice environmental management systems and processes, they are also planning to have an environmental education program folded into the mix for good measure. A number of events proposed to be held at this site already have initiatives such as Eco Cops which are undergraduate environmental science students who promote environmental programs and accepted practices to patrons while at an event. This is a very good proactive measure.

The application covers all issues and provides a range of solutions. It is now time to approve it. If employment growth in regional areas is a key concern of the NSW state government then approving this project makes sound economic sense. There is a real need to support organisations that can provide such large numbers of jobs in an area where finding a good job can be very difficult. It seems to me that approving this project will have lasting long term benefits for job prospectors in this rural region. North Byron Parklands comprises a number of people with envious event management track records. These people have hosted many, many events that have attracted millions of people. If the North Byron Parklands venue can attract a large number of people to the area each year (which it is estimated to do) then the local tourism industry stands to benefit significantly. Given the past few years which have been tough for these operators, surely this is a welcome opportunity. Please approve this proposal! It is very important for our young people to feel like the region has new and exciting jobs to offer for them. We need to hold onto our youth as packing up and moving to large cities is becoming the norm in our community. North Byron Parklands provides incentives for young people to remain in the region.

P574	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from madeleine spencer (support)	The Splendour in the Grass festival is as iconic as it's beautiful home in Byron Bay. The young people on the Northern Rivers deserve to have a festival that they can be proud of, a festival that they religiously attend, and a festival that is held in a environmental sound and sustainable venue. In addition to the plethora of environmental programs proposed by North Byron Parklands once the site becomes operational, I note that they will also undertake in-depth ecological assessments prior to and during their construction phase. While it is noted that their building program is relatively small given the limited infrastructure planned, it is very pleasing to see that such ecological assessment and monitoring is to be undertaken. I am excited to see splendour move more towards the great things done by festivals like meredith and golden plains at their site in Victoria. The increased revenue from visitors during the period is also a consideration - many local businesses benefit greatly from the festival, not only for that weekend, but for the days around it - and had I never been to a splendour in the grass it is likely that I wouldn't have taken other visits to the area. Splendour put the beautiful town on the map for many young people.

I fully support the North Byron Parklands proposal, and hope to attend the event at it's new home back in Byron next year.

Yours faithfully,

Having reviewed North Byron Parklandâ□™s environmental, health and safety management manual it is clear that they have put a lot of energy into assessing and mitigating any potential environmental risks associated with these activities. The work they have done for managing the environment is above and beyond what one would expect for such a low impact activity. The two main reasons I believe the festival should be brought back is Tourism and Culture. Tourism and culture are so important to the area as many business rely on the influx of visitor for large events like Splendour to keep thier business alive. Visitors travel to the area to experience the laid back, coastal culture of the region. Parklands will bring more and more cultural events to the area and in turn boost tourism. Job opportunities are a hot topic on the north coast. If North Byron Parklands is not allowed to operate in Byron Shire then these jobs will be lost to another region willing to approve this project. The North Byron Parklands will see the subject site have the opportunity to maintain low impact activity that will see the site unoccupied for some 75% of the year. By allowing the sites land to rest both fauna and flora growth wil be encouraged across and adjacent to the site. This restoration will be a positive outcome for the local environment. The North Byron Parklands proposed plan for a permanent cultural venue is inspiring for young people. Regional areas such as ours can really benefit our youth by inspiring them to participate and to achieve. Splendour is an amazing festival. Everyone relates Splendour in the Grass with Byron Bay, and the fantastic laid back beach vibe that the event has. Byron Bay has so much to offer for this event, and it makes it such a unique event, which is getting very hard to do at the moment with so many music festivals in Australia now. It has the coast near-by and a fantastic town to go along with such a greatly run festival.

I attend many festivals (Big Day Out, Falls Festival, Parklife, Homebake), and Splendour has the best feeling of all of them. It is just a friendly, relaxed atmosphere, which is so different to the busstle of Big Day Out, or the full on nature of the young Parklife crowd. And a major part of this is being in Byron Bay. I attended Splendour at Woodford this year, and while it was a great festival again, it had nothing on the previous year in Byron Bay. And everyone I spoke to and went there with all said the same thing, it didn't feel like a normal Splendour In The Grass festival.

So please bring this fantastic festival back to its rightful home, and let us have Australia's favourite festival back where it should be and where it feels right again.

Thanks alot

If Woodfordia in Queensland can be highly respected as an enviro-friendly venue which hosts a number of festivals with large crowds, then surely North Byron Parklands can achieve the same level of acceptance and respect if given the chance.

The size of the events that could occur at Parklands may reach 50,000 people but compared to other large events in Australia this is quite conservative. North Byron Parklands will only host events that fit into the appropriate and sustainable parameters.

I have read the North Byron Parklands proposal submission and I have also been to many events over the years and I have to say, I am very confident that this will be a successful cultural event site. The amount of detail and the control measures put in place for this development should be applauded. This proposal must be approved!

This proposal is extremely positive for educational institutes in the area such as SAE and the Southern Cross University. This proposal will see students gain on ground experience and employment opportunities in area such as event management, ecology management, and live sound engineering.

P583	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Heidi Von Kistowski (support)	The North Byron Parklands project is an innovative and acceptable use of this very large, former grazing and cane-growing property. If the NBP proposal doesnâ™t proceed then itâ™s likely that the land will revert to those uses, or could possibly be subdivided into another cookie-cutter seaside suburb. Who will continue the environmental regeneration works being undertaken by the North Byron Parklandsâ™ group? No-one. That would be a terrible lost opportunity. The proposed Parklands site has a long history with various Aboriginal clans in and around the area and North Byron Parklands has gone to great measures to maintain important cultural areas. It is great to see that the archaeological report conducted by Parklands does not identify any aspects of the project that will have a negative impact on important cultural artefacts or values. P585	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Jessica O'Connor (support)	North Byron Parklands through their application to the Department of Planning have more than adequately shown that this is an organisation willing to go beyond compliance in terms of environmental management. What other development would have documented in such detail the plans, policies and procedures to effectively manage all issues covering the environment. Everything from lighting and erosion control through to revegetation and fauna audits has been included in their impressive management manual. In relation to employment and wages the Byron local government area has one of the State?s lowest average wages, around $31,000 per annum. A proposal like Parklands will bring much needed employment opportunities top the area and will likely provide a large number of positions that are well paid. The Shire and the region need these opportunities. The Parklands project is going to attract tens of thousands of people to stay in the wider area. Many of these attendees will extend their stay in the region before and after various events and this will generate a direct positive impact for accommodation providers as well as food and beverage establishments within the local area and region. So many people are employed in the tourism industry so having a world class events venue would be extremely advantageous. The North Byron Parklands proposal brings together economic growth, world class events and community giving. It needs to be approved because this is the kind of business young people are looking to for training and experience. P586	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Renee Moynihan (support)	It is really important to note that any environmental pressures will be greatly reduced as a result of only using a percentage of the site for events. The areas that they will use are the grassy open spaces meaning that no activities will occur in bush land or forest blocks. It is just another example of good environmental management. Events offer a broad range of jobs to lots of individuals. From labourers to sound engineers or caterers to sign writers these jobs are very much needed in NSW. We have already lost a lot of our events to Queensland and other states and we must grasp this huge employment opportunity with both hands. The government has an obligation to approve this project. What other venue in NSW or Australia for that matter has paid so much attention to environmental management considerations as North Byron Parklands? If all other outdoor venues even implemented 10% of what Parklands is proposing then we would see a massive improvement in environmental outcomes for this important creative industries sector. This development is likely to become the best practice benchmark for all other similar organisations.

				Young people need to gather together to celebrate. Young people will gather regardless of cultural event venues. It?s up to us as adults to decide that we want to support venues that support young people.

P587	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Meaghan Kirk (support)	The preservation of ecological values in and adjacent to the Parklands site is an important aspect of the proposal. Much scientific assessment has been undertaken which highlights that the site has been heavily degraded over the past number of years and that the proposed fauna and flora management plans will greatly enhance and protect existing identified values. The North Byron Parklands Project will actually result in a positive impact on the environment and should be supported.
				It is vitally important to the local tourism industry that the North Byron Parklands project is approved. This single project is expected to attract hundreds of thousands of visitors to the region each and every year. The flow on effects to the tourism operators will be significant and will also help to grow much needed jobs for the region.

				Events are really important for young people today. Coming together is not just about getting drunk and partying. Itâ™s about helping each other and learning. P588	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Ben Livett (support)	The North Byron Parklands will be the 1st proposed land use that will see a massive improvement in environmental outcomes for the site. For many years the North Byron Parklands site has been used for intensive agricultural activities and land clearing, impacting on the site dramatically. North Byron Parklands has planned mass plantings, fauna habitat creation and most importantly no event activities for some 260 plus days a year to restore the site. This has to be seen as a great result for the local environment. One of the most significant environmental controls being put in place by North Byron Parklands is the limiting of major events to 12 event days each year. Effectively this will mean 2 or 3 events over 2 or 3 days each once the venue is up and running to capacity. What does this mean for the local ecology? It means that disturbances of light, noise and traffic will only occur for a fraction of time each year. This plus the numerous other environmental controls means that the impact on fauna and flora will be temporal and minimal in nature. Plus, it would ensure the Byron Bay region remain recognised as the premier region for live music in Australia. It's a music lover's Mecca, please help keep it that way.

P589	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Samantha Tayler (support)	North Byron Parklands aims to maintain the integrity of the events site and manage the sites usage using the latest environmental mangement and monitoring systems to ensure a sustainable events site for future generations. North Byron Parklands proposal to bring splendour home is an opportunity to boost local business for many years to come. Each year when the festival season comes around businesses in the Byron Shire and surrounding areas will get a boost in sales due to the increase in tourism, helping small business and survive and in turn helping the local community. North Byron Parklands has worked closely together with the local Aboriginal Land Council to conduct a number of archaeological digs to help determine the culturally significant parts of the site. P590	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Sonia Dwaal of Shire of Dowerin (support)	With respect to the environment one of the risks that the people from North Byron Parklands have identified is the potential for road kill associated with traffic movements before, during and after an event. As such they have implemented a number of requirements including on site environmental inductions, speed limiting devises, signage and a wildlife rescue team. This is just one example of the sound environmental practices they are proposing. The North Byron Parklands event site will generate significant economic benefits to the region. There will be an increase in jobs for the maintenance and management of the North Byron Parklands site as well as employment opportunities from the organisations of the proposed events at the site. After reading the environmental assessment report for this proposal I can confidently say I support North Byron Parklands? proposal 100% . The local government should approve this application.

P591	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Karrie McClelland (support)	It would a great shame for the Byron Shire to loose the Splendour in the Grass festival. The local community needs the festival, as it offers a huge amount of business for local shop owners, pubs, hotels, motels and camping grounds. Many of these local business will feel great financial pressure if Splendour in the Grass does not return to the region. The proposed North Byron Parklands vegetation management plan will see a staged regime of tree planting across the site. Apart from the obvious habitat creation, etc, this level of mass planting will have other important environmental benefits. Benefits such as reduced soil erosion, salinity and of course will also help to greatly improve water quality through nature filtration processes associated with such significant biomass. North Byron Parklands have already undertaken a number of detailed fauna and flora surveys across the proposed site. On top of this they have now committed to undertaking environmental audits for all major events (before, during after). Such information will be very valuable in terms of fine tuning the current environmental policies and procedures and will dramatically reduce any associated environmental pressures.

The average annual household income in the Byron Shire and the Northern Rivers is substantially lower than NSW (approximately $55,000 compared with $71,000) and as such employment opportunities generated by North Byron Parklands would be incredibly valuable to the Shire and the region.

I have read the North Byron Parklands proposal submission and I have also been to many events over the years and I have to say, I am very confident that this will be a successful cultural event site. The amount of detail and the control measures put in place for this development should be applauded. This proposal must be approved!

This proposal offers career opportunities and new life to Byron Bay for both young and old, there are many people in our community looking outside Byron for employment opportunities, why not offer work to them at home.

I honestly do not think there is any other event venue in Australia, let alone NSW, that has so much going for it. Positioned in beautiful Byron Bay this incredible venue will stimulate so many other supportive industries to invest and grow the creative industries sector. This sector along with tourism is the life blood of regional areas such as northern NSW and I cannot see any sensible reason why it should not be approved.

With so many people worried about finding a job in this current economic climate a project of this nature in a regional area is a breath of fresh air. As a community we need to get behind this fantastic concept and support it. As a government, there is a huge moral responsibility to approve it just on employment considerations alone.

Splendour has obvious economic benefits not only for the area but for Australia as a whole. Australia should be proud to host such a top quality event. Don't turn Australia into a backwater.

The Byron Shire and Northern Rivers region is home to an aging community with a high proportion of retirees. This means many young people are leaving the area to seek education and employment opportunities elsewhere. North Byron Parklands would help provide employment for many of these young people, thus giving them a reason to stay in the area.

Not the least among them are the numerous accommodation outlets within easy reach via excellent road networks. The level of environmental assessment that has taken place across North Byron Parklands is greater than for any other development in the Northern Rivers region. Not even councils or government agencies responsible for managing environmental values has undertaken such in-depth studies. All such assessments indicate that the proposal will not only have minimal environmental impacts, it is actually likely to improve wildlife corridors, fauna habitat and consolidation of fragmented forest blocks. These are very positive outcomes.

Please allow the North Byron Parklands proposal to go through, it would mean so much to me and all my friends.

What other venue in NSW or Australia for that matter has paid so much attention to environmental management considerations as North Byron Parklands? If all other outdoor venues even implemented 10% of what Parklands is proposing then we would see a massive improvement in environmental outcomes for this important creative industries sector. This development is likely to become the best practice benchmark for all other similar organisations.

We really need this to get the go ahead. My friends and I will go to events at North Byron Parklands. Hopefully we will be able to get jobs at events.

P606	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Holly James (support)	I know of many businesses that rely on events for a large part of their income. These businesses employ local people and locally based jobs are hard to come by. We should support Parklands as it will be a large employer in the region. At present the North Byron Parklands site is subject to significant sediment and erosion issues. Previous land practices have seen poor top soil removal and impacts on graded lands. The North Byron Parklands proposal aims to address these existing soil impacts and also has put in place a sediment and erosion control plan during their construction and operation phases. This is to be commended. It would be a shame to see this proposal turned down, it doesnâ□™t take much to see that the North Byron Parklands proposal has so much to offer. Splendour brings so much business and money into the little town of byron, it would be a shame to deny it of this festival in the future. And it is the perfect venue for Splendour in the Grass! P607	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from MELISSA ANDERSON (support)	The tourism business in Byron Bay this past winter has been very slow. With the loss of Splendour in the Grass to Queensland a much needed income stream during winter evaporated. The North Byron Parklands proposal would see a number of major events coming to the region and with it a significant increase in demand for tourist accommodation and activities. The project should be carefully considered by the government due to the much needed injection of funds into the local tourism industry. Many families would benefit from this proposal. The economic value of creative industries for the region is estimated to be $190 million with the indutry having a job growth rate of 100% over the past decade. Lets bring Splendour in the Grass home, back to the the Byron Shire and develop our creative industires further to provide new and exciting job opportunities for the youth in the future. Because i trust that Splendour Management would look after their fans and hold Splendour in a beautiful home. Although, i just don't see how Byron is going to better Woodfordia. I Understand its bigger but that the only complaint i heard about splendour this year was that the new home at Woofordia was too big - the distance from many camp sites to the actual festival was too great a walk. But everyone still preferred Woofordia as Splendours new home. I will still be attending Splendour in the Grass if it is held in Byron again next year but will genuinely miss Woodfordia as i have never experienced such a genuine vibe at a festival such as Splendour in the Grass 2010. P613	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Jock Rutherford of University of Newcastle (support)	Splendour is a unique youth experience that offers a safe and fun surrounding to express a love of music, the environment, friendship and community spirit. The region of byron bay makes this festival one of the best events throughout the year. The vibrant community is has its own cultural significance in which Splendour has become aligned. To force such an event out of the area would essentially restrict the growth and style of the festival which has brought a form of entertainment like no other to a diverse and young population The North Byron Parklands is quite unique in that the proposed outdoor venue will be non-operation for the vast majority of the year. With only twenty event days per year this means that there is significant time for resting the site which is a huge positive for the environment. It should be considered that if this development does not proceed then some other form of development which may be far more intrusive and full time in nature may be applied for and approved in the future. This project will be good for the environment. If employment growth in regional areas is a key concern of the NSW state government then approving this project makes sound economic sense. There is a real need to support organisations that can provide such large numbers of jobs in an area where finding a good job can be very difficult. It seems to me that approving this project will have lasting long term benefits for job prospectors in this rural region.

There needs to be a dedicated area for the youth to gather together and celebrate life. Young people will organise parties and have a good time no matter if there is large event venues or not. It is up to the adult members of the community to carry the youth by supporting venues designed for the youth.

North Byron Parklands through their application to the Department of Planning have more than adequately shown that this is an organisation willing to go beyond compliance in terms of environmental management. What other development would have documented in such detail the plans, policies and procedures to effectively manage all issues covering the environment. Everything from lighting and erosion control through to revegetation and fauna audits has been included in their impressive management manual.

The people behind North Byron Parklands are professional event operators with decades of combined experience in hosting successful events. Having sold millions of tickets to the dozens of events they have held, it is extremely beneficial that such experienced personnel will be available to guide and manage events proposed for North Byron Parklands.

Byron Bay is built on its beautiful natural assets and many tourist attractions yet like many other coastal towns it suffers from seasonal swings. The North Byron Parklands proposal would significantly smooth tourism demand by attracting visitors in traditionally slow times. As tourism is so important to the town and surrounding areas such projects should be openly encouraged.

The youth in Byron need to have some positive distraction. The different aspects of culture, music and art that the North Byron Parklands proposal will offer guides the youth in a positive way and teaches them that amazing experiences can be had without trouble.

This site could be used for more than just music festivals too...

P615	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Sheridan Lawson of NA (support)	North Byron Parklands proposes to create a world class sustainable cultural events site within an ecologically enhanced site. Parklands will achieve this through thourough planning and by adhering to the guielines of the environmental, health and safety management manual they have developed. North Byron Parklands proposed event site will provide a wide variety of employment opportunites to the reagion that is said to increase as the years go on. North Byron Parklands require staff to maintain and manage the event site plus each event organistaion will be looking to the local comunity for employees for their events. Currently many things are conspiring against the tourism industry, particularly the very strong Australian dollar. Enticing domestic travellers to holiday in Australia rather than abroad is a huge challenge for the tourism sector. When a project such as North Byron Parklands comes along that proposes to attract 35,000 people per event to a region such as the North Coast of NSW, this must be given serious consideration by approving authorities. Add to the fact that a number of these large events will eventually occur each year, the economic and tourism benefits are substantial. There is current trend on The Northern Rivers for young adults to move to major cities such as Sydney and Melbourne soon after finishing school. North Byron Parklands provides incentives for the youth to remain in the area by creating new and exciting employment opportunities, such as event management, live sound engineering, and even a career in music!

P617	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Jessica Aston (support)	Dear NSW Department of Planning

Please consider my letter as Pro Permanent residence for Splendour in the Grass At Byron Bay NSW.

One of the most significant benefits for the environment coming out of this application is the proponentâ□™s willingness to transfer a net 28ha of very high quality bushland to National Parks that would see an expansion of the Billinudgel Nature Reserve. Ignoring the significant value of the land proposed to be handed over, it has to be acknowledged that this is probably the only opportunity to expand this nature reserve as it is bound by private landowners who are unlikely to give away their land.

Not only does the North Byron Parklands offer an economy boost for local businesses and employment opportunities, it also brings awareness to tackling waste, recycling and consumption.

So many individuals, families and businesses rely on the tourism dollar for their living. In the North Coast region a large majority of business are geared towards the tourism market. With the dollar at record heights more Australians are considering overseas travel and this will impact on local tourism dependant businesses. If a project like North Byron Parklands succeeds in gaining approval then this region stands to deliver a much needed and welcomed tourism boost. The government must seriously take this into account.

Please take my opinion into consideration and do what's right not only what loud, conservative and negative people are forcing you stop the joy of a creative, cultural and environmentally minded festival, Splendour in the grass.

Thank you

Regards

The Parklands proposed cultural event site is something that the youth are behind and should be supported by the local government. While much is made about the supposed wildlife corridor in and around the North Byron Parklands site the fact is that much of the vegetation is patchy and degraded. P619	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Naomi Leo (support)	The propsoed development provides effective long term management of the site, including positive environmental outcomes which contribute significantly to the sustainable use of the subject land. The development as proposed would provide a world class event facility within the Byron area and the NSW North Coast. Such a facility would have positive on flow social and economic effects across the LGA and wider region. Additional employment opportuinies generated by the proposal is important to the local area and region. The benefits to the Byron Shire through the provision of tourism outside of current peak times would benefit the local tourism industry.

Byron Bay is a recognised tourism icon. It has thousands of beds in a wide range of accommodation outlets specifically designed to cater for the tourism market. When those beds remain empty for much of the year then the town should be very nervous. Those basking in the quiet times are shortsighted and cannot see the decay and decline that will follow the removal of economic generators such as the Splendour In the Grass festival and the associated North Byron Parklands project.

P623	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Kirsty Lightbody (support)	I just heard about the proposed North Byron Parklands and got instantly excited. What better way to show the beauty Byron Bay has to offer? I think the North Byron Parklands gives the youth of today a chance to enjoy new experiences. This is what we need to keep the youth entertained and focused. Tourism is one of the biggest industries and employers on the north coast and is very important to many people for their livelihood. In recent years the industry has struggled somewhat due to economic and other factors and there is a real need to do everything possible to help support this industry. P624	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Stephanie Gray of Student (support)	There is a real need to reverse the current trend of closing music and artistic venues around the State of NSW. Music and arts are so important to the health and vibrancy of a community and I urge you to approve the North Byron parklands venue. In the Byron and northern rivers areas tourism is subject to busy times and quiet times. It is planned that a number of events will occur at the North Byron Parklands site each year and one of these takes place in winter when tourism businesses are struggling to cover costs. Building a dedicated events venue in the Byron Shire will have a number of very positive benefits for the tourism industry which is a good thing. P628	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from justine moran (support)	The North Byron Parklands project is an innovative and acceptable use of this very large, former grazing and cane-growing property. If the NBP proposal doesnâ□™t proceed then itâ□™s likely that the land will revert to those uses, or could possibly be subdivided into another cookie-cutter seaside suburb. Who will continue the environmental regeneration works being undertaken by the North Byron Parklandsâ□™ group? No-one. That would be a terrible lost opportunity. On the subject of employment the north coast has a long history of hosting many different types of events. These events provide jobs for so many people and in an area where paying the rent or mortgage is tough it is critical that these events are allowed to continue. Without a permanent event area these jobs will be lost to the north coast. As such this project should be approved on the employment prospects it brings, let alone any other positives. Having a world class sustainable event venue at the Parklands site will put The Northen Rivers on the map as a leader in sustainable venue developments. This will also aid local educational institutes such as Southern Cross University in environmental related courses by having a world class example in the area.

P630	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Cassie Watson (support)	The North Byron Parklands project will incorporate a range of best practice environmental policies and procedures including a requirement to only host events in the existing cleared areas of the site. This means that all forested areas will be protected via fencing and security measures and effectively be out of bounds for event usage. This is a very positive initiative from an environmental point of view. If we consider the important contributions to the region made by tourism such as income generation and the creation of jobs then it follows that approving projects that have a large positive effect on increasing tourism rates will be a good thing for the State of NSW. North Byron Parklands will be responsible for drawing thousands of intra and interstate visitors, most of whom will require accommodation, food and beverages and in many instances will actively pursue some form of paying leisure activity. To let such an opportunity pass the region by would be a crime. The Northern Rivers region needs to plan ahead for future employment and training opportunities for our young community. We need to offer options to the young members of the community to encourage them to stay in the area. This proposal will provide these incentives.

P631	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Hope Simon (support)	North Byron Parklands have undertaken a detailed economic impact assessment which bodes well for the tourism industry should it be approved. Projections show that tens of thousands of people will visit the area each year and this influx of people will significantly bolster our tourism businesses. With so many locals relying on the tourism industry for their income, such a project is very welcome. Why wouldnâ□™t we want a world class facility like North Byron parklands in the Byron region? This proposal will create new jobs to young adults and promote sustainable development. The local government should welcome that and support this proposal. P632	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Louise Blines (support)	This proposal really needs to be approved by local government. The young people in the region will support the events and attend. Some will be able to be employed by the event managers for what seems like an endless possibility of jobs, from musicians performances to fence erecting. Our environment, events, culture and celebration is an amazing reason to go ahead with this proposal. There is currently approximately 294,00 people living on the Northern Rivers and this number is said to increase to approximately 376,000 residents by 2036. This huge increase in the next 26 years requires action to create employment opportunities in the region. North Byron Parklands can offer an array of employment opportunities in the future to tackle this population increase.

Getting people to spend their tourism dollar in the northern rivers area is extremely important for sustaining the local and regional tourism businesses. On average Australian holiday makers will spend about $130 per night staying in the northern rivers region and the North Byron Parklands project is going to attract between 80,000 and 120,000 people to the area each year. The economic income will be huge and will support a whole host of tourism based organisations.

P633	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Cassie Dionysius of Santos (support)	The preservation of ecological values in and adjacent to the Parklands site is an important aspect of the proposal. Much scientific assessment has been undertaken which highlights that the site has been heavily degraded over the past number of years and that the proposed fauna and flora management plans will greatly enhance and protect existing identified values. The North Byron Parklands Project will actually result in a positive impact on the environment and should be supported. Most of the businesses within the Northern Rivers and Byron Shire are sole traders and do not offer any employment opportunities to the community. Bringing Splendour in the Grass festival back to Byron Bay would result in North Byron Parklands offering many new employment opportunities for the residents in the region. We need more job opportunities in the area and that is exactly what the North Byron Parklands proposal will achieve. Lets bring splendour home to a world class sustainable cultural event venue and help the area tackle the unemployment level! The young people on the Northern Rivers deserve to have a festival that they can be proud of, a festival that they religiously attend, and a festival that is held in a environmental sound and sustainable venue. P634	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Alex Primus ()	It is unlikely that there is another events venue that has the level of environmental management systems in place as those proposed by North Byron Parklands. Based on ISO14001 the environmental policies and procedures to be implemented at this venue will provide robust monitoring and mitigation measures to ensure that fauna and flora is protected. Measures such as requiring suitable buffer zones between event activities and forest blocks is one such positive initiative. Many who attend Splendour choose to stay a few days before or after the festival and make more of a holiday of their time in the area. The spin-off from such visitors must be extremely valuable to the many other tourism-related businesses in and around Byron Bay. It therefore stands to reason that a venue hosting a number of other events throughout the year would create many more opportunities, including employment, for the local community and the local economy. With respect to the mapped wildlife corridor it should be pointed out that many parts of it identified as high conservation have in fact been cleared by previous land owners. The North Byron Parklands proposal has not only committed to helping restore this corridor, they have also committed to doing so in accordance with the Byron Shire Council wildlife map. This means having the opportunity to actually realise ?on-ground? what the currently inaccurate council map purports is in existence. The end result will be a greatly improved corridor that actually has some functioning capabilities. The North Byron Parklands idea is inspiring for young people. There is precious little around, particularly in regional areas, which is inspiring for them. The proposal is all about the environment, events, culture and celebration. It?s about young people and being young. This is really important.

The multitude of good reasons for accepting the North Byron Parklands far outweigh the minor impacts that a site-specific venue would have on the local community. Travel dollars into the wider Byron shire widespread employment opportunities acknowledgement of the need of youth for diverse cultural entertainment support for Australian musicians in a changed economic climate where decreased music sales has meant that the live music arena is their only viable resource. Every event site, urban or rural, is going to imapct on its neighbours ... immediate and otherwise, but knowing the people behind NBP, I would confidently say that every ounce of energy would be spent to ensure that the periodic disturbance to both the local people and fauna would be given the penultimate priority.

These are extremely professional people and when it comes to staging big cultural events, they have a proven history of looking after not only the thousands of patrons at their events but also the geophysical environment. And they can quantify their carbon imprint through the use of best practices.

So c'mon. In the interest of so many, please carefully consider the submission by the NBP.and here's hoping that their dream becomes reality with the help of your approval.

P636	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Arron Soiland (support)	Byron Bay is built on its beautiful natural assets and many tourist attractions yet like many other coastal towns it suffers from seasonal swings. The North Byron Parklands proposal would significantly smooth tourism demand by attracting visitors in traditionally slow times. As tourism is so important to the town and surrounding areas such projects should be openly encouraged. I have been to many outdoor event sites over the past number of years but have never come across a venue that has taken so much effort to develop and implement so many environmental programs. When events are not being staged at North Byron Parklands, there will be reafforestation and noxious weed removal activities. When there are events at this site they will need to comply with a bunch of strict environmental policies and procedures. If only other venues could take a leaf out of these guyâ□™s book. Splendour in the Grass has provided a lot of mentorship and training opportunities for young people in the past. The fabulous Splendid initiative is an example of this. They really invest in young people. Even if these initiatives remain limited to Splendour in the Grass, itâ□™s important to have these opportunities for young people in the region. P637	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Tara S (support)	North Byron Parklands has held a number of tree planting days on the site where they have invited the public to get their hands dirty and plant a tree in the parts of the wildlife corridor that were just open paddock. It speaks volumes for the hypocrisy of local objectors that not one of them ever turned up to put a seedling in the ground to help expand the fragmented wildlife corridor that they so loudly claim to be safeguarding. Those 7,500 trees are now some metres high and thriving. North Byron Parklands already has demonstrated its commitment to working with local indigenous people through the ongoing relationship it has developed with the Madhima Gulgan rainforest regeneration team. Together these two groups have been responsible for planting over 7,000 native trees across the site and the construction and placement of more than 25 nest boxes for resident fauna. If you consider that businesses involved in the tourism industry that will directly benefit from the North Byron Parklands project stretch from Ballina in the South to Tweed Heads in the North, not to mention all the inland towns, then it becomes very apparent that this project will benefit a very wide area. Supporting the tourism industry should be a key concern for the government and approving projects of this nature would help the industry considerably. People in Byron Bay are very focused on supporting and interacting within society. Enjoying and experiencing what Byron has to offer. The North Byron Parklands is the very thing that our locals would love.

P639	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from simone condon (support)	The North Byron Parklands site has numerous positives in its favour. Not the least among them are the numerous accommodation outlets within easy reach via excellent road networks. The venue is also close to airports at both Ballina and Coolangatta, a factor which will appeal to interstate and overseas visitors. There is also plenty of room on site for thousands to camp. Holding events requires a sound understanding of a whole range of logistical and safety aspects. The team behind North Byron Parklands have been responsible for putting together numerous large events over the past decade. In each case they have successfully managed important aspects such as noise, ecology, lighting, traffic and crowd and safety management. The systems and procedures they have developed will assist any event being held at the North Byron Parklands site which I believe will help result in successful events. The Parklands project is going to attract tens of thousands of people to stay in the wider area. Many of these attendees will extend their stay in the region before and after various events and this will generate a direct positive impact for accommodation providers as well as food and beverage establishments within the local area and region. So many people are employed in the tourism industry so having a world class events venue would be extremely

P640	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Cassandra Nash (support)	It is pleasing to note that the North Byron Parklands proposal includes a requirement for wildlife rescue personnel to be present during all major events. This requirement means that there is a very capable first response team on hand to deal with trapped or injured wildlife. It is also an excellent opportunity for these people to monitor any interactions between people and fauna. Such data can then be used to modify and improve processes and procedures for future events. The North Byron Parklands proposal has considered both indigenous and non-indigenous issues associated with the proposal. In particular, Parklands has worked closely with the local Tweed/Byron Aboriginal Land Council and has complemented a number of archaeological digs to help determine the significance of parts of the site. It is pleasing to see that certain areas of the site will become ?out of bounds? to protect identified areas of importance.

North Byron Parklands will attract tens of thousands of visitors to the area, create employment opportunities, and promote sustainable development. It seems obvious that this development will benefit our community, the local government just needs to support it!

There is a large demand for more employment opportunities in and around the Byron Bay area due to most of the shops being small, 1 person operated businesses that don?t require employees. North Byron Parklands will provide many new jobs for the young people in the community.

P641	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Jizelle White (support)	For each event held at the Parklands site, the event holder will need to prepare an event management plan that meets all the high standard of requirements outlined in the environmental, health and safety management manual created by North Byron Parklands. As part of Parklands proposed construction phase they have developed a range of measures to mitigate environmental impacts. These include erecting signage, supervision of minor tree removal by a qualified ecologist, compensatory planting, fauna culverts and the installation of sediment and erosion control systems. This is just for the construction component of the project. The environmental controls proposed for the operation phase are even more detailed and impressive. North Byron Parklands has a strong focus on cultural management. This is shown by the proposed cultural centre aimed to provide learning opportunities for staff to build a greater understanding of our local indigenous and non-indigenous ancestry. A lot of my friends are moving outside of Byron Bay to bigger and better opportunities. It would be great if we had those opportunities offered to us closer to home. Splendour in the grass is one of the smaller festivals and it is a very chilled out and well organised event. In the past few years that I have attended Splendour it has always been a positive experience and it gives back financially to the local community, whether it be Byron or Woodford. It is a great festival and the organiser's always strive to meet environmentally friendly options that Splendour attendees really agree with.

P643	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Kleo Cruse (support)	While the North Byron Parklands has some valuable forest cover it must be recognised that much of this cover resembles a patch quilt, the result of decades of agricultural use. To improve the value and function of these disparate forest blocks there is a much needed planting program similar to that proposed by the North Byron Parklands people to join and reconnect the vegetation. This one action of mass plantings will absolutely improve the environmental value across and adjacent to the proposal. Regarding employment, so many people are forced to leave coastal areas in search of a job. We need the government to play an active role in identifying suitable industries and businesses that can provide local jobs in these areas. North Byron Parklands is an obvious choice in helping to bridge this gap and should be approved to operate in Byron Shire. How many times have we heard of organisations saying that they have incorporated environmental considerations into their business activities? Well here is a project that seems to have been built from the ground up based on ensuring that environmental impacts are mitigated or reduced and that positive environmental outcomes such as tree planting and habitat creation are maximised. P646	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Luke Rowles of TFA (support)	North Byron Parklands will bring more tourism to The Byron Shire every year, boosting local business revenue and helping small business stay on thier feet. This proposal will benefit everyone. At the moment the average household income per year in the Byron shire and the Northern Rivers is much lower than the rest of NSW. The Byron Shire and Northern Rivers average annual income is aprox. $55,000 compared to NSWâ□™s average annual income of $71,000. Bringing Splendour home to Byron Bay to the North Byron Parklands site would open up many opportunities of employment to a community in real need.

North Byron Parklands comprises a number of people with envious event management track records. These people have hosted many, many events that have attracted millions of people. If the North Byron Parklands venue can attract a large number of people to the area each year (which it is estimated to do) then the local tourism industry stands to benefit significantly. Given the past few years which have been tough for these operators, surely this is a welcome opportunity.

North Byron Parkland events are not only for the youth, theyâ□™re for the whole community, young and old. Events can rejuvenate and reconnect us with our elders and our juniors.

P648	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Alan Nicolson of Resident (object)	I object to this Development Application on the following grounds: 1. The submission of the DA and the Concept Plan is clearly a misuse of the Part3A planning legislation and contrary to the intent of the legislation. Why ? Because it is clear that the proponents primary intent is to use the Part3A process as a means of circumventing the Land and Environment Court's ruling that found that the proposed road network on the site being placed on 7k habitat zone contravened permissible use as it could not be properly established (characterised) that the roadworks were for Agriculture purposes and were therefore ruled as an inseparable part of the Place of Assembly which is not a permissible use within a 7k zone. The intent of Part3A is not simply to enable a proponent to circumvent a Court ruling. It must be noted that the current DA has not altered (or even attempted to address)the roadworks proposed for the 7k zone from its' previous DA for a trial event which was rejected by the court. Clearly, the proponents feel that they can disregard the court ruling in the hope of having the concept plan approved and thereby creating a "defacto" re-zoning. This issue, if ignored by the State, will lead to further higher court action.

2. The Part3A process has been further abused by the proponents use of their economic benefit claim in order to qualify under Part3A on the basis of the number of jobs created. Their claim of economic benefit is tardy and short on details of inputs or methodology used in the economic modeling and I would dispute the validity of the figures solely on the basis that there has been no worthwhile precedent for this type of development to use even reliable inputs let alone claim reliable outcomes.

Even if we accept the economic benefit claim in blind faith we are still left with the issue of serious misuse of Part3A.

Why? Because in order to justify the DA qualifying under Part3A the proponents had to plan for a development which is clearly a massive over development of the site (even putting aside for awhile the complete inappropriateness of the site for any single large event).

Any clear minded planner would have to agree that the proposed development is unrealistic from the start and that the developers are making an ambit claim in order to win approval for a downsized project. If that is the case then the economic benefit claim no longer holds water and the merit of the DA being considered under Part3A ceases to exist.

It is my opinion that this constitutes a second breach of the intent of Part3A by the proponents.

3. On ecological grounds I wish to focus on one primary point. The wildlife corridor is of high state significance and is the only corridor that links coastal wetlands with higher range rainforest form the border to south of Evans Head.

There is increasing evidence of species extinction as a result of the loss of corridors enabling winter migrations to lowland forests and wetlands. There is , in addition , increasing evidence that certain species are under extinction threat as a result of human noise impacts (Bernard Krause and others).

At a time in our history when we are facing a species extinction period unprecedented since the loss of the megafauna we continue to toy with our ecosystems in the name of "progress".

The Events Site DA , in spite of their environmental window dressing attempts, if approved, will result in continuous and frequent disturbance to wildlife from high level noise impacts (during unlimited music event days), from year round heavy vehicle traffic (including bump in and bump out weeks either side of major festivals) from the high level human disturbance of crowds up to 50,000 for 12 days per year, up to 10,000 for a further 8 days per year, up to 300-3,000 unlimited days per year.

Approval of this project would amount to a SPECIES SURVIVAL EXPERIMENT and a WILDLIFE CORRIDOR USAGE EXPERIMENT on a scale not seen since the felling of the big scrub.The site sits adjacent to and surrounds the very last inter-connected ecosystem of it's kind in the state.

Before it could be reasonably argued that this proposal should even come under serious consideration there should be extensive ecological and species studies undertaken that would include noise impacts and human and machinery intrusion impacts on the local ecological community and a comprehensive study undertaken on highland to lowland species migration along the corridor.

4. Flooding. Both the proposed car park area and camping area are regularly inundated with floods up to one and a half meters deep. The car park area is prone to flash floods with as little as 20 minutes warning. The car park is a catchment of, and directly borders, the Billinudgel wetlands.

In major flood events there is an extremely high risk of cars being swept into the wetlands resulting in chemical pollution, habitat destruction by heavy machinery in removing cars.

In minor flood events there is the inevitable risk of cars being required to be towed out by heavy machinery causing disturbance and run off of acid sulphate soils and oil residues into the wetlands.

When, and not if, the car park becomes just muddy and churned up there is the inevitability of acid sulphate and oil residue run-off into the wetlands.

The DA does not adequately address these issues. Outcomes will be disastrous.

4.Evacuation risks in the event of flood or fire are not adequately addressed.

The area/site is extremely fire prone and flood prone. The proponents are proposing a tunnel to connect the festival area with the car park. 10,000 (let alone 50,000)people cannot be evacuated to their cars in time and the car park is in the area that will most likely be first inundated with flood waters or engulfed in flames. There is no adequate emergency exit to the north which only leaves the Jones Road ridge line which will not safely accommodate that number of people and will be hazardous in the event of fire.The DA does not give realistic evacuation possibilities let alone procedures.

5.Social/Infrastructure impacts on local neighborhoods.

The proposal asks for camping to cater for 25,000 people and festivals of up to 50,000. Even without questioning that the camping number is attainable that still leaves a residue of patrons equivalent to the entire population of Byron Shire that will have to camp or find accommodation off site which will, given the demographics of Splendour and rock concert festival goers, lead to a nightmare scenario of kerbside camping and holiday letting in local neighborhoods. There are some local residents who would be willing to put up with one such occurrence one time per year but no-one who is wiling to withstand that kind of assault on their neighborhoods multiple times per year. The norm for periods of time when places like Brunswick Heads and Byron Bay become inundated with festival goers and schoolies is that locals and families stay away. The norm is for high levels of public drunkenness and intoxication, broken glass in and around childrens' playgrounds, faeces in public places and in peoples gardens etc etc. We are a patient and tolerant community but we are not Afghanis. We have our limits.

An additional, unsavory effect of frequent festivals and parties being held in the one locality is the increased prevalence and abuse of illicit drugs. One "economic benefit" we can be absolutely certain of is that illicit drug manufacturing dens will multiple in the locality at a rapid pace bringing and increased social cost and risks to our children.

The proponents have not adequately addressed any of these problems and have not, as yet, contacted council rangers who are limited to just 4 for the entire shire.

6. Traffic. The previous Splendour festival held in Woodford had traffic backed up over 6 km from the entrance. If this is repeated (with the same numbers in attendance) at North Ocean Shores there will be certain disruption of the Pacific Highway, certain disruption of local traffic.

The proponents risk management in this regard is completely inadequate. They cannot hope to police the number of people who travel in each car and most festival goers are not going to want to leave their cars in Byron Bay and pick up shuttle buses. This site (with up to 50,000) lends itself to less arrivals by public transport, by foot, or any means other than by car, than the previous site in Byron Bay which at its peak had 16,000 patrons and still caused major traffic disruption.

I, personally, would not be able to get my child to school in Crabbes Creek on any given festival day.

7.Tourism. It has been a long term regional tourism strategy to seek to encourage a diverse range and type of tourist and to encourage a wider dispersion of tourists through out the region instead of Byron Shire being the sole focal point.

With the shire being increasingly reduced to being a "party town" for young festival goers and backpackers we are already beginning to see a gradual decrease in the number of family and high end tourists visiting Byron. Approval of this DA will only exacerbate that trend and in particular lay waste to Brunswick Heads as a family tourist destination. Realistically, the young party goer demographic (in party mode)spends money on 3 things - alcohol, drugs and take away food. That is why you have the loudest supporters of this DA being the Licensees of the Hotels and their ilk.

It must also be noted that the largest shareholder of North Byron Shire Parklands, Brandon Saul, is also vice chair of the Regional Tourism Body and has clearly been exerting influence on the regional Director Russell Mills to lobby the Minister for Tourism on his behalf.

I question the ethics of that influence in relation to the consideration of this DA.

In summary,It is my view that the State Government would be advised to help secure an appropriate festival site to cater for the proposed scale in a location that does not have the equivalent ecological, social, flood, fire and infrastructure issues and pressures as this site which is the subject of the DA.

Byron Shire has one approved festival site already at Tyagarah where the Bluesfest is held and Byron Councils' Events Policy allows for just 2 major outdoor music events per year with attendances above 6,000 per day. This proposal contravenes Byrons' Events Policy.

It would make sense from a regional and State perspective to seek a more appropriate site near a rail transport hub such as Casino where the rural population density is much lower and the ecological issues a minor problem. Towns like Casino would be welcoming of the boost to their tourism numbers with out having to deal with the negative economic offsets were the festival site located in Byron Shire. It must be noted also, in terms of the actual patrons of Splendour, that 80% of attendees at Woodford in Qld in 2010, preferred Splendour to remain there (Woodford).

P649	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Alice Barber (support)	The success of towns reliant on tourism generally comes down to how many people visit the area. To maintain a sustainable business, tourism dependant regions need to not only maintain visitor numbers, they need to grow them. North Byron Parklands represents the types of businesses that are required to increase visitor numbers and if this proposal goes ahead it will be a very positive thing for the NSW north coast.
				Coming from Tasmanina I understand that the people of Byron Bay want to protect their environment and their town. however I believe that the people who come to splendour come because they love the music but they also love the setting. Tourism does so much for my home tasmania and I believe it would be valuable for Byron, I recently visited Byron and shop owners voiced that they missed splendour this year and the sales it brought to the town.

P650	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Michele Santosa (support)	The Parklands development proposes the planting of thousands of extra trees that will improve habitat for wildlife and boost the ecological integrity of the Billinudgel Nature Reserve and the â□˜coast to hinterlandâ□™ wildlife corridor. The extended â□˜restâ□™ time that the event site will receive will not only aid the direct sight but encourage growth in the surrounding nature reserves. The list of events that each of the owners of North Byron Parklands have held over the past ten years is absolutely staggering in terms of venues, numbers of patrons and dealing successfully with a range of regulatory authorities. Such experience will provide a significant edge when events are held at North Byron Parklands and will no doubt make for a succession of successful events. In recent times visitor day trips to the northern rivers has been declining. Coupled with a downward trend in the average per head tourism spend it is clear that strategies need to be put in place to increase visitor numbers. Projects that can significantly increase tourism numbers in a short space of time include cultural event activities such as those proposed by North Byron Parklands. This business is capable of attracting hundreds of thousands of visitors each year to the northern rivers which will be a huge boon for the area.

It is planned that a number of events will occur at the North Byron Parklands site each year and one of these takes place in winter when tourism businesses are struggling to cover costs. Building a dedicated events venue in the Byron Shire will have a number of very positive benefits for the tourism industry which is a good thing. The local area containing the Parklands site has an ancient meeting place for Aboriginal people to come to together for cultural purposes. P653	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Emma O'Neill of University of Sydney (support)	While much is made of the Marshallâ□™s Ridge wildlife corridor the actual reality of this corridor is that it is fragmented, populated with noxious weeds and is great need of repair. Restoration will only come about by the landowner, in this instance being North Byron Parklands. This business has committed through its vegetation management plan and a number of other measures to reduce forest fragmentation by planting endemic species which will no doubt improve fauna movement opportunities. While the economy booms in other states, NSW and in particular regional NSW continues to suffer. The likely employment opportunities that North Byron Parklands will bring to the Northern Rivers shall be substantial. Many people in this region are finding it hard to secure a job and therefore we need as many of these innovative projects as possible.

Having read the North Byron Parklands submission and attended many events over the past number of years I am blown away by the level of detail and the huge range of control measures that this development offers to ensure smooth and successful events. The North Coast of NSW needs a development of this nature and it should be approved by the NSW government.

P656	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Lisa Cameron of student ()	I live in Lismore, NSW and attended SITG in 2008 and 2009 at the Belongil site. I did not travel to Woodford in 2010 because of the distance and the significant financial costs that were associated with accom (camping), fuel etc. I would have attended in 2010 if the festival was held on either its home of 10 years or, the proposed Yelgun site. As an event manager, I believe that the economic loss the Northern Rivers has incurred by the move of SITG is incredible - Byron is known for its strong social calender of events that provides many jobs/volunteer opportunities (even if they are only onsite on festival days) to those in the community. I agree that the event needs to move to a site of larger capacity and that Yelgun proves to be a good location. While I do not live in the immediate area, I consider the environmental impacts as suggested by the assessments to only have short term repercussions. I hope to see SITG back on the Northern Rivers in 2011.

The North Byron Parklands project has undertaken both a high level of fauna and flora assessments and a comprehensive environmental risk assessment process. As a result they have developed a management manual that covers a range of aspects including the environment. They have even developed a standalone environmental induction form for all staff and contractors that clearly stipulates what can and cannot take place while on site. These measures are very impressive indeed.

Because of the extensive level of community consultation undertaken by North Byron Parklands I have a very clear understanding of the benefits and issues of the application. The high quality of information has allowed people locally and in the wider community to make an informed decision about the proposal and I would imagine that the responses are overwhelmingly in favour of the project.

P658	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Brendan Beston (support)	It is true there are a number of threatened species at the North Byron Parklands site, such as water borne birds, owls and various bats. Research into the effects of irregular noise to such species shows that they will usually relocate and return quickly once noise ceases. This a positive result for all parties and it is good to know the species will not be disturbed some 260 days of the year. Holding events requires a sound understanding of a whole range of logistical and safety aspects. The team behind North Byron Parklands have been responsible for putting together numerous large events over the past decade. In each case they have successfully managed important aspects such as noise, ecology, lighting, traffic and crowd and safety management. The systems and procedures they have developed will assist any event being held at the North Byron Parklands site which I believe will help result in successful events. Events are a huge part of the Byron Shire calendar and the area has benefited over the years in so many ways by these well managed shows. Right now there are no venue spaces available for events due to various land use changes and space restrictions. Even the recently acquired event space for the Blues Festival is reported only to ever be used for this one event. The North Byron Parklands site is a once in a generation opportunity to develop a world class event venue that can cater for small and large events and provide the economic, social and environmental benefits that have traditionally flowed from these activities. As time progresses and we all grow up a little with our environmental outlook, we will recognise that being successful in business can also mean being successful with the ecology and environment in which your business operates. Those in the position to bring about such change should be encouraged, not demonised. Most businesses that operate in Northern NSW do not have anywhere near the level of sophisticated environmental strategies, controls and procedures that North Byron Parklands is preparing to put in place. It seems that every aspect of flora and fauna management has been considered and with a robust environmental auditing component I think we will see some excellent environmental outcomes arising from this development. P660	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Kate Southwell (support)	North Byron Parklands proposal to bring splendour home is an opportunity to boost local business for many years to come. Each year when the festival season comes around businesses in the Byron Shire and surrounding areas will get a boost in sales due to the increase in tourism, helping small business and survive and in turn helping the local community. At the moment the average household income per year in the Byron shire and the Northern Rivers is much lower than the rest of NSW. The Byron Shire and Northern Rivers average annual income is aprox. $55,000 compared to NSW?s average annual income of $71,000. Bringing Splendour home to Byron Bay to the North Byron Parklands site would open up many opportunities of employment to a community in real need. The level of commitment in relation to environmental monitoring before, during and after events is going to provide environmental benefits on two fronts. First it will accurately document the presence or otherwise of various fauna around event times. It will also importantly start to build a large amount of environmental data which can be used to guide and modify environmental practices into the future. With the already significant amount of environmental data captured through assessments and surveys, this body of knowledge is likely to be significant. P661	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Jade Jackson (support)	The North Byron Parklands idea is inspiring for young people. There is precious little around, particularly in regional areas, which is inspiring for them. The proposal is all about the environment, events, culture and celebration. Itâ□™s about young people and being young. This is really important. North Byron Parklands proposal of a sustainable arts and music venue that invites not just our locals to enjoy but that people will travel can only benefit our local economy. One of the big threats to the environment is the accidental ignition of a bushfire. The North Byron Parklands group have identified this as a risk and have developed a Bushfire Standard that address this issue and places a number of carefully considered controls such as provision of bulk water tanks, having the Rural Fire Brigade onsite during major events and the provision of fire extinguishers, etc. I am confident that with such measures and given most of the site is cleared that this issue will be well managed. P662	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Gretta Olsen of Swinburne University (support)	The North Byron Parklands project will incorporate a range of best practice environmental policies and procedures including a requirement to only host events in the existing cleared areas of the site. This means that all forested areas will be protected via fencing and security measures and effectively be out of bounds for event usage. This is a very positive initiative from an environmental point of view. Holding events requires a sound understanding of a whole range of logistical and safety aspects. The team behind North Byron Parklands have been responsible for putting together numerous large events over the past decade. In each case they have successfully managed important aspects such as noise, ecology, lighting, traffic and crowd and safety management. The systems and procedures they have developed will assist any event being held at the North Byron Parklands site which I believe will help result in successful events. How many times have we heard of organisations saying that they have incorporated environmental considerations into their business activities? Well here is a project that seems to have been built from the ground up based on ensuring that environmental impacts are mitigated or reduced and that positive environmental outcomes such as tree planting and habitat creation are maximised. P663	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Louise Owen of Lennox Head Chamber of Commerce ()	The Lennox Head Chamber of Commerce represents some 120 businesses in Lennox Head. We fully support the North Byron Parklands project for the following reasons. Our village has a number of young people. It is very family oriented. Young people need to gather together to celebrate. Young people will gather regardless of cultural event venues. It?s up to us as adults to decide that we want to support venues that support young people. With such high unemployment rates in the Northern Rivers we are sure that the government is aware just how important it is to approve such a project as North Byron Parklands. I know many young people who would love the chance to work on such a project. The government needs to take into account the generation of employment this proposal will create. Our very existence for businesses in Lennox Head relies heavily on the events we can attract to our area. In 2010 Lennox Head felt the absence of Splendour. It has been very tough compared with other years when Splendour was home. One only has to look at the success of the Byron Blues and Roots Festival having it's own home. It has exceeded all expectations and is now a world renowned event. The spinoff for the surrounding communities is fantastic.

				The enormous amount of positive publicity for the Northern Rivers region cannot be underestimated when holding events such as Splendour. It will promote tourism, local employment, entertainment, culture and money for the entire region. It will also manage and maintain a beautiful area in our region. We fully trust and support the people involved in the NBP project.
				The Lennox Head Chamber of Commerce can only see advantages of approving the North Byron Parklands proposal. P664	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Hayley Peers of fairfax (support)	I have been to many outdoor event sites over the past number of years but have never come across a venue that has taken so much effort to develop and implement so many environmental programs. When events are not being staged at North Byron Parklands, there will be reafforestation and noxious weed removal activities. When there are events at this site they will need to comply with a bunch of strict environmental policies and procedures. If only other venues could take a leaf out of these guy?s book. The opportunity to showcase the stunning nature in the Byron region through a sustainable event venue is surely a wonderful proposition. Outdoor events bring people closer together, let?s show the way Australia. Bring Splendour home!

Getting people to spend their tourism dollar in the northern rivers area is extremely important for sustaining the local and regional tourism businesses. On average Australian holiday makers will spend about $130 per night staying in the northern rivers region and the North Byron Parklands project is going to attract between 80,000 and 120,000 people to the area each year. The economic income will be huge and will support a whole host of tourism based organisations.

P665	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Melody Puckridge (object)	It's disappointing to see this proposal. Surely there is a far more appropriate site that won't have such a devastating impact on one of the few remaining wildlife corridors in this region. P666	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Tyson Pond (support)	It is widely acknowledged that the operators of the Woodfordia venue where Splendour in the Grass was held in 2010 know how to set up and manage a sustainable, enviro-conscious venue. It is my understanding that the highly respected operators of that venue, the Woodford Folk Festival, fully support the plans for North Byron Parklands and are actively advising the NBP owners on the best way forward. This is a major stamp of approval for the whole project, given that Woodfordia stands to lose the very valuable Splendour business should NBP come into being Splendour in the Grass offers local youth the opportunity to work at the festival in return for a festival ticket. This program gives the youth valuable work experience in customer service, hospitality, event management etc. Splendour in the Grass also offers work to musicians, live sound engineers, and event managers. While it has to be recognised that the recently upgraded Pacific Highway and the existing Tweed Valley Way represent the biggest barrier to fauna migration in an east-west direction, the owners of North Byron Parklands have committed to improving the currently degraded wildlife corridor in a number of ways. Putting aside the fact that they have already planted over 7,000 trees in the corridor area and removed large quantities of noxious weeds, their vegetation management plan will dramatically improve vegetation cover and thereby improve species movement opportunities through the further planting of endemic trees. P667	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Olivia Baber (support)	The level of detail undertaken in the identification and assessment of likely impacts on fauna and flora across and adjacent to the North Byron Parklands site is impressive. There is unlikely to be many (if any) other types of development north coast that have gone to this level of detail and thoroughness. The commitments listed to preserve and enhance the ecology certainly help to put this development into the â□œsustainableâ□□ development basket. Byron and the surrounding areas relies substantially on a range of small businesses and cottage industries to employ the people that live in this community. There are not many large employers such as what North Byron Parklands would become should it be approved. I think we need to approve and support these types of projects in regional areas to ensure there are enough job choices available to people.

The tourism business in Byron Bay this past winter has been very slow. With the loss of Splendour in the Grass to Queensland a much needed income stream during winter evaporated. The North Byron Parklands proposal would see a number of major events coming to the region and with it a significant increase in demand for tourist accommodation and activities. The project should be carefully considered by the government due to the much needed injection of funds into the local tourism industry. Many families would benefit from this proposal.

The North Byron Parklands will deliver a range of social benefits particularly in the form of the proposed community grants program. This initiative will see up to $100,000 a year ploughed back into the local community.

If we rationally consider that the proposed North Byron Parklands venue will only be in operation for a number of weeks a year plus bump in and out then one can see that the environment will be rested for most of the year and the community will reap the benefits but not the downside of a venue that operates all year long.

P672	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Madeline Bounds (support)	To Whom it May Concern, In my many years of attendance at Splendour in the Grass festival, I have always witnessed the organisers efforts to make the festival environmentally sound, safe, and effective. I can therefore see no reason why the festival should not stay in Byron Shire. The Byron and surrounding areas in the last twenty years have survived on the back of tourism. While other more traditional industries have been in decline, tourism has provided an income for countless families and individuals in the region. North Byron Parklands is a project that will generate large numbers of visitors to the region which given the recent global financial crisis is just what the sector needs. It should be approved on this basis alone. This proposal is a no brainer for the young. The jobs are vital, not just at North Byron Parklands but in all the industries which this proposal supports and makes more viable. The proposal is a tangible cultural asset for our young people. Please consider our requests, and let Splendour stay in it's spiritual homelands. The North Byron Parklands proposal sure sounds like a perfect way to make sure the people keep smiling. The approval of this proposal will lead to new employment opportunities that may not have previously been offered on the north coast of NSW. New and exciting jobs will boost the youth employment and inspire young adults to remain in the local area after completing study. North Byron Parklands through their application to the Department of Planning have more than adequately shown that this is an organisation willing to go beyond compliance in terms of environmental management. What other development would have documented in such detail the plans, policies and procedures to effectively manage all issues covering the environment. Everything from lighting and erosion control through to revegetation and fauna audits has been included in their impressive management manual. Most outdoor events pay little attention to the environment so it is heartening to see an organisation such as North Byron Parklands who have put a considerable effort into developing specific procedures and work instructions designed to protect the environment. These guys even have an environmental incident notification system which will document all issues and the steps taken to resolve them.

Bring it back to Byron, we dare you!!

It is quite apparent that the proposal for the subject site will be have a net positive impact on the local community, economy and environment. I am unaware of any organisation with such a strong, proven and continuing commitment to sustainable event management. This is exactly the type of organisation that should be encouraged and supported.

The size of events that could occur at Parklands is appropriate and sustainable. The few events that may reach 50,000 patrons per day in the future are not mega or huge. Other events in Australia and the rest of the world are much bigger.

A business that combines ecology with events and community giving. That?s the kind of business that our young people are looking to for training and experience. Let?s get it approved.

The few events that may reach 50,000 patrons per day in the future are not mega or huge. Other events in Australia and the rest of the world are much bigger. One of the most significant environmental controls being put in place by North Byron Parklands is the limiting of major events to 12 event days each year. Effectively this will mean 2 or 3 events over 2 or 3 days each once the venue is up and running to capacity. North Byron Parklands is a really exciting idea and I really hope it goes ahead. My friends and I will definitely attend events held at the venue. I think this venue would make a huge difference to our community. P683	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Christopher Stead of Citrusmedia and Nuclear Publishing (support)	While it has to be recognised that the recently upgraded Pacific Highway and the existing Tweed Valley Way represent the biggest barrier to fauna migration in an east-west direction, the owners of North Byron Parklands have committed to improving the currently degraded wildlife corridor in a number of ways. Putting aside the fact that they have already planted over 7,000 trees in the corridor area and removed large quantities of noxious weeds, their vegetation management plan will dramatically improve vegetation cover and thereby improve species movement opportunities through the further planting of endemic trees. This is a huge positive. At the moment the average household income per year in the Byron shire and the Northern Rivers is much lower than the rest of NSW. The Byron Shire and Northern Rivers average annual income is aprox. $55,000 compared to NSW?s average annual income of $71,000. Bringing Splendour home to Byron Bay to the North Byron Parklands site would open up many opportunities of employment to a community in real need. I have been attending Splendour in the Grass for seven years and with my regular group of 15 friends, we bring in around $15,000 to $20,000 worth of business with us. I also have a degree in Biology from Sydney University majoring in ecophysiology, and alongside Peats

				Ridge and Playground Weekender, I have found Splendour to be the most eco-friendly festival I have attended (and I have been to 114 festivals). The event is a good way to bring in a lot of money to the area, with minimal cost to the environment.

P684	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Sarah Ma of Northern Rivers Writers Centre (support)	The North Byron Parklands Project will? impact the environment positively and should be supported. The preservation of ecological values in and around the Parklands site is an important aspect of North Byron Parklands proposal. The large amount of scientific assessment that has been conducted shows that the site has been heavily degraded over the past number of years and that the proposed fauna and flora management plans will greatly enhance and protect existing identified values on the site.
				Most of the businesses within the Northern Rivers and Byron Shire are sole traders and do not offer any employment opportunities to the community. Bringing Splendour in the Grass festival back to Byron Bay would result in North Byron Parklands offering many new employment opportunities for the residents in the region.
				The real question is why would North Byron Parklands proposal not be approved? I can only see positives to such a development.

North Byron Parklands proposes to create a world class sustainable cultural events site within an ecologically enhanced site. Parklands will achieve this through thourough planning and by adhering to the guidelines of the environmental, health and safety management manual they have developed.

Recent statistics provided by the Australian Bureau of Statistics indicate that the majority of business owners in the shire and the northern rivers area do not employ people, rather these businesses are operated by self employed people. As such it is obvious that other larger organisations and businesses are required to employ people in a are in much need of job opportunities. North Byron Parklands is one such organisation proposing to generate up to 200 full time equivalent positions. Such a project is extremely important to this area.

				North Byron Parklands have conservatively projected that their three major events each year will attract more than 100,000 visitors to the region each year. With a currently depressed tourism sector, such a proposal is a welcome shot in the arm. The direct and indirect economic benefits flowing the tourism sector and other related industries will be immense.

P686	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Josephine Duffy (support)	North Byron Parklands has held a number of tree planting days on the site where they have invited the public to get their hands dirty and plant a tree in the parts of the wildlife corridor that were just open paddock. It speaks volumes for the hypocrisy of local objectors that not one of them ever turned up to put a seedling in the ground to help expand the fragmented wildlife corridor that they so loudly claim to be safeguarding. Those 7,500 trees are now some metres high and thriving. Understanding the likely impacts of the Parklands proposal can be assisted from looking at similar experiences in other parts of the world. For example, â□˜I learned that creative, progressive communities understand both the tangible and intangible effects of music festivals. With time and encouragement, communities that embrace and cultivate relationships and partnerships offering financial and operational support, ultimately realise substantial economic and fiscal impacts. Furthermore, many articles reported that quality of life improves along with the chance to attract and retain young, innovative people to a communityâ™. (Donna Sue Sanders â“ Executive Director of the Daytona State Foundation).

P687	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Gina Ing (support)	North Byron Parklands through their application to the Department of Planning have more than adequately shown that this is an organisation willing to go beyond compliance in terms of environmental management. What other development would have documented in such detail the plans, policies and procedures to effectively manage all issues covering the environment. Everything from lighting and erosion control through to revegetation and fauna audits has been included in their impressive management manual. If you speak to anyone these days, getting and keeping a job is high up on the list. Regional areas generally do not have a range of diversified industries to choose from. Parklands is offering meaningful and interesting work, particularly for young people and should be welcomed with open arms. Three words. Jobs, tourism and culture. All of these are in rapid decline in the northern rivers region and in NSW. Its time to stand up and support these vibrant industries that promise to do so much for so many. The application has the necessary checks and balances in place to make any event operate in a sensitive and responsible manner. Its to time approve the North Byron Parklands proposal.

The approval of the North Byron Parklands proposal will benefit the local creative industries and lead to a new wave of new and interesting jobs for the youth in the area. Let?s build the local industry and make The Byron Shire a hub for creative individuals.

Department of Planning, GPO Box 39, SYDNEY NSW 2001

I wish to express my support for the North Byron Shire Parklands application to operate a cultural site. Byron Shire has long been associated with the identity of being a natural wonderland, full of beautiful beaches, amazing hinterland, and an entertainment scene unparalleled in small town regional Australia.

Byron Shire matches the major cities of Australia as a magnet for culture - creating a rich and diverse society thriving while other regional towns stagnate and lose their direction by focusing on shopping centres and consumerism.

Cultural pursuits and major cultural events are healthy ways to sustain a society.

While the obvious benefits of a working operation on the North Byron Shire Parklands site include employment opportunities, support of local businesses, and the injection of many tourists into a tourist-friendly community, the site is also setting itself up to make an important environmental impact.

The site has the opportunity to add a wildlife corridor that will benefit the movement of fauna between national and regional parklands through the whole region. With use as a profitable cultural site, more money can be fed into the regeneration of Australian flora to rehabilitate this old cane farm.

The site is located some distance from Byron Bay town centre, which will mean the impact of the influx of tourists to the cultural site will be spread across the region more evenly. It is fair to surmise that surrounding towns will feel positive impacts with the injection of money and capital in a natural sustainable growth pattern.

It is also fair to say the only reasonable objection for the application comes with transport management and parking, but it is reasonable to assume that this can be properly managed and contained with the correct management processes in place.

With Byron Shire already approving the Bluesfest site at Tyagarah Tee Tree farm, the region can continue its move to become the cultural hub of Australia by approving a second major festival site.

I am worried there is something wrong with the processes if one can be approved and the other not. On fair trade and competition grounds alone in a society that does not support monopolies, it is not a reasonable argument to say the region already now has a festival site, and so a second should not be approved.

I have visited major festival sites around the world in a working capacity, including Glastonbury, and have seen that permanent sites naturally progress with continued infrastructure improvements year after year. Property owners of the festival sites decide for themselves when natural events such as rain cause too much damage - and themselves implement management processes such as fallow years to protect the site. It is part of land management that comes with owning a site. If approved - you will never see a degradation of the area, you will only see continued improvements to the area.

Approving this site can only be for the good of the region.

And that is what we hope every development brings when approving an application in a democratic society.

I support this application.

P690	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Dylan Edwards (support)	Most outdoor events pay little attention to the environment so it is heartening to see an organisation such as North Byron Parklands who have put a considerable effort into developing specific procedures and work instructions designed to protect the environment. These guys even have an environmental incident notification system which will document all issues and the steps taken to resolve them. In relation to employment, with so many people moving to coastal areas governments have a role as planners to ensure that industries and the jobs they bring are afforded every opportunity of success. Parklands is one such business that makes good sense to locate in the Byron Shire. The North Byron Parklands proposal will see the largest restoration program the region has seen for the past 5o years as a result of its highly detailed vegetation management plan which will result in 1000?s of trees being strategically planted around the site. The wildlife corridor has been significantly degraded over many decades due to primary production and agriculture activities. This means the corridor is currently very fragmented and in real need of revegetation.

We constantly hear about politicians doing their best to ensure a supply of good jobs for our young people, however NSW currently is experiencing very high rates of youth unemployment. Governments and politicians must become more aware of the types of projects that will generate such youth oriented jobs and the North Byron Parklands proposal is a very good example. Reported to generate in excess of 200 jobs it seems to make sense to me to approve it.

In the Byron and northern rivers areas tourism is subject to busy times and quiet times. It is planned that a number of events will occur at the North Byron Parklands site each year and one of these takes place in winter when tourism businesses are struggling to cover costs. Building a dedicated events venue in the Byron Shire will have a number of very positive benefits for the tourism industry which is a good thing.

The North Byron Parklands will deliver a range of social benefits particularly in the form of the proposed community grants program. This initiative will see up to $100,000 a year ploughed back into the local community.

If we rationally consider that the proposed North Byron Parklands venue will only be in operation for a number of weeks a year plus bump in and out then one can see that the environment will be rested for most of the year and the community will reap the benefits but not the downside of a venue that operates all year long.

Still picking its self up after the recent financial crisis the tourism industry stands to be the big winner from this proposal. With massive visitor generating capacity this proposal will singlehandedly attract hundreds of thousands of people to the region, all of whom need accommodation and other services once they arrive. Drawing young (and older) people to an event of this type provides a great sense of community and enjoyment and could be for many who attend, one of most memorable and significant events of their lives. Music is a wonderful medium and communicates something unique and special to everyone and does not discriminate or isolate but brings people of all ages, ethnicity and class together, united in their appreciation. Everyone needs to attend an event of this nature at least once in their lives and Splendour in The Grass at North Byron Parklands would provde an ideal venue for this experience, whilst simultaneously providing important economic stimulus to the surrounding area.

Let?s get the creative juices flowing in the Northern Rivers. Bring Splendour home, and get on with the job of creating exciting training, employment and enjoyment opportunities for young people not just in the area, but Australia wide.

P702	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Bonnie Scott (support)	The level of detail undertaken in the identification and assessment of likely impacts on fauna and flora across and adjacent to the North Byron Parklands site is impressive. There is unlikely to be many (if any) other types of development north coast that have gone to this level of detail and thoroughness. The commitments listed to preserve and enhance the ecology certainly help to put this development into the â□œsustainableâ□□ development basket. Under the North Byron Parklands environmental management manual there is a particular Environmental Standard that requires events being held on the site to adhere to a number of stringent environmental controls. The controls include buffer zones, environmental inductions, fencing aspects, wildlife rescue teams and lighting requirement to reduce illumination of bush blocks. I am unaware of any other outdoor event venue requiring such tight environmental controls. Parklands will certainly be moving towards Australian best practice, if not worldâ□™s best environmental practice. North Byron Parklands will provide jobs and training in event management, ticketing, technical production and traffic management for up to 20 days each year. These work and training opportunities are needed and are very exciting for young adults in the community.

P704	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from georgia crowley of bond university (support)	I just heard about the proposed North Byron Parklands and got instantly excited. What better way to show the beauty Byron Bay has to offer? In the past there have been complaints made by residents living on Shirley Street in Byron Bay about the noise and litter accumulated after the Splendour in the Grass festival. P705	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Sarah Agboola (support)	The North Byron Parklands project is an innovative and acceptable use of this very large, former grazing and cane-growing property. If the NBP proposal doesn?t proceed then it?s likely that the land will revert to those uses, or could possibly be subdivided into another cookie-cutter seaside suburb. Who will continue the environmental regeneration works being undertaken by the North Byron Parklands? group? No-one. That would be a terrible lost opportunity. Please approve this proposal! It is very important for our young people to feel like the region has new and exciting jobs to offer for them. P706	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Sally Watts (support)	The North Byron Parklands will be the 1st proposed land use that will see a massive improvement in environmental outcomes for the site. For many years the North Byron Parklands site has been used for intensive agricultural activities and land clearing, impacting on the site dramatically. North Byron Parklands has planned mass plantings, fauna habitat creation and most importantly no event activities for some 260 plus days a year to restore the site. This has to be seen as a great result for the local environment. With respect to ensuring that staff and contractors take care to protect and enhance the environment where events will take place, it is excellent to note that the North Byron Parklands proposal includes an environmental induction for such workers. In this instance all workers are required to read and sign an environmental induction which covers a range of important environmental issues, not the least the environmental incident notification system. This is a great initiative.

I attended Splendour in the Grass in byron from 2007-2009 and found it to be responsibly run with a high regard to the environmental impact.

I have also spoken with many locals in Byron, particularly accommodation owners, shops and restaurant owners and staff who rely on the intake of that weekend to keep them going through the quieter winter period and I imagine that the impact on the local economy in 2010 would have been significant.

The festival is something that Byron should be proud to host and run and welcome into their community once a year, and I am a strong campaigner that the festival should come back to Byron in the future.

P707	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Samuel Koller (support)	North Byron Parklands commintment to the preserving and enhancing the local ecosytems is shown through the large amount of ecological planning that has already gone into the proposed site. Parklands has developed a environmental, health and safety management manual to ensure the end result is a sustainable cultural events site. In regards to employment so many traditional industry sectors have left the mid and far north coast of NSW. This has resulted in a significant structural change to our employment base. A new shift towards service industries and importantly the creative industries means that the necessary infrastructure and planning decisions are required to capitalise on this trend. North Byron Parklands is one such project that will strengthen the North Coastâ□™s existing creative industries base and will generate significant part time and full time employment, all of which is much needed in these areas. I have been to many outdoor event sites over the past number of years but have never come across a venue that has taken so much effort to develop and implement so many environmental programs. When events are not being staged at North Byron Parklands, there will be reafforestation and noxious weed removal activities. When there are events at this site they will need to comply with a bunch of strict environmental policies and procedures. If only other venues could take a leaf out of these guyâ□™s book.

The proposed North Byron Parklands vegetation management plan will see a staged regime of tree planting across the site. Apart from the obvious habitat creation, etc, this level of mass planting will have other important environmental benefits. Benefits such as reduced soil erosion, salinity and of course will also help to greatly improve water quality through nature filtration processes associated with such significant biomass.

When I was at Splendour recently and we by-passed Byron Bay, the feeling was that the locals would like to have splendour back there. It's important culturally for Byron Bay, as well as economically.

P709	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Megan Holloway (support)	Splendour in the Grass is a musical tradition that belongs in Byron Bay. It supports local business and annually adds to the vibrant and fun nature of the town. North Byron Parklands through their application to the Department of Planning have more than adequately shown that this is an organisation willing to go beyond compliance in terms of environmental management. What other development would have documented in such detail the plans, policies and procedures to effectively manage all issues covering the environment. Everything from lighting and erosion control through to revegetation and fauna audits has been included in their impressive management manual. North Byron Parklands will help build up creative industries in the Northern Rivers area. Establishing a permanent and sustainable cultural event venue will lead to an array of new job opportunities and in time create economic growth in the region. P711	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Tina van Eyk (support)	It seems they most likely disturbance for the environment will be light and noise and also traffic. Having reviewed North Byron Parkland?s environmental, health and safety management manual it is clear that they have put a lot of energy into assessing and mitigating any potential environmental risks associated with these activities. The work they have done for managing the environment is above and beyond what one would expect for such a low impact activity. It will be a great event to hold locally, for the local community. Byron/Ballina is a beautiful area suited to such events. The tourism business in Byron Bay this past winter has been very slow. With the loss of Splendour in the Grass to Queensland a much needed income stream during winter evaporated. The North Byron Parklands proposal would see a number of major events coming to the region and with it a significant increase in demand for tourist accommodation and activities. The project should be carefully considered by the government due to the much needed injection of funds into the local tourism industry. Many families would benefit from this proposal.

Having a world class sustainable event venue at the Parklands site will put The Northen Rivers on the map as a leader in sustainable venue developments. This will also aid local educational institutes such as Southern Cross University in environmental related courses by having a world class example in the area.

P716	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Joel Hunt (support)	The North Byron Parklands proposal will see the largest restoration program the region has seen for the past 5o years as a result of its highly detailed vegetation management plan which will result in 1000?s of trees being strategically planted around the site. The wildlife corridor has been significantly degraded over many decades due to primary production and agriculture activities. This means the corridor is currently very fragmented and in real need of revegetation. The income generated by the North Byron Parklands event site will link together economic growth and development within the arts, cultural and recreational services industries which has the potential to become a significant economic contributor within the Byron Shire economy over the long term. P719	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Lauren Elliott (support)	The long history of agricultural activities at the North Byron Parklands site has lead to the degradation of much of the site over the past 50 years. Regeneration work is needed before the site can be considered ecologically valuable and the North Byron Parklands team plan to plant a significant number of native trees to achieve this. Australia, generally speaking has been lucky in terms of its overall unemployment rate, however in the northern rivers the rate is much higher. Regions such as this need employers across a range of industries not just retail and tourism. I am sure that North Byron Parklands will become a major employer in the region if the project is approved.

				The Byron and surrounding areas in the last twenty years have survived on the back of tourism. While other more traditional industries have been in decline, tourism has provided an income for countless families and individuals in the region. North Byron Parklands is a project that will generate large numbers of visitors to the region which given the recent global financial crisis is just what the sector needs. It should be approved on this basis alone. A cultural event site such as the one proposed by North Byron Parklands will help develop creative industries on the north coast. Research into the effects of intermittent noise shows that such fauna will usually relocate during such episodes and will return quickly once noise abates. Further the movement of such fauna is entirely dependent on food resources. If there are no fruits and blossoms across the site then the presence of these species will be very low. North Byron Parklands will join forces with local learning institutes like Southern Cross University and SAE (School of Audio Engineering) to further improve the areas creative industries. This alliance will provide the community with world class training and work experience opportunities.

Many people worry about financially providing for themselves and their families and rightly so. Today it is hard to find a good job outside of the larger cities. The preservation of ecological values in and adjacent to the Parklands site is an important aspect of the proposal. Much scientific assessment has been undertaken which highlights that the site has been heavily degraded over the past number of years and that the proposed fauna and flora management plans will greatly enhance and protect existing identified values. The North Byron Parklands Project will actually result in a positive impact on the environment and should be supported.

				The approval of the North Byron Parklands proposal will benefit the local creative industries and lead to a new wave of new and interesting jobs for the youth in the area. Letâ□™s build the local industry and make The Byron Shire a hub for creative individuals.
				How many times have we heard of organisations saying that they have incorporated environmental considerations into their business activities? P722	Project Website Submission	12/11/2010	Online Submission from Adam Hoy (support)	In recent times visitor day trips to the northern rivers has been declining. Coupled with a downward trend in the average per head tourism spend it is clear that strategies need to be put in place to increase visitor numbers. Projects that can significantly increase tourism numbers in a short space of time include cultural event activities such as those proposed by North Byron Parklands. This business is capable of attracting hundreds of thousands of visitors each year to the northern rivers which will be a huge boon for the area.
				Splendour in the Grass has provided a lot of mentorship and training opportunities for young people in the past. The fabulous Splendid initiative is an example of this. They really invest in young people. Even if these initiatives remain limited to Splendour in the Grass, itâ□™s important to have these opportunities for young people in the region.

The Marshallâ□™s Ridge wildlife corridor on the proposed site is actually damaged, populated with harmful weeds, and is in need of restoration. North Byron Parklands has committed through its vegetation management plan and a number of other measures to reduce forest fragmentation by planting endemic species which will help improve fauna movement opportunities.

Splendour in the grass is the best festival in australia. not only for the music but for the oppurtunities it opens up for the artists and spectators alike. it provides a massive boost of tourism and money to whatever region holds it. governments are falling further out of touch with the youth of australia if they stop splendour as well it really shows that they don't have a clue what appeals to the communties they are in charge of.

Save Splendour!

P724	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from cassie bridge of flight centre (support)	North Byron Parklands is one of those venues that give back to the local community. This is important no matter which way you look at it. I think it would be a shame for this venue not to go ahead. NSW has a golden opportunity to be a leader in outdoor event venues by approving North Byron Parklands. What will no doubt be an iconic music and artistic venue will be the envy of other states and will no doubt attract events from other states to NSW. In regards to employment so many traditional industry sectors have left the mid and far north coast of NSW. This has resulted in a significant structural change to our employment base. A new shift towards service industries and importantly the creative industries means that the necessary infrastructure and planning decisions are required to capitalise on this trend. North Byron Parklands is one such project that will strengthen the North Coast?s existing creative industries base and will generate significant part time and full time employment, all of which is much needed in these areas.

P725	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from miranda crawford (support)	With the Environmental, Health and Safety management manual prepared by North Byron Parklands the management of environmental values will be done so within a world class framework which will reduce potential and actual impacts on fauna and flora. The system is that comprehensive that it has even considered and regulated light spill from potable lighting towers. The proponents should be commended on such an initiative. Not only does the North Byron Parklands offer an economy boost for local businesses and employment opportunities, it also brings awareness to tackling waste, recycling and consumption. Events are a huge part of the Byron Shire calendar and the area has benefited over the years in so many ways by these well managed shows. Right now there are no venue spaces available for events due to various land use changes and space restrictions. Even the recently acquired event space for the Blues Festival is reported only to ever be used for this one event. The North Byron Parklands site is a once in a generation opportunity to develop a world class event venue that can cater for small and large events and provide the P726	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Penelope McKelvie (support)	Surely it is obvious to the government that NSW needs a permanent sustainable outdoor music event, particularly one located on the far north coast. The application covers all issues and provides a range of solutions. It is now time to approve it.

				The North Byron Parklands proposal has considered both indigenous and non-indigenous issues associated with the proposal. In particular, Parklands has worked closely with the local Tweed/Byron Aboriginal Land Council and has complemented a number of archaeological digs to help determine the significance of parts of the site. It is pleasing to see that certain areas of the site will become â□œout of boundsâ□□ to protect identified areas of importance.

				In regards to the environment the proposed North Byron Parklands site is some 256ha in size and the proponents have committed to only every using a maximum of some 100ha thus leaving large tracts of the property for wildlife functions. I think the environmental controls under their environmental, health and safety management manual will also reduce impacts and make this a leading sustainable outdoor event venue. Each year when the festival season comes around businesses in the Byron Shire and surrounding areas will get a boost in sales due to the increase in tourism, helping small business and survive and in turn helping the local community. The economic value of creative industries for the region is estimated to be $190 million with the indutry having a job growth rate of 100% over the past decade. Lets bring Splendour in the Grass home, back to the the Byron Shire and develop our creative industires further to provide new and exciting job opportunities for the youth in the future.

The North Byron Parklands site has numerous positives in its favour. Not the least among them are the numerous accommodation outlets within easy reach via excellent road networks. The venue is also close to airports at both Ballina and Coolangatta, a factor which will appeal to interstate and overseas visitors. There is also plenty of room on site for thousands to camp.

P730	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Luke Kealy (support)	If Woodfordia in Queensland can be highly respected as an enviro-friendly venue which hosts a number of festivals with large crowds, then surely North Byron Parklands can achieve the same level of acceptance and respect if given the chance. Holding events requires a sound understanding of a whole range of logistical and safety aspects. The team behind North Byron Parklands have been responsible for putting together numerous large events over the past decade. In each case they have successfully managed important aspects such as noise, ecology, lighting, traffic and crowd and safety management. The systems and procedures they have developed will assist any event being held at the North Byron Parklands site which I believe will help result in successful events. Getting people to spend their tourism dollar in the northern rivers area is extremely important for sustaining the local and regional tourism businesses. On average Australian holiday makers will spend about $130 per night staying in the northern rivers region and the North Byron Parklands project is going to attract between 80,000 and 120,000 people to the area each year. The economic income will be huge and will support a whole host of tourism based organisations.

We really need this to get the go ahead. My friends and I will go to events at North Byron Parklands. Hopefully we will be able to get jobs at events.

I have personally attended 5 splendour in the grass festivals and many, many other music festivals and I can say without any hesitation that splendour is the best ran festival in this country and is a true asset to the northern rivers/ Byron Bay area both financially and culturally and I would love to see the event return to the area

P734	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Bethany Johns (support)	The North Byron Parklands proposal will see the largest restoration program the region has seen for the past 5o years as a result of its highly detailed vegetation management plan which will result in 1000?s of trees being strategically planted around the site. The wildlife corridor has been significantly degraded over many decades due to primary production and agriculture activities. This means the corridor is currently very fragmented and in real need of revegetation. Byron Shire and the wider northern rivers region has been a fast growing area for the creative industries sector. Huge numbers of people have moved into the region with expectations of finding work in this sector and more than ever there is a need to ensure that projects that directly and indirectly benefit this growing sector are supported. The Parklands proposal if approved will become a dominant force in expanding the creative industries sector and will provide substantial job opportunities.

P735	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Cassandra Meehan (support)	From an environmental perspective one of the most pleasing aspects of the North Byron Parklands proposal is the distinct lack of permanent infrastructure and the need to clear trees. The most significant infrastructure relates to the underpass under Jones Road and would involve removal of about 50 trees (which are mainly Camphor). With such minimal works required to make an events venue it means that the vast majority of the site shall remain as is, which is a real positive. North Byron Parklands is all about hosting lots of different events, all of which require people to work in a variety of jobs. One event can employ hundreds of people for a period of time and in an area such as Byron such job opportunities are very welcome. We should be doing all we can to make this project happen.

It is vitally important to the local tourism industry that the North Byron Parklands project is approved. This single project is expected to attract hundreds of thousands of visitors to the region each and every year. The flow on effects to the tourism operators will be significant and will also help to grow much needed jobs for the region.

North Byron Parklands can be a showcase for our local talents by supporting jobs and training in the areas of bush regeneration and sustainability management.

It is true there are a number of threatened species at the North Byron Parklands site, such as water borne birds, owls and various bats. Research into the effects of irregular noise to such species shows that they will usually relocate and return quickly once noise ceases. This a positive result for all parties and it is good to know the species will not be disturbed some 260 days of the year.

The North Byron Parklands proposed plan for a permanent cultural venue is inspiring for young people. P740	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Carly Moore (support)	The level of detail undertaken in the identification and assessment of likely impacts on fauna and flora across and adjacent to the North Byron Parklands site is impressive. There is unlikely to be many (if any) other types of development north coast that have gone to this level of detail and thoroughness. The commitments listed to preserve and enhance the ecology certainly help to put this development into the â□œsustainableâ□□ development basket. Potential environmental impacts on the proposed site have been avoided by development areas occupying only the existing grassland areas of the site. Plus, the development proposes an additional 11.1 ha of re-vegetation and 48.1 ha of additional plantings. The tourism industry is a major contributor to the Byron Shire and Northern Rivers Region economies, with visitation critical to the regionsâ□™ economies. The proposed North Byron Parklands project will result in a massive increase in the number of domestic visitors to the area and to a lesser degree, will also attract many overseas visitors. As this industry is so important to the region it makes good sense for this project to proceed.

We can look at other parts of the world to help understand the likely impacts of the North Byron Parklands proposal. Donna Sue Sanders â□“ Executive Director of the Daytona State Foundation states that â□˜communities that embrace and cultivate relationships and partnerships offering financial and operational support, ultimately realise substantial economic and fiscal impacts. Furthermore, many articles reported that quality of life improves along with the chance to attract and retain young, innovative people to a communityâ□™ North Byron Parkland events are not only for the youth, theyâ□™re for the whole community, young and old. Events can rejuvenate and reconnect us with our elders and our

P743	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Kurt Barrow (support)	The economic benefits from this proposal will be felt locally and regionally. 210 full time equivalent jobs will be created by the approval of this application. It is estimated that the total multiplier effect of the enterprise operating at capacity is $192.6 million annually. Byron Bay is built on its beautiful natural assets and many tourist attractions yet like many other coastal towns it suffers from seasonal swings. The North Byron Parklands proposal would significantly smooth tourism demand by attracting visitors in traditionally slow times. As tourism is so important to the town and surrounding areas such projects should be openly encouraged. North Byron Parklands can be a showcase for our local talents by supporting jobs and training in the areas of bush regeneration and sustainability management. P744	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Alexandra Clem (support)	Holding events requires a sound understanding of a whole range of logistical and safety aspects. The team behind North Byron Parklands have been responsible for putting together numerous large events over the past decade. In each case they have successfully managed important aspects such as noise, ecology, lighting, traffic and crowd and safety management. The systems and procedures they have developed will assist any event being held at the North Byron Parklands site which I believe will help result in successful events. While much is made about the supposed wildlife corridor in and around the North Byron Parklands site the fact is that much of the vegetation is patchy and degraded. The Parklands people have gone to great lengths to ensure that temporary events are managed in a way to maintain and improve fauna movement. For example only placing temporary fencing just before events commence is one such initiative that will help greatly with this issue. Cultural arts and music event facilities such as those proposed by North Byron Parklands will greatly assist the local tourism industry by attracting thousands of people from Queensland, Sydney and Victoria. All of these visitors will require accommodation and other services and will greatly benefit the tourism sector. This is surely a good thing. North Byron Parklands proposed event site will provide a wide variety of employment opportunites to the reagion that is said to increase as the years go on. North Byron Parklands require staff to maintain and manage the event site plus each event organistaion will be looking to the local comunity for employees for their events.

I honestly do not think there is any other event venue in Australia, let alone NSW, that has so much going for it. Positioned in beautiful Byron Bay this incredible venue will stimulate so many other supportive industries to invest and grow the creative industries sector. This sector along with tourism is the life blood of regional areas such as northern NSW and I cannot see any sensible reason why it should not be approved.

The economic value of creative industries for the region is estimated to be $190 million with the indutry having a job growth rate of 100% over the past decade. Lets bring Splendour in the Grass home, back to the the Byron Shire and develop our creative industires further to provide new and exciting job opportunities for the youth in the future.

What a great way to bring our community together. The North Byron Parklands site has numerous positives in its favour. Not the least among them are the numerous accommodation outlets within easy reach via excellent road networks. The venue is also close to airports at both Ballina and Coolangatta, a factor which will appeal to interstate and overseas visitors. There is also plenty of room on site for thousands to camp. I am so excited about the opportunities that a proposal of this nature can offer to both the people of Byron Shire and the north coast. It provides for employment, tourism and cultural experiences that unfortunately over the past years have been driven out of the shire by small minded local politics. P747	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Leigh Hansen (support)	I wholeheartedly support Splendour in the Grass returning to Byron Bay for a variety of reasons such as: - The North Byron Parklands is a fantastic opportunity for Byron Bay and surrounding economies. Promoting career paths of all different avenues for a wide range of people. Itâ□™s exactly what every community needs. - Under the North Byron Parklands environmental management manual there is a particular Environmental Standard that requires events being held on the site to adhere to a number of stringent environmental controls. The controls include buffer zones, environmental inductions, fencing aspects, wildlife rescue teams and lighting requirement to reduce illumination of bush blocks. I am unaware of any other outdoor event venue requiring such tight environmental controls. Parklands will certainly be moving towards Australian best practice, if not worldâ□™s best environmental practice.

It is true there are a number of threatened species at the North Byron Parklands site, such as water borne birds, owls and various bats. Research into the effects of irregular noise to such species shows that they will usually relocate and return quickly once noise ceases. This a positive result for all parties and it is good to know the species will not be disturbed some 260 days of the year.

I applaud the efforts being made by the Splendour organisers and wonder why it is becoming more and more difficult to create venues for these kinds of events. It creates a atmosphere of camaraderie and brings people together in a peaceful and fun environment. With all the troubles in our world, there should be more of this kind of thing.

Thank you

P748	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Lisa Miller of School (support)	While much is made of the Marshall?s Ridge wildlife corridor the actual reality of this corridor is that it is fragmented, populated with noxious weeds and is great need of repair. Restoration will only come about by the landowner, in this instance being North Byron Parklands. This business has committed through its vegetation management plan and a number of other measures to reduce forest fragmentation by planting endemic species which will no doubt improve fauna movement opportunities. That would make a massive difference to the local environment. When you look at the improvement to the Woodford Folk Festival Site, and the cultural value of the events, it is really very sustainable and a worthwhile project. Good luck Splendour! New and exciting jobs will boost the youth employment and inspire young adults to remain in the local area after completing study. So many people I know gain so much enjoyment from listening to live music. It seems to form an important part of our cultural expression within our society, however it appears to be on the wane in this country. To reverse this trend we need more venues that are sustainable such as that being proposed by North Byron Parkland Having a world class facility like North Byron Parklands in the Byron region is an awesome opportunity. Any place in Australia would welcome that. Surely it is obvious to the government that NSW needs a permanent sustainable outdoor music event, particularly one located on the far north coast. P750	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Dean Winwood of SCU (support)	At the moment the average household income per year in the Byron shire and the Northern Rivers is much lower than the rest of NSW. The Byron Shire and Northern Rivers average annual income is aprox. $55,000 compared to NSWâ™s average annual income of $71,000. Bringing Splendour home to Byron Bay to the North Byron Parklands site would open up many opportunities of employment to a community in real need. One of the unintended effects on the environment from outdoor events is light spill. So it is pleasing to see that this issue is well addressed under the organisationâ™s environmental standard. This standard requires lighting to be directed downwards, away from forest blocks, using low pressure sodium vapour lights where possible, and turning off light towers at a certain time of night. Such measures will greatly reduce disturbances to any localised fauna during such events. So many people I know gain so much enjoyment from listening to live music. Many projects that have occurred across the North Coast of NSW have not undertaken even a tenth of the assessment, survey and fauna/flora investigations as that completed by North Byron Parklands. The extensive vegetation mapping and the identification of fauna across the site, coupled with two koala surveys (which did not locate any koalas) demonstrate the level of environmental assessment undertaken by this organisation. When you then add the environmental controls as proposed in their environmental, health and safety management manual it is evident that these people are very serious about environmental management.

P754	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Daniel Hannan of music lover inc. (support)	The truth is in the pudding really. As a music lover who has attended many festivals around this country, I would like to offer my view point on some issues that may be raised on the new Splendour site. The local community will benefit from the influx of the travelling music and arts lovers to such a fine site. The financial benefit to the community should be considered as a stimulating aspect to the local region. In regards to indigenous issues, Splendour continues to offer respect to the original owners of the land, in which they pay tribute with welcome to country celebrations annually. I believe and trust in the facts presented by the organizers that the environment will not be adversely effected by the event. In reality the local environment will benefit from the supervision and protection, including the controls on what land is being used in conjunction with the festival. The Splendour organizer have also offered carbon free festival tickets for many years, offsetting the damage of each person attending in relation to their carbon output. Health and safety of the people attending is also of concern at major music festivals. As a veteran of five Splendours, I can say I have the highest level of faith and trust in the organizers. The excellent duties carried out by all staff and volunteers ensures a safe and enjoyable environment throughout the time on site. I truly believe as a music lover and an environmentalist, that the new proposed site for Splendour In The Grass 2011, would not only be a positive experience for the people attending, but also, of great benefit to the local environment and community. P755	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Ben Hofma of N/A (support)	Most businesses that operate in Northern NSW do not have anywhere near the level of sophisticated environmental strategies, controls and procedures that North Byron Parklands is preparing to put in place. It seems that every aspect of flora and fauna management has been considered and with a robust environmental auditing component I think we will see some excellent environmental outcomes arising from this development. I am very supportive of their approach. We need to look to the future for training and employment opportunities. A real estate industry is not enough and we will lose our young people to cities if we do not offer them opportunities such as those provided by this proposal. From an environmental perspective one of the most pleasing aspects of the North Byron Parklands proposal is the distinct lack of permanent infrastructure and the need to clear trees. The most significant infrastructure relates to the underpass under Jones Road and would involve removal of about 50 trees (which are mainly Camphor). With such minimal works required to make an events venue it means that the vast majority of the site shall remain as is, which is a real positive.

P758	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Greg Oliver (support)	I support giving Splendour in the Grass a permanent home at North Byron Parklands. The proposed North Byron Parklands vegetation management plan will see a staged regime of tree planting across the site. Apart from the obvious habitat creation, etc, this level of mass planting will have other important environmental benefits. Benefits such as reduced soil erosion, salinity and of course will also help to greatly improve water quality through nature filtration processes associated with such significant biomass. Imagine an events venue that can attract tens of thousands of visitors to a rural area. Imagine an events venue that has investigated and assessed all aspects of its operation and developed best practice policies and procedures. Imagine an events venue that generates lots of employment opportunities and provides much needed income for a range of businesses. Well the events venue is North Byron Parklands and it should be approved by the government because sustainable projects like this are few and far between.Â Â Â Â Â

P759	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Emily Clark (support)	I have been to many outdoor event sites over the past number of years but have never come across a venue that has taken so much effort to develop and implement so many environmental programs. When events are not being staged at North Byron Parklands, there will be reafforestation and noxious weed removal activities. When there are events at this site they will need to comply with a bunch of strict environmental policies and procedures. If only other venues could take a leaf out of these guyâ□™s book. Understanding the likely impacts of the Parklands proposal can be assisted from looking at similar experiences in other parts of the world. For example, â□˜I learned that creative, progressive communities understand both the tangible and intangible effects of music festivals. With time and encouragement, communities that embrace and cultivate relationships and partnerships offering financial and operational support, ultimately realise substantial economic and fiscal impacts. Furthermore, many articles reported that quality of life improves along with the chance to attract and retain young, innovative people to a communityâ□™. (Donna Sue Sanders â□“ Executive Director of the Daytona State Foundation).

One of the strengths of the North Byron Parklands proposal is the flow on benefits it will provide to the tourism industry. Still picking itself up after the recent financial crisis the tourism industry stands to be the big winner from this proposal. With massive visitor generating capacity this proposal will singlehandedly attract hundreds of thousands of people to the region, all of whom need accommodation and other services once they arrive.

Whatâ□™s important for Byron is the culture and celebration, its very important to our community. The North Byron Parklands proposal will provide security and ensure that Byron continues to offer this.

P761	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from TINA PETROFF of OCEAN SHORES TIDY TOWN COMMITTEE (support)	TIDY TOWNS IS NSWs LEADING AND LONGEST RUNNING ENVIRONMENTAL AND COMMUNITY PROGRAM, AND OUR OCEAN SHORES COMMITTEE HAVE BEEN MONITORING THE NORTH BYRON SHIRE PARKLANDS PROJECT FOR SOME TIME. WE HAVE OBSERVED THEIR COMMITMENT TO PROTECTING AND CONSERVING ENVIRONMENTAL VALUES ACROSS THIS BEAUTIFUL PIECE OF LAND, BUT WE WOULD FEEL MORE COMFORTABLE IF THEY UTILISED THE TWEED SHIRE ENTRANCE OFF WOOYUNG, AND HAD PARKING AREAS ON THE NORTHERN SIDE OF THIS LARGE 660 ACRE LAND PARCEL, TO AVOID ANY POSSIBILITY OF SEASONAL FLOODING WHICH COULD EASILY COVER VEHICLES VERY QUICKLY, AND DISPERSE OIL AND TOILET CHEMICALS INTO THE BILLINUDGEL NATURE RESERVE. NEVERTHELESS, WE BELIEVE THEY SHOULD HAVE THE OPPORTUNITY TO DEMONSTRATE THAT THEY CAN MANAGE THIS EVENT SITE WELL, AND AGREE THAT MANY LOCAL WORK OPPORTUNITIES AND DONATIONS LOCALLY WOULD BENEFIT THE GREATER OCEAN SHORES COMMUNITY. IT HAS MORE THAN ONE ENTRANCE TO THE PROPERTY SO THE TRAFFIC PROBLEMS ENCOUNTERED AT WOODFORD CAN BE AVOIDED HERE, AND WE NOTE THAT NBSP HAS AN IN DEPTH RANGE OF MANAGEMENT REGULATIONS AND CONTROLS TO MITIGATE POTENTIAL IMPACTS ON THE ENVIRONMENT, COMMUNITY SAFETY AND TRAFFIC, THAT WILL BE AUDITED AND MONITORED REGULARLY, AND CONSTANTLY REVISED AND UPDATED TO INCLUDE AUDITS, ASSESSSMENTS, MONITORING AND STAKEHOLDER FEEDBACK, AND WE ARE CONFIDENT THAT THEY WILL DO EVERYTHING IN THEIR POWER TO LIMIT THE IMPACT ON THEIR NEIGHBOURING COMMUNITIES. THE POTENTIAL ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL BENEFITS FROM SCOUT MEETS, GYMKHANAS, MOVIE FESTIVALS, ECO EXPOS, AS WELL AS SPLENDOUR IN THE GRASS YEARLY, OPENS UP SO MANY POSSIBILITIES IN DEVELOPING A WORLD CLASS SUSTAINABLE EVENTS SITE, AND THE NBSP TEAM SHOULD BE GIVEN A CHANCE TO SHOWCASE THEIR CREDENTIALS AND DEMONSTRATE TO THE LOCAL COMMUNITY JUST HOW EFFECTIVE THEIR PLANS ARE. P762	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Rebekah Tate (support)	With respect to ensuring that staff and contractors take care to protect and enhance the environment where events will take place, it is excellent to note that the North Byron Parklands proposal includes an environmental induction for such workers. In this instance all workers are required to read and sign an environmental induction which covers a range of important environmental issues, not the least the environmental incident notification system. This is a great initiative. With respect to the environment one of the risks that the people from North Byron Parklands have identified is the potential for road kill associated with traffic movements before, during and after an event. As such they have implemented a number of requirements including on site environmental inductions, speed limiting devises, signage and a wildlife rescue team. This is just one example of the sound environmental practices they are proposing. Everytime I've been to Byron it feels like home I just can't imagine going anywhere else to go to splendour. P764	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Terry Matthews (support)	North Byron Parklands staff have already developed a solid working relationship with National Parks ground staff, local indigenous bush regeneration teams and local council ecology staff. To date North Byron Parklands has planted thousands of trees adjacent to the Billinudgel Nature reserve, installed dozens of nest boxes to improve habitat opportunities and removed thousands of metres of barbed wire fencing to reduce impediments to fauna movement. These actions have been completed prior to asking for any sort of approval for use of the land as an outdoor venue. What is truly impressive is the number of environmental programs this organisation is proposing should the application be approved. On the subject of employment the north coast has a long history of hosting many different types of events. These events provide jobs for so many people and in an area where paying the rent or mortgage is tough it is critical that these events are allowed to continue. Without a permanent event area these jobs will be lost to the north coast. As such this project should be approved on the employment prospects it brings, let alone any other positives.

				The northern rivers area over the past 20 years has been built on the back of the creative arts industry, so it is vital that the government support this industry by promptly approving the North Byron Parklands project. Musicians and artists are finding it harder to earn a living by way of live performances because so many venues are being closed down around the country. It is time the government supported this industry and one way of showing this support is by approving the North Byron Parklands venue. In the past the Splendour in the Grass festival has provide young adults with high level training in many areas, plus, supported creative youth initiatives like Splendid. These opportunities offered to the young community are truly invaluable to our region. P765	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Michelle Rynne (support)	Much of the agricultural and forestry industries of the northern rivers has significantly declined over the past decade and many people have been forced into lower paid sectors such as retail and tourism. Now more than ever there is a need for diversifying the employment base and the North Byron Parklands proposal will do exactly that. With job positions projected to be more than 200 there is a very real need to approve such a project. In a coastal region such as the Byron and Tweed areas tourism businesses are the financial lifeblood for so many people. Ensuring we attract businesses such as North Byron Parklands who will be responsible for bringing significant numbers of visitors to the region is vital if we are to maintain the viability of this critical sector. Government agencies should be approving projects of this nature.

The Northern Rivers region needs to plan ahead for future employment and training opportunities for our young community. We need to offer options to the young members of the community to encourage them to stay in the area. This proposal will provide these incentives.

They do a great job, and generally every attendee is very aware of the environment and the need to protect it. With so much decline in the economy and natural resources declining more and mire regions need to ensure a financial contribution - this festival promotes and attracts people to the region in a very positive way!

P766	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Susan Dodds (support)	As a Byron local and business manager I have experienced first hand the financial impact and hardship the current financial crisis has had on buisnesses in Byron this past twelve months. Losing out on events such Splendour this year has added to this burden. Byron businesses thrive on events such as Splendour, Bluesfest and tourists to create jobs, sustain local small business and unite a community. The complaints by the few residents nearby (and I am aware not all residents- as some right next to the zoned site are welcoming the proposal) that the noise and ecological impact should prevent this event from happening is not acting in the best interest of the wider community. Please bring Splendour home With so many people worried about finding a job in this current economic climate a project of this nature in a regional area is a breath of fresh air. As a community we need to get behind this fantastic concept and support it. As a government, there is a huge moral responsibility to approve it just on employment considerations alone. So many people in the northern rivers area rely on the tourism industry for their bread and butter. These days most businesses are geared towards the tourism dollar and if past trends are anything to go by this industry sector will continue to play a key role in the region?s economic fortunes. The people behind Parklands will play a dominant role in growing and sustaining the tourism industry and we should all get behind them to make this project a reality.

The North Byron Parklands has gone to great lengths to protect and enhance the biodiversity values of the site. This is shown by the Parklands group developing a environmental, health and safety management manual to identify, manage and monitor all the identified potential ecological risks.

P769	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Justyn Burrows (support)	The Byron Shire Council identifies the creative industries sector as one of nine key focus areas which foster the prosperity of the shire through sustainable job creation. The shire has a long history of creative endeavours and this needs to be built on by supporting such proposals as that put forward by North Byron Parklands. Generating a large number of jobs for the area, it is extremely important that it is approved. Doing so will provide a broad spectrum of the local community with jobs that would otherwise not be available. While much is made of the Marshallâ□™s Ridge wildlife corridor the actual reality of this corridor is that it is fragmented, populated with noxious weeds and is great need of repair. Restoration will only come about by the landowner, in this instance being North Byron Parklands. This business has committed through its vegetation management plan and a number of other measures to reduce forest fragmentation by planting endemic species which will no doubt improve fauna movement opportunities. P773	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from heidi shaw (support)	From an environmental perspective North Byron Parklands has ticked all the boxes in terms of assessment and risk mitigation. This was also reflected when they originally applied for a one off trial event through Byron Shire Council. Not only did the Council approve the DA but none of the state government agencies including National Parks and Wildlife Services objected to the application. One of the most significant benefits for the environment coming out of this application is the proponentâ□™s willingness to transfer a net 28ha of very high quality bushland to National Parks that would see an expansion of the Billinudgel Nature Reserve. Ignoring the significant value of the land proposed to be handed over, it has to be acknowledged that this is probably the only opportunity to expand this nature reserve as it is bound by private landowners who are unlikely to give away their land. P774	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Belinda Formby (support)	From an environmental perspective one of the most pleasing aspects of the North Byron Parklands proposal is the distinct lack of permanent infrastructure and the need to clear trees. The most significant infrastructure relates to the underpass under Jones Road and would involve removal of about 50 trees (which are mainly Camphor). With such minimal works required to make an events venue it means that the vast majority of the site shall remain as is, which is a real positive. It is very exciting to see a proposal of this sort in the Byron Shire. North Byron Parklands will see a rise in employment opportunities for residents, a boost in sales in local businessâ□™, and a influx of cultural events. This development will make the north coast a definite stop on the tourist map for years to come. Lets get behind it!

With its focus on cultural heritage management, North Byron Parklands can instill in the region a greater understanding of our local indigenous and non-indigenous ancestry. The cultural centre would provide unique learning opportunities for staff.

As time progresses and we all grow up a little with our environmental outlook, we will recognise that being successful in business can also mean being successful with the ecology and environment in which your business operates. Those in the position to bring about such change should be encouraged, not demonised. With such high unemployment rates in the Northern Rivers I am sure that the government is aware just how important it is to approve such a project as North Byron Parklands. The North Byron Parklands people have obviously spent a lot of time developing up systems and processes to manage the environment in which they operate. It impressive to see that during events they propose to have a wildlife rescue crew in place in the unlikely event that an animal is in need of help. What other proposal has this level of thought and detail when it comes to considering the health of the environment? The size of events that could occur at Parklands is appropriate and sustainable. If we consider that eventually there might be up to three major events in a given year one can start to get an idea of the breadth and depth of environmental information that will be captured by these environmental audits. North Byron Parklands will be able to build up an impressive database of fauna and flora observations and will then be able to adjust or modify their policies and procedures to better protect environmental values moving forward. North Byron Parklands proposed event site will provide a wide variety of employment opportunites to the reagion that is said to increase as the years go on. North Byron Parklands require staff to maintain and manage the event site plus each event organistaion will be looking to the local comunity for employees for their events.

North Byron Parklands would offer a large array of employment opportunities that I think will benefit Byron and the Northern Rivers region. Bring on the variety and the possibilities!

That and you have the chance to be responsible for one of the great music festivals of winter and in the southern hemisphere! Byron is a brilliant location and the residents I am sure are suffering in loss in income over the couple of weeks a year that the festivals aren't in place. It is just another reason to showcase the beauty of the northern coast of NSW.

P786	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Karl Williams of Star Track Express (support)	North Byron Parklands is likely to be the first arts and music venue that has prepared an environmental, health and safety management manual to manage interactions with the environment. The environmental standard from this manual provides a range of measures designed to protect the environment. Given that the activity in question is low impact the environmental management of the site will easily achieve positive benefits for the environment. In regards to the environment the proposed North Byron Parklands site is some 256ha in size and the proponents have committed to only every using a maximum of some 100ha thus leaving large tracts of the property for wildlife functions. I think the environmental controls under their environmental, health and safety management manual will also reduce impacts and make this a leading sustainable outdoor event venue. The North Byron Parklands proposed plan for a permanent cultural venue is inspiring for young people. Regional areas such as ours can really benefit our youth by inspiring them to participate and to achieve. It is important to remember that North Byron Parklands proposal is all about the environment, events, culture, celebration and the youth. Splendour in the grass brings into the Byron Bay shire a large injection of tourist dollars each year, whilst people are in the area for the festival, they also see how beautiful the Byron Bay shire, which leaves them wanting to come back for more, and therefore, injecting more tourist dollars into the local economy, which helps local residents. Please allow Splendour In The Grass to put on this amazing cultural and artistic festival. Yours Sincerely, Karl Williams

This program gives the youth valuable work experience in customer service, hospitality, event management etc. Splendour in the Grass also offers work to musicians, live sound engineers, and event managers. Not only have the North Byron Parklands organisation developed what must be considered worldâ□™s best practice environmental management systems and processes, they are also planning to have an environmental education program folded into the mix for good measure. A number of events proposed to be held at this site already have initiatives such as Eco Cops which are undergraduate environmental science students who promote environmental programs and accepted practices to patrons while at an event. This is a very good proactive measure. While it is understood that business ventures such as North Byron Parklands are focussed on turning a profit, it is also really pleasing to see they have expended a fair amount of effort on protecting and enhancing the environment in which they operate. Initiatives such as light spill and noise management and inducting all staff and contractors is a great way to protect the environment and demonstrate a commitment to sustainable best practice. P789	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Emily Allen (support)	I have been to many outdoor event sites over the past number of years but have never come across a venue that has taken so much effort to develop and implement so many environmental programs. When events are not being staged at North Byron Parklands, there will be reafforestation and noxious weed removal activities. When there are events at this site they will need to comply with a bunch of strict environmental policies and procedures. If only other venues could take a leaf out of these guyâ□™s book. In NSW and particularly regional areas such as Byron and the wider northern rivers area securing a job is becoming very difficulty. While other states prosper, NSW has fallen behind and the people are the ones suffering. The NSW Government needs to approval projects such as North Byron Parklands because it will create employment and this in turn is good for our state economy. Because of the extensive level of community consultation undertaken by North Byron Parklands I have a very clear understanding of the benefits and issues of the application. The high quality of information has allowed people locally and in the wider community to make an informed decision about the proposal and I would imagine that the responses are overwhelmingly in favour of the project. It shows that when a company is prepared to go that one step further in communicating to the public that people can fully understand all of the issues and also the steps to be put in place to manage them. The shire has a long history of creative endeavours and this needs to be built on by supporting such proposals as that put forward by North Byron Parklands. Generating a large number of jobs for the area, it is extremely important that it is approved. Doing so will provide a broad spectrum of the local community with jobs that would otherwise not be available. The local area needs an established cultural event site! North Byron Parklands offers a a sustainable cultural event site for the community to meet together to celebrate, learn, collaborate, and showcase contemporary practices. From an environmental perspective one of the most pleasing aspects of the North Byron Parklands proposal is the distinct lack of permanent infrastructure and the need to clear trees. The most significant infrastructure relates to the underpass under Jones Road and would involve removal of about 50 trees (which are mainly Camphor). With such minimal works required to make an events venue it means that the vast majority of the site shall remain as is, which is a real positive.

Events offer a broad range of jobs to lots of individuals. From labourers to sound engineers or caterers to sign writers these jobs are very much needed in NSW. We have already lost a lot of our events to Queensland and other states and we must grasp this huge employment opportunity with both hands. The government has an obligation to approve this project.

Its time for our state government to get behind the music and arts industries and support them by helping to provide a much needed sustainable outdoor music and arts venue. Its time to approve North Byron Parklands.

I know many people in the creative industries sector that will benefit financially and through greater exposure to their markets if the North Byron Parklands project is approved. In NSW we need more venues so it makes good sense to approve this project.

Cultural arts and music festivals are enjoyed by many people in Byron. People travel from near and far to attend. It would be such a shame to not offer this anymore.

In relation to environmental management one of the biggest impacts on fauna in this region is dogs. It is pleasing to note that the environmental, health and safety management manual strictly prohibits dogs from entering the site. Just this one initiative will help to reduce pressure on the environment, not to mention the host of other excellent environmental programs they have documented.

The northern rivers area over the past 20 years has been built on the back of the creative arts industry, so it is vital that the government support this industry by promptly approving the North Byron Parklands project.

Musicians and artists are finding it harder to earn a living by way of live performances because so many venues are being closed down around the country. It is time the government supported this industry and one way of showing this support is by approving the North Byron Parklands venue.

The Byron Shire and Northern Rivers region is home to an aging community with a high proportion of retirees. This means many young people are leaving the area to seek education and employment opportunities elsewhere. North Byron Parklands would help provide employment for many of these young people, thus giving them a reason to stay in the area.

P801	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Luke Ryan (support)	Splendour is the greatest festival in this country and too many things are becoming to over legislated, let this be one that isn't! 12 months after the first major event at the proposed event site, North Byron Parklands will commission an in depth ecological impact assessment and review. Any reasonable recommendations arising from the review with be processed through the environmental, health and safety manual created especially for the parklands site. This will ensure the site will be ecologically sound for future major events. Young people need to gather together to celebrate. Young people will gather regardless of cultural event venues. P802	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Arron Schwartz (support)	Regarding the ecology of the site, having undertaken a number of vegetation and flora surveys, including detailed koala surveys, the North Byron Parklands group have completed more ecological assessments than other traditional developments such as housing, industrial estates, and quarries. This demonstrates that the organisation is serious about identifying and managing ecological issues. With so many people worried about finding a job in this current economic climate a project of this nature in a regional area is a breath of fresh air. As a community we need to get behind this fantastic concept and support it. As a government, there is a huge moral responsibility to approve it just on employment considerations alone. The North Byron Parklands proposal should be approved because of the incredible opportunities it provides both the community and the business community. I can imagine that this cultural arts and music event venue as becoming the preeminent cultural hub of Northern NSW and will do a lot to attract dollars from Queensland and Victoria. This project should be approved. The Byron region can market itself as a hub for events and creativity if this proposal is approved. P803	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Adrian Ayre of Ayre Media (support)	North Byron Parklands have already undertaken a number of detailed fauna and flora surveys across the proposed site. On top of this they have now committed to undertaking environmental audits for all major events (before, during after). Such information will be very valuable in terms of fine tuning the current environmental policies and procedures and will dramatically reduce any associated environmental pressures. While some states can fall back on the mining industry, NSW has to rely on a variety of industry sectors to help fund the expansion of the state. Opportunities for employment such as that being offered by the North Byron Parklands proposal is vital to the sustainability of regional areas. Most outdoor events pay little attention to the environment so it is heartening to see an organisation such as North Byron Parklands who have put a considerable effort into developing specific procedures and work instructions designed to protect the environment. These guys even have an environmental incident notification system which will document all issues and the steps taken to resolve them. Events are really important for young people today. Coming together is not just about getting drunk and partying. Itâ□™s about helping each other and learning. Having a permanent cultural event venue in nature is the way forward for young people. P806	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Tiarne Sparks of BRING SPELDOUR HOME (support)	Most of the jobs on the North Coast rely on industries such as tourism and retail trade. To help expand the employment base there is a strong need to nurture an array of other industries such as artistic and creative industries. North Byron Parklands is a project that will greatly assist in providing a diversity in job prospects and on this basis should be actively supported by government and the wider community. Why not? P807	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Iggy Hicks (support)	The demographic characteristics of the region are indicative of an aging community with a high proportion of retiree aged people and many young people aged 20 to 34 leaving the area to seek education and employment opportunities. North Byron Parklands would definitely help provide employment for many of these young people. With respect to the environment one of the risks that the people from North Byron Parklands have identified is the potential for road kill associated with traffic movements before, during and after an event. As such they have implemented a number of requirements including on site environmental inductions, speed limiting devises, signage and a wildlife rescue team. This is just one example of the sound environmental practices they are proposing. It is vitally important to the local tourism industry that the North Byron Parklands project is approved. This single project is expected to attract hundreds of thousands of visitors to the region each and every year. The flow on effects to the tourism operators will be significant and will also help to grow much needed jobs for the region. The North Byron Parklands proposal supports jobs and training in the areas of bush regeneration and sustainability management. These are great industries for the Byron shire. P811	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Shannon Wilson (support)	Tourism is a massive income generating activity for Byron Shire and the northern rivers region. The Parklands proposal will bring tens of thousands of people to the area, all of whom will need accommodation and food. It is so important that this project be approved because the positive economic impacts are so significant. The North Byron Parklands proposal has considered both indigenous and non-indigenous issues associated with the proposal. In particular, Parklands has worked closely with the local Tweed/Byron Aboriginal Land Council and has complemented a number of archaeological digs to help determine the significance of parts of the site. It is pleasing to see that certain areas of the site will become ?out of bounds? to protect identified areas of importance. We should all be getting behind such an exciting project which offers businesses and the community a range of important social and economic benefits. The beauty of this application is that it also strongly supports the environment. Why would you knock back something as amazing as this, I don't see why it shouldnt go ahead? P813	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Sally Nugent (support)	I just heard about the proposed North Byron Parklands and got instantly excited. What better way to show the beauty Byron Bay has to offer? This proposal brings in new hope to Byron Bays local economy, small businesses that currently struggle will thrive on the additional revenue. Getting people to spend their tourism dollar in the northern rivers area is extremely important for sustaining the local and regional tourism businesses. On average Australian holiday makers will spend about $130 per night staying in the northern rivers region and the North Byron Parklands project is going to attract between 80,000 and 120,000 people to the area each year. The economic income will be huge and will support a whole host of tourism based organisations. Events are not just for young people, they are for keeping us young. P816	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Sophie Gustafsson Myburgh (support)	One of the big threats to the environment is the accidental ignition of a bushfire. The North Byron Parklands group have identified this as a risk and have developed a Bushfire Standard that address this issue and places a number of carefully considered controls such as provision of bulk water tanks, having the Rural Fire Brigade onsite during major events and the provision of fire extinguishers, etc. I am confident that with such measures and given most of the site is cleared that this issue will be well managed. The creative industries sector is becoming a leading sector in employment opportunities in the northern rivers region and is responsible for providing an ever increasing number of people with jobs. Music and arts should be embraced in our society because of these jobs that it creates and North Byron Parklands if it is approved is set to be a big employer for the area. As such I am very much in favour in seeing this project get up and running. Jobs are incredibly important and this project has my full support. It is important to offer creative opportunities to the youth of Byron By and surrounding areas. The Splendour in the Grass festival provides the â□œSplendid Initiativeâ□□ offers ten young and emerging artists the chance to immerse themselves in an intense residential laboratory experience that develops their arts practice.

P818	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Nathan LEWIS (support)	To Whom It May Concern, I wish to add another voice to those already in favor of returning Splendour back to its homeland. As part of Parklands proposed construction phase they have developed a range of measures to mitigate environmental impacts. These include erecting signage, supervision of minor tree removal by a qualified ecologist, compensatory planting, fauna culverts and the installation of sediment and erosion control systems. This is just for the construction component of the project. The environmental controls proposed for the operation phase are even more detailed and impressive. I am so excited about the opportunities that a proposal of this nature can offer to both the people of Byron Shire and the north coast. It provides for employment, tourism and cultural experiences that unfortunately over the past years have been driven out of the shire by small minded local politics. North Byron Parklands can play a massive role in putting this beautiful area firmly back on the tourist map. This application should be approved. Splendour 2010 was managed as well as it could have been given the circumstances, however, it did not compare to the success of previous years when held in northern NSW. P819	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Jarad Wallace (support)	With regards to the wildlife corridor it has been significantly degraded over many decades due to such activities as primary production and agriculture. As such it is currently highly fragmented and in need of revegetation. The Parklands proposal will see the biggest rehabilitation program the area has seen for the past 5o years as a result of its detailed vegetation management plan which will result in thousands of trees being planted in strategic areas. The establishment of the North Byron Parklands will generate additional employment opportunities for the management and maintenance of the venue and event organisations. I think this is a really important benefit for this region. As far as most events go in terms of protecting the environment, they put in place things like recycling bins and the like. North Byron Parklands is proposing a bunch of environmental controls that go way above and beyond such simple measures. I am extremely impressed with the environmental programs they are going to commit to and have every confidence that the environment will be more than adequately protected. Governments and politicians must become more aware of the types of projects that will generate such youth oriented jobs and the North Byron Parklands proposal is a very good example. Reported to generate in excess of 200 jobs it seems to make sense to me to approve it. North Byron Parklands will add incentive to the young people of the Northern Rivers to stay in the local area. P821	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Marni Peardon (support)	There is a real need to reverse the current trend of closing music and artistic venues around the State of NSW. Music and arts are so important to the health and vibrancy of a community and I urge you to approve the North Byron parklands venue. Holding events requires a sound understanding of a whole range of logistical and safety aspects. The team behind North Byron Parklands have been responsible for putting together numerous large events over the past decade. In each case they have successfully managed important aspects such as noise, ecology, lighting, traffic and crowd and safety management. The systems and procedures they have developed will assist any event being held at the North Byron Parklands site which I believe will help result in successful events. How many fantastic cultural events and opportunities has NSW lost to other states, particularly to Queensland and Victoria over the past decade. Lets not make the same mistake again by letting the North Byron Parklands project slip through our fingers. They have the necessary controls, they have an amazing cultural vision and they stand to tip the artistic balance back into the favour of this State. We should all get behind it.

				North Byron Parklands is a really exciting idea and I really hope it goes ahead. My friends and I will definitely attend events held at the venue. I think this venue would make a huge difference to our community.

P822	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from leanne atkinson (support)	The North Byron Parklands proposal will provide social benefits across the Northern Rivers area. Cultural events are valued by the community as it adds to their quality of life and creates improved social cohesion, lifestyle improvement, diversity, and increased creativity. This proposal will expose our young people to an array of new job options including event management, live sound engineering, various publicity/promotional roles, and traffic management. The region needs new jobs and North Byron Parklands will provide this. Holding events requires a sound understanding of a whole range of logistical and safety aspects. The team behind North Byron Parklands have been responsible for putting together numerous large events over the past decade. In each case they have successfully managed important aspects such as noise, ecology, lighting, traffic and crowd and safety management. The systems and procedures they have developed will assist any event being held at the North Byron Parklands site which I believe will help result in successful events.

P823	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Katie Balestrin (support)	North Byron Parklands through their application to the Department of Planning have more than adequately shown that this is an organisation willing to go beyond compliance in terms of environmental management. What other development would have documented in such detail the plans, policies and procedures to effectively manage all issues covering the environment. Everything from lighting and erosion control through to revegetation and fauna audits has been included in their impressive management manual. The North Byron Parklands proposal is a fantastic idea offering various ways to boost and maximize our local economy. North Byron Parklands has a strong focus on cultural management. This is shown by the proposed cultural centre aimed to provide learning opportunities for staff to build a greater understanding of our local indigenous and non-indigenous ancestry. P824	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Alexander Turner (support)	The North Byron Parklands site has been subject to intensive agricultural activities and land clearing practices for many, many years. The North Byron Parklands will be the first proposed land use that will actually see a huge improvement in environmental outcomes due to planned mass plantings, fauna habitat creation and most importantly no event activities for some 260 plus days a year. This has to be seen as a major positive outcome for the local environment. As part of Parklands proposed construction phase they have developed a range of measures to mitigate environmental impacts. These include erecting signage, supervision of minor tree removal by a qualified ecologist, compensatory planting, fauna culverts and the installation of sediment and erosion control systems. This is just for the construction component of the project. The environmental controls proposed for the operation phase are even more detailed and impressive. I think the North Byron Parklands gives the youth of today a chance to enjoy new experiences. This is what we need to keep the youth entertained and focused.

Regeneration work is needed before the site can be considered ecologically valuable and the North Byron Parklands team plan to plant a significant number of native trees to achieve this. North Byron Parklands is proposing a sustainable arts and music venue that will provide significant employment opportunities to a range of people in the Byron and Northern Rivers region. Many of the jobs will suit our younger people and with an aging demographic this is vital to ensuring that there is an opportunity to up skill our youth in a growing and profitable sector. Jobs are very important. Getting people to spend their tourism dollar in the northern rivers area is extremely important for sustaining the local and regional tourism businesses. On average Australian holiday makers will spend about $130 per night staying in the northern rivers region and the North Byron Parklands project is going to attract between 80,000 and 120,000 people to the area each year. The economic income will be huge and will support a whole host of tourism based organisations. Bring Splendour home to the Northern Rivers! Letâ□™s look after the young people in the community by approving this proposal. North Byron Parklands will create new and exciting training and employment opportunities for them.

On top of this they have now committed to undertaking environmental audits for all major events (before, during after). Such information will be very valuable in terms of fine tuning the current environmental policies and procedures and will dramatically reduce any associated environmental pressures. North Byron Parklands have undertaken a detailed economic impact assessment which bodes well for the tourism industry should it be approved. Projections show that tens of thousands of people will visit the area each year and this influx of people will significantly bolster our tourism businesses. With so many locals relying on the tourism industry for their income, such a project is very welcome.

P827	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Kendall Turner (support)	North Byron Parklands staff have already developed a solid working relationship with National Parks ground staff, local indigenous bush regeneration teams and local council ecology staff. To date North Byron Parklands has planted thousands of trees adjacent to the Billinudgel Nature reserve, installed dozens of nest boxes to improve habitat opportunities and removed thousands of metres of barbed wire fencing to reduce impediments to fauna movement. These actions have been completed prior to asking for any sort of approval for use of the land as an outdoor venue. What is truly impressive is the number of environmental programs this organisation is proposing should the application be approved. North Byron Parklands will help build up creative industries in the Northern Rivers area. Establishing a permanent and sustainable cultural event venue will lead to an array of new job opportunities and in time create economic growth in the region. Having a world class facility like North Byron Parklands in the Byron region is an awesome opportunity. Any place in Australia would welcome that.

For 9 years, the festival was held at Belongi, and every year it provided the Byron Bay community, and the surrounding northern river area with an influx of business. If the sight is not approved, many local businesses will not survive, Bryon Bay needs Splendour as much as Splendour needs it. The amount of detail that the proposal provides relating to sustaining the environment at the new sight, and the precautions that the team is willing to go to in ensure that it maintains its current conditions should be more that enough incentive to approve the application. As an attendee at this years festival at Woodford, I saw first hand the underlying importance that the festival organisers viewed the environment, and I can assure you that they would make sure to their full abilities as a business, and as people that an environmentally conscience sight is maintained throughout an entire year. The proposed North Byron Parklands project will result in a massive increase in the number of domestic visitors to the area and to a lesser degree, will also attract many overseas visitors. As this industry is so important to the region it makes good sense for this project to proceed. In relation to employment, with so many people moving to coastal areas governments have a role as planners to ensure that industries and the jobs they bring are afforded every opportunity of success. Parklands is one such business that makes good sense to locate in the Byron Shire.

Apart from the amazing environmental initiatives covering fauna and flora across the North Byron Parklands site that have been developed, these guys are also going to tackle waste, recycling and the minimisation of resource consumption through a number of proven effective measures. They have even proposed a â□œresource centreâ□™ where materials can be stored and used again and again for other events. This is a pretty impressive effort I must say.

P833	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Peter Arnold of CANSTAR CANNEX (support)	To Whom it May Concern, As an avid supporter of all things Splendour for over 5 years, I feel it is essential that Splendour be granted approval to the proposed sustainable venue for all to enjoy in years to come. Splendour is a rite of passage for a wide variety of young people, and remains the highlight of the year for many older people who return religiously to catch up with old friends whom escape them in the ever busier rest of the year. Doing this in the Byron Shire is all part of the fun. A wholeheartedly support the movement, for these reasons, and the ones listed below. While the North Byron Parklands has some valuable forest cover it must be recognised that much of this cover resembles a patch quilt, the result of decades of agricultural use. To improve the value and function of these disparate forest blocks there is a much needed planting program similar to that proposed by the North Byron Parklands people to join and reconnect the vegetation. This one action of mass plantings will absolutely improve the environmental value across and adjacent to the proposal.

The environmental assessments completed for the North Byron Parklands proposal identify a number of threatened species which in the most part are winged creatures. It is most likely (based on research elsewhere) that these creatures will move away from any light and noise disturbances for no longer than for the period they occur. This is particularly true if there are specific food resources available on the North Byron Parklands site. So, once an event is finished it is more than probably that these animals will return and enjoy the quietude that will prevail at this site for the vast majority of the year.

It is time to support the creative industries which so many people rely on for a living. I have attended 7 past Splendour in the Grass festivles. I have found the festivle to be among the best run festivles in Australia. The organisers work hard to ensure clients are well catered for. Furthermore, there is a clear emphasis on environmental management and minimal environmental impact. I would be in support of Splendour establishing it's own home in Northern NSW. P835	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Pip Gibbins (support)	From an environmental perspective one of the most pleasing aspects of the North Byron Parklands proposal is the distinct lack of permanent infrastructure and the need to clear trees. The most significant infrastructure relates to the underpass under Jones Road and would involve removal of about 50 trees (which are mainly Camphor). With such minimal works required to make an events venue it means that the vast majority of the site shall remain as is, which is a real positive. Lets set the standard for cultural event venues in Australia. North Byron Parklands will be a sustainable cultural venue that be available for future generations to enjoy. The Byron Shire usually promotes sustainable developments, so why not support this one? Byron Bay has so much beauty to offer and the North Byron Parklands is a perfect way to put it on display. P836	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Anthony van Westreenen (support)	One of the big threats to the environment is the accidental ignition of a bushfire. The North Byron Parklands group have identified this as a risk and have developed a Bushfire Standard that address this issue and places a number of carefully considered controls such as provision of bulk water tanks, having the Rural Fire Brigade onsite during major events and the provision of fire extinguishers, etc. I am confident that with such measures and given most of the site is cleared that this issue will be well managed. This proposal has endless opportunities including networking with Southern Cross University and SAE, furthering our regions creativeness, training and work experiences. The North Byron Parklands proposal combines ecology with events and community giving. This is exactly the type of training and experience we need our young people to look to. The North Byron Parklands proposed plan for a permanent cultural venue is inspiring for young people. The North Byron Parklands has gone to great lengths to protect and enhance the biodiversity values of the site. This is shown by the Parklands group developing a environmental, health and safety management manual to identify, manage and monitor all the identified potential ecological risks.

Holding events requires a sound understanding of a whole range of logistical and safety aspects. The team behind North Byron Parklands have been responsible for putting together numerous large events over the past decade. In each case they have successfully managed important aspects such as noise, ecology, lighting, traffic and crowd and safety management. The systems and procedures they have developed will assist any event being held at the North Byron Parklands site which I believe will help result in successful events.

In relation to fauna movement across and adjacent to the North Byron Parklands site one huge positive that the proposed underpass will bring is that it will provide much needed north-south migration on either side of Jones Road. This road currently acts as a barrier for such fauna movement and denies many creatures the opportunity to take advantage of the RTA?s expensive fauna overpass straddling the Pacific highway. This alone will provide significant fauna movement routes for many creatures.

The North Byron Parklands proposal supports jobs and training in the areas of bush regeneration and sustainability management. These are great industries for the Byron shire. Not only can we nurture our event and cultural tourism industries but these green industries are areas where we can excel. North Byron Parklands can be a showcase for our local talents.

P842	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Bianca Reed (support)	As far as most events go in terms of protecting the environment, they put in place things like recycling bins and the like. North Byron Parklands is proposing a bunch of environmental controls that go way above and beyond such simple measures. I am extremely impressed with the environmental programs they are going to commit to and have every confidence that the environment will be more than adequately protected. P843	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Tim Hansen (support)	The Marshallâ□™s Ridge wildlife corridor on the proposed site is actually damaged, populated with harmful weeds, and is in need of restoration. North Byron Parklands has committed through its vegetation management plan and a number of other measures to reduce forest fragmentation by planting endemic species which will help improve fauna movement opportunities. The various Aboriginal clans in and around the proposed North Byron Parklands site have had a long history in this area and for this reason the Parklands people have spent a lot of time consulting indigenous groups and organisations to work out how best to assess the site for significance. This process was done in a cooperative framework with the results that potential sites of significance will be protected through fencing and other means. The archaeological report does not identify any aspects of the project that will have a negative impact on important cultural artefacts or values.

While it is understood that business ventures such as North Byron Parklands are focussed on turning a profit, it is also really pleasing to see they have expended a fair amount of effort on protecting and enhancing the environment in which they operate. Initiatives such as light spill and noise management and inducting all staff and contractors is a great way to protect the environment and demonstrate a commitment to sustainable best practice.

P845	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Lorien Waldron (support)	It is pleasing to note that the North Byron Parklands proposal includes a requirement for wildlife rescue personnel to be present during all major events. This requirement means that there is a very capable first response team on hand to deal with trapped or injured wildlife. It is also an excellent opportunity for these people to monitor any interactions between people and fauna. Such data can then be used to modify and improve processes and procedures for future events. North Byron Parklands proposal to rejuvenate the Parklands site has lead to the employment of local indigenous bush regeneration teams to plant thousands of trees across their site. This program is an ecellent way to involve the traditional land owners in the area and helps to restore the site and set the foundations for a sustainable event site. The youth in the Northern Rivers area need a place to gather and have a good time and North Byron Parklands provides this. Imagine all the new opportunites and experiences young people have if this proposal is approved. They will be exposed to some of the best contemporary musical acts from all around the world and be open to new employment opportunities at all events.

This means that all forested areas will be protected via fencing and security measures and effectively be out of bounds for event usage. This is a very positive initiative from an environmental point of view. Four of the owners of North Byron Parklands each have a long and successful history in hosting events. The size of these events have ranged from 5,000 to 50,000 people and have occurred at a number of venues across NSW. P848	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Katrina Hume of Wonder Snow Northern Rivers (support)	There is a real need to reverse the current trend of closing music and artistic venues around the State of NSW. Music and arts are so important to the health and vibrancy of a community and I urge you to approve the North Byron parklands venue. The average annual household income in the Byron Shire and the Northern Rivers is substantially lower than NSW (approximately $55,000 compared with $71,000) and as such employment opportunities generated by North Byron Parklands would be incredibly valuable to the Shire and the region. I know so many people that will benefit from the North Byron Parklands proposal. Some will be directly employed while others will have a venue to showcase their skills and talents.

				This project has the potential to benefit thousands of people.

P849	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Ellie Keane (support)	North Byron Parklands organisation are serious about managing the ecological issues at the event site. An example of this is the fact that there have been more vegetation and flora surveys conducted at the site than housing, industrial estate, and quarries assessments.
				North Byron Parklands already has demonstrated its commitment to working with local indigenous people through the ongoing relationship it has developed with the Madhima Gulgan rainforest regeneration team. Together these two groups have been responsible for planting over 7,000 native trees across the site and the construction and placement of more than 25 nest boxes for resident fauna.
				Many projects that have occurred across the North Coast of NSW have not undertaken even a tenth of the assessment, survey and fauna/flora investigations as that completed by North Byron Parklands. The extensive vegetation mapping and the identification of fauna across the site, coupled with two koala surveys (which did not locate any koalas) demonstrate the level of environmental assessment undertaken by this organisation. When you then add the environmental controls as proposed in their environmental, health and safety management manual it is evident that these people are very serious about environmental management.

Having a permanent cultural event venue in nature is the way forward for young people. Youth events are not just about getting drunk and partying. Cultural events are very important for young people, they help develop social skills, they encourage creative thinking, and create a sense of community.

P851	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Claire Cook (support)	The local area needs an established cultural event site! North Byron Parklands offers a a sustainable cultural event site for the community to meet together to celebrate, learn, collaborate, and showcase contemporary practices. North Byron Parklands is a good thing and should be supported by the local government! The Parklands team have a long and enviable track record in developing and holding outdoor cultural arts and music events. They have a massive amount of experience in managing all aspects of events including noise, traffic and other aspects which if not correctly managed, have the ability to impact on surrounding land uses. It is pleasing to know that competent event managers will be involved with all events held at North Byron Parklands. The North Byron Parklands has been subjected to decades of intensive cattle farming and sugar cane crops. With respect to the cattle, they have severely degraded the understory of most of the forest blocks on the site. The Parklands proposal includes a commitment to fence off many of the forest blocks which will allow a much needed fauna understory to regrow and which will provide habitat for many vertebrate creatures.

P853	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Ron Dalgleish of Vimex Project Management (support)	I believe the concept is sound and should be given an opportunity to go ahead. The advantages of improving employment and bringing many visitors who become regulars to the area along with looking after the country should be considered as possible and real advantages. I agree and support the following submission points: North Byron Parklands is all about hosting lots of different events, all of which require people to work in a variety of jobs. One event can employ hundreds of people for a period of time and in an area such as Byron such job opportunities are very welcome. We should be doing all we can to make this project happen. It is vitally important to the local tourism industry that the North Byron Parklands project is approved. This single project is expected to attract hundreds of thousands of visitors to the region each and every year. The flow on effects to the tourism operators will be significant and will also help to grow much needed jobs for the region. There?s not as much employment opportunities as people think around Byron Bay, the majority of the businesses are non employing, sole operators. North Byron Parklands would improve these numbers for the youth and others. I am sure the organizers of North Byron Parklands will ensure the project works and is sustainable and within the law. It is unlikely that many other developments on the north coast have gone into this much detail and conducted such thorough assessments. This shows the level commitment the North Byron Parkland have for this site. With jobs hard to come by in regional areas such as the north coast it is really important that projects that can provide ongoing employment opportunities are considered seriously by government. I believe that North Byron Parklands is one such venture that can offer many people a job opportunity. All along the NSW coastline tourism businesses provide employment and income to hundreds of thousands of individuals and families. This is certainly the case in the northern rivers region where the proposed North Byron Parklands is to be located. Such an important project as this which will see up to 150,000 extra visitors coming to the region per annum which will translate into massive business benefits for the local tourism sector. Having a world class sustainable event venue at the Parklands site will put The Northen Rivers on the map as a leader in sustainable venue developments. This will also aid local educational institutes such as Southern Cross University in environmental related courses by having a world class example in the area.

If such a proposal was to operate for 20 weeks a year then they may cause some environmental problems but given that it will only run for 20 days a year and the rest of the time it will be just farm land, then this has to be a strong positive. Many supposed local environmental groups have been invited to visit the North Byron Parklands and to participate in the public tree planting days that have been held over the past few years. Unfortunately none of these groups have actually converted their words into action by helping to repair this partially degraded site. The local indigenous bush regeneration team on the other hand has been responsible for planting thousands of trees in key locations and is another example of the Parklands group working with its community. One of the strengths of the North Byron Parklands proposal is the flow on benefits it will provide to the tourism industry. Still picking itself up after the recent financial crisis the tourism industry stands to be the big winner from this proposal. With massive visitor generating capacity this proposal will singlehandedly attract hundreds of thousands of people to the region, all of whom need accommodation and other services once they arrive.

The North Byron Parklands sounds really interesting and exciting.

It is planned that a number of events will occur at the North Byron Parklands site each year and one of these takes place in winter when tourism businesses are struggling to cover costs. Building a dedicated events venue in the Byron Shire will have a number of very positive benefits for the tourism industry which is a good thing. The size of the events that could occur at Parklands may reach 50,000 people but compared to other large events in Australia this is quite conservative. North Byron Parklands will only host events that fit into the appropriate and sustainable parameters. There are not very many opportunities in the far north coast for professional event management experience, especially since Splendour in the Grass has (hopefully temporarily!) gone. When there are events at this site they will need to comply with a bunch of strict environmental policies and procedures. If only other venues could take a leaf out of these guyâ□™s book. The events that will be held at North Byron Parklands will bring thousands of new people to the Byron Bay area each year. This can only benefit the local businesses.

In NSW and particularly regional areas such as Byron and the wider northern rivers area securing a job is becoming very difficulty. While other states prosper, NSW has fallen behind and the people are the ones suffering. The NSW Government needs to approval projects such as North Byron Parklands because it will create employment and this in turn is good for our state economy.

P864	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Zoe Harbour (support)	This proposal is a no brainer for the young. The jobs are vital, not just at North Byron Parklands but in all the industries which this proposal supports and makes more viable. The proposal is a tangible cultural asset for our young people. I support this application on a number of fronts but particularly on environmental management and social benefits flowing to the community. It is time to support the creative industries which so many people rely on for a living. With so many people relying on tourism for their income on the North Coast there is an obligation on behalf of state and local governments to help facilitate any reasonable project that will increase domestic and international tourist numbers. North Byron Parklands will become the home of a number of major events with each of these events attracting thousands of people to the area. This will greatly enhance the local tourism sector. Job opportunities are a hot topic on the north coast. If North Byron Parklands is not allowed to operate in Byron Shire then these jobs will be lost to another region willing to approve this project. The creation of local jobs is a very important one.

If such a proposal was to operate for 20 weeks a year then they may cause some environmental problems but given that it will only run for 20 days a year and the rest of the time it will be just farm land, then this has to be a strong positive. If you were to analysis the professional event management of such festivals as Splendour in the Grass, Parklife, Shore Thing and Sunset Suns one could only come to the conclusion that these event operators are up there with the most successful an well managed events in Australia. Each of these events are owned and operated by members of North Byron Parklands. Their expertise in event management is second to none and will be a huge advantage in ensuring the events hosted at this site are done so in a compliant and professional way. The tourism business in Byron Bay this past winter has been very slow. With the loss of Splendour in the Grass to Queensland a much needed income stream during winter evaporated. The North Byron Parklands proposal would see a number of major events coming to the region and with it a significant increase in demand for tourist accommodation and activities. The project should be carefully considered by the government due to the much needed injection of funds into the local tourism industry. Many families would benefit from this proposal.

There are not very many opportunities in the far north coast for professional event management experience, especially since Splendour in the Grass has (hopefully temporarily!) gone. North Byron Parklands would provide excellent training in the area of event management. With up twenty days of events a year and the associated planning involved with both large and small events, this is a jewel for retaining our young professionals and aspiring professionals.

P867	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Vanessa Steinmann (support)	The preservation of ecological values in and adjacent to the Parklands site is an important aspect of the proposal. Much scientific assessment has been undertaken which highlights that the site has been heavily degraded over the past number of years and that the proposed fauna and flora management plans will greatly enhance and protect existing identified values. The North Byron Parklands Project will actually result in a positive impact on the environment and should be supported. North Byron Parklands has provided employment opportunities for local indigenous people through the planting of over seven thousand native trees across the site. The Madhima Gulgan rainforest regeneration team has also built and implemented over 25 nest boxes for local wildlife across the site. The environmental assessments completed for the North Byron Parklands proposal identify a number of threatened species which in the most part are winged creatures. It is most likely (based on research elsewhere) that these creatures will move away from any light and noise disturbances for no longer than for the period they occur. This is particularly true if there are specific food resources available on the North Byron Parklands site. So, once an event is finished it is more than probably that these animals will return and enjoy the quietude that will prevail at this site for the vast majority of the year.

It is important for the youth to be proud of where they come from. The Parklands proposed cultural event site is something that the youth are behind and should be supported by the local government.

P869	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from danielle driver (support)	The economic benefits from this proposal will be felt locally and regionally. 210 full time equivalent jobs will be created by the approval of this application. It is estimated that the total multiplier effect of the enterprise operating at capacity is $192.6 million annually. Many who attend Splendour choose to stay a few days before or after the festival and make more of a holiday of their time in the area. The spin-off from such visitors must be extremely valuable to the many other tourism-related businesses in and around Byron Bay. It therefore stands to reason that a venue hosting a number of other events throughout the year would create many more opportunities, including employment, for the local community and the local economy.

Its time for our state government to get behind the music and arts industries and support them by helping to provide a much needed sustainable outdoor music and arts venue. Its time to approve North Byron Parklands.

I know many people in the creative industries sector that will benefit financially and through greater exposure to their markets if the North Byron Parklands project is approved. In NSW we need more venues so it makes good sense to approve this project.

For the educational institutions around the Northern Rivers this proposal is very positive. Students can study at the institution and gain on the ground experience and field work at North Byron Parklands in areas such as ecology management, event management and traffic management.

P872	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Ari Fester (support)	It is a good sign when an organisation like North Byron Parklands goes the extra mile to assess the possible environmental impacts related to their project. North Byron Parklands have proposed extensive mitigation strategies that will protect the ecological attributes and improve the overall environmental viability of the site. This high level of planning should be encouraged. North Byron Parklands is set to play a pivotal role in strengthening the north coast tourism sector by attracting so many people to the area. These visitors will likely stay one or two days either side of the event they are attending and will no doubt spend a lot of money on goods and services and tourism related activities. This project should be supported from the Premier down, because the regions stands to gain so much from it. P873	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Camilla Brydon (support)	The various Aboriginal clans in and around the proposed North Byron Parklands site have had a long history in this area and for this reason the Parklands people have spent a lot of time consulting indigenous groups and organisations to work out how best to assess the site for significance. This process was done in a cooperative framework with the results that potential sites of significance will be protected through fencing and other means. The archaeological report does not identify any aspects of the project that will have a negative impact on important cultural artefacts or values. Apart from the amazing environmental initiatives covering fauna and flora across the North Byron Parklands site that have been developed, these guys are also going to tackle waste, recycling and the minimisation of resource consumption through a number of proven effective measures. They have even proposed a â□œresource centreâ□™ where materials can be stored and used again and again for other events. This is a pretty impressive effort I must say. The extended ?rest? time that the event site will receive will not only aid the direct sight but encourage growth in the surrounding nature reserves. With so many people worried about finding a job in this current economic climate a project of this nature in a regional area is a breath of fresh air. As a community we need to get behind this fantastic concept and support it. As a government, there is a huge moral responsibility to approve it just on employment considerations alone. The culture of Byron Bay is fantastic and eye opening. This proposal will share our culture with all. North Byron Parklands offers young people the opportunity to interact with the wider community. This requirement means that there is a very capable first response team on hand to deal with trapped or injured wildlife. It is also an excellent opportunity for these people to monitor any interactions between people and fauna. Such data can then be used to modify and improve processes and procedures for future events. North Byron Parkland events are not only for the youth, theyâ□™re for the whole community, young and old. Events can rejuvenate and reconnect us with our elders and our juniors. NSW has a golden opportunity to be a leader in outdoor event venues by approving North Byron Parklands. P882	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Tarnia Croft (support)	With the documenting of environmental requirements through the North Byron Parklands management manual it is clear that a very high level of commitment has been made to protect and enhance the environment. Take for example the requirement to have a 30 metre buffer between the car park and adjoining nature reserve. This initiative will protect the nature reserve and will allow for the buffer area to slowly regenerate back to its former bushland status. North Byron Parklands has worked closely together with the local Aboriginal Land Council to conduct a number of archaeological digs to help determine the culturally significant parts of the site. These digs have lead to certain areas of the site to become â□œout of boundsâ□□ to maintain and protect identified cultural areas of importance. I must say that protecting the environment is high on my list and that holds when talking about festival event sites. The North Byron Parklands team have obviously spent considerable time and money developing up an environmental, health and safety management manual designed to identify, manage and monitor environmental performance. This as far as I understand is a first for such cultural activities and should be strongly supported. North Byron Parklands proposal is a tangible cultural asset for the youth. P883	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Adam Douglas (support)	It is widely acknowledged that the operators of the Woodfordia venue where Splendour in the Grass was held in 2010 know how to set up and manage a sustainable, enviro-conscious venue. It is my understanding that the highly respected operators of that venue, the Woodford Folk Festival, fully support the plans for North Byron Parklands and are actively advising the NBP owners on the best way forward. This is a major stamp of approval for the whole project, given that Woodfordia stands to lose the very valuable Splendour business should NBP come into being With jobs hard to come by in regional areas such as the north coast it is really important that projects that can provide ongoing employment opportunities are considered seriously by government. P884	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Grace Ng (support)	The North Byron Parklands project has undertaken both a high level of fauna and flora assessments and a comprehensive environmental risk assessment process. As a result they have developed a management manual that covers a range of aspects including the environment. They have even developed a standalone environmental induction form for all staff and contractors that clearly stipulates what can and cannot take place while on site. These measures are very impressive indeed. It is certainly a place where people can get together and enjoy the beauty that Byron Bay has to offer. There are not very many opportunities in the far north coast for professional event management experience, especially since Splendour in the Grass has (hopefully temporarily!) gone. North Byron Parklands would provide excellent training in the area of event management. With up twenty days of events a year and the associated planning involved with both large and small events, this is a jewel for retaining our young professionals and aspiring professionals. P885	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Hannah seltin (support)	We must bring Splendour home! The opportunities the Parklands event site will bring to the youth in the community such as employment and culture are just too good to miss. Most of the jobs on the North Coast rely on industries such as tourism and retail trade. To help expand the employment base there is a strong need to nurture an array of other industries such as artistic and creative industries. North Byron Parklands is a project that will greatly assist in providing a diversity in job prospects and on this basis should be actively supported by government and the wider community. One of the unintended effects on the environment from outdoor events is light spill. So it is pleasing to see that this issue is well addressed under the organisationâ□™s environmental standard. This standard requires lighting to be directed downwards, away from forest blocks, using low pressure sodium vapour lights where possible, and turning off light towers at a certain time of night. Such measures will greatly reduce disturbances to any localised fauna during such events. Name: Hannah seltin

P886	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Gemma Humphrys (support)	I have been to many outdoor event sites over the past number of years but have never come across a venue that has taken so much effort to develop and implement so many environmental programs. When events are not being staged at North Byron Parklands, there will be reafforestation and noxious weed removal activities. When there are events at this site they will need to comply with a bunch of strict environmental policies and procedures. If only other venues could take a leaf out of these guyâ□™s book. The North Byron Parklands proposal is a fantastic idea offering various ways to boost and maximize our local economy. P887	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Heather Ball (support)	It is a good sign when an organisation like North Byron Parklands goes the extra mile to assess the possible environmental impacts related to their project. North Byron Parklands have proposed extensive mitigation strategies that will protect the ecological attributes and improve the overall environmental viability of the site. This high level of planning should be encouraged. North Byron Parklands already has demonstrated its commitment to working with local indigenous people through the ongoing relationship it has developed with the Madhima Gulgan rainforest regeneration team. Together these two groups have been responsible for planting over 7,000 native trees across the site and the construction and placement of more than 25 nest boxes for resident fauna. If we consider the important contributions to the region made by tourism such as income generation and the creation of jobs then it follows that approving projects that have a large positive effect on increasing tourism rates will be a good thing for the State of NSW. North Byron Parklands will be responsible for drawing thousands of intra and interstate visitors, most of whom will require accommodation, food and beverages and in many instances will actively pursue some form of paying leisure activity. To let such an opportunity pass the region by would be a crime. The Byron region can market itself as a hub for events and creativity if this proposal is approved. They would be very fortunate indeed to have the training and skills benefits of such a proposal. P888	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Erin McMahon of Warner Music (support)	The North Byron Parklands people have obviously spent a lot of time developing up systems and processes to manage the environment in which they operate. It impressive to see that during events they propose to have a wildlife rescue crew in place in the unlikely event that an animal is in need of help. What other proposal has this level of thought and detail when it comes to considering the health of the environment? With the recent global financial crisis many businesses in the area were hit hard. Employment opportunities diminished and there is a real need for viable employers such as the proposed North Byron Parklands. The jobs this group will provide are going to be extremely important to many families and individuals. Imagine an events venue that can attract tens of thousands of visitors to a rural area.

				Imagine an events venue that has investigated and assessed all aspects of its operation and developed best practice policies and procedures. Imagine an events venue that generates lots of employment opportunities and provides much needed income for a range of businesses. P889	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Amy Bartolacci of N/A (support)	There has been a long search for a permanent cultural events site in the Byron Shire and while the Blues Festival has purchased a site (after the North Byron Parklands property was bought) they have always committed to only hosting the Blues Fest there. So there is still a very strong need for another site that can cater to a range of cultural and community events. The North Byron Parklands site is the perfect choice conveniently located in the North of the Shire and should be supported by all levels of government. It will be a huge benefit for the area on so many fronts.
				While the North Byron Parklands has some valuable forest cover it must be recognised that much of this cover resembles a patch quilt, the result of decades of agricultural use. To improve the value and function of these disparate forest blocks there is a much needed planting program similar to that proposed by the North Byron Parklands people to join and reconnect the vegetation. This one action of mass plantings will absolutely improve the environmental value across and adjacent to the proposal.

With such a massive projected increase in the population of the north coast how are people expected to find meaningful work? It is only by governments thinking outside of the traditional tourism and accommodation industries and assisting other sectors to operate that such jobs can be made available. Parklands covers an industry that can provide lots of local jobs.

P890	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Michelle Wilson (support)	The North Byron Parklands proposal will see the largest restoration program the region has seen for the past 5o years as a result of its highly detailed vegetation management plan which will result in 1000?s of trees being strategically planted around the site. The wildlife corridor has been significantly degraded over many decades due to primary production and agriculture activities. This means the corridor is currently very fragmented and in real need of revegetation. Tourism is one of the biggest employers in the northern rivers area and the North Byron Parklands proposal is projecting that it will bring thousands of people to the area each year. Increasing visitor numbers to the area is the surest way to help grow these tourism businesses particularly when the proposal shall bring large numbers of people to the area in traditionally slow times. P894	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Amelia Hinschen (support)	It would a great shame for the Byron Shire to loose the Splendour in the Grass festival. After speaking to many local businesses while in Byron, it was made clear that the local community needs the festival, as it offers a huge amount of business for local shop owners, pubs, hotels, motels and camping grounds. Many of these local business will feel great financial pressure if Splendour in the Grass does not return to the region. While much is made about the supposed wildlife corridor in and around the North Byron Parklands site the fact is that much of the vegetation is patchy and degraded. The Parklands people have gone to great lengths to ensure that temporary events are managed in a way to maintain and improve fauna movement. For example only placing temporary fencing just before events commence is one such initiative that will help greatly with this issue.

Understanding the likely impacts of the Parklands proposal can be assisted from looking at similar experiences in other parts of the world. For example, ?I learned that creative, progressive communities understand both the tangible and intangible effects of music festivals. With time and encouragement, communities that embrace and cultivate relationships and partnerships offering financial and operational support, ultimately realise substantial economic and fiscal impacts. Furthermore, many articles reported that quality of life improves along with the chance to attract and retain young, innovative people to a community?. (Donna Sue Sanders ? P898	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Amos Paterson (support)	Parklands ensures that the site area and the adjoining sites are protected by maximising â˜down timeâ™ between large events. This allows time for the rehabilitation of habitats and normal ecosystems processes. In relation to employment and wages the Byron local government area has one of the Stateâ™s lowest average wages, around $31,000 per annum. A proposal like Parklands will bring much needed employment opportunities top the area and will likely provide a large number of positions that are well paid. The Shire and the region need these opportunities. Byron has had a long history in hosting world class events however such events have always been held at suboptimal venues, most of which are no longer available. The Blues Festival has recently bought a site but it is my understanding that they only intend to hold this one event there each year. The North Byron Parklands on the other hand is significantly bigger and has better highway access and large buffers around the site to contain noise and other activities. Approving this development will allow the growth of such popular events as Splendour in the Grass to stay in NSW. How many more venues have to close in NSW before people realise that soon there will be nowhere to play live music or undertake live performances. The NSW Government has a responsibility to ensure that well managed live outdoor venues are made available to the people of this state. P899	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Sharne O'Reilly (support)	The North Byron Parklands will see the subject site have the opportunity to maintain low impact activity that will see the site unoccupied for some 75% of the year. By allowing the sites land to rest both fauna and flora growth wil be encouraged across and adjacent to the site. This restoration will be a positive outcome for the local environment. In NSW and particularly regional areas such as Byron and the wider northern rivers area securing a job is becoming very difficulty. While other states prosper, NSW has fallen behind and the people are the ones suffering. The NSW Government needs to approval projects such as North Byron Parklands because it will create employment and this in turn is

Tourism is a massive income generating activity for Byron Shire and the northern rivers region. The Parklands proposal will bring tens of thousands of people to the area, all of whom will need accommodation and food. It is so important that this project be approved because the positive economic impacts are so significant.

This proposal really needs to be approved by local government. The young people in the region will support the events and attend. Some will be able to be employed by the event managers for what seems like an endless possibility of jobs, from musicians performances to fence erecting.

P901	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Mark Stansall (support)	It is widely acknowledged that the operators of the Woodfordia venue where Splendour in the Grass was held in 2010 know how to set up and manage a sustainable, enviro-conscious venue. It is my understanding that the highly respected operators of that venue, the Woodford Folk Festival, fully support the plans for North Byron Parklands and are actively advising the NBP owners on the best way forward. This is a major stamp of approval for the whole project, given that Woodfordia stands to lose the very valuable Splendour business should NBP come into being North Byron Parklands proposal to rejuvenate the Parklands site has lead to the employment of local indigenous bush regeneration teams to plant thousands of trees across their site. This program is an ecellent way to involve the traditional land owners in the area and helps to restore the site and set the foundations for a sustainable event site. What other venue in NSW or Australia for that matter has paid so much attention to environmental management considerations as North Byron Parklands? If all other outdoor venues even implemented 10% of what Parklands is proposing then we would see a massive improvement in environmental outcomes for this important creative industries sector. P902	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from emma smith of N/A (object)

My concerns are as follows;

? Major traffic congestion a real issue along the tweed valley way, local residents of Ocean Shores, Billinugel, South Golden Beach and Yelgun will be seriously affected.

? As a local nurse manager, the surrounding hospitals have the facilities or associated staffing levels to cope with the potential presentations that would arise from an addition 50,000 people in the area. Most emergency departments (Byron, Mullumbimby, Murwillumbah and Ballina are only staffed with one nurse at night and have limited ability to call in additional staff at short notice. Local police and ambulance would also experience the same difficulties with staffing and resources.

? There is already a dedicated festival site at Tyagrah, why replicate when there is no need.

? The request for unlimited doof parties is unacceptable. The noise and disruption this will cause to local residents let alone increase alcohol and drug use. Also with a lack of public transport to the area, this may increase drink driving incidents and illegal overnight camping Biodiversity and habitat will be significantly affected due to excessive amounts of people and noise pollution.

The Byron Parklands proposal makes statements of what it will achieve and complete without stating how or giving us measurable KPI`s that it will measure and evaluate its actions by. Its fine to say they will ensure traffic congestion is kept to a minimum but how?? And what happens if their attempts don?t work.

I am deeply opposed to thos submission and hope that you consider the points raised above.

P903	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Mark Lister (support)	Tourism is one of the biggest employers in the northern rivers area and the North Byron Parklands proposal is projecting that it will bring thousands of people to the area each year. Increasing visitor numbers to the area is the surest way to help grow these tourism businesses particularly when the proposal shall bring large numbers of people to the area in traditionally slow times. It seems the majority of locals support this with a very vocal minority of conservative people against. P904	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Michelle McKinnon (support)	The local indigenous stakeholders do not object the North Byron Parklands proposal. There is actually an ancient Aboriginal meeting place situated in the local area that contains the Parkland site. This site will be a cultural meeting place for all Australians. Please allow the North Byron Parklands proposal to go through, it would mean so much to me and all my friends. North Byron Parklands is set to play a pivotal role in strengthening the north coast tourism sector by attracting so many people to the area. These visitors will likely stay one or two days either side of the event they are attending and will no doubt spend a lot of money on goods and services and tourism related activities. This project should be supported from the Premier down, because the regions stands to gain so much from it. Having a world class sustainable event site will encourage the youth be become more creative, help them build towards a career in a creative industry and boost creative industries in on the Northern Rivers. P905	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Vanessa Valente (support)	North Byron Parklands would offer a large array of employment opportunities that I think will benefit Byron and the Northern Rivers region. Bring on the variety and the possibilities! On the subject of employment the north coast has a long history of hosting many different types of events. These events provide jobs for so many people and in an area where paying the rent or mortgage is tough it is critical that these events are allowed to continue. Without a permanent event area these jobs will be lost to the north coast. As such this project should be approved on the employment prospects it brings, let alone any other positives. With the documenting of environmental requirements through the North Byron Parklands management manual it is clear that a very high level of commitment has been made to protect and enhance the environment. Take for example the requirement to have a 30 metre buffer between the car park and adjoining nature reserve. This initiative will protect the nature reserve and will allow for the buffer area to slowly regenerate back to its former bushland status. Name: Vanessa Valente

P906	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Kristy Harrison of In Touch Muscle Therapies (support)	We should all be getting behind such an exciting project which offers businesses and the community a range of important social and economic benefits. The beauty of this application is that it also strongly supports the environment. The income generated by the North Byron Parklands event site will link together economic growth and development within the arts, cultural and recreational services industries which has the potential to become a significant economic contributor within the Byron Shire economy over the long term. North Byron Parklands has adopted the mapped wildlife corridors from the Byron Biodiversity Conservation Strategy as areas to be dedicated to restoration of tree cover. Future plantings and assisted regeneration in these areas will significantly increase opportunities for movement of terrestrial fauna. This is only one of many significant programs that will enhance the environment within and adjacent to the site. P909	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Renae Hughes (support)	The Byron Shire Council identifies the creative industries sector as one of nine key focus areas which foster the prosperity of the shire through sustainable job creation. The shire has a long history of creative endeavours and this needs to be built on by supporting such proposals as that put forward by North Byron Parklands. Generating a large number of jobs for the area, it is extremely important that it is approved. Doing so will provide a broad spectrum of the local community with jobs that would otherwise not be available. The tourism industry is a major contributor to the Byron Shire and Northern Rivers Region economies, with visitation critical to the regionsâ□™ economies. The proposed North Byron Parklands project will result in a massive increase in the number of domestic visitors to the area and to a lesser degree, will also attract many overseas visitors. As this industry is so important to the region it makes good sense for this project to proceed. How many more venues have to close in NSW before people realise that soon there will be nowhere to play live music or undertake live performances. The NSW Government has a responsibility to ensure that well managed live outdoor venues are made available to the people of this state.

The local indigenous stakeholders have been consulted and do not object to the Parklands proposal. It is fitting that the Parklands proposal will now serve as a cultural meeting place for all people. Letâ□™s look at the environmental initiatives that the North Byron Parklands people are proposing. Environmental auditing, sediment and erosion control, fencing to keep people in cleared areas, buffer zones to forests, inductions for workers, wildlife rescue teams during events, traffic control, no dogs, etc. The list of requirements they have placed on event operators is substantial and will result in a well protected environment. Four of the owners of North Byron Parklands each have a long and successful history in hosting events. The size of these events have ranged from 5,000 to 50,000 people and have occurred at a number of venues across NSW. The skills, systems and processes they have developed over the past 12-15 years will no doubt be employed to ensure all events held at North Byron Parklands are done so in a professional and safe manner.

I would have to say the journey there and back from Sydney, and the event itself, formed one of the happiest weeks of my life. I think city dwellers need to expreience what is beyond the city fringe. All too often festivals are locked into small spaces within the cities, where there are too many rules, not enough space, and minor glimpses of nature. Woodford was a beautiful place to be for this year's festival, and I'm sure the new location will be just as good. It is definitely a festival that should continue, and in a permanent home, so it can be more efficiently and sustainably run. I also believe the festival should be brought back to Byron to promote Tourism and Culture in the area. Tourism and culture are so important to the area as many business rely on the influx of visitors for large events like Splendour to keep thier business alive. Visitors travel to the area to experience the laid back, coastal culture of the region. Parklands will bring more and more cultural events to the area and in turn boost tourism. The North Byron Parklands proposal should be approved because of the incredible opportunities it provides both the community and the business community. I can imagine that this cultural arts and music event venue as becoming the preeminent cultural hub of Northern NSW and will do a lot to attract dollars from Queensland and Victoria. This project should be approved.

Recent statistics provided by the Australian Bureau of Statistics indicate that the majority of business owners in the shire and the northern rivers area do not employ people, rather these businesses are operated by self employed people. As such it is obvious that other larger organisations and businesses are required to employ people in a are in much need of job opportunities. North Byron Parklands is one such organisation proposing to generate up to 200 full time equivalent positions. Such a project is extremely important to this area.

The North Byron Parklands proposal is exactly the thing we need as a society, especially for our economy. It will develop opportunities that will help small businesses which will ensure the continued success of Byron Bay.

P914	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Rachel Dennis (support)	Employment is a major consideration for this proposal, bringing new hope to the people that want to stay within Byron. - I strongly agree with this statement As a prior resident of Byron Shire, who still has family there and visits regularly, relocating Splendour this year had a definite delibilitating effect on the already struggling Byron Bay. In winter when there are less tourists, Splendour is an excellent source of revenue for the Shire. It has a lot to offer the community in terms of trade and job opportunities. From an environmental perspective North Byron Parklands has ticked all the boxes in terms of assessment and risk mitigation. This was also reflected when they originally applied for a one off trial event through Byron Shire Council. Not only did the Council approve the DA but none of the state government agencies including National Parks and Wildlife Services objected to the application. P916	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Karen Lindsay of Ambition Entertainment (support)	The North Byron Parklands people have obviously spent a lot of time developing up systems and processes to manage the environment in which they operate. It impressive to see that during events they propose to have a wildlife rescue crew in place in the unlikely event that an animal is in need of help. What other proposal has this level of thought and detail when it comes to considering the health of the environment? The local indigenous bush regeneration team has been responsible for planting over seven thousand trees in key locations of the site. This is an example of the Parklands group working with its community to provide new employment opportunities. As far as most events go in terms of protecting the environment, they put in place things like recycling bins and the like. North Byron Parklands is proposing a bunch of environmental controls that go way above and beyond such simple measures. P920	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Matt Basso (support)	Parklands ensures that the site area and the adjoining sites are protected by maximising â˜down timeâ™ between large events. This allows time for the rehabilitation of habitats and normal ecosystems processes. Many people worry about financially providing for themselves and their families and rightly so. Today it is hard to find a good job outside of the larger cities. When a project such as North Byron Parklands comes along offering lots of jobs it is surely in the interests of working families that such a project is located in a regional area. It is time to support the creative industries which so many people rely on for a living. I know of many businesses that rely on events for a large part of their income. P924	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Marley McKean (support)	The creative industries sector is becoming a leading sector in employment opportunities in the northern rivers region and is responsible for providing an ever increasing number of people with jobs. Music and arts should be embraced in our society because of these jobs that it creates and North Byron Parklands if it is approved is set to be a big employer for the area. As such I am very much in favour in seeing this project get up and running. Jobs are incredibly important and this project has my full support. Tourism is one of the biggest industries and employers on the north coast and is very important to many people for their livelihood. In recent years the industry has struggled somewhat due to economic and other factors and there is a real need to do everything possible to help support this industry. One such way is to approve projects such as that proposed by North Byron Parklands. This project alone will generate massive visitor numbers and importantly the influx of the visitors will occur during traditional slow times such as winter, etc. It would be a shame to see this proposal turned down, it doesn?t take much to see that the North Byron Parklands proposal has so much to offer. The team behind North Byron Parklands have been responsible for putting together numerous large events over the past decade. In each case they have successfully managed important aspects such as noise, ecology, lighting, traffic and crowd and safety management. The systems and procedures they have developed will assist any event being held at the North Byron Parklands site which I believe will help result in successful events. While it is understood that business ventures such as North Byron Parklands are focussed on turning a profit, it is also really pleasing to see they have expended a fair amount of effort on protecting and enhancing the environment in which they operate. Initiatives such as light spill and noise management and inducting all staff and contractors is a great way to protect the environment and demonstrate a commitment to sustainable best practice.

If we want to maintain a vibrant creative culture in our region we need to support proposals such as this. North Byron Parklands sustainable event space is a perfect way to sustain and encourage our local creatuve culture.

Local businesses that in our beachside town which have in the past struggled to stay afloat in the winter months have built their business up in past years to rely on the influx of tourists in these slower months. This year, with Splendor gone, along with the GFC they have suffered tremendously. We need Splendour in Lennox to get us through winter.

P928	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Michelle Starr (support)	I welcome the establishment of a cultural event site for the region. The Parklands site will host the community to come together for a wide range of community events to celebrate, to learn, for ceremonies, to exchange ideas, to demonstrate and showcase new ways of doing things. This is good for people and the planet. North Byron Parklands offers music, entertainment and culture for our locals and tourists. What a great way of putting Byron Bay more on the map. P930	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Lauren O'Neill (support)	The long history of agricultural activities at the North Byron Parklands site has lead to the degradation of much of the site over the past 50 years. Regeneration work is needed before the site can be considered ecologically valuable and the North Byron Parklands team plan to plant a significant number of native trees to achieve this. If employment growth in regional areas is a key concern of the NSW state government then approving this project makes sound economic sense. There is a real need to support organisations that can provide such large numbers of jobs in an area where finding a good job can be very difficult. It seems to me that approving this project will have lasting long term benefits for job prospectors in this rural region. The approval of the North Byron Parklands proposal will benefit the local creative industries and lead to a new wave of new and interesting jobs for the youth in the area. P934	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Cassie Gribben (support)	Regarding the ecology of the site, having undertaken a number of vegetation and flora surveys, including detailed koala surveys, the North Byron Parklands group have completed more ecological assessments than other traditional developments such as housing, industrial estates, and quarries. This demonstrates that the organisation is serious about identifying and managing ecological issues. Recent statistics provided by the Australian Bureau of Statistics indicate that the majority of business owners in the shire and the northern rivers area do not employ people, rather these businesses are operated by self employed people. As such it is obvious that other larger organisations and businesses are required to employ people in a are in much need of job opportunities. North Byron Parklands is one such organisation proposing to generate up to 200 full time equivalent positions. Such a project is extremely important to this area.

				The North Byron Parklands has been subjected to decades of intensive cattle farming and sugar cane crops. With respect to the cattle, they have severely degraded the understory of most of the forest blocks on the site. The Parklands proposal includes a commitment to fence off many of the forest blocks which will allow a much needed fauna understory to regrow and which will provide habitat for many vertebrate creatures. A place to meet new people, attend exciting events, and be creative and inspired? I say bring it on North Byron Parklands! P935	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from rachael menday (support)	Environmental audits are a requirement for all major events. If we consider that eventually there might be up to three major events in a given year one can start to get an idea of the breadth and depth of environmental information that will be captured by these environmental audits. North Byron Parklands will be able to build up an impressive database of fauna and flora observations and will then be able to adjust or modify their policies and procedures to better protect environmental values moving forward. This proposal has endless opportunities including networking with Southern Cross University and SAE, furthering our regions creativeness, training and work experiences.

Tourism is a massive income generating activity for Byron Shire and the northern rivers region. The Parklands proposal will bring tens of thousands of people to the area, all of whom will need accommodation and food. It is so important that this project be approved because the positive economic impacts are so significant.

Splendour in the Grass has provided high level training in a range of areas and has supported youth initiatives such as Splendid. With the expanded suite of festivals at North Byron Parklands the opportunities for work experience and training are invaluable.

Until very recently NSW has had a less than enviable employment track record mainly due to the global financial crisis. While it looks like the state is on the mend we still need to ensure that projects like North Byron Parklands are given the green light because of the large number of regional jobs it will provide. Please approve this proposal! It is very important for our young people to feel like the region has new and exciting jobs to offer for them. P940	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Lachlan Byrne (support)	It is a good sign when an organisation like North Byron Parklands goes the extra mile to assess the possible environmental impacts related to their project. North Byron Parklands have proposed extensive mitigation strategies that will protect the ecological attributes and improve the overall environmental viability of the site. This high level of planning should be encouraged. The future of Byron Bay. Employment, community benefits, fun. Need we say more? If you consider that businesses involved in the tourism industry that will directly benefit from the North Byron Parklands project stretch from Ballina in the South to Tweed Heads in the North, not to mention all the inland towns, then it becomes very apparent that this project will benefit a very wide area. Supporting the tourism industry should be a key concern for the government and approving projects of this nature would help the industry considerably. What better way to show the beauty Byron Bay has to offer? If you speak to anyone these days, getting and keeping a job is high up on the list. Regional areas generally do not have a range of diversified industries to choose from. Parklands is offering meaningful and interesting work, particularly for young people and should be welcomed with open arms. The northern rivers area over the past 20 years has been built on the back of the creative arts industry, so it is vital that the government support this industry by promptly approving the North Byron Parklands project. Musicians and artists are finding it harder to earn a living by way of live performances because so many venues are being closed down around the country. It is time the government supported this industry and one way of showing this support is by approving the North Byron Parklands venue. It would be a huge shame for this venue proposal not to be approved. P946	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Cory Burnett (support)	One of the big threats to the environment is the accidental ignition of a bushfire. The North Byron Parklands group have identified this as a risk and have developed a Bushfire Standard that address this issue and places a number of carefully considered controls such as provision of bulk water tanks, having the Rural Fire Brigade onsite during major events and the provision of fire extinguishers, etc. I am confident that with such measures and given most of the site is cleared that this issue will be well managed. On the subject of employment the north coast has a long history of hosting many different types of events. These events provide jobs for so many people and in an area where paying the rent or mortgage is tough it is critical that these events are allowed to continue. Without a permanent event area these jobs will be lost to the north coast. As such this project should be approved on the employment prospects it brings, let alone any other positives. One of the things that really impresses me about the North Byron Parklands proposal is the level of community consultation they have undertaken. From public planting days to environmental forums, site tours to newsletters and letter box drops, these guys have demonstrated a strong willingness to communicate and listen to the community. I feel they have shown that they will more than adequately manage a variety of events at this site in a professional and sensitive manner. P949	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Rob Jefferson of Solid Entertainment (support)	The model of a green sustainable event space which gives back to its host community is a model we need, particularly if we want to sustain a vibrant creative culture. From Tweed Heads to Evans Head most of the business activity revolves around tourism. To have a cultural arts and music venue such as North Byron Parklands which will bring tens of thousands of visitors to the area and with the vast majority seeking accommodation over multiple nights is a huge economic windfall. Such a proposal would seamlessly add to the already diversified tourism offerings of the region and should be approved. P950	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Hannah Schultz of NA (support)	The tourism industry is a major contributor to the Byron Shire and Northern Rivers Region economies, with visitation critical to the regionsâ□™ economies. The proposed North Byron Parklands project will result in a massive increase in the number of domestic visitors to the area and to a lesser degree, will also attract many overseas visitors. As this industry is so important to the region it makes good sense for this project to proceed. Byron and the Northern Rivers unemployment rate (around 8.5%) is substantially higher than the NSW average of 5.5%. We need businesses such as Parklands who can provide employment opportunities to many in our community, particularly young people. The North Byron Parklands proposal sounds amazing, exactly what Byron and its community needs. P951	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission (object)	I am writing to express my view that this proposal is not suitable for this area and therefore I am asking that it NOT be approved. The events that will take place if this proposal is approved will ruin the social, environmental and cultural aspects of this area. As a resident of North Ocean Shores I am very concerned about the negative impact this proposal will have on the infrastructure of our local area with increased traffic and large numbers of people putting a strain on our local resources. I am also opposed to Music Festivals being held on this site as the local people in this area have seen first hand the negative outcomes associated with such events. eg: Excessive drinking of alcohol and drug taking by teenagers, antisocial behaviour such as street brawls resulting in serious personal injuries, assaults and a lawless attitude adopted by intoxicated groups who know they outnumber the local police. Outcomes such as these have proven that large events such as Music Festivals have the potential to destroy the delicate social framework of communities. Wildlife in the Yelgun area will also be badly affected by loud music. Surely this goes against any guidelines or policies written for the Nature Reserve which is in close proximity to the proposed site. Please consider the negative impact this proposal will have on the Ocean Shores, Sh Golden Beach, Billiudgel and Brunswick Heads communities and DO NOT approve this proposal. I would prefer my name NOT to be given to the proponent, authorities or placed on the Department's website. P953	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Rebecca Hickey (support)	North Byron Parklands is all about hosting lots of different events, all of which require people to work in a variety of jobs. One event can employ hundreds of people for a period of time and in an area such as Byron such job opportunities are very welcome. We should be doing all we can to make this project happen. The North Byron Parklands proposal supports jobs and training in the areas of bush regeneration and sustainability management. These are great industries for the Byron shire. Not only can we nurture our event and cultural tourism industries but these green industries are areas where we can excel. North Byron Parklands can be a showcase for our local talents. The North Byron Parklands project will incorporate a range of best practice environmental policies and procedures including a requirement to only host events in the existing cleared areas of the site. This means that all forested areas will be protected via fencing and security measures and effectively be out of bounds for event usage. This is a very positive initiative from an environmental point of view.

This demonstrates that the organisation is serious about identifying and managing ecological issues. Holding events requires a sound understanding of a whole range of logistical and safety aspects. The team behind North Byron Parklands have been responsible for putting together numerous large events over the past decade. In each case they have successfully managed important aspects such as noise, ecology, lighting, traffic and crowd and safety management. The systems and procedures they have developed will assist any event being held at the North Byron Parklands site which I believe will help result in successful events. Splendour In The Grass is an important music festival and holiday experience for Australians of all ages, it needs a home. Not only one that is beautiful and spacious and can handle the amount of people and the noise, as the proposed site can but also one that is sustainable. Splendour, like the animals living on this land who will not be put out by the amount of space taken each year on the 660 acres, needs a home and a stable habitat to survive.

P958	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Dave Hampson (support)	The events management industry is extremely competitive and only those operators who can demonstrate compliance with all facets of event management time and time again are the ones that survive. The owners of North Byron Parklands each have years of experience in bringing highly successful events to the general public. Such an outstanding track record only comes about through effective, well planned event policies and procedures. With so many people relying on tourism for their income on the North Coast there is an obligation on behalf of state and local governments to help facilitate any reasonable project that will increase domestic and international tourist numbers. North Byron Parklands will become the home of a number of major events with each of these events attracting thousands of people to the area. This will greatly enhance the local tourism sector. P959	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Victoria Forrester (support)	On the subject of employment the north coast has a long history of hosting many different types of events. These events provide jobs for so many people and in an area where paying the rent or mortgage is tough it is critical that these events are allowed to continue. Without a permanent event area these jobs will be lost to the north coast. As such this project should be approved on the employment prospects it brings, let alone any other positives. Lets set the standard for cultural event venues in Australia. North Byron Parklands will be a sustainable cultural venue that be available for future generations to enjoy. The Byron Shire usually promotes sustainable developments, so why not support this one? The North Byron Parklands will offer new experiences for people to explore and enjoy. P960	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from natalie Koning (support)	The Parklands development proposes the planting of thousands of extra trees that will improve habitat for wildlife and boost the ecological integrity of the Billinudgel Nature Reserve and the â□˜coast to hinterlandâ□™ wildlife corridor. The extended â□˜restâ□™ time that the event site will receive will not only aid the direct sight but encourage growth in the surrounding nature reserves. With jobs hard to come by in regional areas such as the north coast it is really important that projects that can provide ongoing employment opportunities are considered seriously by government. I believe that North Byron Parklands is one such venture that can offer many people a job opportunity. How many times have we heard of organisations saying that they have incorporated environmental considerations into their business activities? Well here is a project that seems to have been built from the ground up based on ensuring that environmental impacts are mitigated or reduced and that positive environmental outcomes such as tree planting and habitat creation are maximised. Great job parklands. I attended Splendour in the grass for first time last year and had the best time at any music festival I have ever attended! Byron bay and Splendour go hand in hand and it would be a shame to lose such a wonderful thing!!!! Please don't let us lose the only festival of its kind!!!! The North Byron Parklands proposal sounds amazing, exactly what Byron and its community needs. Tourism is one of the biggest industries and employers on the north coast and is very important to many people for their livelihood. In recent years the industry has struggled somewhat due to economic and other factors and there is a real need to do everything possible to help support this industry. One such way is to approve projects such as that proposed by North Byron Parklands. This project alone will generate massive visitor numbers and importantly the influx of the visitors will occur during traditional slow times such as winter, etc. Byron and the surrounding areas relies substantially on a range of small businesses and cottage industries to employ the people that live in this community. There are not many large employers such as what North Byron Parklands would become should it be approved. I think we need to approve and support these types of projects in regional areas to ensure there are enough job choices available to people. Name: Paige Campbell

P964	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Denise Nessel (object)	I have this to say about this proposal: > The applicants' promises of significant economic benefit are based on operating at full capacity for the next five years, but the only event they have on their calendar or in the works is Splendour in the Grass. Their Economic Impact Assessment is filled with unsupported claims and projections involving other festivals, but it is highly doubtful that they will be able to fulfill their economic promises. > The proposal includes details that directly contravene the Land and Environment Court's ruling of May 2009. In fact, the applicants are proposing the very thing that the judge said they could not do legally and should not try to do in the future. > The proposal is not aligned with Byron Shire Council's Events Policy or Byron Shire's

Tourism Management Plan.

> The land is on a flood plain with a history of frequent, unpredictable, and massive flooding and a history of dangerous and toxic peat fires that burn for months. Their plans to reduce bushfire risk, mitigate the effects of flooding, and evacuate the site in an emergency are all woefully and scarily inadequate.

> The applicants' plans to manage traffic and contain noise are also seriously inadequate. The expected traffic and noise will have severe negative impacts on the daily lives of nearby residents of north Byron Shire and south Tweed Shire.

> Splendour in the Grass is associated with heavy use of alcohol and drugs. If this proposal is approved, we will see a significant increase in binge drinking, drink driving, and drug overdoses in the area. It will also encourage drug manufacturers and dealers to move into the Byron/Tweed area to take advantage of the increased party-town atmosphere that will be created.

> The proposed activities would take place immediately adjacent to prime biodiversity assets of New South Wales: Billinudgel Nature Reserve and a significant wildlife corridor. The government of NSW has a long history of protecting this area because of its high cultural and ecological value. The proposed plans would negate this long, important history in ways that would be irreversible.

> The many individuals and community groups who oppose this proposal are NOT against Splendour in the Grass or any other festival. We like festivals and fully recognise the economic benefits they bring to the region. We have simply concluded, from the evidence in the proposal, that this is not the right location for this festival site. We would like to see the promoters find another location in New South Wales that will be more suitable to their ambitions and intentions.

I very much hope you will reject this proposal outright!

The site in question if not used for a sustainable cultural arts and event venue may end up being used by whoever buys it in a manner that would place greater pressure on the environment. Here we have an opportunity to hold a low impact activity that will see the land rested for some 75% of the year. Allowing such large rest times will benefit both fauna and flora across and adjacent to the site. This is a very positive outcome.

In the past there have been complaints made by residents living on Shirley Street in Byron Bay about the noise and litter accumulated after the Splendour in the Grass festival. North Byron Parklands solves this problem. The Parklands event site is startegically located 20mins drive north from Byron Bay and 25 mins drive south from Coolangatta.

North Byron Parklands will be responsible for drawing thousands of intra and interstate visitors, most of whom will require accommodation, food and beverages and in many instances will actively pursue some form of paying leisure activity. To let such an opportunity pass the region by would be a crime. It is unlikely that there is another events venue that has the level of environmental management systems in place as those proposed by North Byron Parklands. Based on ISO14001 the environmental policies and procedures to be implemented at this venue will provide robust monitoring and mitigation measures to ensure that fauna and flora is protected. Measures such as requiring suitable buffer zones between event activities and forest blocks is one such positive initiative. P969	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Steve Robberts of private (support)	North Byron Parklands sounds like a great idea. I would definitely attend and no doubt a lot of my friends will. It sounds exciting and fun. Many who attend Splendour choose to stay a few days before or after the festival and make more of a holiday of their time in the area. The spin-off from such visitors must be extremely valuable to the many other tourism-related businesses in and around Byron Bay. It therefore stands to reason that a venue hosting a number of other events throughout the year would create many more opportunities, including employment, for the local community and the local economy. The North Byron Parklands project will see upwards of 150,000 patrons coming to the region when it reaches full capacity. All of these people will need places to stay and food and other supplies. They will spend on tourism attractions and help bolster the local economy. From a tourism perspective this project makes great sense. P971	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Sharon Blackley (support)	The North Byron Parklands proposal will see the largest restoration program the region has seen for the past 5o years as a result of its highly detailed vegetation management plan which will result in 1000?s of trees being strategically planted around the site. The wildlife corridor has been significantly degraded over many decades due to primary production and agriculture activities. This means the corridor is currently very fragmented and in real need of revegetation. On the subject of employment the north coast has a long history of hosting many different types of events. These events provide jobs for so many people and in an area where paying the rent or mortgage is tough it is critical that these events are allowed to continue. Without a permanent event area these jobs will be lost to the north coast. As such this project should be approved on the employment prospects it brings, let alone any other positives. The culture of Byron Bay is fantastic and eye opening. This proposal will share our culture with all.

North Byron Parklands has committed through its vegetation management plan and a number of other measures to reduce forest fragmentation by planting endemic species which will help improve fauna movement opportunities. Please approve this project, it really sounds exciting for various reasons, arts, employment and cultural awareness. How fantastic! The local government must get behind the North Byron Parklands proposal and bring Splendour in the Grass back to the Byron Shire area. The Byron shire needs the tourism, the culture and the job opprotunities that will come from this development. Lets get behind it!

P973	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Sonal Sachdev (support)	It is pleasing to note that the North Byron Parklands proposal includes a requirement for wildlife rescue personnel to be present during all major events. This requirement means that there is a very capable first response team on hand to deal with trapped or injured wildlife. It is also an excellent opportunity for these people to monitor any interactions between people and fauna. Such data can then be used to modify and improve processes and procedures for future events. Events offer a broad range of jobs to lots of individuals. From labourers to sound engineers or caterers to sign writers these jobs are very much needed in NSW. We have already lost a lot of our events to Queensland and other states and we must grasp this huge employment opportunity with both hands. The government has an obligation to approve this project. North Byron Parklands have undertaken a detailed economic impact assessment which bodes well for the tourism industry should it be approved. Projections show that tens of thousands of people will visit the area each year and this influx of people will significantly bolster our tourism businesses. With so many locals relying on the tourism industry for their income, such a project is very welcome.

North Byron Parklands proposal is a tangible cultural asset for the youth. It seems obvious, the jobs that will come from the proposal are needed in the region. This application should be approved by local government if only for the young people in the community.

I know many young people who would love the change to work on such a project. The government needs to take into account the generation of employment this proposal will create. Businesses from across the northern rivers involved in tourism related activities stand to benefit significantly from the influx of visitors both from within and outside NSW. The likely spend from attendees at events held at North Byron Parklands would be strong given people will procure accommodation, buy food and drink and purchase a range of other goods and services. This will translate into an economic bonus for the region that must not be squandered. There is no doubt the approval of the North Byron Parklands development application will provide the youth in the area an array of new jobs. These new jobs will be exciting for the youth and benefit the regions economy.

PLEASE, PLEASE, PLEASE, do not allow this to be granted as we don't have the roads/shops/parking etc infrastruture in the neighbouring suburbs/towns to cope with such an increase in numbers of new people/visitors/traffic ... we are already finding it hard to cope with the number of people that are already living here, especially in Ocean Shores, which is the nearest suburb to the proposed venue site. Ocean Shores, Sth Golden Bch, Brunswick Hds are residential family areas with a very high percentage of school children attending local schools. Our area is blessed with tranquility, bearable traffic flows and primarily a very safe and hazard free environment for our children to grow up in. I emplore you to please come drive down New Brighton Way past the New Brighton Post Office on the way to Ocean Shores shops, where council has already placed a 25kph speed limit and see for yourself how full the car park is on any given day at our one big store Bi-Los and tell me how could we cope with patrons spilling into this area from a nearby festival venue ... our outlets n services are already overloaded just dealing with school holidays. PLEASE, PLEASE, PLEASE ... do not allow this insanity to take place. I am worried that, like myself, many of the local residents are not aware of the horrendous

P977	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Ford Newbold (object)	As a resident of Byron Shire, I am opposed to this on all levels/points. The scale of this proposal is incredible to me as an individual who has attended concerts as both a patron and as a musical participant. The attendance numbers are far too large in terms of the overall population of our shire. Twenty years ago, I resided in the U.S. in a California costal city with a population of 80,000 people. It had a city-owned amphitheatre that was rented by promoters to stage musical concerts with world-class acts. It had a maximum seating capacity of 5,000, and promoters put on events at most a few times a year. Because of the scale and frequency, this arrangement resulted in no disruption to local citizenry and their quality of life. And the city derived income from renting the facility. There was never any controversy about events held on this site. The promoters were quite happy with the scale of the events and never considered increasing their size or frequency. This arrangement was financially viable to the promoters. They continued staging events under these conditions for quite some time.

This is not the case here. Local people are fighting the current proposal expressly because it is the wrong scale for the shire and in the wrong location.

Also, I?ve been watching a program on ABC TV called ?Last Chance to See? about threatened and endangered wildlife. It has brought home to me the importance of protecting what little remaining wildlife we have. This proposed venue would do just the opposite at the proposed location. The crowds, noise, traffic emissions, effluent, etc. would all have severe negative effects on the Nature Reserve and Wildlife Corridor right next door to the site.

Common sense needs to prevail within the Department of Planning. This proposal needs to be quashed. If the promoters want to put on such large-scale concerts, they should go to a major city to do so at an already-existing facility that has the needed infrastructure (e.g., public transportation, waste disposal, water and sewerage) to handle the numbers.

It is bizarre to me that the state of NSW is even considering this as a Part 3A Major Project. It promises to deeply affect the quality of life of the residents of Byron Shire and should be decided locally.

Reject this proposal!

It is estimated that the total multiplier effect of the enterprise operating at capacity is $192.6 million annually. There is a large demand for more employment opportunities in and around the Byron Bay area due to most of the shops being small, 1 person operated businesses that don?t require employees. North Byron Parklands will provide many new jobs for the young people in the community. While it has to be recognised that the recently upgraded Pacific Highway and the existing Tweed Valley Way represent the biggest barrier to fauna migration in an east-west direction, the owners of North Byron Parklands have committed to improving the currently degraded wildlife corridor in a number of ways. Putting aside the fact that they have already planted over 7,000 trees in the corridor area and removed large quantities of noxious weeds, their vegetation management plan will dramatically improve vegetation cover and thereby improve species movement opportunities through the further planting of endemic trees. These visitors will likely stay one or two days either side of the event they are attending and will no doubt spend a lot of money on goods and services and tourism related activities. This project should be supported from the Premier down, because the regions stands to gain so much from it. Environmental audits are a requirement for all major events. If we consider that eventually there might be up to three major events in a given year one can start to get an idea of the breadth and depth of environmental information that will be captured by these environmental audits. North Byron Parklands will be able to build up an impressive database of fauna and flora observations and will then be able to adjust or modify their policies and procedures to better protect environmental values moving forward. Cultural festivals such as Splendour, Woodford, Dreaming, etc teach positive and sustainable issues through there dedication and practical implementation. Splendour has the ability to promote and educate people on matters relating to the environmental, sustainability and positive and healthly lifestyle choices. Splendour is promoting first hand through there plans with the site positive envrinoment and sustainability issues. This in turn teaches the youth these valuable lession including other issues such as recycling, waste management and water conservation, etc which may be lacking in there current lifestyles or habilts. Festivals such as Splendour, also provide an opportunity to connect with the youth of today. It provides a place where the young (and not the so young) can come together through the love and joy of music to live and work in a community. A sense of community is lacking in today's society yet at these kind of cutltural events gives people the opportunity to experience a community in all its many aspects.

Words cannot describe the importance of communities supporting and maintaining festivals such as Splendour so that they can continue for many, many, many years to come, so that one day my children can experience the pleasures and joys which I have had the opportunity to participate in myself at many of the previous Splendour events.

I think the North Byron Parklands gives the youth of today a chance to enjoy new experiences. This is what we need to keep the youth entertained and focused.

Employment is a major consideration for this proposal, bringing new hope to the people that want to stay within Byron. If we consider the important contributions to the region made by tourism such as income generation and the creation of jobs then it follows that approving projects that have a large positive effect on increasing tourism rates will be a good thing for the State of NSW. P987	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Tony Lazzaro of Big Ears Audio (support)	The North Byron Parklands project will see upwards of 150,000 patrons coming to the region when it reaches full capacity. All of these people will need places to stay and food and other supplies. They will spend on tourism attractions and help bolster the local economy. From a tourism perspective this project makes great sense. When you consider that the North Byron Parklands team has planted over 7,000 trees across key parts of the site to improve habitat and fauna migration opportunities (and many of these plantings are now 4 metres plus), it is pleasing to note that they will be planting tens of thousands more trees as part of their managed parklands approach to revegetating the site. This is a huge windfall for an environment which is currently predominantly cleared pasture land. North Byron Parklands will add incentive to the young people of the Northern Rivers to stay in the local area. This proposal will see a number of new employment opportunities for the youth in the community including event management, traffic control, ticketing and more. P989	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Bart Schneemann (support)	One of the most significant benefits for the environment coming out of this application is the proponentâ□™s willingness to transfer a net 28ha of very high quality bushland to National Parks that would see an expansion of the Billinudgel Nature Reserve. Ignoring the significant value of the land proposed to be handed over, it has to be acknowledged that this is probably the only opportunity to expand this nature reserve as it is bound by private landowners who are unlikely to give away their land. So many people in the northern rivers area rely on the tourism industry for their bread and butter. These days most businesses are geared towards the tourism dollar and if past trends are anything to go by this industry sector will continue to play a key role in the regionâ□™s economic fortunes. The people behind Parklands will play a dominant role in growing and sustaining the tourism industry and we should all get behind them to make this project a reality. We really need this to get the go ahead. My friends and I will go to events at North Byron Parklands. Hopefully we will be able to get jobs at events.

P991	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Heather McNab (support)	It seems they most likely disturbance for the environment will be light and noise and also traffic. Having reviewed North Byron Parklandâ□™s environmental, health and safety management manual it is clear that they have put a lot of energy into assessing and mitigating any potential environmental risks associated with these activities. The work they have done for managing the environment is above and beyond what one would expect for such a low impact activity. Young people living on the north coast have a tough time finding employment, and particularly jobs that are of interest to them. The Parklands proposal will provide hundreds of jobs for people in our area and this represents a huge plus for a lot of kids. Cultural arts and music festivals are enjoyed by many people in Byron. P992	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Sarah kenny (support)	North Byron Parklands is committed to developing world class sustainable event site through careful planning and management of activities that take place throughout the year. With so many people worried about finding a job in this current economic climate a project of this nature in a regional area is a breath of fresh air. As a community we need to get behind this fantastic concept and support it. As a government, there is a huge moral responsibility to approve it just on employment considerations alone. In a coastal region such as the Byron and Tweed areas tourism businesses are the financial lifeblood for so many people. Ensuring we attract businesses such as North Byron Parklands who will be responsible for bringing significant numbers of visitors to the region is vital if we are to maintain the viability of this critical sector. Government agencies should be approving projects of this nature. There needs to be a dedicated area for the youth to gather together and celebrate life. Young people will organise parties and have a good time no matter if there is large event venues or not. It is up to the adult members of the community to carry the youth by supporting venues designed for the youth. P993	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Michael Sheargold (support)	The North Byron Parklands site has a long history of agricultural activity that has degraded much of the site over the past 50 years. While there are still some high conservation value areas of the site a great deal of regeneration is needed before the site can be considered ecologically valuable. The Parklands people are proposing significant tree plantings which will be a valuable process. We can look at other parts of the world to help understand the likely impacts of the North Byron Parklands proposal. Donna Sue Sanders â□“ Executive Director of the Daytona State Foundation states that â□˜communities that embrace and cultivate relationships and partnerships offering financial and operational support, ultimately realise substantial economic and fiscal impacts. Furthermore, many articles reported that quality of life improves along with the chance to attract and retain young, innovative people to a communityâ□™ The North Byron Parklands proposal should be approved because of the incredible opportunities it provides both the community and the business community. P995	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Clare Marlow of N/A (support)	North Byron Parklands through their application to the Department of Planning have more than adequately shown that this is an organisation willing to go beyond compliance in terms of environmental management. What other development would have documented in such detail the plans, policies and procedures to effectively manage all issues covering the environment. Everything from lighting and erosion control through to revegetation and fauna audits has been included in their impressive management manual. While it has to be recognised that the recently upgraded Pacific Highway and the existing Tweed Valley Way represent the biggest barrier to fauna migration in an east-west direction, the owners of North Byron Parklands have committed to improving the currently degraded wildlife corridor in a number of ways. Putting aside the fact that they have already planted over 7,000 trees in the corridor area and removed large quantities of noxious weeds, their vegetation management plan will dramatically improve vegetation cover and thereby improve species movement opportunities through the further planting of endemic trees. This is a huge positive. North Byron Parklands proposal is a very positive thing for the youth in the community. Byron Bay is built on its beautiful natural assets and many tourist attractions yet like many other coastal towns it suffers from seasonal swings. The North Byron Parklands proposal would significantly smooth tourism demand by attracting visitors in traditionally slow times. As tourism is so important to the town and surrounding areas such projects should be openly encouraged.

The demographic characteristics of the region are indicative of an aging community with a high proportion of retiree aged people and many young people aged 20 to 34 leaving the area to seek education and employment opportunities. North Byron Parklands would definitely help provide employment for many of these young people.

P1000	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Marianne Lynch (support)	There are two main points I would like to highlight in the discussion about Splendour in the Grass and Byron Bay: 1) The site that the Splendour organisers have scoped has been chosen with the utmost respect to wildlife corridors, sustainability and responsible venue management. It is possible for sites such as these to promote habitat/wildlife rehabilitation whilst also providing artistic and cultural input into the local community. Woodfordia in Queensland is an example of this success, and I truly believe NSW's loss would be Queensland's gain. (From what I understand, Splendour has been 'leased' to Queensland for the next two years anyway. It would be a shame for NSW if that move was permanent.) 2) Splendour in the Grass adds to the opportunities, income, and culture of the North Byron

				Parklands/Byron Bay Shire. Denying the permit for this festival would diminish the possibilities for youth employment and engagement, and detract from the flow-on effect for local businesses of additional tourists passing through the Byron Bay area. In short: it makes environmental and economic sense to 'bring Splendour home' Name: Marianne Lynch Address: 8 St James St Armadale VIC 3143 IP Address: cpe-124-191-92-50.mxzv1.win.bigpond.net.au - 124.191.92.50 Submission for Job: #3210 Cultural Events Site (Project Application) https://majorprojects.onhiive.com/index.pl?action=view_job&id=3210 Site: #1982 Cultural Events Site - Tweed Valley Way and Jones Road, Yelgun (09_0028) https://majorprojects.onhiive.com/index.pl?action=view_site&id=1982

P1002	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from James McKay (support)	Surely it is obvious to the government that NSW needs a permanent sustainable outdoor music event, particularly one located on the far north coast. The application covers all issues and provides a range of solutions. It is now time to approve it. The tourism business in Byron Bay this past winter has been very slow. With the loss of Splendour in the Grass to Queensland a much needed income stream during winter evaporated. The North Byron Parklands proposal would see a number of major events coming to the region and with it a significant increase in demand for tourist accommodation and activities. The project should be carefully considered by the government due to the much needed injection of funds into the local tourism industry. Many families would benefit

Having a world class sustainable event site will encourage the youth be become more creative, help them build towards a career in a creative industry and boost creative industries in on the Northern Rivers.

Jobs are hard to come by these days. Many businesses are struggling to make ends meet. The arts and events industry has provided a lot of employment opportunities on the far north coast and North Byron Parklands should be approved because it will be a major employer in the area.

North Byron Parklands aims to maintain the integrity of the events site and manage the sites usage using the latest environmental mangement and monitoring systems to ensure a sustainable events site for future generations.

North Byron Parklands proposal will create 210 full time equivalent jobs. The proposal will generate approximately $192.6 million annually (total multiplier effect) when operating at capacity (RPS Group March 2010). These figures found on the North byron Parklands website are extremely impressive and would benift the community dramatically. This application must be approved!

While it is understood that business ventures such as North Byron Parklands are focussed on turning a profit, it is also really pleasing to see they have expended a fair amount of effort on protecting and enhancing the environment in which they operate. Initiatives such as light spill and noise management and inducting all staff and contractors is a great way to protect the environment and demonstrate a commitment to sustainable best practice.

This proposal is extremely positive for educational institutes in the area such as SAE and the Southern Cross University. This proposal will see students gain on ground experience and employment opportunities in area such as event management, ecology management, and live sound engineering.

Splendour is home at Byron we should feel honored to host such an amazing internationally recognized event in our community! It only has positives! Bring it home!!!

P1004	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Kerry Lennon of Office of Public Works (support)	While the current research into noise emissions and their effects on fauna is far from comprehensive, the team at North Byron Parklands have developed a host of environmental procedures and processes to manage this issue. From the use of sophisticated unidirectional public address systems to fauna monitoring programs the management systems that will be employed will greatly reduce any possible impacts on fauna. The pleasing thing to note is that fauna are only temporarily inconvenienced by noise if at all. In areas such as Byron, the Tweed and the Richmond Valley employment prospects for young people are difficult to come by. Bring an employer like North Byron Parklands to the area will generate much needed jobs and give many young people to opportunity to earn a regular pay packet. P1005	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Nicole Secombe (support)	From an environmental perspective one of the most pleasing aspects of the North Byron Parklands proposal is the distinct lack of permanent infrastructure and the need to clear trees. The most significant infrastructure relates to the underpass under Jones Road and would involve removal of about 50 trees (which are mainly Camphor). With such minimal works required to make an events venue it means that the vast majority of the site shall remain as is, which is a real positive. The North Byron Parklands proposal provides so many new opportunities to the community. The residents will be offered new job opportunities and business owners will gain more business through a boost in tourism to the area. For these reasons this proposal should be approved by local government. I strongly support the application put forward by North Byron Parklands to establish a much needed outdoor music and arts venue. P1007	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Bree Knox (support)	The various Aboriginal clans in and around the proposed North Byron Parklands site have had a long history in this area and for this reason the Parklands people have spent a lot of time consulting indigenous groups and organisations to work out how best to assess the site for significance. This process was done in a cooperative framework with the results that potential sites of significance will be protected through fencing and other means. The archaeological report does not identify any aspects of the project that will have a negative impact on important cultural artefacts or values. In recent times visitor day trips to the northern rivers has been declining. Coupled with a downward trend in the average per head tourism spend it is clear that strategies need to be put in place to increase visitor numbers. Projects that can significantly increase tourism numbers in a short space of time include cultural event activities such as those proposed by North Byron Parklands. This business is capable of attracting hundreds of thousands of visitors each year to the northern rivers which will be a huge boon for the area. This proposal is a no brainer for the young. The jobs are vital, not just at North Byron Parklands but in all the industries which this proposal supports and makes more viable. The proposal is a tangible cultural asset for our young people. P1008	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Keven Oxford of Poinciana (support)	North Byron Parklands staff have already developed a solid working relationship with National Parks ground staff, local indigenous bush regeneration teams and local council ecology staff. To date North Byron Parklands has planted thousands of trees adjacent to the Billinudgel Nature reserve, installed dozens of nest boxes to improve habitat opportunities and removed thousands of metres of barbed wire fencing to reduce impediments to fauna movement. These actions have been completed prior to asking for any sort of approval for use of the land as an outdoor venue. What is truly impressive is the number of environmental programs this organisation is proposing should the application be approved. Many projects that have occurred across the North Coast of NSW have not undertaken even a tenth of the assessment, survey and fauna/flora investigations as that completed by North Byron Parklands. The extensive vegetation mapping and the identification of fauna across the site, coupled with two koala surveys (which did not locate any koalas) demonstrate the level of environmental assessment undertaken by this organisation. When you then add the environmental controls as proposed in their environmental, health and safety management manual it is evident that these people are very serious about environmental management. This proposal is extremely positive for educational institutes in the area such as SAE and the Southern Cross University. This proposal will see students gain on ground experience and employment opportunities in area such as event management, ecology management, and live sound engineering. As a former Festival producer (Bluesfest Byron Bay 1990 to 2005) I speak with authority when I say that the Splendour team & the site are the best in Australia. P1009	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Steve Dillon (support)	It is pleasing to note that the North Byron Parklands proposal includes a requirement for wildlife rescue personnel to be present during all major events. This requirement means that there is a very capable first response team on hand to deal with trapped or injured wildlife. It is also an excellent opportunity for these people to monitor any interactions between people and fauna. Such data can then be used to modify and improve processes and procedures for future events. We constantly hear about politicians doing their best to ensure a supply of good jobs for our young people, however NSW currently is experiencing very high rates of youth unemployment. Governments and politicians must become more aware of the types of projects that will generate such youth oriented jobs and the North Byron Parklands proposal is a very good example. Reported to generate in excess of 200 jobs it seems to make sense to me to approve it. Tourism is one of the biggest industries and employers on the north coast and is very important to many people for their livelihood. In recent years the industry has struggled somewhat due to economic and other factors and there is a real need to do everything possible to help support this industry. One such way is to approve projects such as that proposed by North Byron Parklands. This project alone will generate massive visitor numbers and importantly the influx of the visitors will occur during traditional slow times such as winter, etc.

P1010	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Tim Mulroy (support)	North Byron Parklands is proposing a sustainable arts and music venue that will provide significant employment opportunities to a range of people in the Byron and Northern Rivers region. Many of the jobs will suit our younger people and with an aging demographic this is vital to ensuring that there is an opportunity to up skill our youth in a growing and profitable sector. Jobs are very important. There are not many social and cultural events for young people. It is important as a society and community that we cater for the employment, entertainment and recreational needs of all our people. Name: Tim Mulroy Address: 12 Casons Road New Brighton. P1011	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Troy Cush (support)	I have been to many outdoor event sites over the past number of years but have never come across a venue that has taken so much effort to develop and implement so many environmental programs. When events are not being staged at North Byron Parklands, there will be reafforestation and noxious weed removal activities. When there are events at this site they will need to comply with a bunch of strict environmental policies and procedures. If only other venues could take a leaf out of these guyâ□™s book. Holding events requires a sound understanding of a whole range of logistical and safety aspects. The team behind North Byron Parklands have been responsible for putting together numerous large events over the past decade. In each case they have successfully managed important aspects such as noise, ecology, lighting, traffic and crowd and safety management. The systems and procedures they have developed will assist any event being held at the North Byron Parklands site which I believe will help result in successful events. Tourism is one of the biggest employers in the northern rivers area and the North Byron Parklands proposal is projecting that it will bring thousands of people to the area each year. Increasing visitor numbers to the area is the surest way to help grow these tourism businesses particularly when the proposal shall bring large numbers of people to the area in traditionally slow times. P1012	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Elsbeth Zeegers of Schizophrenia Fellowship NSW Inc. (support)	The North Byron Parklands site has been subject to intensive agricultural activities and land clearing practices for many, many years. The North Byron Parklands will be the first proposed land use that will actually see a huge improvement in environmental outcomes due to planned mass plantings, fauna habitat creation and most importantly no event activities for some 260 plus days a year. This has to be seen as a major positive outcome for the local environment. Splendour in the Grass offers local youth the opportunity to work at the festival in return for a festival ticket. This program gives the youth valuable work experience in customer service, hospitality, event management etc. Splendour in the Grass also offers work to musicians, live sound engineers, and event managers. The environmental assessments completed for the North Byron Parklands proposal identify a number of threatened species which in the most part are winged creatures. It is most likely (based on research elsewhere) that these creatures will move away from any light and noise disturbances for no longer than for the period they occur. This is particularly true if there are specific food resources available on the North Byron Parklands site. So, once an event is finished it is more than probably that these animals will return and enjoy the quietude that will prevail at this site for the vast majority of the year. North Byron Parklands will add incentive to the young people of the Northern Rivers to stay in the local area. This proposal will see a number of new employment opportunities for the youth in the community including event management, traffic control, ticketing and more. The region needs to provide more jobs for young people so they all donâ□™t move to cities. Name: Elsbeth Zeegers Organisation: Schizophrenia Fellowship NSW Inc. P1014	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Gordon Campbell (support)	Having read the environmental assessment report I can say without reserve that I strongly support the proposal put forward by North Byron Parklands. The application covers off on all of the important issues such as noise, traffic and ecology. It is so pleasing to see a development that has considered and responded to such a diverse range of issues. I firmly believe that the government should approve this application. In relation to employment, with so many people moving to coastal areas governments have a role as planners to ensure that industries and the jobs they bring are afforded every opportunity of success. Parklands is one such business that makes good sense to locate in the Byron Shire. While the current research into noise emissions and their effects on fauna is far from comprehensive, the team at North Byron Parklands have developed a host of environmental procedures and processes to manage this issue. From the use of sophisticated unidirectional public address systems to fauna monitoring programs the management systems that will be employed will greatly reduce any possible impacts on fauna. The pleasing thing to note is that fauna are only temporarily inconvenienced by noise if at all. P1015	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Sam West (support)	Getting people to spend their tourism dollar in the northern rivers area is extremely important for sustaining the local and regional tourism businesses. On average Australian holiday makers will spend about $130 per night staying in the northern rivers region and the North Byron Parklands project is going to attract between 80,000 and 120,000 people to the area each year. The economic income will be huge and will support a whole host of tourism based organisations. If Woodfordia in Queensland can be highly respected as an enviro-friendly venue which hosts a number of festivals with large crowds, then surely North Byron Parklands can achieve the same level of acceptance and respect if given the chance. North Byron Parklands has provided employment opportunities for local indigenous people through the planting of over seven thousand native trees across the site. The Madhima Gulgan rainforest regeneration team has also built and implemented over 25 nest boxes for local wildlife across the site. P1016	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Dana Lee (support)	Much of the agricultural and forestry industries of the northern rivers has significantly declined over the past decade and many people have been forced into lower paid sectors such as retail and tourism. Now more than ever there is a need for diversifying the employment base and the North Byron Parklands proposal will do exactly that. With job positions projected to be more than 200 there is a very real need to approve such a project. Tourism is one of the biggest industries and employers on the north coast and is very important to many people for their livelihood. This demonstrates that the organisation is serious about identifying and managing ecological issues. P1017	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Melissa Rankine of n/a (support)	North Byron Parklands proposes to create a world class sustainable cultural events site within an ecologically enhanced site. Parklands will achieve this through thorough planning and by adhering to the guidelines of the environmental, health and safety management manual they have developed. From Tweed Heads to Evans Head most of the business activity revolves around tourism. To have a cultural arts and music venue such as North Byron Parklands which will bring tens of thousands of visitors to the area and with the vast majority seeking accommodation over multiple nights is a huge economic windfall. Such a proposal would seamlessly add to the already diversified tourism offerings of the region and should be approved. Byron and the Northern Rivers unemployment rate (around 8.5%) is substantially higher than the NSW average of 5.5%. We need businesses such as Parklands who can provide employment opportunities to many in our community, particularly young people. P1018	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Danielle Albertz (support)	Most outdoor events pay little attention to the environment so it is heartening to see an organisation such as North Byron Parklands who have put a considerable effort into developing specific procedures and work instructions designed to protect the environment. These guys even have an environmental incident notification system which will document all issues and the steps taken to resolve them. Many who attend Splendour choose to stay a few days before or after the festival and make more of a holiday of their time in the area. The spin-off from such visitors must be extremely valuable to the many other tourism-related businesses in and around Byron Bay. It therefore stands to reason that a venue hosting a number of other events throughout the year would create many more opportunities, including employment, for the local community and the local economy. P1022	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Rosalind Wood (object)	The amount of days that Byron Parklands wants to use as event days is too many. Nearly every week there would be some event happening, being very distressing to native wildlife and neighbouring communities such as Yelgun. The site is very flood prone and Byron Parklands has not made a very comprehensive evacuation plan in case of such an emergency. Jobs will be critical to the longer term sustainability of the region and therefore when projects such as North Byron Parklands come along they should be embraced and assisted by state and local governments. All along the NSW coastline tourism businesses provide employment and income to hundreds of thousands of individuals and families. This is certainly the case in the northern

P1024	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Louise Ralph of re sould (support)	We should all be getting behind such an exciting project which offers businesses and the community a range of important social and economic benefits. The beauty of this application is that it also strongly supports the environment. The people behind North Byron Parklands are professional event operators with decades of combined experience in hosting successful events. Having sold millions of tickets to the dozens of events they have held, it is extremely beneficial that such experienced personnel will be available to guide and manage events proposed for North Byron Parklands. In the past there have been complaints made by residents living on Shirley Street in Byron Bay about the noise and litter accumulated after the Splendour in the Grass festival. North

Byron Parklands solves this problem. The Parklands event site is startegically located 20mins drive north from Byron Bay and 25 mins drive south from Coolangatta.

Splendour in the Grass has provided a lot of mentorship and training opportunities for young people in the past. The fabulous Splendid initiative is an example of this. They really invest in young people. Even if these initiatives remain limited to Splendour in the Grass, itâ□™s important to have these opportunities for young people in the region.

P1026	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Jo Gillooly of Massey Greene Holiday Park (support)	One of the unintended effects on the environment from outdoor events is light spill. So it is pleasing to see that this issue is well addressed under the organisationâ□™s environmental standard. This standard requires lighting to be directed downwards, away from forest blocks, using low pressure sodium vapour lights where possible, and turning off light towers at a certain time of night. Such measures will greatly reduce disturbances to any localised fauna during such events. Recent statistics provided by the Australian Bureau of Statistics indicate that the majority of business owners in the shire and the northern rivers area do not employ people, rather these businesses are operated by self employed people. As such it is obvious that other larger organisations and businesses are required to employ people in a are in much need of job opportunities. North Byron Parklands is one such organisation proposing to generate up to 200 full time equivalent positions. Such a project is extremely important to this area.

The North Byron Parklands proposal combines ecology with events and community giving. This is exactly the type of training and experience we need our young people to look to.

North Byron Parklands will add incentive to the young people of the Northern Rivers to stay in the local area. Such experience will provide a significant edge when events are held at North Byron Parklands and will no doubt make for a succession of successful events. With respect to the mapped wildlife corridor it should be pointed out that many parts of it identified as high conservation have in fact been cleared by previous land owners. The North Byron Parklands proposal has not only committed to helping restore this corridor, they have also committed to doing so in accordance with the Byron Shire Council wildlife map. This means having the opportunity to actually realise â□œon-groundâ□□ what the currently inaccurate council map purports is in existence. The end result will be a greatly improved corridor that actually has some functioning capabilities. And finally - Byron Shire Council, residents and businesses would be INSANE not to support such a massive event. As a business owner, I would be livid that my local council would turn down arguably the largest event that Byron Bay holds every year. The tourism and money spent from Splendor earnings keeps locals employed, funds the local community and puts Byron Bay on the map. Splendor is the only reason I come to Byron, and I know that I personally spend between $500-$1000 every time I attend Splendor, not including tickets. Multiply that by 20000 event goers. If you want further convincing, ask some of the Businesses in the area how their trade is going this year compared to previous. Dont be stupid, for your own sake. If its not Byron, its Woodford, and your community will be losing out.

P1030	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Troy Cohen of ECF (support)	The local area containing the Parklands site has an ancient meeting place for Aboriginal people to come to together for cultural purposes. The local indigenous stakeholders have been consulted and do not object to the Parklands proposal. It is fitting that the Parklands proposal will now serve as a cultural meeting place for all people. North Byron Parklands will help build up creative industries in the Northern Rivers area. Establishing a permanent and sustainable cultural event venue will lead to an array of new job opportunities and in time create economic growth in the region. There has been a long search for a permanent cultural events site in the Byron Shire and while the Blues Festival has purchased a site (after the North Byron Parklands property was bought) they have always committed to only hosting the Blues Fest there. So there is still a very strong need for another site that can cater to a range of cultural and community events. The North Byron Parklands site is the perfect choice conveniently located in the North of the Shire and should be supported by all levels of government. It will be a huge benefit for the area on so many fronts. Name: Troy Cohen

The North Byron Parklands proposal would help to attract a significant number of domestic tourists from south east Queensland and southern NSW and Victoria. As much of the region is built on tourism it is important that such projects are allowed to proceed. The North Byron Parklands project has undertaken both a high level of fauna and flora assessments and a comprehensive environmental risk assessment process. As a result they have developed a management manual that covers a range of aspects including the environment. They have even developed a standalone environmental induction form for all staff and contractors that clearly stipulates what can and cannot take place while on site. P1034	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Jarrad Rispen of Century 21 Stalks (support)	The Department would be hard pressed to list other proposals such as the North Byron Parklands one that has clearly documented the environmental controls it proposes to put in place to actively manage the environment. The environmental management manual is an excellent example of a proactive organisation who is obviously serious about ensuring that fauna and flora is appropriately considered and managed within legislative requirements. In the past there have been complaints made by residents living on Shirley Street in Byron Bay about the noise and litter accumulated after the Splendour in the Grass festival. North Byron Parklands solves this problem. The Parklands event site is startegically located 20mins drive north from Byron Bay and 25 mins drive south from Coolangatta.

				Holding events requires a sound understanding of a whole range of logistical and safety aspects. The team behind North Byron Parklands have been responsible for putting together numerous large events over the past decade. In each case they have successfully managed important aspects such as noise, ecology, lighting, traffic and crowd and safety management. The systems and procedures they have developed will assist any event being held at the North Byron Parklands site which I believe will help result in successful events.

An example of this is the fact that there have been more vegetation and flora surveys conducted at the site than housing, industrial estate, and quarries assessments. This is an example of the Parklands group working with its community to provide new employment opportunities. Three words. Jobs, tourism and culture. P1037	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Eve Anderson (support)

When you consider that the North Byron Parklands team has planted over 7,000 trees across key parts of the site to improve habitat and fauna migration opportunities (and many of these plantings are now 4 metres plus), it is pleasing to note that they will be planting tens of thousands more trees as part of their managed parklands approach to revegetating the site. This is a huge windfall for an environment which is currently predominantly cleared pasture land.

If you consider that businesses involved in the tourism industry that will directly benefit from the North Byron Parklands project stretch from Ballina in the South to Tweed Heads in the North, not to mention all the inland towns, then it becomes very apparent that this project will benefit a very wide area. Supporting the tourism industry should be a key concern for the government and approving projects of this nature would help the industry considerably.

This proposal will expose people to the beauty that is the North Byron Parklands and place it in their hearts. It will also have a positive impact on surrounding businesses and local people. There are literally thousands of tourism businesses within 75 kilometres of the proposed North Byron Parklands event site. Most of these businesses are family owned and operated and as such are likely to benefit income wise from this proposal. With a flatter than normal couple of years this extra income will be warmly welcome by these businesses.

The community spirit I have enjoyed at other similar events run by the same organisation has had a hugely positive impact on my life. P1041	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from James Bitossi of ANZ (support)	Regarding employment, so many people are forced to leave coastal areas in search of a job. We need the government to play an active role in identifying suitable industries and businesses that can provide local jobs in these areas. North Byron Parklands is an obvious choice in helping to bridge this gap and should be approved to operate in Byron Shire. In recent times visitor day trips to the northern rivers has been declining. Coupled with a downward trend in the average per head tourism spend it is clear that strategies need to be put in place to increase visitor numbers. Projects that can significantly increase tourism numbers in a short space of time include cultural event activities such as those proposed by North Byron Parklands. This business is capable of attracting hundreds of thousands of visitors each year to the northern rivers which will be a huge boon for the area. P1051	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Charmaine Perkins (support)	The preservation of ecological values in and adjacent to the Parklands site is an important aspect of the proposal. Much scientific assessment has been undertaken which highlights that the site has been heavily degraded over the past number of years and that the proposed fauna and flora management plans will greatly enhance and protect existing identified values. The North Byron Parklands Project will actually result in a positive impact on the environment and should be supported. If employment growth in regional areas is a key concern of the NSW state government then approving this project makes sound economic sense. There is a real need to support organisations that can provide such large numbers of jobs in an area where finding a good job can be very difficult. It seems to me that approving this project will have lasting long term benefits for job prospectors in this rural region. The tourism industry is a major contributor to the Byron Shire and Northern Rivers Region economies, with visitation critical to the regionsâ□™ economies. The proposed North Byron Parklands project will result in a massive increase in the number of domestic visitors to the area and to a lesser degree, will also attract many overseas visitors. As this industry is so important to the region it makes good sense for this project to proceed. P1052	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from marsh duffield of aecom (support)	The North Byron Parklands proposal is likely to improve wildlife corridors, fauna habitat and consolidation of fragmented forest blocks. This is shown by the level of environmental assessment that has been conducted across the site by North Byron Parklands. All assessments indicate that the proposal will have minimal environmental impacts. With the recent global financial crisis many businesses in the area were hit hard. Employment opportunities diminished and there is a real need for viable employers such as the proposed North Byron Parklands. The jobs this group will provide are going to be extremely important to many families and individuals.

Everyone I know enjoys attending and listening to music so when an opportunity comes along to built a superior and sustainable live music and arts venue it is really important that governments seize the moment and approve it. North Byron Parklands is one such opportunity.

The North Byron Parklands proposal brings together economic growth, world class events and community giving. It needs to be approved because this is the kind of business young people are looking to for training and experience.

P1053	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Yasmin Jones (support)	Byron and the surrounding areas relies substantially on a range of small businesses and cottage industries to employ the people that live in this community. There are not many large employers such as what North Byron Parklands would become should it be approved. I think we need to approve and support these types of projects in regional areas to ensure there are enough job choices available to people. Regarding the ecology of the site, having undertaken a number of vegetation and flora surveys, including detailed koala surveys, the North Byron Parklands group have completed more ecological assessments than other traditional developments such as housing, industrial estates, and quarries. This demonstrates that the organisation is serious about identifying and managing ecological issues. I find great delight knowing that competent Event Managers will be involved with all the events held at North Byron Parklands, ensuring that we have a lot of great experiences if this proposal goes through. P1062	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Phil Lynch of private (support)	I am a strong supporter of Splendour and believe this festival is very important for the North Coast Area. Not only does it promote our area in the much needed tourism industry but it creates a big injection of funds to the region at a time of the year when local businesses struggle the most. I am associated with several people who run local businesses and they have all experienced a huge reduction in income because of the loss of this festival in the local area. Splendour have spent several years researching and applying for appropriate sites to run this eco-friendly festival. I believe they have done all the right things and aquired an appropriate site in North Byron Parklands. Not only does this festival support the local economy, it creates jobs, supplies a safe environment for local festival and importantly donates funds to local establishments. This is because other than retail and tourism there are few large employers about. Bad luck if you do not want to make a career in pouring coffee or cleaning rooms. This project will offer a whole range of people with new prospects in securing a job in the creative industries, an industry that is on the rise in this area. We really do need more substantial employers. The North Byron Parklands site has been subject to intensive agricultural activities and land clearing practices for many, many years. The North Byron Parklands will be the first proposed land use that will actually see a huge improvement in environmental outcomes due to planned mass plantings, fauna habitat creation and most importantly no event activities for some 260 plus days a year. P1064	Project Website Submission	11/11/2010	Online Submission from Patricia Rizzo (support)	With respect to the environment one of the risks that the people from North Byron Parklands have identified is the potential for road kill associated with traffic movements before, during and after an event. As such they have implemented a number of requirements including on site environmental inductions, speed limiting devises, signage and a wildlife rescue team. This is just one example of the sound environmental practices they are proposing. North Byron Parklands ability to generate new and exciting employment opportunities will encourage young adults to remain working and living in the region instead of packing up and moving to a large city seeking employment. It is important to maintain the balance of ages in the community. This proposal must be approved! North Byron Parklands is one of those venues that give back to the local community. P1067	Project Website Submission	10/11/2010	Online Submission from Gabby Le Brun (support)	I write in support of the North Byron Parklands Submission to hold Splendour in the Grass at the Yelgun Site specifically purchased for the purpose of holding this Nationally Significant Event. Until recently I taught the Events and Festivals Unit at QUT in Queensland as part of a Creative Industries Degree. I hold a Masters in the Creative Industries and have organised many community events. For the past four years I have lived in Tyagarah just North of Byron Bay and only 2 km from the Blues Festival Tyagarah Tea Tree Farm. I understand the plight of Splendour in the Grass from both a theoretical and a local?s perspective. Splendour in the Grass needs a home. They have outgrown their temporary Site of Belongil Fields and have recognised its limitations. Even the East Coast Blues Festival struggled with the Belongil Site; with its knee deep mud, traffic jams in Ewingsdale Road and the overcrowding of Byron accommodation; especially its caravan parks. The kind of crowding and its negative impacts that CONOS have repeatedly reported in their campaigning against Splendour in the Grass could be seen not only during the Blues Festival before its move to Tyagarah but on any Christmas Eve, New Years Eve or when any major Event is being held in the heart of Byron Bay. CONOS suggest that they are not against Splendour and have suggested that Splendour be held in the new Sports Fields in Ewingsdale Road. Unfortunately this will do nothing to relieve Byron Bay of congestion or the other noise or litter or drunkenness or any other issue that may arise with large public gatherings.

In a stroke of foresight in 2006 North Byron Parklands began a process of consultation with community and Council. Given their positive response from the consultation, they purchased some disused land and began a process of regeneration and Environmental Site Management. The process has been extremely transparent and has included Open Days, Community Tree Planting Days, meetings with neighbouring land owners and a continuing close relationship with Byron Council. Those opposing the Site have accused North Byron Parklands of going above the Byron Council to the State Government thus ignoring a process of local consultation and ?thumbing their nose? at our local Council.

Mac Nicolson from CONOS writes in the Byron Shire News this week

That?is demonstrative of your continued disrespect for our community after taking away our right to have this DA decided by our own Council

This is completely untrue and evidence of the scaremongering and misrepresentation that the Splendour team have suffered at the hands of their own community. After gaining permission from our local Council to run a trial Event, North Byron Parklands have been forced into a position to fight for the use of the Site that has already been approved. Over 10 Government Agencies were consulted by Council ?with none objecting to [their] application? (ibid North Byron Parklands).

Splendour in the Grass needs a home

Woodford Folk Festival is one example of a Festival that had outgrown the Maleny Oval where it was initially held and moved to a bespoke site enabling the Festival to grow and flourish into the world class Event it is today. Our very own Blues Festival is another. I have attended the Blues Festival at Red Devil Park, Belongil Fields and this year in my own "backyard" in Tyagarah. This year the Blues Festival had really come into its own, even winning the 'Event of the Year'. We live not more than 2 kilometers from the Event and had no noise pollution, no traffic problems and it was the easiest drive into town at Easter we have ever experienced. Splendour has been pushed from pillar to post, even moving to Woodford this year to host their most successful Festival yet. Bill Horowitz from Woodford has invited Splendour back in 2011 and has spoken very positively of the Event. Woodfordia is an extremely successful cultural event held over 5 days in a sensitive environmental Site but in the caring hands of the event managers and environmental scientists that run them, Woodford and the Dreaming Festival are created in relationship with the Land. It?s my belief that Splendour, given the chance to move into its own Site will do the same. They just need the opportunity. On this basis, I urge the NSW Government Planning Department to approve this application. Bring Splendour Home.

Bring Splendour home to the Northern Rivers! Letâ™s look after the young people in the community by approving this proposal. North Byron Parklands will create new and exciting training and employment opportunities for them.

North Byron Parklands is set to play a pivotal role in strengthening the north coast tourism sector by attracting so many people to the area. These visitors will likely stay one or two days either side of the event they are attending and will no doubt spend a lot of money on goods and services and tourism related activities. This project should be supported from the Premier down, because the regions stands to gain so much from it.

I just heard about the proposed North Byron Parklands and got instantly excited. What better way to show the beauty Byron Bay has to offer?

P1069	Project Website Submission	10/11/2010	Online Submission from Steve Marsh (support)	Having been a visitor to the Byron Shire on a few occasions, I can be sure that it is the perfect venue for such a welcoming and community based festival such as the Splendour in the Grass. The community friendly atmosphere and environmentally conscious organisers make the festival what it is, it would be a sad day if Byron is denied the chance to hold such an inclusive event. The sustainability of the grounds is a big issue also and the producers of the event do all that they can to minimise the wastage and carbon footprint. The Byron Shire and Northern Rivers region is home to an aging community with a high proportion of retirees. This means many young people are leaving the area to seek education and employment opportunities elsewhere. North Byron Parklands would help provide employment for many of these young people, thus giving them a reason to stay in the area. If we consider the important contributions to the region made by tourism such as income generation and the creation of jobs then it follows that approving projects that have a large positive effect on increasing tourism rates will be a good thing for the State of NSW. North Byron Parklands will be responsible for drawing thousands of intra and interstate visitors, most of whom will require accommodation, food and beverages and in many instances will actively pursue some form of paying leisure activity. To let such an opportunity pass the region by would be a crime. Whatâ□™s important for Byron is the culture and celebration, its very important to our community. The North Byron Parklands proposal will provide security and ensure that Byron continues to offer this. Regards, Steve Marsh. Name: Steve Marsh Address: 22 Hughes Street, East Malvern VIC 3145

P1070	Project Website Submission	10/11/2010	Online Submission from Melinda Crump (support)	To Whom It May Concern, North Byron Parklands proposal to bring splendour home is an opportunity to boost local business for many years to come. Each year when the festival season comes around businesses in the Byron Shire and surrounding areas will get a boost in sales due to the increase in tourism, helping small business' to survive and in turn helping the local community. The likely employment opportunities that North Byron Parklands will bring to the Northern Rivers shall be substantial. Many people in this region are finding it hard to secure a job and therefore we need as many of these innovative projects as possible. I own a property in east Ballina and can personally see the benefits that such a festival would bring to the area and it's people. While the economy booms in other states, NSW and in particular regional NSW continues to suffer. Why send millions away to QLD when it can profit local businesses/airlines/councils and property owners? From an environmental perspective one of the most pleasing aspects of the North Byron Parklands proposal is the distinct lack of permanent infrastructure and the need to clear trees.

The most significant infrastructure relates to the underpass under Jones Road and would involve removal of about 50 trees (which are mainly Camphor). With such minimal works required to make an events venue it means that the vast majority of the site shall remain as is, which is a real positive.

With that all all in mind, I as a property owner in the Northern Rivers Area, would be excited about the possibility of bringing back Splendour to it's original home.

Yours Faithfully

P1071	Project Website Submission	10/11/2010	Online Submission from Melissa Clark of Yoga Studio within ()	To whom it concerns, My name is Melissa Clark. I have lived in the Byron Shire for the past 15 years. I am 45 years of age. I work as a Yoga Instructor. I have attended every Splendor in the grass, except the last one, WHICH WAS MOVED ON IT'S 10 BIRTHDAY. It's an amazing festival, not full of young drunk or drug induced teenagers. The streets of Byron Bay now suffer that, It's a festival for all ages. The culture, the music and the grace to allowed to see amazing artists in our very own back yard. I was heart broken when this festival was forced out. My family members certainly did not fly interstate to meet me In Queensland. Splendor belongs in Byron Bay, MY yoga classes suffered, the food industry and should I go on, just suffered. Byron needs this highly organized festival to get us through the cold months. It was a sad winter for many except those who live in big houses and can afford to throw stones. Splendor belongs here, it was born here, I am so ashamed we gave millions in revenue to Queensland. It is my belief as a woman of Byron, not a teenage that this festival belongs to us, Bring Splendor HOME, Melissa Clark Nashua 2479 Name: Melissa Clark Organisation: Yoga Studio within Address: P.O box 908 Byron Bay, N.S.W 2481 IP Address: cpe-124-179-74-153.lns5.cht.bigpond.net.au - 124.179.74.153 Submission for Job: #3210 Cultural Events Site (Project Application) https://majorprojects.onhiive.com/index.pl?action=view_job&id=3210 Site: #1982 Cultural Events Site - Tweed Valley Way and Jones Road, Yelgun (09_0028) https://majorprojects.onhiive.com/index.pl?action=view_site&id=1982

P1072	Project Website Submission	10/11/2010	Online Submission (support)	I am in favour of the North Byron Parklands. I have watched the way in which the organisers of the Splendour in the Grass festival have interacted with community when the event was held in Byron Bay and was positively impressed. I have followed their attempt to develop this site in a way that is environmentally conscious. I have also listened to the objections from the local community and still believe that the development should go ahead. Please do not make my name public. People are very emotional around this development and I am involved in a local volunteer organisation. P1073	Project Website Submission	10/11/2010	Online Submission from Joanna Maiden (support)	My family and I live in our home in the very North of Byron Shire. We could probably walk to the proposed event site. I support the development application on the following grounds: - It is of cultural and social benefit to residents of the shire to have a designated events site located close to us. I love having access to world class music events in a regional community such as ours. - My husband and I run two restaurant businesses in Byron Shire and notice an increase in trade when large events are held in our area. We employ more people for more casual shifts when events are on in the shire. We noticed a drop in business this year when 'Splendour in the Grass' was relocated to Woodford. - Personally, I would like to see in the submission, more smaller festivals and less larger, but overall am very happy with the Development Application by North Byron Parklands and feel they support the environment and our community. Thank you

P1074	Project Website Submission	10/11/2010	Online Submission from Neil Moran of Seesaw Signs & Visual Displays (support)	I strongly support the project as proposed by North Byron Parklands (NBP). I am both a small business owner in Byron Bay and attendee of events like Splendour in the Grass. I have thoroughly examined the proposal and feel that NBP have put together an event site that can only enrich both the cultural and economic fabric of the region. The proposal will create real jobs. It will provide a creative outlet for musicians and artists of the region, as well as introduce thousands to the beauty of our region. I urge you to approve the North Byron Parklands proposal. P1075	Project Website Submission	10/11/2010	Online Submission from David Parker of Thiess (support)	I support this application on a number of fronts but particularly on environmental management and social benefits flowing to the community. It is time to support the creative industries which so many people rely on for a living. Many people worry about financially providing for themselves and their families and rightly so. Today it is hard to find a good job outside of the larger cities. When a project such as North Byron Parklands comes along offering lots of jobs it is surely in the interests of working families that such a project is located in a regional area. It should be approved just on its employment capabilities let alone any other benefits it is bound to bring. The Northern Rivers region needs to plan ahead for future employment and training opportunities for our young community. We need to offer options to the young members of the community to encourage them to stay in the area. This proposal will provide these incentives. P1076	Project Website Submission	10/11/2010	Online Submission from Paul Warry of Ballina Manor (support)	I am in complete favour of this project as it is of my opinion the entire area will have finacial and enviromential gain. I have been in business in the region now for 3 years and have seen firsthand the benefits of the proposed festivals. I like many others understand the impact on the local economy and the environment and see these tourist events being a great platform for social interaction and teaching of ways to co exist with the environment. The Northern Rivers like most areas of Australia has been feeling the effects of the Global Financial Crisis and I can see how the tourist events will help to lessen the burden with a mass increase of money being injected into the region and the on flow of this capital will be very wide spread, including extra money going into local council for infrastructure and local businesses which then returns to the people through increased employment. Not everything in this world is easy and I know there will be many people needed to help make these events safe and viable for the patrons and environment and I am glad to put up my hand and say i am ready to help make any event a sucsess for our region. 				Young people living on the north coast have a tough time finding employment, and particularly jobs that are of interest to them. The Parklands proposal will provide hundreds of jobs for people in our area and this represents a huge plus for a lot of kids.
				Under the North Byron Parklands environmental management manual there is a particular Environmental Standard that requires events being held on the site to adhere to a number of stringent environmental controls. The controls include buffer zones, environmental inductions, fencing aspects, wildlife rescue teams and lighting requirement to reduce illumination of bush blocks. I am unaware of any other outdoor event venue requiring such tight environmental controls. Parklands will certainly be moving towards Australian best practice, if not worldâ™s best environmental practice.

As a resident of the Byron Shire, I wholeheartedly support the North Byron Parklands proposal, which is currently before the State Government.

There are very few opportunities for young people in this region to access creative arts industries and this venue, should it be approved, will create vital jobs for a significant number of young people who are seeking meaningful employment in the arts industries.

Jobs for young people in creative fields are difficult to access in the city, let alone regional areas. North Byron Parklands would encourage young people to get involved in the organisation, hosting and coordination of events to learn new skills necessary to gain work in the creative arts and music industries. ? such as event management and cultural heritage management.  These opportunities are priceless and vital for young people, particularly those in regional areas.

The region has a long history of hosting music, arts and cultural events. The creative arts sector contributes over $190 million to the local economy making the creative industries sector a strong regional employer and significant income generator.

The North Byron Parklands proposal will ensure that Byron and the Northern Rivers region retains and attracts artists of all disciplines and assists local people to access these employment opportunities.

Yours Sincerely,

Vivien Fantin

P1084	Project Website Submission	10/11/2010	Online Submission from Cameron Russell of n/a (support)	A cultural event site such as the one proposed by North Byron Parklands will help develop creative industries on the north coast. Events such as Splendour In The Grass inspire and encourage young adults to be creative and also provide special initiatives such as the young artists program, Splendid. Lets build up the creative industries in the region! As a young professional and an avid Splendour supporter, I understand the economic, environmental, cultural and social impacts of such an event as Splendour In The Grass to the community in which it resides. I have every faith in the organisers of Splendour to continue to do the right thing and develop the annual festival into one of the most sustainable and well integrated events in Australia. I would be more than willing to offer my time to support the ongoing development and any related matters associated with the success of the event, and believe that the most important aspect of continued success and sustainability planning is to have a set location/site for the event to call home. Byron Bay and surrounding areas is the home of this festival. Please allow Splendour to call North Byron Parklands HOME. My name is Rachael and I would like to confirm my support for this proposal. I am an active participant in the Arts & Cultural industries and I wholeheartedly support this application/proposal. I have attended the Splendour In The Grass Festival many many times and having attending many many festivals and events over the last 20 years i can honestly say it is one of the best if not the best run festival in the country. I believe that the festival based at North Byron Parklands amongst other events will support the local and statewide arts & cultural community and provide opportunity for arts & cultural workers in the creative industries to develop their skills and broaden their experience by exposure to the festival and it's international offerings. It makes sense that this will in turn lead to further jobs in the local community and certainly growth in this area. I am also confident that the proposal satisfies the environmental concerns for the area and the site. And that there has been much investigation, consultation and thought placed in this regard. above re just a few reasons why i support this proposal. There are other including the obvious tourism benefits, Social & Cultural benefits and more. Thanks for reading this. Sincerely Rachael Dixon

The application covers all issues and provides a range of solutions. It is now time to approve it. North Byron Parklands is proposing a sustainable arts and music venue that will provide significant employment opportunities to a range of people in the Byron and Northern Rivers region. Many of the jobs will suit our younger people and with an aging demographic this is vital to ensuring that there is an opportunity to up skill our youth in a growing and profitable sector. Jobs are very important. I must say that protecting the environment is high on my list and that holds when talking about festival event sites. The North Byron Parklands team have obviously spent considerable time and money developing up an environmental, health and safety management manual designed to identify, manage and monitor environmental performance. This as far as I understand is a first for such cultural activities and should be strongly supported.

P1089	Project Website Submission	10/11/2010	Online Submission from Dianne Costin of individual ()	The North Byron Parklands project will incorporate a range of best practice environmental policies and procedures including a requirement to only host events in the existing cleared areas of the site. This means that all forested areas will be protected via fencing and security measures and effectively be out of bounds for event usage. This is a very positive initiative from an environmental point of view. While the economy booms in other states, NSW and in particular regional NSW continues to suffer. The likely employment opportunities that North Byron Parklands will bring to the Northern Rivers shall be substantial. Many people in this region are finding it hard to secure a job and therefore we need as many of these innovative projects as possible. The North Byron Parklands proposal will provide social benefits across the Northern Rivers area. Cultural events are valued by the community as it adds to their quality of life and creates improved social cohesion, lifestyle improvement, diversity, and increased creativity. Events are really important for young people today. Coming together is not just about getting drunk and partying. It?s about helping each other and learning. Having a permanent cultural event venue in nature is the way forward for young people.

P1090	Project Website Submission	10/11/2010	Online Submission from Brett Rowe of Self Employed in Music Industry (support)	I know of many businesses that rely on events for a large part of their income. These businesses employ local people and locally based jobs are hard to come by. We should support Parklands as it will be a large employer in the region. So many individuals, families and businesses rely on the tourism dollar for their living. In the North Coast region a large majority of business are geared towards the tourism market. With the dollar at record heights more Australians are considering overseas travel and this will impact on local tourism dependant businesses. If a project like North Byron Parklands succeeds in gaining approval then this region stands to deliver a much needed and welcomed tourism boost. The government must seriously take this into account. In the past the Splendour in the Grass festival has provide young adults with high level training in many areas, plus, supported creative youth initiatives like Splendid. These P1091	Project Website Submission	10/11/2010	Online Submission from Andrea Soler of Nimbin Rox YHA (support)	Please bring Splendour home! North Byron Parklands commintment to the preserving and enhancing the local ecosytems is shown through the large amount of ecological planning that has already gone into the proposed site. Parklands has developed a environmental, health and safety management manual to ensure the end result is a sustainable cultural events site. Four of the owners of North Byron Parklands each have a long and successful history in hosting events. The size of these events have ranged from 5,000 to 50,000 people and have occurred at a number of venues across NSW. The skills, systems and processes they have developed over the past 12-15 years will no doubt be employed to ensure all events held at North Byron Parklands are done so in a professional and safe manner.

Tourism is really the back bone of of regional areas such as the Northern Rivers. This proposal will not only boost tourism but it will boost the creative industries sector and encourage other supportive industries to invest in the creative industries sector creating growth in the area. This proposal needs to be approved.

In my community I know of more than a dozen people who will gain from the approval of this application. From part time work to gaining new business this project represents an excellent opportunity to strengthen the local economy.

P1092	Project Website Submission	10/11/2010	Online Submission from Adam Nicholas (support)	As much as I enjoyed Splendour at Woodfordia, it's nothing compared to the memories I have of it during the Byron years. Please bring it back to state in which it belongs. With the documenting of environmental requirements through the North Byron Parklands management manual it is clear that a very high level of commitment has been made to protect and enhance the environment. Take for example the requirement to have a 30 metre buffer between the car park and adjoining nature reserve. This initiative will protect the nature reserve and will allow for the buffer area to slowly regenerate back to its former bushland status. A cultural event site such as the one proposed by North Byron Parklands will help develop creative industries on the north coast. Events such as Splendour In The Grass inspire and encourage young adults to be creative and also provide special initiatives such as the young artists program, Splendid. Lets build up the creative industries in the region! Recent statistics provided by the Australian Bureau of Statistics indicate that the majority of business owners in the shire and the northern rivers area do not employ people, rather these businesses are operated by self employed people. As such it is obvious that other larger organisations and businesses are required to employ people in a are in much need of job opportunities. North Byron Parklands is one such organisation proposing to generate up to 200 full time equivalent positions. Such a project is extremely important to this area. Yours Sincerely, P1094	Project Website Submission	10/11/2010	Online Submission from Magdalena Tomaszewski of Chugg Entertainment (support)	The North Byron Parklands will be the 1st proposed land use that will see a massive improvement in environmental outcomes for the site. For many years the North Byron Parklands site has been used for intensive agricultural activities and land clearing, impacting on the site dramatically. North Byron Parklands has planned mass plantings, fauna habitat creation and most importantly no event activities for some 260 plus days a year to restore the site. This has to be seen as a great result for the local environment. As part of Parklands proposed construction phase they have developed a range of measures to mitigate environmental impacts. These include erecting signage, supervision of minor tree removal by a qualified ecologist, compensatory planting, fauna culverts and the installation of sediment and erosion control systems. This is just for the construction component of the project. The environmental controls proposed for the operation phase are even more detailed and impressive. In the Byron and northern rivers areas tourism is subject to busy times and quiet times. It is planned that a number of events will occur at the North Byron Parklands site each year and one of these takes place in winter when tourism businesses are struggling to cover costs. Building a dedicated events venue in the Byron Shire will have a number of very positive benefits for the tourism industry which is a good thing. In my community I know of more than a dozen people who will gain from the approval of this application. From part time work to gaining new business this project represents an excellent opportunity to strengthen the local economy. P1095	Project Website Submission	10/11/2010	Online Submission from Sarah Hurwitz of Myspace (support)	The North Byron Parklands site has a long history of agricultural activity that has degraded much of the site over the past 50 years. While there are still some high conservation value areas of the site a great deal of regeneration is needed before the site can be considered ecologically valuable. The Parklands people are proposing significant tree plantings which will be a valuable process. If we consider the important contributions to the region made by tourism such as income generation and the creation of jobs then it follows that approving projects that have a large positive effect on increasing tourism rates will be a good thing for the State of NSW. North Byron Parklands will be responsible for drawing thousands of intra and interstate visitors, most of whom will require accommodation, food and beverages and in many instances will actively pursue some form of paying leisure activity. The preservation of ecological values in and around the Parklands site is an important aspect of North Byron Parklands proposal. The large amount of scientific assessment that has been conducted shows that the site has been heavily degraded over the past number of years and that the proposed fauna and flora management plans will greatly enhance and protect existing identified values on the site. North Byron Parklands proposal will create 210 full time equivalent jobs. The proposal will generate approximately $192.6 million annually (total multiplier effect) when operating at capacity (RPS Group March 2010). These figures found on the North byron Parklands website are extremely impressive and would benift the community dramatically. This application must be approved!

This proposal is so important for the Northen Rivers region because of the number of great things that will come out of it. North Byron Parklands event site will bring more tourism to the area which in turn will lead to a boost in business for local businesses. The events at the site will also offer employment opportunities to the local community and help build the skills of the young workforce.

North Byron Parklands will join forces with local learning institutes like Southern Cross University and SAE (School of Audio Engineering) to further improve the areas creative industries. This alliance will provide the community with world class training and work experience opportunities.

It is time to support the creative industries which so many people rely on for a living. All along the NSW coastline tourism businesses provide employment and income to hundreds of thousands of individuals and families. This is certainly the case in the northern rivers region where the proposed North Byron Parklands is to be located. Such an important project as this which will see up to 150,000 extra visitors coming to the region per annum which will translate into massive business benefits for the local tourism sector. The effects of not having splendour in byron this year were obvious, Vacancy signs everywhere and service industry well down. We should be embracing this opportunity and welcoming such a dedicated and environmentally concious employer provider to our area. P1106	Project Website Submission	10/11/2010	Online Submission from Ana Lopez (support)	To whom it may concern, I cannot possibly stress enough the significance of the decision you are about to make in regards to approving The Parklands development proposal. There are numerous reasons as to why the Splendour Festival should permanently remina in Byron Bay and I'm certain you will hear from a lot of passionate youths and music lovers alike who desperately want to make you see the benefits such a festival brings to the state of NSW. Please take the time to carefully consider the decision you make and the lives it affects. You may think it is a petty music festival, but do your research well and surely you will realise the very grand scale Splendour really is. Not only attracting thousands who attend, but thousands more who participate by merely listening to tunes on the radio or simply wanting desperately to go and try to get tickets. You have to ask yourself, why do they want to go so badly?

Again. Do your research only to find the natural beauty and wonder Splendour embraces in its natural environment as well as the artists it brings from all over Australia in the world. It truly is more than a multi day experience. It encaptures the essense of our lives in a simple camping trip.

Splendour in the Grass offers local youth the opportunity to work at the festival in return for a festival ticket. This program gives the youth valuable work experience in customer service, hospitality, event management etc. Splendour in the Grass also offers work to musicians, live sound engineers, and event managers.

The young people on the Northern Rivers deserve to have a festival that they can be proud of, a festival that they religiously attend, and a festival that is held in a environmental sound and sustainable venue. I fully support the North Byron Parklands proposal.

Sincerely,

Ana Lopez

There is unlikely to be many (if any) other types of development north coast that have gone to this level of detail and thoroughness. The commitments listed to preserve and enhance the ecology certainly help to put this development into the â□œsustainableâ□□ development basket. Many who attend Splendour choose to stay a few days before or after the festival and make more of a holiday of their time in the area. The spin-off from such visitors must be extremely valuable to the many other tourism-related businesses in and around Byron Bay. We have heard it many times before that living in a community which has locally based jobs provides for a health and sustainable society. Jobs in the north of New South Wales are hard to come by at the best of times so when a project comes along which will create new jobs for people it is important to support it. That is a key reason why I support the approval of the North Byron Parklands project.

One of the strengths of the North Byron Parklands proposal is the flow on benefits it will provide to the tourism industry. Still picking itself up after the recent financial crisis the tourism industry stands to be the big winner from this proposal. With massive visitor generating capacity this proposal will singlehandedly attract hundreds of thousands of people to the region, all of whom need accommodation and other services once they arrive.

In the past the Splendour in the Grass festival has provide young adults with high level training in many areas, plus, supported creative youth initiatives like Splendid. These opportunities offered to the young community are truly invaluable to our region.

Just recently I holidayed in Byron Bay and I was speaking with the manager of the Byron Bay Tourist Centre re: the Splendour In The Grass situation. She expressed her deep concern with the financial downfall her business will go through if the festival is moved outside of their community. This is just one business owner I spoke too, I'm sure there are many many more with a very similar story.

To me there is reason enough to bring the festival back to its home land, support your locals and your shire will prosper.

Note - Byron is a great spot to go surfing. If I can go up to Splendour and catch a few waves at the same time, well then lets go. Can't surf inland.

This proposal brings in new hope to Byron Bays local economy, small businesses that currently struggle will thrive on the additional revenue. The Byron and surrounding areas in the last twenty years have survived on the back of tourism. While other more traditional industries have been in decline, tourism has provided an income for countless families and individuals in the region. North Byron Parklands is a project that will generate large numbers of visitors to the region which given the recent global financial crisis is just what the sector needs. Dear NSW Department of Planning,

There are a number of GOOD reasons Splendour in the Grass should not be a concern should it return to Byron Bay.

1. One of the big measures that will protect fauna at the North Byron Parklands site is the limiting of events to a minimal number each year. If such a proposal was to operate for 20 weeks a year then they may cause some environmental problems but given that it will only run for 20 days a year and the rest of the time it will be just farm land, then this has to be a strong positive.

2. The potential adverse impact of the Parklands usage on flora and fauna has been largely mitigated by virtue of the event site occupying only existing grassland areas of the site and avoiding vegetated parts of the site. Further, the significant increase in habitat afforded by the additional 11.1 ha of revegetation and 48.1 ha of additional plantings also mitigates against adverse impact upon flora and fauna species.

3. The North Byron Parklands proposal should be approved because of the incredible opportunities it provides both the community and the business community. I can imagine that this cultural arts and music event venue as becoming the preeminent cultural hub of Northern NSW and will do a lot to attract dollars from Queensland and Victoria. This project should be approved.

4. Why wouldnâ□™t we want a world class facility like North Byron parklands in the Byron region? This proposal will create new jobs to young adults and promote sustainable development. The local government should welcome that and support this proposal.

5. And finally, who wants to travel to the Sunshine Coast for three days, with the only accomodation option being tents!

Kind Regards,

Glen Gorton

So many people in the northern rivers area rely on the tourism industry for their bread and butter. These days most businesses are geared towards the tourism dollar and if past trends are anything to go by this industry sector will continue to play a key role in the regionâ™s economic fortunes. The people behind Parklands will play a dominant role in growing and sustaining the tourism industry and we should all get behind them to make this project a reality.

North Byron Parklands proposal is a tangible cultural asset for the youth. It seems obvious, the jobs that will come from the proposal are needed in the region. This application should be approved by local government if only for the young people in the community.

P1113	Project Website Submission	09/11/2010	Online Submission from Chris Garrick (support)	The site in question if not used for a sustainable cultural arts and event venue may end up being used by whoever buys it in a manner that would place greater pressure on the environment. Here we have an opportunity to hold a low impact activity that will see the land rested for some 75% of the year. Allowing such large rest times will benefit both fauna and flora across and adjacent to the site. This is a very positive outcome. With such a massive projected increase in the population of the north coast how are people expected to find meaningful work? It is only by governments thinking outside of the traditional tourism and accommodation industries and assisting other sectors to operate that such jobs can be made available. Parklands covers an industry that can provide lots of local jobs. A place where people can get together and enjoy the beauty that Byron Bay has to offer.

A place where people can get together and enjoy the beauty that Byron Bay has to offer.

The young people on the Northern Rivers deserve to have a festival that they can be proud of, a festival that they religiously attend, and a festival that is held in a environmental sound and sustainable venue. I fully support the North Byron Parklands proposal.

P1114	Project Website Submission	09/11/2010	Online Submission from Cherise Vecchio (support)	While much is made about the supposed wildlife corridor in and around the North Byron Parklands site the fact is that much of the vegetation is patchy and degraded. The Parklands people have gone to great lengths to ensure that temporary events are managed in a way to maintain and improve fauna movement. For example only placing temporary fencing just before events commence is one such initiative that will help greatly with this issue. If you were to analysis the professional event management of such festivals as Splendour in the Grass, Parklife, Shore Thing and Sunset Suns one could only come to the conclusion that these event operators are up there with the most successful an well managed events in Australia. Each of these events are owned and operated by members of North Byron Parklands. Their expertise in event management is second to none and will be a huge advantage in ensuring the events hosted at this site are done so in a compliant and professional way. BECAUSE... WE LOVE SPLENDOUR! P1115	Project Website Submission	09/11/2010	Online Submission (support)	North Byron Parklands have undertaken a detailed economic impact assessment which bodes well for the tourism industry should it be approved. Projections show that tens of thousands of people will visit the area each year and this influx of people will significantly bolster our tourism businesses. With so many locals relying on the tourism industry for their income, such a project is very welcome. The future of Byron Bay. Employment, community benefits, fun. Need we say more? In addition to the plethora of environmental programs proposed by North Byron Parklands once the site becomes operational, I note that they will also undertake in-depth ecological assessments prior to and during their construction phase. While it is noted that their building program is relatively small given the limited infrastructure planned, it is very pleasing to see that such ecological assessment and monitoring is to be undertaken. P1116	Project Website Submission	09/11/2010	Online Submission from Shanu Walsh of Student (support)	The economic benefits from this proposal will be felt locally and regionally. 210 full time equivalent jobs will be created by the approval of this application. It is estimated that the total multiplier effect of the enterprise operating at capacity is $192.6 million annually. In relation to fauna movement across and adjacent to the North Byron Parklands site one huge positive that the proposed underpass will bring is that it will provide much needed north-south migration on either side of Jones Road. This road currently acts as a barrier for such fauna movement and denies many creatures the opportunity to take advantage of the RTAâ□™s expensive fauna overpass straddling the Pacific highway. This alone will provide significant fauna movement routes for many creatures. Splendour in the Grass has provided a lot of mentorship and training opportunities for young people in the past. The fabulous Splendid initiative is an example of this. They really invest in young people. Even if these initiatives remain limited to Splendour in the Grass, itâ□™s important to have these opportunities for young people in the region..... i find it very hard to understand the opposition to the north Byron Parklands proposal, which seems to come form a small minority of people from the shire. Byron is an area of free hearted expression, not conservatism. splendour gives this region so many possibilities that nothing else can.

Splendour enables this area to show its colours and its unique nature that it has so well been known for.

What happens when we begin to stop this, and turn to a conservative view. This unique life found in the shire will become a memory, rather than a future. LET SPLENDOUR BE, BRING HER HOME.

P1117	Project Website Submission	09/11/2010	Online Submission from leah baxter of old world new vintage (support)	At present the North Byron Parklands site is subject to significant sediment and erosion issues. Previous land practices have seen poor top soil removal and impacts on graded lands. The North Byron Parklands proposal aims to address these existing soil impacts and also has put in place a sediment and erosion control plan during their construction and operation phases. This is to be commended. I must say that protecting the environment is high on my list and that holds when talking about festival event sites. The North Byron Parklands team have obviously spent considerable time and money developing up an environmental, health and safety management manual designed to identify, manage and monitor environmental performance. This as far as I understand is a first for such cultural activities and should be strongly supported. P1118	Project Website Submission	09/11/2010	Online Submission from carmelina pantano of portuguese kitchen (support)	If you speak to anyone these days, getting and keeping a job is high up on the list. Regional areas generally do not have a range of diversified industries to choose from. Parklands is offering meaningful and interesting work, particularly for young people and should be welcomed with open arms. The preservation of ecological values in and adjacent to the Parklands site is an important aspect of the proposal. Much scientific assessment has been undertaken which highlights that the site has been heavily degraded over the past number of years and that the proposed fauna and flora management plans will greatly enhance and protect existing identified values. The North Byron Parklands Project will actually result in a positive impact on the environment and should be supported. Having read the environmental assessment report I can say without reserve that I strongly support the proposal put forward by North Byron Parklands. The application covers off on all of the important issues such as noise, traffic and ecology. It is so pleasing to see a development that has considered and responded to such a diverse range of issues. I firmly believe that the government should approve this application. P1120	Project Website Submission	09/11/2010	Online Submission from Sam Cromack of Ball Park Music (support)	With the documenting of environmental requirements through the North Byron Parklands management manual it is clear that a very high level of commitment has been made to protect and enhance the environment. Take for example the requirement to have a 30 metre buffer between the car park and adjoining nature reserve. This initiative will protect the nature reserve and will allow for the buffer area to slowly regenerate back to its former bushland status. The North Byron Parklands event site will generate significant economic benefits to the region. There will be an increase in jobs for the maintenance and management of the North Byron Parklands site as well as employment opportunities from the organisations of the proposed events at the site. NSW has a golden opportunity to be a leader in outdoor event venues by approving North Byron Parklands. What will no doubt be an iconic music and artistic venue will be the envy of other states and will no doubt attract events from other states to NSW.

North Byron Parkland events are not only for the youth, theyâ□™re for the whole community, young and old. Events can rejuvenate and reconnect us with our elders and our juniors.

P1122	Project Website Submission	09/11/2010	Online Submission from Erica Clark (support)	It seems they most likely disturbance for the environment will be light and noise and also traffic. Having reviewed North Byron Parklandâ□™s environmental, health and safety management manual it is clear that they have put a lot of energy into assessing and mitigating any potential environmental risks associated with these activities. The work they have done for managing the environment is above and beyond what one would expect for such a low impact activity. The northern rivers area over the past 20 years has been built on the back of the creative arts industry, so it is vital that the government support this industry by promptly approving the North Byron Parklands project.

Musicians and artists are finding it harder to earn a living by way of live performances because so many venues are being closed down around the country. It is time the government supported this industry and one way of showing this support is by approving the North Byron Parklands venue.

North Byron Parklands sounds like a great idea. I would definitely attend and no doubt a lot of my friends will. It sounds exciting and fun.

P1126	Project Website Submission	09/11/2010	Online Submission from Michelle Cuff (support)	While it has to be recognised that the recently upgraded Pacific Highway and the existing Tweed Valley Way represent the biggest barrier to fauna migration in an east-west direction, the owners of North Byron Parklands have committed to improving the currently degraded wildlife corridor in a number of ways. Putting aside the fact that they have already planted over 7,000 trees in the corridor area and removed large quantities of noxious weeds, their vegetation management plan will dramatically improve vegetation cover and thereby improve species movement opportunities through the further planting of endemic trees. This is a huge positive. North Byron Parklands commitment to the environment and vegetation management should be applauded. I see no reason at all why this shouldnâ□™t go ahead. P1128	Project Website Submission	09/11/2010	Online Submission from William Webster (support)	The North Byron Parklands is quite unique in that the proposed outdoor venue will be non-operation for the vast majority of the year. With only twenty event days per year this means that there is significant time for resting the site which is a huge positive for the environment. It should be considered that if this development does not proceed then some other form of development which may be far more intrusive and full time in nature may be applied for and approved in the future. This project will be good for the environment. While the economy booms in other states, NSW and in particular regional NSW continues to suffer. The likely employment opportunities that North Byron Parklands will bring to the Northern Rivers shall be substantial. Many people in this region are finding it hard to secure a job and therefore we need as many of these innovative projects as possible.

The local government must get behind the North Byron Parklands proposal and bring Splendour in the Grass back to the Byron Shire area. The Byron shire needs the tourism, the culture and the job opprotunities that will come from this development. Lets get behind it!

North Byron Parklands commintment to the preserving and enhancing the local ecosytems is shown through the large amount of ecological planning that has already gone into the proposed site. Parklands has developed a environmental, health and safety management manual to ensure the end result is a sustainable cultural events site.

The North Byron Parklands proposal should be approved because of the incredible opportunities it provides both the community and the business community. I can imagine that this cultural arts and music event venue as becoming the preeminent cultural hub of Northern NSW and will do a lot to attract dollars from Queensland and Victoria. This project should be approved.

P1130	Project Website Submission	09/11/2010	Online Submission from Sorrell Millis (support)	To Whom It May Concern

I'm writing my submission in favour of the North Byron Parklands application as a cultural events site. I have lived in Byron for 13 years and see what a huge economic benefit festivals bring to the area, it's not just a quick hit, but the festivals support local businesses, employers and employees and enable them to therefore keep supporting our local economy long after the last festival goer has gone home. It also creates jobs for locals & particularly the young. Not just jobs at the festival but also in the local businesses that need extra employees to cope with the busy spells.

The festival also brings an ecclectic mix of patrons to our shire, they contribute to the colourful mix of locals wandering around town, adding to the vibrancy of our shire towns.

It's also wonderful that their events bring such a wide range of music & performances, adding to the rich cultural experiences of Byron Shire.

Ultimately any festival needs to be managed effectively and I believe that the creators of Splendor in the Grass have proved they can operate a professional festival and responsibly deal with traffic, parking, waste, noise etc. I'm proud to have this festival and others in my shire. I may no longer participate as I'm now a mother with a young family and been there, done that, but I see it's benefits far reaching into our community.

Byron has long been associated with the young, it's why many of us have called it home, we should be encouraging positive events that contribute to our local economy & appeal, it feels to me that this is a huge step in the right direction of giving Byron it's identity back, something that has been lost in the past couple of years.

Yours faithfully,

Sorrell Millis

P1131	Project Website Submission	09/11/2010	Online Submission from Dennis Le (support)	It is widely acknowledged that the operators of the Woodfordia venue where Splendour in the Grass was held in 2010 know how to set up and manage a sustainable, enviro-conscious venue. It is my understanding that the highly respected operators of that venue, the Woodford Folk Festival, fully support the plans for North Byron Parklands and are actively advising the NBP owners on the best way forward. This is a major stamp of approval for the whole project, given that Woodfordia stands to lose the very valuable Splendour business should NBP come into being How many more venues have to close in NSW before people realise that soon there will be nowhere to play live music or undertake live performances. The NSW Government has a responsibility to ensure that well managed live outdoor venues are made available to the people of this state. P1132	Project Website Submission	09/11/2010	Online Submission from Noel Smyth (support)	North Byron Parklands has held a number of tree planting days on the site where they have invited the public to get their hands dirty and plant a tree in the parts of the wildlife corridor that were just open paddock. It speaks volumes for the hypocrisy of local objectors that not one of them ever turned up to put a seedling in the ground to help expand the fragmented wildlife corridor that they so loudly claim to be safeguarding. Those 7,500 trees are now some metres high and thriving. The employment size of businesses within the Northern Rivers and Byron Shire reflects that the majority of businesses within the Byron Shire (60%) and the Northern Rivers Region (62%) are non-employing. The majority of these businesses are sole operators and the region needs organisationâ□™s like North Byron Parklands to provide much needed jobs. Tourism is really the back bone of of regional areas such as the Northern Rivers. This proposal will not only boost tourism but it will boost the creative industries sector and encourage other supportive industries to invest in the creative industries sector creating growth in the area. This proposal needs to be approved.

P1133	Project Website Submission	09/11/2010	Online Submission from Elly Bingham of Minor Elite (support)	Name: Noel Smyth Address: Unit 6, 105 Sherwood Road, Toowong Qld IP Address: brisbane.bcm.com.au - 58.96.60.131 Submission for Job: #3210 Cultural Events Site (Project Application) https://majorprojects.onhiive.com/index.pl?action=view_job&id=3210 Site: #1982 Cultural Events Site - Tweed Valley Way and Jones Road, Yelgun (09_0028) https://majorprojects.onhiive.com/index.pl?action=view_site&id=1982 I believe that the proposal to utilise North Byron Parklands as a permanent home for Splendour in the Grass - one of Australia's greatest festivals - is a must. The dozen or so events that are planned to be held on the 660 acres each year would provide local employment, income for local businesses and increase focus on the Byron Shire in general. If the festival had a permanent home and the land designated was set aside for this purpose, then local indigenous groups may also be able to be part of the festivals, either as performers, cultural ambassadors/teachers or employees/stall holders etc. Regarding this, events held there would assist in 'Closing the Gap' between indigenous and non-indigenous Australians. The festival was a success at Woodford this past year, but as Splendour has grown to such a size, it really requires its own land, avoiding the high rental fees required for hiring property for their event. This then means that there is more funding available to pay acts that travel to the festival each year. It is a hard road for Australian musicians to get their music 'out there' and performing on the festival scene is a major and brilliant opportunity for new and upcoming bands to get themselves known to a large audience all at once. It also provides musicians with the opportunity to sell their CDs and other merchandise, and promote future shows and events. Pubs and other indoor public venues are hamstrung by noise laws. Festivals have a life of their own and provide the opportunity for musicians and performers to present their craft the way it was designed without fear of having their equipment wrecked as it is shut down if their music goes over a certain DB level.

				Many festivals have closed, please don't let that happen to Splendour in the Grass. We need this festival in its own permanent space, with room to grow in the future. It is part of our culture and a massive injection to local economy. Let Splendour in the Grass set down roots on North Byron Parklands. P1134	Project Website Submission	09/11/2010	Online Submission from Rhiannon Hunter (support)	We should all be getting behind such an exciting project which offers businesses and the community a range of important social and economic benefits. The beauty of this application is that it also strongly supports the environment. Businesses from across the northern rivers involved in tourism related activities stand to benefit significantly from the influx of visitors both from within and outside NSW. The likely spend from attendees at events held at North Byron Parklands would be strong given people will procure accommodation, buy food and drink and purchase a range of other goods and services. This will translate into an economic bonus for the region that must not be squandered. There are many parts of the North Byron Parklands proposal that will directly benefit the young members of the community. These benefits include more employment opportunities, an increase in cultural events, and more incentives to remain in the area rather than moving away to the city.

Byron Bay is historically linked to the Splendour in the Grass music festival. This particular festival aligns perfectly with the Byron Bay way of life. To remove Splendour in the Grass from Byron Bay permanently would be to strip Byron of its strong musical and cultural hertiage.

P1135	Project Website Submission	09/11/2010	Online Submission from Kirsten Thomas (support)	I think that Splendour in the Grass is one of the very few festivals that bring people together. It is almost a rite of passage for some people and is extremely important to the Australian music scene. As I am sure many people have already said... The North Byron Parklands project will see upwards of 150,000 patrons coming to the region when it reaches full capacity. All of these people will need places to stay and food and other supplies. They will spend on tourism attractions and help bolster the local economy. From a tourism perspective this project makes great sense. I study tourism and hospitality myself, and knowing exactly how much revenue can be generated from such an event, is just ridiculous to think that the negatives outweigh the positives - especially for the local community. So please, take everyone's submissions into consideration and bring Splendour back home!! P1140	Project Website Submission	09/11/2010	Online Submission from Rachel McBain (support)	I support this application on a number of fronts but particularly on environmental management and social benefits flowing to the community. It is time to support the creative industries which so many people rely on for a living. The North Byron Parklands proposal combines ecology with events and community giving. This is exactly the type of training and experience we need our young people to look to. I know of many businesses that rely on events for a large part of their income. These businesses employ local people and locally based jobs are hard to come by. We should support Parklands as it will be a large employer in the region. How many more venues have to close in NSW before people realise that soon there will be nowhere to play live music or undertake live performances. The NSW Government has a responsibility to ensure that well managed live outdoor venues are made available to the people of this state.

If we consider the important contributions to the region made by tourism such as income generation and the creation of jobs then it follows that approving projects that have a large positive effect on increasing tourism rates will be a good thing for the State of NSW. North Byron Parklands will be responsible for drawing thousands of intra and interstate visitors, most of whom will require accommodation, food and beverages and in many instances will actively pursue some form of paying leisure activity. To let such an opportunity pass the region by would be a crime.

P1142	Project Website Submission	09/11/2010	Online Submission from Alex Arnaudon of Climate Friendly (support)

With regards to the wildlife corridor it has been significantly degraded over many decades due to such activities as primary production and agriculture. As such it is currently highly fragmented and in need of revegetation. The Parklands proposal will see the biggest rehabilitation program the area has seen for the past 5o years as a result of its detailed vegetation management plan which will result in thousands of trees being planted in strategic areas.

In recent times visitor day trips to the northern rivers has been declining. Coupled with a downward trend in the average per head tourism spend it is clear that strategies need to be put in place to increase visitor numbers. Projects that can significantly increase tourism numbers in a short space of time include cultural event activities such as those proposed by North Byron Parklands. This business is capable of attracting hundreds of thousands of visitors each year to the northern rivers which will be a huge boon for the area.

Why not? There are other areas around Byron that cater for all types of events, how is it even contemplated when North Byron Parklands has so much to offer?

P1143	Project Website Submission	09/11/2010	Online Submission from Florence Leggbagg (support)	If you consider that businesses involved in the tourism industry that will directly benefit from the North Byron Parklands project stretch from Ballina in the South to Tweed Heads in the North, not to mention all the inland towns, then it becomes very apparent that this project will benefit a very wide area. Supporting the tourism industry should be a key concern for the government and approving projects of this nature would help the industry considerably. Jobs are hard to come by these days. Many businesses are struggling to make ends meet. The arts and events industry has provided a lot of employment opportunities on the far north coast and North Byron Parklands should be approved because it will be a major employer in the area. I object to yelgun becoming a permanent festival site mostly because it will destroy the threatened wildlife. Splendour cannot control such large amounts of people from destroying the environment. The project results in thousands of extra trees planted, improved habitat for wildlife and additions to the Nature Reserve. The careful scheduling of events to maximise â□˜downtimeâ□™ will allow the Parklands site to assist the functioning of the adjoining Nature Reserve. It is unlikely that there is another events venue that has the level of environmental management systems in place as those proposed by North Byron Parklands. P1148	Project Website Submission	09/11/2010	Online Submission from Jo-Anna Meth of N/A (support)	North Byron Parklands has provided employment opportunities for local indigenous people through the planting of over seven thousand native trees across the site. The Madhima Gulgan rainforest regeneration team has also built and implemented over 25 nest boxes for local wildlife across the site. Under the North Byron Parklands environmental management manual there is a particular Environmental Standard that requires events being held on the site to adhere to a number of stringent environmental controls. The controls include buffer zones, environmental

I am unaware of any other outdoor event venue requiring such tight environmental controls. P1149	Project Website Submission	09/11/2010	Online Submission from Sarah Cardilini (support)	Splendour in the Grass offers local youth the opportunity to work at the festival in return for a festival ticket. This program gives the youth valuable work experience in customer service, hospitality, event management etc. Splendour in the Grass also offers work to musicians, live sound engineers, and event managers. North Byron Parklands will attract tens of thousands of visitors to the area, create employment opportunities, and promote sustainable development. It seems obvious that this development will benefit our community, the local government just needs to support it!

One of the unintended effects on the environment from outdoor events is light spill. So it is pleasing to see that this issue is well addressed under the organisation?s environmental standard. This standard requires lighting to be directed downwards, away from forest blocks, using low pressure sodium vapour lights where possible, and turning off light towers at a certain time of night. Such measures will greatly reduce disturbances to any localised fauna during such events.

P1150	Project Website Submission	09/11/2010	Online Submission from Nicole Rawlings of N/A (support)	With jobs hard to come by in regional areas such as the north coast it is really important that projects that can provide ongoing employment opportunities are considered seriously by government. I believe that North Byron Parklands is one such venture that can offer many people a job opportunity. The Byron and surrounding areas in the last twenty years have survived on the back of tourism. While other more traditional industries have been in decline, tourism has provided an income for countless families and individuals in the region. P1154	Project Website Submission	09/11/2010	Online Submission from caterina waters ()	The North Byron Parklands site has been subject to intensive agricultural activities and land clearing practices for many, many years. The North Byron Parklands will be the first proposed land use that will actually see a huge improvement in environmental outcomes due to planned mass plantings, fauna habitat creation and most importantly no event activities for some 260 plus days a year. This has to be seen as a major positive outcome for the local environment. With such high unemployment rates in the Northern Rivers I am sure that the government is aware just how important it is to approve such a project as North Byron Parklands. I know many young people who would love the change to work on such a project. The government needs to take into account the generation of employment this proposal will create. Most more traditional developments do not even come close to the level of risk assessment undertaken by North Byron Parklands. North Byron Parklands have already undertaken a number of detailed fauna and flora surveys across the proposed site. On top of this they have now committed to undertaking environmental audits for all major events (before, during after). Such information will be very valuable in terms of fine tuning the current environmental policies and procedures and will dramatically reduce any associated environmental pressures. P1156	Project Website Submission	08/11/2010	Online Submission from Kristi McConnell (support)	I welcome the establishment of a cultural event site for the region. The Parklands site will host the community to come together for a wide range of community events to celebrate, to learn, for ceremonies, to exchange ideas, to demonstrate and showcase new ways of doing things. This is good for people and the planet. When you have the combined expertise of event operators as those that make up the owners of North Byron Parklands it is quite evident that events that are proposed to be held at the Parklands site will be conducted in a successful and safe manner. With years of combined expertise these industry leaders will ensure that all events are conducted in a manner that ensures the management of all aspects of large and small events are adequately covered. The projected visitor nights generated by the North Byron Parklands in its fifth year of operation is in the order of 97,000. This is a massive accommodation boon for hotels, motels, apartments and camping facilities in the region and does not even take into account the other forms of tourism expenditure that such visitors will make. Tourism is a key industry in northern NSW and should be supported in order to maintain and grow the sector into the future. The youth in the Northern Rivers area need a place to gather and have a good time and North Byron Parklands provides this. Imagine all the new opportunites and experiences young people have if this proposal is approved. They will be exposed to some of the best contemporary musical acts from all around the world and be open to new employment opportunities at all events. Parklands has developed a environmental, health and safety management manual to ensure the end result is a sustainable cultural events site. Employment is a major consideration for this proposal, bringing new hope to the people that want to stay within Byron. The North Byron Parklands proposal brings together economic growth, world class events and community giving. P1159	Project Website Submission	08/11/2010	Online Submission from Wendy Bellamy (support)	The local area needs an established cultural event site! North Byron Parklands offers a a sustainable cultural event site for the community to meet together to celebrate, learn, collaborate, and showcase contemporary practices. North Byron Parklands is a good thing and should be supported by the local government! We constantly hear about politicians doing their best to ensure a supply of good jobs for our young people, however NSW currently is experiencing very high rates of youth unemployment. Governments and politicians must become more aware of the types of projects that will generate such youth oriented jobs and the North Byron Parklands proposal is a very good example. Reported to generate in excess of 200 jobs it seems to make sense to me to approve it. The North Byron Parklands proposal combines ecology with events and community giving. This is exactly the type of training and experience we need our young people to look to. The North Byron Parkland proposal sounds very beneficial to our youth, elderly and families. P1161	Project Website Submission	08/11/2010	Online Submission from Kellie Norman ()	North Byron Parklands has held a number of tree planting days on the site where they have invited the public to get their hands dirty and plant a tree in the parts of the wildlife corridor that were just open paddock. It speaks volumes for the hypocrisy of local objectors that not one of them ever turned up to put a seedling in the ground to help expand the fragmented wildlife corridor that they so loudly claim to be safeguarding. Those 7,500 trees are now some metres high and thriving. If you were to analysis the professional event management of such festivals as Splendour in the Grass, Parklife, Shore Thing and Sunset Suns one could only come to the conclusion that these event operators are up there with the most successful an well managed events in Australia. Each of these events are owned and operated by members of North Byron Parklands. Their expertise in event management is second to none and will be a huge advantage in ensuring the events hosted at this site are done so in a compliant and professional way.

P1162	Project Website Submission	08/11/2010	Online Submission from Amiee Frost of Mullet Hair (support)	The level of detail undertaken in the identification and assessment of likely impacts on fauna and flora across and adjacent to the North Byron Parklands site is impressive. There is unlikely to be many (if any) other types of development north coast that have gone to this level of detail and thoroughness. The commitments listed to preserve and enhance the ecology certainly help to put this development into the â□œsustainableâ□□ development basket. Many people worry about financially providing for themselves and their families and rightly so. Today it is hard to find a good job outside of the larger cities. When a project such as North Byron Parklands comes along offering lots of jobs it is surely in the interests of working families that such a project is located in a regional area. P1164	Project Website Submission	08/11/2010	Online Submission from Georgina Donovan (support)	Dear Madame/Sir, If Woodfordia in Queensland can be highly respected as an enviro-friendly venue which hosts a number of festivals with large crowds, then surely North Byron Parklands can achieve the same level of acceptance and respect if given the chance. The tourism business in Byron Bay this past winter has been very slow. With the loss of Splendour in the Grass to Queensland a much needed income stream during winter evaporated. The North Byron Parklands proposal would see a number of major events coming to the region and with it a significant increase in demand for tourist accommodation and activities. The project should be carefully considered by the government due to the much needed injection of funds into the local tourism industry. Many families would benefit from this proposal.

North Byron Parkland events are not only for the youth, theyâ□™re for the whole community, young and old. Events can rejuvenate and reconnect us with our elders and our juniors.

Please consider bringing Splendour back to Byron Bay.

Kind regards,

Georgina Donovan

P1165	Project Website Submission	08/11/2010	Online Submission from Alice Whitta of Pastry cook (support)	In regards to the environment the proposed North Byron Parklands site is some 256ha in size and the proponents have committed to only every using a maximum of some 100ha thus leaving large tracts of the property for wildlife functions. I think the environmental controls under their environmental, health and safety management manual will also reduce impacts and make this a leading sustainable outdoor event venue. With jobs hard to come by in regional areas such as the north coast it is really important that projects that can provide ongoing employment opportunities are considered seriously by government. I believe that North Byron Parklands is one such venture that can offer many people a job opportunity. Surely it is obvious to the government that NSW needs a permanent sustainable outdoor music event, particularly one located on the far north coast. P1166	Project Website Submission	08/11/2010	Online Submission from Kirra Lehmann (support)

It is very telling when an organisation such as North Byron Parklands go to the considerable lengths they have to identify and assess the potential environmental impacts associated with the project. The extensive mitigation strategies they have proposed will not only see the protection of valuable ecological attributes but improve the overall environmental viability of the site. It is pleasing to see such a high level of environmental planning.

Apart from the amazing environmental initiatives covering fauna and flora across the North Byron Parklands site that have been developed, these guys are also going to tackle waste, recycling and the minimisation of resource consumption through a number of proven effective measures. They have even proposed a â□œresource centreâ□™ where materials can be stored and used again and again for other events. This is a pretty impressive effort I must say.

What benefit to the environment would there be WITHOUT them? And what about the massive injection to the economy in the form of shops, hospitality and petrol stations?

This is an event with a strong record of good management. Let them build their company to the next level, while building the site ecologically, and building the economy of the town.

P1171	Project Website Submission	08/11/2010	Online Submission from Markus Kraft (support)	Many supposed local environmental groups have been invited to visit the North Byron Parklands and to participate in the public tree planting days that have been held over the past few years. Unfortunately none of these groups have actually converted their words into action by helping to repair this partially degraded site. The local indigenous bush regeneration team on the other hand has been responsible for planting thousands of trees in key locations and is another example of the Parklands group working with its community. When the owners of North Byron Parklands bought the property they took on board a court order to rehabilitate Yelgun Creek which was badly degraded by the former owner. This creek system used to flow into the Billinudgel Nature Reserve, feeding it with flood waters and providing the varied hydrological flows that the existing flora community required. The North Byron Parklands people will now rehabilitate the creek by removing excess siltation and undertaking riparian plantings. This will be a huge plus for the nature reserve.

P1173	Project Website Submission	08/11/2010	Online Submission from Mitchell Young (support)	At the moment the average household income per year in the Byron shire and the Northern Rivers is much lower than the rest of NSW. The Byron Shire and Northern Rivers average annual income is aprox. $55,000 compared to NSWâ□™s average annual income of $71,000. Bringing Splendour home to Byron Bay to the North Byron Parklands site would open up many opportunities of employment to a community in real need. P1174	Project Website Submission	08/11/2010	Online Submission from Kate Casey (support)	In addition to the plethora of environmental programs proposed by North Byron Parklands once the site becomes operational, I note that they will also undertake in-depth ecological assessments prior to and during their construction phase. While it is noted that their building program is relatively small given the limited infrastructure planned, it is very pleasing to see that such ecological assessment and monitoring is to be undertaken. The Byron Shire Council identifies the creative industries sector as one of nine key focus areas which foster the prosperity of the shire through sustainable job creation. The shire has a long history of creative endeavours and this needs to be built on by supporting such proposals as that put forward by North Byron Parklands. Generating a large number of jobs for the area, it is extremely important that it is approved. Doing so will provide a broad spectrum of the local community with jobs that would otherwise not be available. North Byron Parklands has adopted the mapped wildlife corridors from the Byron Biodiversity Conservation Strategy as areas to be dedicated to restoration of tree cover. Future plantings and assisted regeneration in these areas will significantly increase opportunities for movement of terrestrial fauna. This is only one of many significant programs that will enhance the environment within and adjacent to the site.

The North Byron Parklands will have the Parklands teams involved who have an amazing track record in developing and holding outdoor cultural arts and music events. A guarantee that this proposal will be nothing but successful. While the current research into noise emissions and their effects on fauna is far from comprehensive, the team at North Byron Parklands have developed a host of environmental procedures and processes to manage this issue. From the use of sophisticated unidirectional public address systems to fauna monitoring programs the management systems that will be employed will greatly reduce any possible impacts on fauna. The pleasing thing to note is that fauna are only temporarily inconvenienced by noise if at all.

I feel that the area under submission will cause more issues than that of benefits. Traffic will increase together with parking problems and well as health issue's as there is no infra structure to allow for the large increase in population for the short term. To place the infra structure in the event managers would have to have numerous events and this would place strain on the eco system and locals and the overall aspect of the area. P1179	Project Website Submission	08/11/2010	Online Submission from Aimee Goss of PRSC (support)	In addition to the plethora of environmental programs proposed by North Byron Parklands once the site becomes operational, I note that they will also undertake in-depth ecological assessments prior to and during their construction phase. While it is noted that their building program is relatively small given the limited infrastructure planned, it is very pleasing to see that such ecological assessment and monitoring is to be undertaken. This proposal offers career opportunities and new life to Byron Bay for both young and old, there are many people in our community looking outside Byron for employment opportunities, why not offer work to them at home. Businesses like North Byron Parklands generate much needed jobs for our area. A lot of people I speak to are concerned about the lack of employment opportunities both within the shire and the northern rivers region. Any business that provides jobs to locals should be approved to operate. If you consider that businesses involved in the tourism industry that will directly benefit from the North Byron Parklands project stretch from Ballina in the South to Tweed Heads in the North, not to mention all the inland towns, then it becomes very apparent that this project will benefit a very wide area. Supporting the tourism industry should be a key concern for the government and approving projects of this nature would help the industry considerably.

P1180	Project Website Submission	08/11/2010	Online Submission from Casey van Reyk of Pulse Radio (support)	The North Byron Parklands site has been subject to intensive agricultural activities and land clearing practices for many, many years. The North Byron Parklands will be the first proposed land use that will actually see a huge improvement in environmental outcomes due to planned mass plantings, fauna habitat creation and most importantly no event activities for some 260 plus days a year. This has to be seen as a major positive outcome for the local environment. I also want to add that supporting Australian musicians, artists, culture and festivals is very important for each and every one of us as an individual, and as a member of the community. The people at Splendour In The Grass have the environments well-being at the forefront of their intentions and they are providing thousands of people with a joyous and full-filling experience to remember. Please let them have this space, i know only positive things will come out of it. Behind Splendour In The Grass 150%,

Take for example the requirement to have a 30 metre buffer between the car park and adjoining nature reserve. This initiative will protect the nature reserve and will allow for the buffer area to slowly regenerate back to its former bushland status. I have read the North Byron Parklands proposal submission and I have also been to many events over the years and I have to say, I am very confident that this will be a successful cultural event site. The amount of detail and the control measures put in place for this development should be applauded. This proposal must be approved! P1183	Project Website Submission	08/11/2010	Online Submission from Tim Dole of UAM (support)	The level of environmental assessment that has taken place across North Byron Parklands is greater than for any other development in the Northern Rivers region. Not even councils or government agencies responsible for managing environmental values has undertaken such in-depth studies. All such assessments indicate that the proposal will not only have minimal environmental impacts, it is actually likely to improve wildlife corridors, fauna habitat and consolidation of fragmented forest blocks. These are very positive outcomes. The Byron Shire and Northern Rivers region is home to an ageing community with a high proportion of retirees. This means many young people are leaving the area to seek education and employment opportunities elsewhere. North Byron Parklands would help provide employment for many of these young people, thus giving them a reason to stay in the area.

Many projects that have occurred across the North Coast of NSW have not undertaken even a tenth of the assessment, survey and fauna/flora investigations as that completed by North Byron Parklands. The extensive vegetation mapping and the identification of fauna across the site, coupled with two koala surveys (which did not locate any koalas) demonstrate the level of environmental assessment undertaken by this organisation. When you then add the environmental controls as proposed in their environmental, health and safety management manual it is evident that these people are very serious about environmental management.

The North Byron Parklands will deliver a range of social benefits particularly in the form of the proposed community grants program. This initiative will see up to $100,000 a year ploughed back into the local community.If we rationally consider that the proposed North Byron Parklands venue will only be in operation for a number of wee

P1184	Project Website Submission	08/11/2010	Online Submission from Amanda Gumbrell (support)	I strongly SUPPORT the North Byron Parklands proposal. I have followed and supported the proposal from the begining. The Parklands consortium have undertaken more environmental improvements on the site since purchase than anyone did beforehand (ie, it was cattle grounds and cane fields). Splendour in the Grass has also provided ongoing local community support with donation of raffle prizes to our local Ocean Shores Preschool for several years. The North Byron Parklands and Splendour in the Grass are professional organisations of local residents than run world class, well organised events. I live local to the site and I support events from large scale festivals with international music through to their minor cultural events. North Byron Parklands offers a a sustainable cultural event site for the community to meet together to celebrate, learn, collaborate, and showcase contemporary practices. North Byron Parklands is a good thing and should be supported by the local government! P1187	Project Website Submission	08/11/2010	Online Submission from Patrick O'Leary of S.E Productions (support)

The level of commitment in relation to environmental monitoring before, during and after events is going to provide environmental benefits on two fronts. First it will accurately document the presence or otherwise of various fauna around event times. It will also importantly start to build a large amount of environmental data which can be used to guide and modify environmental practices into the future. With the already significant amount of environmental data captured through assessments and surveys, this body of knowledge is likely to be significant.

When you have the combined expertise of event operators as those that make up the owners of North Byron Parklands it is quite evident that events that are proposed to be held at the Parklands site will be conducted in a successful and safe manner. With years of combined expertise these industry leaders will ensure that all events are conducted in a manner that ensures the management of all aspects of large and small events are adequately covered.

North Byron Parklands comprises a number of people with envious event management track records. These people have hosted many, many events that have attracted millions of people. If the North Byron Parklands venue can attract a large number of people to the area each year (which it is estimated to do) then the local tourism industry stands to benefit significantly. Given the past few years which have been tough for these operators, surely this is a welcome opportunity.

As a youth of the area I am constantly searching for ways to broaden my horizons. I believe this proposal will offer new opportunities, new jobs, new experiences and new ways to develop.

P1188	Project Website Submission	08/11/2010	Online Submission from Rochelle Day (support)	Our environment, events, culture and celebration is an amazing reason to go ahead with this proposal. As part of Parklands proposed construction phase they have developed a range of measures to mitigate environmental impacts. These include erecting signage, supervision of minor tree removal by a qualified ecologist, compensatory planting, fauna culverts and the installation of sediment and erosion control systems. This is just for the construction component of the project. The environmental controls proposed for the operation phase are even more detailed and impressive. The North Byron Parklands proposal combines ecology with events and community giving. This is exactly the type of training and experience we need our young people to look to. P1189	Project Website Submission	08/11/2010	Online Submission from Sandra Morgan ()	OBJECTIONS TO PROPOSAL 09-0028 ("Cultural Events Site" at Yelgun)

> Although the applicants claim they will be using the site for only 20 days per year, they also admit that it will take days, often weeks, of preparation for events and time to clean-up afterwards. The pre- and post-event days will involve large numbers of people, equipment, and vehicles on the site. They will have to test sound and lighting equipment, erect structures, bring in supplies, etc. So the claim of "just a few days a year" is misleading.

> The scale of the festivals is far beyond what is reasonable for land that is immediately adjacent to Billinudgel Nature Reserve, a prime biodiversity asset on which the state has spent millions to protect for many years. Although the applicants mention daily attendance of 35,000 in their promotional material, their proposal clearly states that they are aiming for 50,000 people per day for major events, and those will be held at least four times a year for 3-4 days at a stretch. We have to keep in mind that if they get permission to proceed, they could always ask to increase the numbers of major events and the daily attendance still further.

> There is no way the promoters will be able to prevent attendees from tramping through the Reserve to get to the beach, leaving behind bottles, cigarette butts, trash, etc. Those of us who live near the Reserve see this kind of behaviour regularly in the Reserve, along with motorbikes, dogs, and kids playing with matches. We will inevitably see more of the same if 50,000 people are right next door to the Reserve for days. Byron Shire Council rangers and NPWS rangers are woefully understaffed. There is no way they will be able to patrol the sensitive areas properly.

> Camping on site will be available for only some of the festival goers. Some may pay for accommodation elsewhere, but many will look for cheap alternatives such as camping in their cars and vans near the site. That means the people of Yelgun, Crabbes Creek, North Ocean Shores, Billinudgel, Wooyung, Brunswick Heads, etc. will have to deal with illegal camping on their streets, intrusion on their properties, etc.

> The applicants' stated plans for managing traffic snarls, fire risks, flooding, and acid sulphate soils are grossly inadequate. The people who live near the site will be at serious risk for these reasons, too.

> The proposal goes against Byron Shire Council's Events Policy. That policy calls for no more than two major music events in the shire per year. The Splendour promoters want four extremely large events, others that would be of the size Splendour used to be, and unlimited "minor" events. It is not clear what those "minor" events might be, but they are likely to include "doof" parties and other noisy events that will also disturb the wildlife and the human neighbours. The proposal also goes against Byron Council?s Tourism Management Plan (2009) that calls for overcoming Byron Shire?s ?party town? image.

> In 2009, the applicants were stopped from proceeding with a trial festival at Yelgun by a ruling from the Land & Environment Court concerning the roads they planned to build on the part of their land zoned as 7(k) habitat. Their current proposal ignores that court ruling and calls for roads in the same place. In fact, this part of the proposal is in direct contravention to

				> The applicants have engaged in minimal community consultation with the people in the shire and have made no effort to respond to their very genuine concerns. In fact, it was when they discovered how much opposition there was to their ideas for a permanent festival site that they applied to the state as a Major Project under Part 3A guidelines of the Planning Act. This Part 3A business has been called into serious question because it takes the decision making completely out of the hands of the local Council and community and puts it solely in the hands of the Planning Minister. This decision should be made by our local Council, not the State Minister for Planning. P1190	Project Website Submission	08/11/2010	Online Submission from Lynda Simpson of bazaar marketing (support)	In the northern rivers area more and more people have been moving into the creative industries sector because of the interesting and fulfilling work that can be undertaken. There is a very real need to continue growing this sector to provide people with more job opportunities. North Byron Parklands is a proposal that will truly make a big impact in job availability in the region and will be a very positive economic force. All along the NSW coastline tourism businesses provide employment and income to hundreds of thousands of individuals and families. This is certainly the case in the northern rivers region where the proposed North Byron Parklands is to be located. Such an important project as this which will see up to 150,000 extra visitors coming to the region per annum which will translate into massive business benefits for the local tourism sector.

P1191	Project Website Submission	08/11/2010	Online Submission from Jenica Noble (support)	Holding events requires a sound understanding of a whole range of logistical and safety aspects. The team behind North Byron Parklands have been responsible for putting together numerous large events over the past decade. In each case they have successfully managed important aspects such as noise, ecology, lighting, traffic and crowd and safety management. The systems and procedures they have developed will assist any event being held at the North Byron Parklands site which I believe will help result in successful events.
				North Byron Parklands proposal to bring splendour home is an opportunity to boost local business for many years to come. Each year when the festival season comes around businesses in the Byron Shire and surrounding areas will get a boost in sales due to the increase in tourism, helping small business and survive and in turn helping the local community.
				The North Byron Parklands proposed plan for a permanent cultural venue is inspiring for young people. Regional areas such as ours can really benefit our youth by inspiring them to participate and to achieve. It is important to remember that North Byron Parklands proposal is all about the environment, events, culture, celebration and the youth.

While the economy booms in other states, NSW and in particular regional NSW continues to suffer. The likely employment opportunities that North Byron Parklands will bring to the Northern Rivers shall be substantial. Many people in this region are finding it hard to secure a job and therefore we need as many of these innovative projects as possible. One of the many environmental programs to be undertaken by North Byron Parklands is the staged exclusion of cattle by fencing of existing forest blocks which will also assist with connectivity for terrestrial fauna by allowing the development of ground-layer and mid-layer vegetation and by providing additional shelter and food resources. Deployment of nest-boxes will also assist habitat connectivity for gliders by providing shelter sites in areas with low natural hollow abundance. These are very positive initiatives. People in Byron Bay are very focused on supporting and interacting within society. Enjoying and experiencing what Byron has to offer. P1194	Project Website Submission	08/11/2010	Online Submission from Alex McKinnon of All States Broking Pty Ltd (support)	The North Byron Parklands project has undertaken both a high level of fauna and flora assessments and a comprehensive environmental risk assessment process. As a result they have developed a management manual that covers a range of aspects including the environment. They have even developed a standalone environmental induction form for all staff and contractors that clearly stipulates what can and cannot take place while on site. These measures are very impressive indeed. North Byron Parklands already has demonstrated its commitment to working with local indigenous people through the ongoing relationship it has developed with the Madhima Gulgan rainforest regeneration team. Together these two groups have been responsible for planting over 7,000 native trees across the site and the construction and placement of more than 25 nest boxes for resident fauna. NSW has a golden opportunity to be a leader in outdoor event venues by approving North Byron Parklands. What will no doubt be an iconic music and artistic venue will be the envy of other states and will no doubt attract events from other states to NSW. With up to twenty days of events each year the work experience opportunities for people in the region are very exciting. The bump in and bump out periods provide further work. P1195	Project Website Submission	08/11/2010	Online Submission from Sara Pelgrave (support)	The North Byron Parklands has gone to great lengths to protect and enhance the biodiversity values of the site. This is shown by the Parklands group developing a environmental, health and safety management manual to identify, manage and monitor all the identified potential ecological risks. Parklands is offering meaningful and interesting work, particularly for young people and should be welcomed with open arms. The North Byron Parklands proposed plan for a permanent cultural venue is inspiring for young people. Regional areas such as ours can really benefit our youth by inspiring them to participate and to achieve. P1197	Project Website Submission	08/11/2010	Online Submission from Jim Barron of Group Training Australia (support)	As someone who has long been involved and interested in employment, training, youth and environmental issues, bringing Splendour Home makes so much common sense on economic, social, cultural, environmental and community grounds. The economic impact of such a succesful and important event being allowed to find its home and thrive is clear for anyone to see. In a relatievly short period of time, Splendour has already embedded itself into the cultural fabric of Australian society. Its intentions are good and its goals and objectives are sound. It must be allowed to survive, thrive and grow. The short, medium and long term benefits for the local Byron and wider Australian communities are well documented. It is critical this application succeed.

I offer my full supprot and urge the NSW Department of Planning to find in favour of Bringing Splendour Home.

With regards to the wildlife corridor it has been significantly degraded over many decades due to such activities as primary production and agriculture. As such it is currently highly fragmented and in need of revegetation. The Parklands proposal will see the biggest rehabilitation program the area has seen for the past 5o years as a result of its detailed vegetation management plan which will result in thousands of trees being planted in strategic areas.

Having read the North Byron Parklands submission and attended many events over the past number of years I am blown away by the level of detail and the huge range of control measures that this development offers to ensure smooth and successful events. The North Coast of NSW needs a development of this nature and it should be approved by the NSW government.

P1202	Project Website Submission	08/11/2010	Online Submission from paul frendin of coffeez allround (support)	While the current research into noise emissions and their effects on fauna is far from comprehensive, the team at North Byron Parklands have developed a host of environmental procedures and processes to manage this issue. From the use of sophisticated unidirectional public address systems to fauna monitoring programs the management systems that will be employed will greatly reduce any possible impacts on fauna. The pleasing thing to note is that fauna are only temporarily inconvenienced by noise if at all. The events management industry is extremely competitive and only those operators who can demonstrate compliance with all facets of event management time and time again are the ones that survive. The owners of North Byron Parklands each have years of experience in bringing highly successful events to the general public. Such an outstanding track record only comes about through effective, well planned event policies and procedures. The North Byron Parklands is quite unique in that the proposed outdoor venue will be non-operation for the vast majority of the year. With only twenty event days per year this means that there is significant time for resting the site which is a huge positive for the environment. It should be considered that if this development does not proceed then some other form of development which may be far more intrusive and full time in nature may be applied for and approved in the future. This project will be good for the environment.

We have heard it many times before that living in a community which has locally based jobs provides for a health and sustainable society. Jobs in the north of New South Wales are hard to come by at the best of times so when a project comes along which will create new jobs for people it is important to support it. That is a key reason why I support the approval of the North Byron Parklands project.

What other venue in NSW or Australia for that matter has paid so much attention to environmental management considerations as North Byron Parklands? If all other outdoor venues even implemented 10% of what Parklands is proposing then we would see a massive improvement in environmental outcomes for this important creative industries sector. This development is likely to become the best practice benchmark for all other similar organisations.

P1205	Project Website Submission	08/11/2010	Online Submission from Porscha Emmerson (support)	The North Byron Parklands project will incorporate a range of best practice environmental policies and procedures including a requirement to only host events in the existing cleared areas of the site. This means that all forested areas will be protected via fencing and security measures and effectively be out of bounds for event usage. This is a very positive initiative from an environmental point of view. Its time for our state government to get behind the music and arts industries and support them by helping to provide a much needed sustainable outdoor music and arts venue. Its time to approve North Byron Parklands. I know many people in the creative industries sector that will benefit financially and through greater exposure to their markets if the North Byron Parklands project is approved. In NSW we need more venues so it makes good sense to approve this project. The North Byron Parklands will deliver a range of social benefits particularly in the form of the proposed community grants program. This initiative will see up to $100,000 a year ploughed back into the local community. If we rationally consider that the proposed North Byron Parklands venue will only be in operation for a number of weeks a year plus bump in and out then one can see that the environment will be rested for most of the year and the community will reap the benefits but not the downside of a venue that operates all year long. If you speak to anyone these days, getting and keeping a job is high up on the list. Regional areas generally do not have a range of diversified industries to choose from. Parklands is offering meaningful and interesting work, particularly for young people and should be welcomed with open arms. Bring Splendour back to Byron!

With years of combined expertise these industry leaders will ensure that all events are conducted in a manner that ensures the management of all aspects of large and small events are adequately covered. We have worked with the guys from Splendour, and the Bluesfest over the last 6 to 7 years and we have been very happy with there professionalism at organising these large events. P1207	Project Website Submission	08/11/2010	Online Submission from Jennifer Muscat (support)	Byron Bay is a recognised tourism icon. It has thousands of beds in a wide range of accommodation outlets specifically designed to cater for the tourism market. When those beds remain empty for much of the year then the town should be very nervous. Those basking in the quiet times are shortsighted and cannot see the decay and decline that will follow the removal of economic generators such as the Splendour In the Grass festival and the associated North Byron Parklands project. Events offer a broad range of jobs to lots of individuals. From labourers to sound engineers or caterers to sign writers these jobs are very much needed in NSW. We have already lost a lot of our events to Queensland and other states and we must grasp this huge employment opportunity with both hands. The government has an obligation to approve this project. The two main reasons I believe the festival should be brought back is Tourism and Culture. Tourism and culture are so important to the area as many business rely on the influx of visitor for large events like Splendour to keep thier business alive. Visitors travel to the area to experience the laid back, coastal culture of the region. Parklands will bring more and more cultural events to the area and in turn boost tourism. I find great delight knowing that competent Event Managers will be involved with all the events held at North Byron Parklands, ensuring that we have a lot of great experiences if this proposal goes through.

While there are still some high conservation value areas of the site a great deal of regeneration is needed before the site can be considered ecologically valuable. The Parklands people are proposing significant tree plantings which will be a valuable process. Many who attend Splendour choose to stay a few days before or after the festival and make more of a holiday of their time in the area. The spin-off from such visitors must be extremely valuable to the many other tourism-related businesses in and around Byron Bay. It therefore stands to reason that a venue hosting a number of other events throughout the year would create many more opportunities, including employment, for the local community and the local economy. You should be more than happy to have them at Byron as not only are they totally aware of the significance of the site, they would also help to preserve its beauty and help to regenerate it. This would also help to raise awareness within not only the wider community but also the rest of Australia and NZ. There are so many possibilities with an event like this, for example they could run some sort of volunteering working bee with their attendees before or after the event Mostly you should be happy that they are the kind of people that would be open to ideas and suggestions that would benefit the site, not only because it would benefit them but because they actually believe in its importance. Really there could be no better example of an event that you would want to fill those twelve available days with!

P1211	Project Website Submission	08/11/2010	Online Submission from Tim Bowen of Boost Juice (support)	North Byron Parklands organisation are serious about managing the ecological issues at the event site. An example of this is the fact that there have been more vegetation and flora surveys conducted at the site than housing, industrial estate, and quarries assessments. As part of Parklands proposed construction phase they have developed a range of measures to mitigate environmental impacts. These include erecting signage, supervision of minor tree removal by a qualified ecologist, compensatory planting, fauna culverts and the installation of sediment and erosion control systems. This is just for the construction component of the project. The environmental controls proposed for the operation phase are even more detailed and impressive. The environmental assessments completed for the North Byron Parklands proposal identify a number of threatened species which in the most part are winged creatures. It is most likely (based on research elsewhere) that these creatures will move away from any light and noise disturbances for no longer than for the period they occur. This is particularly true if there are specific food resources available on the North Byron Parklands site. So, once an event is finished it is more than probably that these animals will return and enjoy the quietude that will prevail at this site for the vast majority of the year. These events provide jobs for so many people and in an area where paying the rent or mortgage is tough it is critical that these events are allowed to continue. Without a permanent event area these jobs will be lost to the north coast. As such this project should be approved on the employment prospects it brings, let alone any other positives.

				You only have to look around the Byron community when a festival or an event takes place to see the people smiling and the excitement in the air. The North Byron Parklands proposal sure sounds like a perfect way to make sure the people keep smiling.

				One of the strengths of the North Byron Parklands proposal is the flow on benefits it will provide to the tourism industry. Still picking itself up after the recent financial crisis the tourism industry stands to be the big winner from this proposal. With massive visitor generating capacity this proposal will singlehandedly attract hundreds of thousands of people to the region, all of whom need accommodation and other services once they arrive.

				Byron Bay is a recognised tourism icon. It has thousands of beds in a wide range of accommodation outlets specifically designed to cater for the tourism market. When those beds remain empty for much of the year then the town should be very nervous. Those basking in the quiet times are shortsighted and cannot see the decay and decline that will follow the removal of economic generators such as the Splendour In the Grass festival and the associated North Byron Parklands project.

P1217	Project Website Submission	08/11/2010	Online Submission from Owen Hogan of Moonbelly Management (support)	While the North Byron Parklands has some valuable forest cover it must be recognised that much of this cover resembles a patch quilt, the result of decades of agricultural use. To improve the value and function of these disparate forest blocks there is a much needed planting program similar to that proposed by the North Byron Parklands people to join and reconnect the vegetation. This one action of mass plantings will absolutely improve the environmental value across and adjacent to the proposal. North Byron Parklands proposal of a sustainable arts and music venue that invites not just our locals to enjoy but that people will travel can only benefit our local economy.

				So many people in the northern rivers area rely on the tourism industry for their bread and butter. These days most businesses are geared towards the tourism dollar and if past trends are anything to go by this industry sector will continue to play a key role in the region?s economic fortunes. P1218	Project Website Submission	08/11/2010	Online Submission from Kylie Miller (support)	Holding events requires a sound understanding of a whole range of logistical and safety aspects. The team behind North Byron Parklands have been responsible for putting together numerous large events over the past decade. In each case they have successfully managed important aspects such as noise, ecology, lighting, traffic and crowd and safety management. The systems and procedures they have developed will assist any event being held at the North Byron Parklands site which I believe will help result in successful events.
				I must say that protecting the environment is high on my list and that holds when talking about festival event sites. The North Byron Parklands team have obviously spent considerable time and money developing up an environmental, health and safety management manual designed to identify, manage and monitor environmental performance. This as far as I understand is a first for such cultural activities and should be strongly supported.

P1219	Project Website Submission	08/11/2010	Online Submission from Adele Charlton of Totaltravel (support)	North Byron Parklands staff have already developed a solid working relationship with National Parks ground staff, local indigenous bush regeneration teams and local council ecology staff. To date North Byron Parklands has planted thousands of trees adjacent to the Billinudgel Nature reserve, installed dozens of nest boxes to improve habitat opportunities and removed thousands of metres of barbed wire fencing to reduce impediments to fauna movement. These actions have been completed prior to asking for any sort of approval for use of the land as an outdoor venue. What is truly impressive is the number of environmental programs this organisation is proposing should the application be approved. North Byron Parklands proposed event site will provide a wide variety of employment opportunites to the reagion that is said to increase as the years go on. North Byron Parklands require staff to maintain and manage the event site plus each event organistaion will be looking to the local comunity for employees for their events. North Byron Parklands has adopted the mapped wildlife corridors from the Byron Biodiversity Conservation Strategy as areas to be dedicated to restoration of tree cover.

Future plantings and assisted regeneration in these areas will significantly increase opportunities for movement of terrestrial fauna. This is only one of many significant programs that will enhance the environment within and adjacent to the site.

The North Byron Parklands will deliver a range of social benefits particularly in the form of the proposed community grants program. This initiative will see up to $100,000 a year ploughed back into the local community.If we rationally consider that the proposed North Byron Parklands venue will only be in operation for a number of weeks a year plus bump in and out then one can see

The local indigenous stakeholders have been consulted and do not object to the Parklands proposal. It is fitting that the Parklands proposal will now serve as a cultural meeting place for all people. North Byron Parklands proposal to rejuvenate the Parklands site has lead to the employment of local indigenous bush regeneration teams to plant thousands of trees across their site. This program is an ecellent way to involve the traditional land owners in the area and helps to restore the site and set the foundations for a sustainable event site. I know so many people that will benefit from the North Byron Parklands proposal. Some will be directly employed while others will have a venue to showcase their skills and talents. This project has the potential to benefit thousands of people.

The existing site consists of a majority of degraded farmland, this proposal offers an avenue to increase the diversity of the site and provide a vital link for the surrounding ecological communities.

It is a positive for both the local community and local environment.

All will benefit!

P1222	Project Website Submission	08/11/2010	Online Submission from Rob Fearn of Totaltravel (support)	The level of detail undertaken in the identification and assessment of likely impacts on fauna and flora across and adjacent to the North Byron Parklands site is impressive. There is unlikely to be many (if any) other types of development north coast that have gone to this level of detail and thoroughness. The commitments listed to preserve and enhance the ecology certainly help to put this development into the â□œsustainableâ□□ development basket. Employment is a major consideration for this proposal, bringing new hope to the people that want to stay within Byron. The two main reasons I believe the festival should be brought back is Tourism and Culture. Tourism and culture are so important to the area as many business rely on the influx of visitor for large events like Splendour to keep thier business alive. Visitors travel to the area to experience the laid back, coastal culture of the region. Parklands will bring more and more cultural events to the area and in turn boost tourism. [I do not wish my name to appear in any public media]

Lets set the standard for cultural event venues in Australia. North Byron Parklands will be a sustainable cultural venue that be available for future generations to enjoy. The Byron Shire usually promotes sustainable developments, so why not support this one?

North Byron Parklands has provided employment opportunities for local indigenous people through the planting of over seven thousand native trees across the site. The Madhima Gulgan rainforest regeneration team has also built and implemented over 25 nest boxes for local wildlife across the site.

Not only have the North Byron Parklands organisation developed what must be considered worldâ□™s best practice environmental management systems and processes, they are also planning to have an environmental education program folded into the mix for good measure. A number of events proposed to be held at this site already have initiatives such as Eco Cops which are undergraduate environmental science students who promote environmental programs and accepted practices to patrons while at an event. This is a very good proactive measure.

I strongly support the application put forward by North Byron Parklands to establish a much needed outdoor music and arts venue. The government should approve this project as soon as practicable.

I cannot think of another proposed outdoor venue that has put so much effort into the identification and management of a range of issues. Surely this proposal must be approved on its merits.

An example of this is the fact that there have been more vegetation and flora surveys conducted at the site than housing, industrial estate, and quarries assessments. If you speak to anyone these days, getting and keeping a job is high up on the list. Regional areas generally do not have a range of diversified industries to choose from. Parklands is offering meaningful and interesting work, particularly for young people and should be welcomed with open arms. This proposal is so important for the Northen Rivers region because of the number of great things that will come out of it. North Byron Parklands event site will bring more tourism to the area which in turn will lead to a boost in business for local businesses. P1230	Project Website Submission	07/11/2010	Online Submission from terry perkins (support)	In relation to environmental management one of the biggest impacts on fauna in this region is dogs. It is pleasing to note that the environmental, health and safety management manual strictly prohibits dogs from entering the site. Just this on initiative will help to reduce pressure on the environment, not to mention the host of other excellent environmental programs they have documented. Understanding the likely impacts of the Parklands proposal can be assisted from looking at similar experiences in other parts of the world. For example, â□˜I learned that creative, progressive communities understand both the tangible and intangible effects of music festivals. With time and encouragement, communities that embrace and cultivate relationships and partnerships offering financial and operational support, ultimately realise substantial economic and fiscal impacts. Furthermore, many articles reported that quality of life improves along with the chance to attract and retain young, innovative people to a communityâ□™. (Donna Sue Sanders â□“ Executive Director of the Daytona State Foundation). Having read the environmental assessment report I can say without reserve that I strongly support the proposal put forward by North Byron Parklands. The application covers off on all of the important issues such as noise, traffic and ecology. It is so pleasing to see a development that has considered and responded to such a diverse range of issues. I firmly believe that the government should approve this application. Thereâ□™s not as much employment opportunities as people think around Byron Bay, the majority of the businesses are non employing, sole operators. North Byron Parklands would improve these numbers for the youth and others.

The establishment of the North Byron Parklands will generate additional employment opportunities for the management and maintenance of the venue and event organisations. I think this is a really important benefit for this region. So many people I know gain so much enjoyment from listening to live music. It seems to form an important part of our cultural expression within our society, however it appears to be on the wane in this country. To reverse this trend we need more venues that are sustainable such as that being proposed by North Byron Parkland.

Our young people need opportunities for employment after they finish high school, Tafe or university. The North Byron Parklands proposal will see a rise in new jobs available in the area. These new job opportunities will vary from traffic management, to live sound engineering, and retail. I am 100% behind bringing Splendour home!

I love Splendour. I have been to seven - each one a fantastic and memorable event. I could not travel to Woodford this year because I am a single dad and the event was too hard for me to travel to and return home each night. Next year I will be able to go and bring my daughter too if it is at Byron Bay.

I hope it will be for the next 50 years.

P1234	Project Website Submission	07/11/2010	Online Submission from Caitlin Lamb (support)	I support this application on a number of fronts but particularly on environmental management and social benefits flowing to the community. It is time to support the creative industries which so many people rely on for a living. Not only does the North Byron Parklands offer an economy boost for local businesses and employment opportunities, it also brings awareness to tackling waste, recycling and consumption. The North Byron Parklands proposal will provide social benefits across the Northern Rivers area. Cultural events are valued by the community as it adds to their quality of life and creates improved social cohesion, lifestyle improvement, diversity, and increased creativity. There are not very many opportunities in the far north coast for professional event management experience, especially since Splendour in the Grass has (hopefully temporarily!) gone. North Byron Parklands would provide excellent training in the area of event management. With up twenty days of events a year and the associated planning involved with both large and small events, this is a jewel for retaining our young professionals and aspiring professionals.

P1236	Project Website Submission	07/11/2010	Online Submission from Rebecca Bradley (support)	North Byron Parklands is proposing a sustainable arts and music venue that will provide significant employment opportunities to a range of people in the Byron and Northern Rivers region. Many of the jobs will suit our younger people and with an aging demographic this is vital to ensuring that there is an opportunity to up skill our youth in a growing and profitable sector. Jobs are very important. P1237	Project Website Submission	07/11/2010	Online Submission from Lisa Rochester (support)	North Byron Parklands has so much to offer the Byron Shire and Northern rivers region. It seems strange to think twice about this proposal. This proposed venue has to go ahead. P1238	Project Website Submission	07/11/2010	Online Submission from Amy King (support)	Not only have the North Byron Parklands organisation developed what must be considered worldâ™s best practice environmental management systems and processes, they are also planning to have an environmental education program folded into the mix for good measure. A number of events proposed to be held at this site already have initiatives such as Eco Cops which are undergraduate environmental science students who promote environmental programs and accepted practices to patrons while at an event. This is a very good proactive measure. Employment is a major consideration for this proposal, bringing new hope to the people that want to stay within Byron. The two main reasons I believe the festival should be brought back is Tourism and Culture. Tourism and culture are so important to the area as many business rely on the influx of visitor for large events like Splendour to keep thier business alive. Visitors travel to the area to experience the laid back, coastal culture of the region. Parklands will bring more and more cultural events to the area and in turn boost tourism.

				The North Byron Parklands proposed plan for a permanent cultural venue is inspiring for young people. Regional areas such as ours can really benefit our youth by inspiring them to participate and to achieve. It is important to remember that North Byron Parklands proposal is all about the environment, events, culture, celebration and the youth.

P1239	Project Website Submission	07/11/2010	Online Submission from Ilan Gobius (support)	Splendour in the Grass has provided a lot of mentorship and training opportunities for young people in the past. The fabulous Splendid initiative is an example of this. They really invest in young people. Even if these initiatives remain limited to Splendour in the Grass, itâ□™s important to have these opportunities for young people in the region. North Byron Parklands proposal will create 210 full time equivalent jobs. The proposal will generate approximately $192.6 million annually (total multiplier effect) when operating at capacity (RPS Group March 2010). These figures found on the North byron Parklands website are extremely impressive and would benift the community dramatically. This application must be approved! As far as most events go in terms of protecting the environment, they put in place things like recycling bins and the like. North Byron Parklands is proposing a bunch of environmental controls that go way above and beyond such simple measures. I am extremely impressed with the environmental programs they are going to commit to and have every confidence that the environment will be more than adequately protected.
